Keeping It Up.

They have a local Mark Twain at Lebanon, Pa., and his name is Seltzer. Unkind comments are to be indulged in at his expense.—Chicago Tribune.

The reason is aperient.—Buffalo Express.

And even if we do, it's none of fizz business.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

Hold on there! You may be changing a friend into a foam man.—Boston Advertiser.

Effervescent for his name, he might become a pop-ular humorist.—Sunday Mercury.

A cigar manufacturer has entered the political field in Dubuque as a candidate for Alderman. He is said to have some very strong 'backers.—Commercial Advertiser.

And his friends are puffing him a good deal, we suppose.—New Haven Journal.

And he'll take the "stump" of course?—Boston Post.

But, really, where can he find his match?—Hartford Times.

He would try a fresh brand; concha see?—Norwich Bulletin.

Calino hears a man read from a newspaper: "An authentic picture of Jeanne d'Arc, made from life, has just been discovered." "Is it a photograph?" asks Calino.—Charivari.

Of course it isn't, stupid! A photograph can only be taken in the light, and then it couldn't be d'Arc.

A Boot-iful Repartee.

The London Medical Times tells a humorous story of the late Sir Charles Locock, as an evidence of his powers of repartee. His great repute had induced certain vendors of quack medicine to advertise cough lozenges under the title of Locock's Pulmonic Wafers, or Locock's Cough Lozenges. This, of course, caused him some annoyance. One morning he met the Duke of Wellington in Hyde Park, who said: "Locock, I have a bad headache from taking your damned lozenges." "Well," said Sir Charles, "I might as well say that I am lamed by wearing your G—d damned boots, for I wear Wellington boots."

Worse and Worse.

A Sutter street lady visited a store, a few days ago, to procure some Winter suits for her children, and the clerk, to assist her in making up her mind, showed her a certain style, saying that he had just before sold some of that pattern to Mrs. ———, naming the wife of one of Oakland's most prominent men, for her children. She quietly remarked, "Why, I am quite well acquainted with Mrs. ———, and I did not know she had any children." This was rather a poser on the clerk, and he didn't better matters by saying, "I meant her grandchildren."

Trial of Faith.

An aged colored woman, in Galveston, when urged to leave her residence to escape the recent flood, replied: "I jess don't done nothing ob de kind; de good book says dat de world don't get stroyed by water again, an' I'se gwine to stay here suah." In less than two hours the house went to pieces, and Aunty came paddling to shore on a part of the roof. The old woman's faith was evidently somewhat shaken, but all she said as she made her way to the higher ground, was: "I jess clare to goodness if dis ere isn't 'markable."

Misunderstood.

The editor of a Michigan paper remarks, in a deprecatory tone: Because we happened to take our shotgun and start out for a Sunday afternoon's gunning, it is no reason why half a dozen impudent persons should ask if we were on a tour for collecting subscription money. The times are hard, and ammunition costs too much money to be wasted on delinquent subscribers just now.

Clever Poll.

A correspondent of the Congregationalist tells the following amusing story of a parrot's intelligence: My father was an old gentleman who was very regular in his habbits. Every evening it was his custom to take a stroll after tea to visit some old friends of the name of Tate, who lived in the next street. Before leaving the house he would open the door of the dining-room where he used to sit, and would say aloud, "Only going down to Tate's." Now it happened one evening that Polly's cage door was left open. We sometimes let him walk about the room when he was very good, as a great treat. This evening we suddenly missed him from the room, and could not think where he had gone. We all set to work and searched the house high and low; no Polly could we find. So at last my father left, as usual, to pay his visit to our neighbors, leaving us still looking for our pet. What was his surprise upon turning the corner of the street to see Polly quietly waddling down the middle of the road. "Why, Polly," said he, "where are you going?" Upon which Master Poll cocked his impudent little head on one side, and looked up and said, "Only going down to Tate's."

A Sturdy Humorist.

The following story is told as a remarkable instance of the appreciation of humor: A German soldier was ordered fifty lashes for some alleged act of insubordination. Fritz, disciplined to silence, was fixed to triangles in the presence of the company. When the first lashes fell upon his naked shoulders the worthy fellow, instead of displaying evidences of distress, burst into a fit of uncontrollable laughter. The executioner, regarding this manifestation as by no means complimentary to his skill, laid on with redoubled ardor. But the more he laid on the more Fritz laughed. When cut down he still found great difficulty in restraining his mirth, and indulged in loud intermittent guffaws. The officer in command of the company, with a curiosity naturally excited, approached the bleeding wretch and inquired the cause of his mirth. "Why, replied Fritz, breaking into a fresh fit of laughter, "I'm the wrong man!"

Cool.

A gentleman, finding that the diminution of his stack of wood continued after his fires were out, lay awake one night, in order to obtain, if possible, some clew to the mystery. At an hour when "all honest folk should be in bed," hearing an operator at work in the yard, he cautiously raised his chamber window, and saw a lazy neighbor endeavoring to get a large log into his wheelbarrow. "You're a pretty fellow," said the owner, "to come here and steal my wood while I'm asleep!" "Yes, replied the thief; and I suppose you would stay up there and see me break my neck with lifting before you'd offer to come and help me!"

A Carrying Feet.

"Father," asked a Vicksburg boy at the dining table the other day, "are you a big man?" "Well, I dunno," musingly answered the parent, "Why?" "Cause I heard some men talking over at the hotel, and they said you were one of the biggest men in town." "Well I suppose I do stand pretty high," replied the parent, looking pleased and consequential. There was half a minute of silence, and then the boy added: "They said it was a wonder how you carried your feet around!" The boy can't understand yet why he should have received a box on the ear which made his head roar for two long hours.

A Calculation.

Miss Agnes Beckworth, aged fourteen, swam a distance of five miles in the Thames in one hour's time. When she is twenty-eight she will swim ten miles in the same time; when she is fifty-six, twenty miles; when she is one hundred and twelve she will—but why speculate on the subject? The mind staggers beneath its weight.

Pretty Far Gone:

"I have seen swaying lilly-like around the churn a beauty more perfect than that which bloomed full-grown from the bright focus of the sea's ecstatic travail," is the way an Indianapolis reporter began a column description of a dairy girl. They soaked his head, and at last accounts he was better.

When the Fair Closes

And the tired visitors prepare to wend their weary way homeward, they should pause for a moment and consider how much more pleasant it would be to take an ice cream or a nicely served and comfortable supper in the Restaurant, which does not close till 12 o'clock, P. M., and which is under the able supervision of the well-known caterer, A. M. Hepburn.

Information of the present Residence

DR. SPINNEY & Co's

DISPENSARY,

No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Opera House.
The Minstrels from all appearances would draw sufficient people every night to fill a house twice the size of the one they are now playing in, but the public have associated that comfortable little theatre so intimately with the "sable semi-circle" that it would be a pity to change quarters.

Maguire's New Theatre.
"A Bull in a China Shop" and Hermann's remarkably clever feats of legerdemain, make up a programme at once interesting and amusing, and as amusement and sustained interest are the desideratus of the theatre-goer, this is just the place.

California Theatre.
The matinee given at this theatre yesterday afternoon for the benefit of the Texas Sufferers, drew but a very meagre attendance, although the charming comedy of "Ours" formed the bill. In the evening the house was better filled, the programme being "Mickey Free" by Mr. Murray and the stock company, and scenes from "La Dame Blanche" and "Lucia" by the Fabbri Opera Company. This evening "Willy Rielly."

Grand German and Italian Opera.
"The Merry Wives of Windsor" has proved such a success that will be repeated to-morrow evening, with the usual cast. "Il Trovatore" will be performed for the matinee on Saturday.

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.
The last concert of the second season was given yesterday afternoon to the fullest house since its commencement. The programme contained two or three selections of note, and two or three worthless compositions. In the first part, Haydn's Symphonie in G. occupied the prominent place, and was, on the whole, very passably played. Four numbers were on the programme, an adagio, an andantie, a menuetto and an allegro di molto. The adagio cantabile received most applause, whilst the andante was entirely omitted. In the second part, the overture to "Robespierre," (repeated by general request), was played so well that this wonderfully descriptive piece of music was vociferously encored and graciously given again. Burgel's "Slumber Song," with harp obligato by Sig. Solano, was colorless and tame, the "Husarenritt" was received coldly, and Meyerbeer's overture to "Les Huguenots" concluded the programme. The new season begins on Wednesday next.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.
The following artists who appear in their specialties are found on the bill for to-night, Swain and West, Harry Senate, Ned Barry, Geo. C. Thompson, Charley Kimic and Frank Mortimore.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.
"Chinese Servants" has been revived (by request), and "Paris by Gaslight" is still played. These two acts with others and the olio to-night.

Harp and Star Variety Theatre.
Harry Devoy is a great favorite here; Borthwick Reid, with his claymore, Jester with his talking hand, George Neilson with his swinging bar on the bill to-night. Mr. H. Mooney, one of the proprietors, will be tendered a complimentary benefit by the Company, on Saturday night.

Bay District Fair Association.
"Rosewood" won the colt race, a single dash of a mile, yesterday, in the very fast time, for a two-year old, of 1 45½. A trotting match followed, won by "Yellow Jacket"—time not note worthy. To-day "Golden Gate," "Lady Amanda," "Bradley" and "Electra," all victors in recent races, and fast horses, will run a mile and repeat race. The contest promises to be a very close and spirited one. To-morrow the Selling Race and the Barnes' Plate Race.

Woodward's Gardens.
The Mammoth Grape Vine for a short time only. Saturday and Sunday the grand sports of the Trampoline, the talented Miss Mathews, Sig. Gonzales the champion tumbler, George Sheilds and Jos. Williams and others in feats and pantomime and the usual Orchestral Concert. On Saturday evening the grand benefit for Mlle. Gracie, tendered by a host of sympathizing artists, concluding with a Ball.

Managers
Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 582 Clay Street. over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

The Green Room.
This popular resort of the profession and al epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

Laughing Gas.
Dr. Wilson, Dentist, 205 Third street, makes a specialty of extracting teeth without pain by the use of laughing gas, and with twelve years experience in its use can warrant success with entire safety in the most difficult cases.

Free and Easy.
To-night, Dr. Flattery on the stand, examined by Col. Barnes. Great fun expected. The examination will be free to the public. Also, local comic songs and character sketches every night, at the Hot Scotch Saloon, 211 Stevenson street, just beyond Third. r

The Wigwam.
The best hot lunch to be had in the city is prepared at Asa L. Waugaman's, 773 Market street, under Fitzgibbon's Dancing Academy; also, a select stock of Wines, Liquors, etc.

The original "Swain's Bakery" is now established

TAKE THE WORLD AS IT IS.

Take the world as it is! there are good and bad in it,
And good and bad will be from now to the end;
And they who expect to make saints in a minute,
Are in danger of marring more hearts than they'll mend.
If ye wish to be happy ne'er seek for the faults,
Or you're sure to find something or other amiss,
'Mid much that debases, and much that exalts,
The world's not a bad one if left as it is!

Take the world as it is! if the surface be shining,
Ne'er stir up the sediment hidden below!
There's wisdom in this, but there's none in repining,
O'er things which can rarely be mended, we know!
There's beauty around us, which let us enjoy;
And chide not, unless it may be with a kiss;
Though Earth's not the Heaven we thought when a boy,
There's something to live for, if ta'en as it is!

Take the world as it is! with its smiles and its sorrow,
Its love and its friendship—its falsehood and truth—
Its schemes that depend on the breath of to-morrow!
Its hopes which pass by like the dreams of our youth.
Yet, oh! whilst the light of affection may shine,
The heart in itself hath a fountain of bliss!
In the worst there's some spark of a nature Divine,
And the wisest and best take the world as it is!

Why He Left the Church.
Mr. Dickson, a colored barber in a New England town, was shaving one of his customers, a respectable citizen, one morning, when a conversation arose between them respecting Mr. Dickson's former connection with a colored church in that place. "I believe you are connected with the church in Elm street, Mr. Dickson," said the customer. "No, sah! not at all." "What! are you not a member of the African Church?" "Not this year, sah." "Why did you leave their communion, Mr. Dickson, if I may be permitted to ask?" "Why, I tell you, sah," said Mr. Dickson, strapping a concave razor on the palm of his hand, "it was just like dis. I joined that church in good faif. I gib ten dollars towards de stated preaching' ob de Gospill de fust year, and the church people all call me Brudder Dickson. The second year my business was not good, and I only gib five dollars. Dat year the church people call me Mister Dickson. De razor hurt you, sah?" "No; razor goes tolerably well." "Well, sah, the tird year I feel very poor—sickness in my family—and I didn't give nuffin for preachin'. Well, sah, arter dat dey call me 'ole nigger Dickson,' an' so I left 'em."

It is said that at three years old we love our mothers; at six, our fathers; at ten, holidays; at sixteen, dress; at twenty, our sweethearts; at twenty-five, our wives; at forty, our children; and at sixty, ourselves.

A handsome youth being questioned by a rather stylish lady as to his occupation, replied that he was "an adjuster of moveable alphabets." He was simply a printer.

A New Orleans man committed suicide recently because his wife was in the habit of marching up and down the bed-room all night and tapping him on the head with an iron poker every time he fell into a doze.

Hembold has been released from the insane asylum, it having been proved that he did not, as has been charged, attempt to pay an advertising account.

It is scarcely creditable that a Chicago woman, when told by a doctor that she must die, wailed out, "Oh! I hate to die and have women stand around my coffin and make remarks about my turn-up nose."

Because Smith & Brown stopped payment they were called a pair of suspenders.

The swell mob—the inflationists.

It makes a man and mars a woman to be talked about.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,'
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

In The Detroit Police Court.

HIS HONOR EYES BIJAH SUSPICIOUSLY.

"Yesterday morning, between the hours of eight and nine o'clock." said his Honor as he pulled out one of the drawers of his desk, "I deposited in this drawer the following described articles to wit: One small reddish apple and one big yellow apple, one pear with a long stem. They have been feloniously taken and carried away by some party or parties to the defendant unknown."

He kept his eye fastened on Bijah while he was speaking, and the old janitor looked uneasy as he replied:

"Do you suspect any one?"

"Yes, sir, I do!

There was a painful pause, and Bijah said:

"I saw a lame boy around here yesterday fooling with the desk."

"Mr. Joy, don't let any more lame boys come around here," replied his Honor. "If my apples are missing again I'll know who took 'em or take the rafters off this building."

A BASE TRICK.

"Lugged in here at midnight, roaring drunk, John Ferguson," said the Court to the first prisoner.

"Brought here sick, but just as sober as I am now," was the reply.

"Then the officer couldn't see or smell straight."

"Well, then he couldn't."

The officer swore to finding Ferguson so drunk that he could have tied his legs in a hard knot.

"It's simply a mistake," said the prisoner, grandly waving his hand. "I never saw your Honor before, but I had read of you often, and last night I bought a gold-headed cane and started for your residence to present it to you."

"Yes."

"While on the street a fellow stopped me and asked if I knew Jones. I said no, and just then this policeman arrested me. I am as innocent sir, as a babe."

"John Ferguson, you are the biggest liar who has been here for fourteen months! You couldn't buy two inches of a gold-headed cane, and I wouldn't take it if you could. I shall put a legal derrick under you and lift you up, there to stay for ninety days."

"It is really too bad, sir," sighed the prisoner.

"Yes, I'm sorry your parents didn't wallop you oftener and harder. Go back in there and sit down on the third sawhorse to the right."

How to Spell Cat.
Saturday morning two colored citizens entered the City Hall and inquired of the County Clerk if he would let them see the city directory.

"Want to find some one?" he asked as he shoved it across the desk.

"You see, boss, it's jist dis way," replied one of the men. "I spell cat with a big 'C,' and he spells cat with two 't's' on the end, and we has come here to see de documents."

The clerk gave them his way of spelling and they went away to get a bet out of some one on spelling "cat."

A Word to the Wise, etc.
It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

The Fall and Winter Styles
Of hats are now being introduced at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny, their assortment is large and well selected, all the styles being of a tasty and pleasing shape and of the best material, while the prices are the lowest possible. Don't forget to call and examine their stock at 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

It is stated that thirty tons of salmon were consumed by the Saratoga hotels this season; and this refutes the theory that fish are valuable brain food. Hundreds of young men left Saratoga hotels wearing their hair parted in the middle as usual.

"A dollar is a large price for a water-melon," said a purchaser to a vender of this fruit, as he was paying for one the other evening. "You wouldn't think so, mister," said the dealer, "if you had set on the fence with a shotgun in your hand every night for three weeks, watching the patch."

A tombstone has been discovered in a Vermont town, whereon is inscribed a long epitaph, closing thus: "Stature about 6 ft., wt. 200. Death had no terrors."

"Ma," observed a little child, reflectively, the other night, as the first stars came out; "don't you think that when those stars winkle that way, they must tickle the angels' feet?"

Query for the medical profession—Traveling in a "palace car" good for Pullman-airy complaints?

A Boston Benedict says his wife is immense on "draw poker." She's drawn the poker on him several times when he staid out late o' nights.

A milk pitcher, thrown by his wife at a Philadelphia man, on Monday noon, missed the aim, and ruined a handsome rame which enclosed the words: "God bless our home."

The recuperative forces of childhood are at times extraordinary. The boy who left school, sick, at 10 o'clock in the morning, will go to the circus at 2 p. m, the same day, fall off a seat sixteen or eighteen feet high and never hurt himself enough to miss more than four or five seconds of the performance.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Chicago talks of moving to some city where it won't be such hard work.

An Iowa woman went to church one Sunday and experienced religion. Arriving home, she called her children about her and said: "I am pious now, and I am going to give you two days to get religion. If you don't do it in that time I'll whale your hides off. I have learned my duty. Do you hear me?"

A man advertises as a curiosity "a calf without legs." Perhaps he means "legs without a calf." If so, he should be informed that they're no curiosity at all.

An American philosopher describes a bald man as one who combs his head with a towel.

In what respect does a locomotive resemble a dream? In coming upon sleepers.

Shakspeare's Hamlet — Stratford-on-Avon.

Is that your child!" asked a policeman of a young girl, "No, it belongs to some mother woman," was the reply.

"I'd like to give something to the poor," remarked a West End lady. "It's hard times and they must be suffering, but I've got to use this $40 to buy another switch."

A sleepy old town—A-nap-olis.

"Dear me!" said a good lady, who was unable to keep up with her work, "I shall be glad when I get into eternity, so as to have plenty of time for everything.

French honor is now satisfied if the duelist can cut his opponent's nose off or slit his ear. The man with his nose off is the only person dissatisfied.

A Georgia editor offers to dress his paper in mourning for the death of anybody whose mourners can pay $10.

Some men reform every time they hear a temperance lecture or have a pledge presented to them to sign. It must be fun to be snatched from a drunkard's grave once in a while.

She looked out of the window at the lowering skies and flying leaves, and remarked with a little shiver of delight, "Time to think about that Winter bonnet and new furs."

In The Detroit Police Court:

AN EVADER.

"Susan Wall, do you plead guilty to the charge of disturbing the peace?" inquired the court of a long female in a brown dress and a solemn-looking bonnet.

"I might to-morrow," she replied.

"But you won't to-day?"

"I shan't say that I won't."

"Well, did you strike your husband with a club?"

"It wasn't a stone, sir."

"What started the fuss?"

"I didn't say there was a fuss," she replied.

"Did you have any trouble with your husband, Mrs. Wall?"

"I didn't say I had a husband."

"See here, Susan, I can't have any more fooling. I want you to return plain answers to my questions. Was there a fuss?"

"I didn't say there wasn't."

"Did you hit your husband?"

"I'm not prepared to say I did or did not."

"I'm prepared, your Honor!" exclaimed the husband, as he came forward and exhibited a fresh scalp wound. "Here's where she hit me."

"You had trouble, eh?"

"Yes, sir. She wanted a new corset, and I says that this is to be a hard Winter and we'd better have taters than corsets, and she says I was the meanest man in Detroit and hit me here with a club."

"What have you to say to this, Mrs. Wall?"

"I may say something, or I may not,' she replied.

"Well, I I'll give you thirty days in which to make up your mind. Go in and sit down beside Mr. Ferguson and talk about the grasshoppers until the Maria drives up.

A HIGH-KEYED MAN.

"Who brought me here?" exclaimed William Putney as he came out.

"Gently, stranger—wait until I read the warrant. The charge is drunkeness."

"Not guilty, sir, not the least shadow of of a suspicion that I was drunk, and the man who says so is a base liar!"

"Mr. Putney, the people of the State of Michigan have delegated me to request you to lower your voice, quit thrashing your arms around, and be a little more choice in your language."

"Who's the Michigan of the State of people—bring him here!"—roared the prisoner.

"Mr. Putney, if you don't lower your voice a foot and a half in a minute I'll fine you fifty dollars."

"You will?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, I wasn't drunk," continued the man dropping his high key.

The officer swore that he was. The prisoner was found tied to a lamp-post—the work of some joker, and while the officer was releasing him he kept calling out:

"Whar's 'em dog?"

"Now, Mr. Putney, you can have your say again," remarked the court.

"I say I wasn't drunk."

"All the circumstances go to prove that you were."

"I'm from Sandusky, and I don't propose to have this case go any further unless I have a lawyer."

"You may be from Australia for all this court knows or cares. The sentence is ten dollars fine or sixty days in the House of Correction."

"I won't pay a cent!"

"Well, go up then; and by the way, Mr. Putney, if you give me any more of your sass I'll change the time to six months!"

He wanted to say more, but he thought better of it. After getting into the corridor, however, he indulged in the following threats: Murder, arson, assault, piracy, robbery, battery, maiming, mayhem, stabbing, scandal, swindling, bigamy.

He even shook his fist under Bijah's nose and said:

"Oh! You old gray-headed reprobate brother of Satan, I'd like to spatter your brains on the wall."

"That's the worst kind of sass!" replied Bijah, and when the court closed he got three officers to go in and help saw Mr. Putney in two, and carry the remains down to the fish-house for bait.

The boys had added another harmonicon to the band, and it drew tears from an old apple woman as they sang:

"The Winter season's nigh at hand.
And any man's a goat
Who won't, if he can get a chance,
Steal him an overcoat."

When the Fair Closes

And the tired visitors prepare to wend their weary way homeward, they should pause for a moment and consider how much more pleasant it would be to take an ice cream or a nicely served and comfortable supper in the Restaurant, which does not close till 12 o'clock, P. Information of the present Residence

DR. SPINNEY & Co's

DISPENSARY,

No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well-known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy resteration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.
The last nights of Hermann, the Magician of Magicians, and "The Bull in a China Shop," by Maguire's Comedy Company. Both Comedy and Magician should be seen, for both are particularly good in their way.

California Theatre.
"Willy Reilly" will be given for the last time at the matinee to-morrow afternoon. "Innocent" will be repeated for the last time to-morrow night. This evening "The Golden Bubble, or a Change of Fortune" will be presented. The play is said to be an exceedingly interesting one. Mr. Murray takes the part of Pierre la Croche, the hunchback, who hired himself out at a desk in Paris during the excitement of the Mississippi scheme

Opera House.
The Minstrels turn away people nightly, and this s the best possible advertisement of their great success. It will be sometime before standing room even. ceases to be at a premium.

Grand German and Italian Opera.
To-night "The Merry Wives of Windsor" will be repeated by the Fabbri Opera Company, with Herr Carl Formes in his great role of Falstaff, and Mme. Fabbri and Mlle. Elzer as two of the merry dames A full house is expected.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.
"Another Trip To Paris to see the Great Can Can," Frank Mortimer as Fitzwilliams the old English sport, Miss Ida Fisk as the Parisian Belle, and the entire Company in the cast. An excellent programme to-night.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.
Charley King in his specialties, "Chinese Servants," the Harrises in their Dutch and Irish dialect parts and a generally fine bill.

Harp and Star Variety Theatre.
G. W. Jester's Talking Hand is a remarkable combination of ventriloquism and clever manipulation. Borthwick Reid's Sword feats are particularly clever and the whole programme is good.

Bay District Fair Association.
"Golden Gate" the new Eastern three year old, beat "Lady Amanda," "Electra," "Bradley" and "Eileen Oge," two straight mile heats, yesterday, in the fast time of 1:44¼—1:44. "Golden Gate" is likely to turn out a phenominal horse. She made her first record at the Saratoga meeting this year, beating seven horses in a mile and a quarter dash in 2:09½, tieing "Frogtown's" time, the fastest on record. To-day, "Chinaman," who beat "Katie Pease" in a three-quarter dash on the Oakland track last Winter, in 1:15¼ at the same time taking the three quarter record away from "Madge" who held it at 1:15¾, will run mile heats with "Don Victor," "Newell" and others. To-morrow will be the great race day of the week. Horses will be called on the track at 1 o'clock, and some half dozen races will come off.

Woodward's Gardens.
The Mammoth Grape Vine for a short time only. Saturday and Sunday the grand sports of the Trampoline, the talented Miss Mathews, Sig. Gonzales the champion tumbler, George Sheilds and Jos. Williams and others in feats and pantomime and the usual Orchestral Concert. On Saturday evening the grand benefit for Mlle. Gracie, tendered by a host of sympathizing artists, concluding with a Ball.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from any thing else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain railroad.

Notes.
Dietz's Hall, Oakland, was formally opened last night, by the Fabbri Opera Troupe, under the Management of Mr. Charles Schutz. The programme consisted of scenes from "Il Trovatore," "Martha" and "The Merry Wives of Windsor," and was printed on satin. About fifteen hundred people were present, and Schutz has a good outlook before him, it being his intention to give a performance there every Thursday evening, whether operatic, dramatic, orchestral or minstrel.

To George Neilson, Rope Walker.

Hail, brave boy, to thy courage hail!
When Nature sent thee here
They sent us one of that bright band
Who knew not how to fear.
Bright and quick, on slender cord,
In the dark hours of night
Thy fragile form gliding along,
Seem's though it were some sprite;
On giddy height, from house to house,
'Mid cheers from those below,
Who trembled for thy safety, boy,
A fear thou did'st not know.
Thy bravery, George, shall surely meet
Right soon, without retard,
From San Francisco's noble men
Thy just and due reward. G. W. J.
SAN FRANCISCO, October 19, 1875.

The Green Room.
This popular resort of the profession and al epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. X

CHARMING WOMAN.

BY JOHN G. SAXE.

A charming woman, I've heard it said
By other women as light as she;
But all in vain I puzzle my head
To find wherein the charm may be.
Her face, indeed, is pretty enough,
And her form is quite as good as the best,
Where nature has given the bony stuff,
And a clever milliner all the rest.

Intelligent? Yes—in a certain way,
With the feminine gift of ready speech,
And knows very well what not to say
Whenever the theme transcends her reach.
But turn the topic on things to wear,
From an opera cloak to a robe de nuit—
Hats, basques or bonnets—'twill make you stare
To see how fluent the lady can be.

Her laugh is hardly a thing to please;
For an honest laugh must always start
From a gleesome mood, like a sudden breeze,
And hers is purely a matter of art—
A muscular motion made to show
What nature designed to lie beneath
The finer mouth; but what can she do,
If that is ruined to show the teeth?

To her seat in church—a good half mile—
When the day is fine she is sure to go,
Arrayed of course, in the latest style
La mode de Paris has got to show,
And she puts her hand on the velvet pew
(Can hands so white have a taint of sin?)
And thinks—how her prayer-book's tint of blue
Must harmonize with her milky skin!

And what shall we say of one who walks
In fields of flowers to choose the weeds?
Reads authors of whom she never talks,
And talks of authors she never reads?
She's a charming woman, I've heard it said
By other women as light as she;
But all in vain I puzzle my head
To find wherein the charm may be.

John Van Buren and his Father.
John Van Buren—"the Prince"—son of Martin, had, in his early days, some habits not approved of by his father. On one occasion, while his father was President, John visited Washington and stopped at Willard's Hotel. One morning the President called at his rooms, and, after a kindly greeting, said to him—"John, I had hoped you would sometime prove to be a worthy representative of our family, but I fear you never will; in fact, I am convinced that you will bring disgrace rather than reflect credit upon it." "Father," said John, "you may think because you happen to be President of the United States, that you are something more than an ordinary man, but permit me to say that you will never be known in history except as the Father of John Van Buren."

Moonstruck.
Mighels, of the Carson Appeal, gushes over the moon in the following beautiful and touching manner:

The harvest moon in all her yellow glory is shining down these nights through a mellowing autumnal haze, soft and serene, upon the heads of the just and unjust, the pure and the defiled, the honest and the dishonest, the hirsute and the bald. It is a very yellow moon, in fact, a golden moon, rich and warm, and if full it would look for all the lunar and terrestrial and siderial world like unto a ripe and glorified pumpkin set on high to give grace and countenance to the pastry which is now the most seasonable, and which owes its palatability to that humble but rich and nutritious vegetable.

Musical Revenge.
A soprano, learning that one of her admirers was about being married in a suburban church, bribed the organist, and locked herself in the loft. Instead of executing the usual "Wedding March," she sang the "Dies Iræ," accompanying herself on the organ, to the horror of the bridal party.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

The Professions and the Presidency.
The confident prediction by so old and intelligent a statesman as Hon. Alex. H. Stephens that the next President of the U. S. will be a journalist, suggests the inquiry as to how the different professions have fared in the past in the distribution of that honor. A hasty review of the list will be found to result as follows:

Washington was a soldier.
Adams was a lawyer.
Jefferson was a lawyer.
Madison was a statesman.
Monroe was a lawyer.
John Quincy Adams was a lawyer.
Jackson was a soldier.
Van Buren was a lawyer.
Harrison was a soldier.
Tyler was a lawyer.
Polk was a lawyer.
Taylor was a soldier.
Filmore was a lawyer.
Pierce was a lawyer.
Buchanan was a lawyer.
Lincoln was a lawyer.
Johnson was a lawyer.
Grant was a soldier.

It is true that Jackson was a lawyer as well as a soldier—a Judge as a General—but as it was his career as a fighter that made him President, he is credited to the profession, So Pierce was Brigadier General in the Mexican war, so we applied to him the correlative of the proposition that we applied to his great Democratic predecessors. It should be explained with respect to Madison that he studied law, but seems to have been drawn into public life too soon to make any progress in the practice.

A Word to the Wise, etc.
It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

NEW YORK.

"Our Boys" is still drawing largely at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, and it will only be withdrawn to make way for Booth.

"Le Canard a Trois Becs," was produced for the first time in America on Saturday last, at the Lyceum Theatre, by the Geoffroi Troupe.

The Tietjens concerts at Steinway Hall, have proved a marked success.

Gilmore's Concert Gardens are still to be written of as an unfailing attraction.

The Kellogg Opera Troupe opened at Booth's on the 11th, and made a big hit. We are pleased to see that Conly is receiving just praise for his singing in "Ernani."

On Monday the 18th, Wachtel opened a season of German opera at the Academy of Music as Raoul in "Les Huguenots." This was followed by "Le Postillion de Lonjumeau." On Monday next, "La Juive" will be given.

It is proposed to once more open the Globe Theatre on Monday as a variety theatre.

"Around the World in 80 Days," closed a brilliant season of six weeks at the Academy, on the 9th.

The Florences and "The Mighty Dollar" will, we believe, only close their engagement at the Park Theatre to come to San Francisco. They are to be succeeded by Mr. John Dillon.

Cotton, Reed and Bob Hart still "delight the town" at Darling's Minstrel Theatre.

Kate Fisher, in horse drama, opened at Wood's Museum, on the 11th, and is, we belive still playing there.

The San Francisco Minstrels have put on "Our Bhoys," and are making immense capital out of it.

Manager Poole, of the Olympic, looks prosperous and happy.

Mrs, G. W. Jones succeeded Johnny Thompson at the Bowery, on the 18th, with a new play entitled "Hop Gathering."

Tony Pastor's, Josh Hart's and the Comique are all doing fair biz.

Mr. George Belmore appeared at Shook & Palmer's Brooklyn Theatre on the 18th in "The Flying Scud."

"Peril, or Love at Long Branch," has drawn good houses at the Brooklyn Opera House, under the management of the author, Bartley Campbell.

Wallack's was opened for the regular Fall and Winter season on the 5th with Tom Taylor's comedy of "The Overland Route." No change yet heard of.

"Rose Michel" was to have followed "Led Astray" at the Union Square, but we have not learnt whether it did or no.

For particulars concerning Rossi's engagement, see Notes.

Miss Anna Dickinson is spoken of as a probable debutante at the Fifth Avenue sometime this season in "Joan of Arc."

Mr. Barry Sullivan is in New York.

Miss Lillian Conway (now Mrs. Levi) is practising her voice for the concert room.

Mlle. Titjens, who has been suffering from change of climate, sang in "The Messiah," at Steinway Hall, on Wednesday evening last.

The story goes that an unknown donor sent a magnificent diamond necklace to Mlle. Titjens the other day, with a request in Spanish that she would wear it for the giver. The prima donna was puzzled,

ELSEWHERE.

Miss Annie Jewell, jig dancer, was married in St. Louis, Sept. 18th, to Samuel Graham, ringmaster of Montgomery Queen's Circus a year ago, but of late, stage manager of Looney's Varieties, in that city. The lady left him a few days afterward to appear at Myer's Opera House, Memphis. On receipt of a letter from her, he is said to have taken an overdose of morphine, but whether intentionally or not, does not appear. He was to have joined his wife on receipt of some money from another city. He was buried Oct. 2d.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers will be at Rochester, 25th.

Fay Templeton Combination were at Charleston, S. C., 16th.

Miss Fanny Davenport opened at the Olympic Theatre, St. Louis, on the 11th, for one week.

Charlotte Cushman, Fanny Kemble and Bret Harte, are at the same hotel in Lenox.

Byron's new play, "Our Boys," will take the road on Monday the 25th, with a cast embracing Theodore Hamilton, L. J. Mestayer, Colin Stuart, James L. Carhart, and F. J. Pierce: Laura Don, Mrs. J. L. Carhart, Marion Sackett, and Miss R. Nelson. New Brunswick, N. J., 25th; Elisabeth, 26th; Newark, 27th; Paterson, 28th; Newburgh, N. Y., 29th; Poughkeepsie, 30th; Port Jervis, Nov. 1; Binghamton, 2d; Syracuse, 3d and 4th; Utica, 5th; Rome, 6th; Oswego, 8th; Auburn, 9th; Lockport, 10th; Dundirk, 11th; Corning, 12th; Elmira, 13th; Williamsport, 15th; thence West to Indianapolis, 29th; and West and South until Spring:

A contemporary says: "A Catskill man has built an Opera House, and had four show companies there. Three of them forgot to liquidate the hall hire before leaving, and the other was $10 short. The manager said he would send it to him from the next town, but such honesty was too much for the owner of the hall, and he told him to never mind it. However, he's sorry he built the Opera House. So says the Newburg Journal."

Vokes Family, National, Washington, 11th.

Fran[illegible] Mayo and troupe, Omaha, Neb., Nov. 9.

Washington has made Rignold sick, and E. K. Collier has proved a more than acceptable substitute. A Washington writer advises Rignold to keep sick in the interests of the audience.

Mrs. Chanfrau with Company of New Orleans Varieties, Nashville, Tenn., to-night, Jackson, 25th 26th, 27th; Holly Springs, Miss., 28th.

Barnum's chariot girl, who was to have married the unfortunate Donaldson, has entered a convent somewhere in Canada. She is said to be very pretty and very intellectual. An intellectual girl in a chariot is something of a novelty.

One Signor Blitz, a sleight-of-hand performer and trained bird exhibitor, has got into a little snarl in Richmond, Me., having tied a knot which may prove extremely hard to unravel. He gave a performance there last week, and advertised to give his patrons seven leading presents, including flour, ham, dry goods, etc. But the audience complained that they only got wooden sleeve-buttons, and arrested the signor on two charges—for swindling and for performing without a license. He was before Trial Justice Tallman, and fined for one and bound over for the other. His sureties were Daniel Clark and Harrison Springer, to whom he represented that he had means to secure them against loss, saying that he would telegraph for $100 (the amount of bond). He stepped out to telegraph, and he kept on stepping until he got to Bowdoinham, where he took the cars to Boston. He was advertised to show in Belfast, Oct. 2d, and so on the previous day Constable Hodges went to that city and brought the sleight-of-hand professor over to Richmond, where he was held for trial.

DR. SPINNEY & Co's

DISPENSARY,

No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500.

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

California Theatre.—Dominick Murray makes his two last appearances this afternoon and evening. For the matinee "Willy Reilly" will be given, and for the evening's bill there is "Innocent."

Opera House.—With an excellent first part and a most entertaining olio, the Minstrels have drawn crowded houses all the week, and will continue to all during the next, when there will be an entire change of programme..

Maguire's New Theatre. — Hermann gives his last performance at this theatre in conjunction with Maguire's Comedy Company tomorrow evening. His engagement may be looked upon as one of the most satisfactory ever played here by any gentleman of conjuring tendencies. Hermann will be missed too, off the stage, where he is as entertaining as he is on.

Grand German and Italian Opera—"The Merry Wives of Windsor" has evidently lost none of its popularity judging from the house that attended its third performance last evening. This afternoon "Il Trovatore" will be given and tomorrow evening "Fra Diavolo."

Herold's Orchestral Matinee.—The first concert of the third season will be given on Wednesday afternoon next, when the programme will include selections from Gade's Symphonie in C, Reinecke's Peace Jubilee Overture, and the Overture to "Zampa."

John Wilson's Benefit.—On Thursday evening, next, as is noticed elsewhere, this gentleman, "the mildest mannered villian that ever lived" (on the stage), will take his benefit. The bill will consist of "Under the Gaslight," and an afterpiece, in one of which Miss Kate Denin, will make her first appearance in three years.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.—Dominic Brown's benefit, last night, was a success. To-night, "Chinese Servants," "Paris by Gaslight," and the Harrises in their specialties to-night.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre. — Besides the revival of "The Trip to Paris," there will be to-night the acts of "I Cut His Tail Off," "Dodging for a Wife," and "The Siamese Twins,"

Harp and Star Variety Theatre.—An extra entertainment will be given this evening for the benefit of Manager Mooney. This place of amusement will on Monday evening next, offer an attraction that will be sure to draw, in the person of Johnny Tuers, Ethiopean Comedian and "end" man.

Woodward's Gardens.—Attractions.—The Mammoth Grape Vine for a short time only. Saturday and Sunday the grand sports of the Trampoline, the talented Miss Mathews, Sig. Gonzales the champion tumbler, George Sheilds and Jos. Williams and others in feats and pantomime and the usual Orchestral Concert. On Saturday evening the grand benefit for Mlle. Gracie, tendered by a host of sympathizing artists, concluding with a Ball.

The Cliff House.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from any thing else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain railroad.

The Young Man from the East.

" Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and al epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

Laughing Gas.

Dr. Wilson, Dentist, 205 Third street, makes a specialty of extracting teeth withaut pain by the use of laughing gas, and with twelve years experience in its use can warrant success with entire safety in the most difficult cases.

DRAMATIC NOTES.

The N. Y. Spirit of the Times speaks of Mme. Julie Rosewald as "a debutante from California." Why, how, when? We understood, she understood, and they (the people) understood that she came from New York with the Hess Company. However, we're not ashamed to father her.

G. L. Fox opens at Booth's on Monday evening next, the date at which he would have opened at the California Theatre, had he not been taken sick!

The last news informs us that "Our Boys" will be withdrawn from the stage of the Fifth Avenue Theatre, to-night, and that Booth will open there on Monday in "Hamlet." He plays in the "Apostate," "Richelieu" and "Othello" and will conclude his engagement with a grand production of "Richard II."

Lawrence Barrett will play Cassius in the great revival of "Julius Cæsar" at Booth's, to follow G. L. Fox's engagement. Barney Williams, who we pleased to hear has recovered his health, will also [illegible]

We learn of a new historical drama entitled the "Countess Helene; or, The Divorce of Josephine," in five acts which has been prepared for the Centennial, in view of the anticipated presence in Philadelphia of the Prince Imperial. It contains fourteen notable characters, including Napoleon, Hortense, Josephine, Eugene, and several celebrated French Generals. It was read in the presence of a large delegation of the press and profession, at Boston, on the 2d, and was pronounced a scholarly creation.

Mr. John McCollough opens for a week at Indianapolis, on Monday, the season being arranged as follows: Cincinnati, Nov. 1st, one week; Baltimore, Nov. 23d, one week; Washington, 29th, two weeks; New Orleans, Dec. 20th, two weeks; Cleveland, Jan. 10th, one week; Pittsburg, Jan. 17th, one week; Boston, Jan. 31st, two weeks; Philadelphia, Feb. 21st, two weeks.

Figaro's readers may, perhaps, remember a statement in a recently published Australian letter, of the contemplated publication of John C. Dunn's autobiography. Mr. Dunn was well known in Sydney and indeed everywhere as "That Rascal Jack," and it is only in further corroboration of the truth that man proposes and God disposes, that we now notice the news of his sudden death.

The Washington Critic speaks of "Kate Fisher's intrepid acts of equinity." This is certainly a free and easy age.

On dit that General Tom Thumb is going to publish a volume of small talk.

It seems that Mr. Florence has been doing the C. T. (correct thing) as we notice a card in the last number of the London Hornet from Mr. Billington asserting that he has beed paid by Mr. Florence for the American right to Paul Merritt's play of "Rough and Ready." With a few more such honest gentlemen on the stage and we shall need no International Copyright Law.

We hear that Sothern has become part manager of the London Haymarket Theatre.

We have received from T. B. Peterson & Bros., through their agents, A. L. Bancroft & Co., "A Light and Dark Xmas," by Mrs. Henry Wood.

The Lakeside Library Publishing Co. of Chicago, have sent us their edition of Jules Verne's extraordinary and fascinating work "Ten Thousand Leagues Beneath the Sea." This fascicating story is here published in unabridged form, for the absurdly nominal price of twenty-five cents.

M. Gray has issued another of his selections of opera bouffe music for children, this time "The Toothache Song" from "The Princess of Trebizonde."

A tenor doesn't seem to be an easy thing to get, judging from an advertisement which Mapleson, the London opera manager, has inserted in the Milan newspapers, offering a reward equal to $1,000 for a tenor singer. Competitive examinations will be held in Milan, Bologna, and Florence. The qualifications required, however, will exclude all except exceedingly gifted artists. The accepted man must speak and read pure Italian—not a dialect—must be of good personal appearance, free from deformity, and have a genial and sympathetic physiognomy, must have the manners of a gentleman, and not wear a wig or false teeth, and must have an agreeable voice, free from tremulo, of a plaintive and elastic character, and a knowledge of familiar operas and stage usage."

After all the talk and fuss concerning Rossi's appearance at the Lyceum Theatre, it would appear from the following card, published in all the New York papers that the engagement has fallen through:

CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

For the first time during my managerial career I find myself compelled to address the public, and for the following reasons. Last July I entered into a contract in Turin with Signor Ernesto Rossi for a series of performances to be given in this country. The contract was duly signed and executed. All its obligations have on my part been most scrupulously kept by the payment of the passages of himself and his company, by an advance to him of a large sum of money previous to my departure from Europe, and by extensive preparations made since my arrival here for his debut.

Last Wednesday, Signor Rossi, through his agent, suddenly informed me by cable of the "impossibility of his coming" (fulfilling his contract), without any reason being assigned. Since Wednesday I have sent several cable dispatches to Signor Rossi, insisting on the fulfillment of his engagement, but, up to the present writing, without avail. In view of these facts, I am compelled to discontinue all announcements regarding Signor Rossi's representations in the United States until I am in possession of further particulars, and until that time I respectfully request a suspension of public opinion in regard to both Signor Rossi and myself.

On Monday evening next, the American comedy of "Extremes, or New York in 1850," will be produced at the California Theatre. It was first played in this city at the old American Theatre, September 19th, 1859, and afterwards at the Metropolitan, March 10 b, 1862. At both theatres it was a success. Its author is J. H. Sperry, of Baltimore, where it ran five weeks. Besides this run it has enjoyed such lengthy ones as that of twelve weeks in New York, six in Cincinnati, and fourteen in Philadelphia. Amongst the well-known actors and actresses who appeared in its presentation at the Metropolitan, where C. R. Thorne, Jr., Chas. Wheatleigh, Walter Leman, Billy O'Neil, poor old Uncle Bill Barry, W. H. Hamilton, F. Frank, Felix White, Mrs Judah Sophie Edwin, Alicia Mandeville and Mrs. H. A. Perry, now Agnes Booth. "Extremes" will be played Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. On Thursday, John Wilson takes his annual benefit when "Under the Gaslight" will be produced. This and "Extremes" will keep the boards during the remainder of the week.

Following Mestayer at Piper's Opera House, will come Dominick Murray and "The Spy," after whom and which, Miss Badger will follow in a short engagement.

On Monday, Nov. 22d, the Florences will open at the California Theatre in "The Mighty Dollar."

Don't forget the benefit to Mlle. Gracie the injured trapezist, at Woodward's Gardens to-day.

The Lytton Dramatic Club give a performance of "Caste" at the Central Hall, (corner Sixth and Market streets), on Tuesday evening next.

Montgomery Queen's circus season for 1875 ended at Harrisburg on the 11th, on which occasion Mr. Queen was presented by the attachees with a handsome gold chain and gold-headed cane. The cane was ebony, with "From ocean to ocean—2,000 miles by rail," engraved thereon. After the presentation most of the company took supper with Mr. Queen, and with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" the season of 1875 ended. It is Mr. Queen's intention to return to California to winter, there being no country in the world, in his opinion, where live stock can be so easily, cheaply and healthfully wintered as this.

John Jack and Annie Firmin closed their engagement at Piper's Opera House, Virginia City, on Saturday last, with "The Hidden Hand." Jack played Falstaff in "Henry V." for his benefit on Friday.

W. A. Mestayer followed, on Monday, as Seth Grimes, a returned Californian, in "Up in the Clouds," on Monday, to good business. For his benefit last night "The Hoodlum" was played.

Charles Vivian received a complimentary benefit at the Salt Lake Theatre on Monday, the 14th. He is now in Provo.

On Monday evening next Augustus Piton's drama of "The American's Gold," will be produced for the first time at Maguire's New Theatre. Its author is at present, we believe, leading juvenile man with Charlotte Nickerson, Toronto, Canada. The drama contains as persons and incidents, two French flower girls, an abduction, a rescue, a duel between abductor and rescuer and death of the villain, an old miser hang, a duel with knives, and a thief hovel. The American's Gold which is the motive power of the story, has been taken from the body of a murdered American and is the cause of that amount of misery generally consequent on the possession of ill-gotten wealth.

Miss Emmie Wilmot, who makes her San Francisco debut in the above piece, is tall, stylish, and was last season leading lady at Providence, R. I.

Hooley's Theatre, Chicago, is now advertised with Maguire and Haverley as lessees. On Monday last, Billy Arlington received a benefit.

On Monday, Prof. Hermann starts out for a little tour in the country under the management of Mr. Welch, who so successfully managed the Hooley Comedy Company during its interior trip. He will play at Stockton on the 25th, 26th and 27th. Sacramento, the 28th, 29th and 30th; Marysville, Nov. 1st and 2d; Grass Valley, the 3d and 4th; and Nevada, the 5th and 6th.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

Jones says he loves two charming girls—Jenny Rosity and Annie Mation.

She was one of those sentimental young creatures who linger in the doorway to bid you good-by in the starlight, and after she had parted from him the other night, she went up to her room murmuring: "Yes, I would know it was hard times, by the kind of hair oil he uses now."

A man in an American settlement, who has been an inveterate smoker for twenty years, has suddenly and permanently given up the practice. He knocked the ashes out of his pipe into a keg of blasting powder.

A New Orleans paper states that a warehouse in one of the Philadelphia buildings will be set apart for the reception of Centennial poetry.

An old author quaintly remarks: "Avoid arguments with ladies. In spinning yarns among silks and satins, a man is sure to be worsted and twisted; and when a man is worsted and twisted he may consider himself wound up."

There has not been a steamboat disaster on the Mississippi river for nearly two weeks, and old boatmen predict that the world is coming to an end.

A Clarksville man has written a life of the devil. The last three chapters comprise a ten years' biography of his mother-in-law.

Milwaukeeans are not all bad. About one in every 3,000 tries to do right. A Milwaukeean of the good sort has just returned a borrowed book after keeping it twenty-seven years.

The Romans urned their dead; we earn our living.

Two hearts that beat as one are singularly oblivious to mud. We never knew a man in love to circulate a petition for a new pavement or an an additional lamppost.

A new name for tight boots -A corn crib.

Am I not a little pale?" inquired a lady who was short and corpulent, of a crusty old bachelor. "You look more like a big tub," was the prompt reply.

An editorial notice of a woman's grocery store reads as follows: "Her tomatoes are as red as her own cheeks; her indigo is as blue as her own eyes, and her pepper as hot as her own temper."

If a flock of geese see one of their number drink, they will all drink too. Men often make geese of themselves.

A young man charged with being lazy was asked if he took it from his father. "I think not," was the reply. "Father has got all the laziness he ever had."

Favorite air with the ladies—In the sweet "buy and buy."

Why is dew like a falling star? One is missed on earth, and the other mist from heaven.

It is well to be rich, but the Rochester Herald remarks that, in view of the State Prison and things, it is better to be so on your own money.

It is said that the Digger Indians are never known to smile. They are grave Diggers.

When a man goes to a quilting party about tea-time, and sits down on a ball of wicking with a long darning needle in it, he will think of more things connected with darning in a minute than he can mention in two hours.

"See here, wife, you indulge that boy too much. He is a perfect mule." Oh, husband, please don't accuse our poor boy of having an ass for a father." The old man was silent.

Newly married lady—"Is your wife fair, Mr. Penhecker?" Mr. P. (very married)—"Well, I don't know exactly. She—ain't logical!"

When the Fair Closes

And the tired visitors prepare to wend their weary way homeward, they should pause for a moment and consider how much more pleasant it would be to take an ice cream or a nicely served and comfortable supper in the Restaurant, which does not close till 12 o'clock, P. M., and which is under the able supervision of the well-known caterer, A. M. Hepburn.

But go to the Furniture and Bedding Store of J. A. Shaber & Co., 707 Market street, near Third, and save fully 25 per cent. by buying of them. Their motto is: "Buy for cash, and sell for cash," therefore they have no bad debts to make up out of extra profits. t

A scene in Texas, as described by the San Antonia Herald: She stood in the center of a potato patch and was vexing the ground with a hoe. About twenty Summers had passed over her head, which seemed never to have been combed. She couldn't have borrowed a curry-comb to subdue that head of hair without first depositing collaterals to have it repaired after she got through with it. Her face resembled a pretty mask made of mud, and her eyes sparkled through a couple of cracks like diamonds. A peculiar and winning grace attended her every movement, and had fortune been kind to her she would doubtless have shown as a bright particular star among the most attractive of her sex.

A Pacific Invention.

The recent invention of a shell in Norristown is thus described: "It is filled with small shells, and when it bursts among ten thousand soldiers, these smaller shells are scatted in all directions, and bursting in turn, send out still smaller shells, which travel around recklessly, and by the time the miniature shells contained in the third size explode, the army is nearly wiped out, and the few men remaining want to go home.

WANTED.

Information of the present Residence of FRANK KING also known as FRANK LANE at the office of this paper. J. P BOGARDUS

DR. SPINNEY & Co's

DISPENSARY,

No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN,

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Opera House.

The programme for to-night and this week is an entirely new one, with the exception of Mackin and Wilson's specialty act of "Wash Day," which may well be repeated. The new bill includes Charley Reed's sketch of "Bothered," Fayette Welch in an act, new songs in the first part, and the society drama of "Clotilde, or the Bruised Heart," which made so immense a sensation in New York during the past season.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Augustus Pitou's drama of "The American's Gold," will be produced for the first time at Maguire's New Theatre this (Monday) evening. Its author is at present, we believe, leading juvenile man with Charlotte Nickerson, Toronto, Canada. The drama contains as persons and incidents, two French flower girls, an abduction, a rescue, a duel between abductor and rescuer and death of the villain, an old miser hang, a duel with knives, and a thief hovel. The American's Gold which is the motive power of the story, has been taken from the body of a murdered American and is the cause of that amount of misery generally consequent on the possession of ill-gotten wealth. Miss Emmie Wilmot, who makes her San Francisco debut in the above piece, is tall, stylish, and was last season leading lady at Providence, R. I.

California Theatre.

The American comedy of "Extremes, or New York in 1850," will be produced to night. It was first played in this city at the old American Theatre, September 19th, 1859, and afterwards at the Metropolitan, March 10th, 1862. At both theatres it was a success. Its author is J. H. Sperry, of Baltimore, where it ran five weeks. Besides this run it has enjoyed such lengthy ones as that of twelve weeks in New York, six in Cincinnati, and fourteen in Philadelphia. Amongst the well-known actors and actresses who appeared in its presentation at the Metropolitan, where C. R. Thorne, Jr., Chas. Wheatleigh, Walter Leman, Billy O'Neil, poor old Uncle Bill Barry, W. H. Hamilton, F. Frank, Felix White, Mrs Judah Sophie Edwin, Alicia Mandeville and Mrs. H. A Perry, now Agnes Booth. "Extremes" will be played Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. On Thursday, John Wilson takes his annual benefit when "Under the Gaslight" will be produced. This and "Extremes" will keep the boards during the remainder of the week.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

"Fra Diavolo" drew a crowded house last night. The cast included Theodore Hablemann as the Fra, a character in which he distinguished himself to an unusual degree; Mlle. Elzer, as Zerlina, played prettily and with effect; and Herr Formes as Giacomo, a character taken with all the lyric force that so distinguishes this artist. To-morrow night "Martha" will be given with the same cast as at its first presentation.

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

The first concert of the third season will be given on Wednesday afternoon next, when the programme will include selections from Gade's Symphonie in C. Reinecke's Peace Jubilee Overture, and the Overture to "Zampa."

The officers and crew of the Austrian corvette Freidrich, will attend the performance of "Extremes" at the California Theatre to-night.

THE NARROW GAUGE.

She wore the comic style of dress,
That now is all the rage;
That trailing mass of bandages,
They call "the narrow gauge."

"How comes it, Miss, though you're so fast,
You're train's so long behind?"
Says she, "As you're no passenger,
I guess you needn't mind."

"Put on your brakes a moment, Sis,
I fain would know how far
You run, before a chap might take
A Pullman sleeping car,"

"Oh, now," says she, "you're talking biz.,
Though one can plainly see,
The station that I'm stopping at
Is Curiosity."

"The car you want can be attatched,
A parson for conductor;
And he will call it, if you please,
The Benedict instructor."

I coughed and said, "your steam is up,
I guess you'd better go."
Says she with thumb to nasal tip,
"Who runs this train? d'ye know?"

And then she showed the daintiest foot,
It fairly took my breath;
It would have beaten Cinderel-
La's trotter's clean to death.

I could but stand as one transfixed,
And gape and blink and sigh;
Up rose a cloud of dust, and then
The train went whisking by.

Sharp Showman.

There is a funny side to even so sad a case as the abduction of Charley Ross. The father of the lost boy tells the story to a reporter of the Philadelphia Times. While in Canada recently, he saw a circular of a circus manager announcing wax figures of the Ross family, together with an offer from the manager himself of $2,000 for the discovery of the boy. Mr. Ross went to the circus and saw figures of himself and wife and Charley, none of which bore the least resemblance to the originals. Without making himself known he talked with the exhibitor, who told him he was a frequent visitor to the household, and that all the figures were strikingly accurate likenesses. When Mr. Ross made himself known the man was dumbfounded for a moment, but immediately expressed his deep sympathy, declaring his willingness to pay the two thousand reward, and offered in case the boy was found, to give the father $1,000 a week for thirty weeks, for the privilege of exhibiting him.

Another Monopoly.

At Atlanta, Ga., an honest old Granger approached the affable young man who adorns the general delivery window of the Post Office recently, and asked: "Is there any letters for the Griggses here?" The young man shuffled through G's deck, and said: "No, sir!" "Any for the Stebbinses?" The young man counted the "S" deck, and said: "No, sir!" "Well, anything for the Bunces?" and the old man put on his specks to see for himself. The young man fanned the "B's" out, and again said: "No, sir!" "Then who in thunder is all them thar letters and pigeon holes fur any-how by gun?" ripped out the indignant old man; and before the young man had time to reply, the old Granger was shuffling down street, swearing that "this here Post Office is a blamed mernoperly, like every-thing else these days!"

Warming Up.

A country clergyman who had been accustomed to minister to the spiritual needs of a congregation in the back-woods, was called to occupy the pulpit of an absent metropolitan brother. The day being excessively hot and his sermon exceedingly long, he made his preparations accordingly. He first removed his cravat, and then his collar and cuffs, and then his coat, and was proceeding to get rid of his vest, when there was a stir among the worshipers, and one of them rising, said in a deep, deliberate voice: "I don't know what may be the brother's intention, but it might as well be understood before he goes any further, that this isn't a bathing house. He preached with his vest on.

Died Happy.

When a Missouri engineer ditched his train he faintly asked: "Did it kill any one who parted his hair in the middle?" They answered that three such were lying dead. "Then I die happy?" he sighed, and and he was soon no more.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vandershice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

Free and Easy.

Millinery Goods,

Wholesale and retail, at Palmer's, 726 to 734 Market street.

A Handy Name.

A Danbury man's wife is named Nell. There is nothing in a name Shakspeare tells us, but this Danbury man manages to extract considerable comfort from this cognomen. When he comes home at night and can't find his slippers, he screams out "Where, Nell, is them slippers?" And then when she produces them nicely laid away where they belong, he says in a subdued voice, "How, Nell, did I know they were stuck back there?"

How to Pop.

Now, young man, listen while we tell you how to pop the question. Get your June-bug well cornered where no one can overhear you, and then poke the conundrum at her: "When will there be only twenty-five letters in the alphabet?" Answer—"When U and I are made one.' After that it is plain sailing.

A Necessary Choice.

Stumbling into his room he sat down on the edge of the bed and soliloquised thus: "Feet wet, tight boots, a sore on one hand an' a felon on t'other, an' no boot-jack in z' house. 'Sings got to be dif'rent. E'ther I mus' get married, else get a boot-jack; whi' shall I do?"

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Hail Columbia.

In the year 1798 when patriotic feeling pervaded the country, and when there were several parties in the field, Mr. Fox, a young player, who was more admired for his vocal than histrionic powers, called one morning upon his friend Mr. Hopkinson, and after stating that the following evening had been appointed for his benefit, and expressing great fear as to the result, as not a single box had been taken, begged his friend to do something in his behalf.

"If," said Fox, "you will write me some patriotic verses to the tune of the President's March, I feel sure of a full house. Several of the people around the theatre have attempted it, but they have come to the conclusion that it cannot be done; yet I think you may succeed."

Mr. Hopkinson retired to his study, and in a short time wrote the first verse and chorus, which were submitted to Mrs. Hopkinson, who sang them to a piano accompaniment, and proved the measure and music to be compatible and in keeping. In this way, the second and other verses were written, and when Fox returned in the evening, he received with delight the song as it now stands. The following morning, small handbills and placards announced that Mr. Fox would sing a new patriotic song, etc.

The theatre was crowded; the song was sung, and received with rapture; it was repeated eight times and again encored; and when sung the ninth time, the whole audience stood up and joined in the chorus. Night after night, Hail Columbia, cheered the visitors of the theatre, and in a very few days it was the universal song of the boys in the street, from one end of the city to another. Nor was the distinguished author of this truly national song—a song which met the approbation of both parties—forgotten. The street in which he resided was on one occasion crowded, and Hail, Columbia, broke on the stillness of midnight from five hundred patriotic voices."

Perfectly Immaterial.

Yesterday morning, when a man entered his house after an all night's absence, his clothes covered with mud and hair full of grass, his wife sternly demanded: "Now, then, where, have you been?" "Whirivi' bin?" "Yes, sir." "Well," he replied, looking at himself, "you can call it blode up on a steamboat, or run over by a tornado—I ain't a bit partickler which."

Blunt Exposition.

Exposition of Scripture was formerly much more in vogue than at present, especially in Scotland, and gave frequent occasions for the display of wit. One divine, commenting on Peter's boast to our Lord, "Lo we have left all and followed thee," said, "A puir all, Peter, to mak' a boast of!—a bit of a boat and a few auld nets!"

Currency.

"Vhat's all this talk about this courrency and the five twinties and sivin-thirties that I hears about Mike?" "Why, bliss your sowl, don't ye know, Pat? It manes that the Government wants to make the laberin' min work from five twinty in the mornin' till sivin-thirty in the avening." "Och, the spalpeens! May the divil choke thim!"

Contrary Woman.

He said the pastry was ever so much better, made by her dear hands. This delighted her. But when she wanted the coal-scuttle at the other end of the room, and he suggested that she should get it, as the fire would feel so much better if the coal was brought by her dear hands, she was disgusted. Women are so changeable!

The Cunning Cobbler.

Many years ago, the husband of an old lady, living in Buckinghamshire, died without making his will, for the want of which necessary precaution his estate would have passed away from his widow, had she not resorted to the following expedient to avert the loss of the property. She concealed the death of her husband, and prevailed on an old cobbler, her neighbor, who was, in person, somewhat like the deceased, to go to bed in her house, and personate him, in which character it was agreed that he should dictate a will, leaving the widow the estate in question. An attorney was sent for to draw up the writings. The widow, who, on his arrival, appeared in great affliction at her good man's danger, began to ask questions of her pretended husband, calculated to elicit the answers she expected and desired. The cobbler, groaning aloud, and looking as much like a person going to give up the ghost as possible, feebly answered, "I intend to leave you half of my estates, and I think the poor old shoemaker, who lives opposite, is deserving the other half, for he has always been a good neighbor." The widow was thunderstruck at receiving a reply so different from that which she expected, but dared not negative the cobbler's will, for fear of losing the whole of the property; while the old rogue in bed—who was himself the poor old shoemaker living opposite—laughed in his sleeve, and divided with her the fruits of a project which the widow had intended for her sole benefit.

DR. SPINNEY & Co's

DISPENSARY,

No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well-known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"The American's Gold," an essentially French drama and an adaptation from the French by Mr. Augustus Piton, was produced for the first time in California—and we believe on any stage—at this theatre last evening. The action of the piece is briefly something after this fashion: Claude Pujol (M. A. Kennedy), a convict kills Anderson an American and robs him of his gold. In a moment of confidence, Pujol confides to Eugene Vermond, an artist and Bohemian (James O'Neill), the place where he has hidden this gold, on learning which, Vermond kills Pujol in a duel with knives and takes to himself the gold. Grown thereby rich, he is yet more unhappy than when poor and struggling. Chance throws him in the way of two flower girls Rosalie (Miss Emmie Wilmot) and Violet (Miss Katie Mayhew). The first he falls in love with and is providentially—and dramatically—enabled to rescue her twice from the villainy of Lucien de Grandpre, an officer of the French navy (E. J. Buckley). The convict Pujol's son is befriended by Vermond, and it is through his instrumentality that the discovery is made that Rosalie, the flower girl, is none other than the daughter of the murdered American, Anderson. Vermond restores the gold to the daughter, and of course, marries her—in the last act. Incidentally are introduced love scenes between Violet and Placide Landbier a friend of Vermond's (W. Crane), a rag picker's hovel presided over by Mother Jacinta (Mrs. Charles Edmonds), and a whole host of other characters taken by the remaining members of the company. Miss Wilmot who made her debut last evening in the character of Rosalie, is a young lady above the average height, who plays with quietness, which whilst it somewhat detracts from her possible effectiveness, is still better than an exhibition of unnatural and stagey rant. The piece was remarkably well put on; the garden scene in the second act being particularly pretty.

Opera House.

The second week opens as the last week closed with crowded houses and people turned away. The first part introduces five capital songs, whilst in the second part are found the new comic sketch of Charley Reed's entitled "Bothered," in which he plays the part of a Senator from New Orleans; Billy Emerson in his renowned songs and dances; Mackin and Wilson in their splendid specialty act of "Wash Day;" Fayette Welch in another of his "Sensations," and the society drama of "Laurinda, or, the Bruised Heart," played by the entire company, and which as a broad burlesque on the society dramas of the day is simply immense.

John Wilson's Benefit.

Do not forget that on Thursday next—the day after to-morrow—John Wilson takes his benefit at the California Theatre, putting up "Under the Gaslight" for his bill. But no matter what the bill might be, there would sure to be a good house present to show its appreciation of this favorite actor's most successful and long efforts to entertain.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

"Martha" will be put on this evening with the same cast as its first production, viz: Miss Ivy Wandesforde as Lady Harriet, Mlle. Anna Elzer as Nancy, Baccei as Lionel, and Carl Formes as Plunkett.

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

The first concert of the third season will be given to-morrow afternoon, when the programme will include selections from Gade's Symphonie in C, Reinecke's Peace Jubilee Overture, and the Overture to "Zampa."

California Theatre.

Mr. J. H. Sperry's American comedy of "Extremes; or, New York in 1850," has in it many points of recommendation. The story is simple as that of a comedy should be, and introduces a series of characters all well individualized and with the comic side of their characters turned to the people. Thus we find Henry Edwards as Mark Mayberry, a wine merchant, extremely averse to matrimony and politics, Barton Hill as Mr. Augustus Smiley an extremely affected coxcomb, Robert Pateman as Mr. Higgins, the politician, extremely willing to blow hot or cold as the occasion required, W. H. Mestayer as Gash Gaskins, a negro servant, so extremely familiar as to be only ludicrous by getting beyond the aggravating Miss Pateman, as the extremely tantalizing young widow, Mrs. Crosby, Miss Carrie Wyatt, extremely romantic and extremely well dressed and Miss Alice Harrison as Nelly, an almshouse orphan, extremely stupid, yet an extremely good dancer. Altogether the play, though rather crude, is the reverse of dull because so full of characters. It will be repeated this and to-morrow evenings.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

For to-night's bill, in addition to "Another Trip to Paris," there are the acts of "Fisherman's Luck," "Challenge Dance" and "The Picture Gallery."

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Hughey Robinson in comic songs, Geo. Lowden in motto songs, Lon Dixon in a bone solo, Charley King with his African Harp and the Harrises to-night.

Harp and Star Variety Theatre.

Stuart in his champion dance, George Neilson in his feats on the swinging bar, Harry Devoy in his specialties and Borthwick Reid with his "Claymore" to-night.

Woodward's Gardens.

Last week of the big grape vine. Next Saturday and Sunday, second time of the grand sports of the Trampoline, Sig. Gonzales the champion in his great double somersault leap and the bridge of bayonets, the fascinating Miss Mathews, George Shields, Jos. Williams and gymnastic troupe, the pantomime "Dombo the Duner," and Orchestral Concert.

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and all epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

The original "Swain's Bakery" is now established in their magnificent new place at 213 Sutter street near Centre Market, and has added a lunch room and ice cream saloon. This is their only place of business.

AWKWARD.

BY J. CHEEVER GOODWIN.

And so she's engaged to be married
To one of our class! I'm afraid
That if very much longer she tarried
Her degree would be O. M.—Old Maid.
"I know her?" Oh, yes, or I thought so;
But I'm more than inclined to believe
I was wrong. I'm the fellow she sought so.
But couldn't deceive.

"You're surprised?" I imagined you would be;
It's a thing I say little about;
'Twas as open a case as well could be—
"Did she love me?" There wasn't a doubt.
Why, she just threw herself at my head, Bill!
But I knew she'd no heart and less brains,
And though money will settle a bread bill,
It won't wash off stains.

"You're astonished at this?" My dear fellow,
What the deuce did I care for her age!
I like women like apples—when mellow,
But the fact was, I knew every page
Of her history. "Flirted?" You'd think so.
There was Harry McKeown, sixty-three;
It was she that drove him to the drink so;
"Am I sure?" As can be.

She's a scheming coquette, and I know it;
She hasn't the least bit of soul
Or an atom of truth· "Doesn't show it?"
No; her feelings are under control.
Then it's nonsense to say she has beauty,
I pity the fellow she's caught.
It must be a matter of duty
With him, or he's bought.

Who the deuce can it be? There's Fred Baker:
You remember him?—scored for the Nine;
But there isn't much fear that he'd take her;
He wants blue blood, and not a gold mine.
"Chicken" Jones? No, he's married. 'Twas funny,
How he ran a tie race with Jim Prout,
For the "class cradle," wasn't it? Money
He's got, and the gout

"Tub" Abbott was sweet on her. Sandy
McGillum!—he must be the one,
By Jove, it's old "Sandy, the dandy!"
It's not he? I give up, then. I'm done.
Is it one of our class, are you sure,
That the vixen has seized for her prey?
Who's the fellow? let's have it! What! you are?
The dickens you say!

Ah Irishman's Will.

The following are genuine extracts from a will lately discovered in the Registrar's office in Lancaster, Penn., which was written by a man who committed suicide in the Susquehanna, at Columbia, more than 100 years ago, but which was never probated:

"This will be found after my Deth if they look sharp. As I noe the people that hes found my carkas is curious about the manner of my deth, which is something out of the way, I'll give them aul the satisfaction in my power about it as I noe the hole mather from the beginning to end—which is my own misfortune, that I married a cross woman that's never plazed but when she's vexing mee and spending me substance, whereby I have been reduced to great shifts as well the world knows—Fadder McDonough in particular. It may be reported, as the world is greatly given to lying, that I died by accident; but that's a mistake, for I throwed myself into the river a Wednesday evening, being tired of the world and fretted out of me life; and as the little that's left of me substance is not much, I hope there will be no quarreling about me disposing of it in the following manner:

There may be in my breeches pocket (as I put there all I had) about something less than half a guinea in silver and sixpence and some half pence; give that to little Dolly McGinnis.

Peter Doyle makes me pay too much for me cabbin and little bit of potato ground, but I made it answer by chaten the parson and on one way and todder, so I lave it to my youngest son, Robin, because I love him better than Corney. As for Corney and his mudder, they'll provide for themselves. I had enuf to do to maintain them during my life, and I'm shure I'll not trouble my head about them now I am ded.

My sow and pigs and my crucifix, along with babes, my tobacco, too hens, and my mass book, I late to Fadder McDonock, for though he squeezes h - l fire hard, hee's a good enuf sowl at the bothem.

Me oak saplin, my dog, me woolen nightcap, and me razor, I give to honest Toby Hooragan, the best creature that ever dru breath. I lave him also me good shirt. As to the one I have on now, it is not wurth anybody's taking and so I lave it to my wife, that she may have no reason to complain. DENNIS TOOLE.

February 26th, 1767.

CODISSEL.

I forgive all the world except mee wife, and I forgive her too; but it's against mee will, and I do it to please Fadder McDonough and kape mee own sowl out of purgatory. I don't ritely know where I shall go to, but I'm pretty asy about that, as I got absolution cunningly to-day widout the praestes known' what I had got in me self. DENNIS TOOLE.

Urging a Calf.

The Easton Free Press contains the following:

He was a small but muscular boy, and the calf was probably two months old, with a development of unadulterated cussedness that would do credit to a Georgia Ku Klux Klan captain. There was a rope between them, and, as they went down South Third street, bets were even as to whether the boy was leading the calf or the calf leading the boy. The calf made a dash for the Central Express office. The boy pulled him back, and he made a dash for the boy, who ran around a wagon and fell over a watermelon pile; the proprietor whereof swore copiously:

"Come back here, you infernal clod buster, and pay for this melon."

"Say, M-'h-ister; whoa—give me my—thunderation on you—hat, won't her?"

And the calf kicked up his heels and b-a-a-d, and tried to run into a store, but the boy sat back on the line with his strength, and suddenly sat down in the mud as the calf altered his mind and turned around to look at him. They went quietly ten steps until a little dog barked, when it took four circles around the boy in as many seconds, tying his legs up in a line, bringing him down in the mud again, and dragged him around until he looked like an old hat that had been run over by the ice cart for two seasons.

A philanthropic fat man went to the boy's assistance, but the calf kicked him on the shin and butted him in the condenser so that he sat down on the curbstone and tried to die easy. Then the boy and calf untangled themselves and started down the street like a mail train behind time until the calf, scaring at something, stopped suddenly, and the boy fell over it and lost the race.

The calf at once took to his heels, every boy in the street running after and grabbing at the rope, until it got tangled in the bridge, when his conductor caught him by the ear and tail, and a lively fight took place all across the bridge and out of sight, when everybody along the street proceeded to tell how easy it is to lead a calf, if you only go their way about it.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

FOREIGN THEATRICAL NEWS.

The first season of opera at Christiania in the Norwegian language has ended. Among the works thus adapted were Mozart's "Don Juan" and Rossini's "William Tell."

Mr. A. J. Hipkins (of Messrs. Broadwood & Sons) sends the Academy the following note from Paris: "I have visited Chopin's tomb in the cemetery of Pere-la-Chaise, and grieve to find it in an utterly neglected condition. I cannot prolong my stay to seek out those who should be its proper guardians, but surely if money is required, the French, German, and English admirers of Chopin's genius would be glad to provide whatever may be necessary. I might add his fellow-countrymen, the Poles, who, with some Russians, form (the guide told me), the few who seem to care to visit this monument to a composer of singularly original and beautiful music."

Wagner has obtained for his Bayreuth Tetralogical Trilogy the assistance of the greatest machinist of Berlin, to produce uncommon automatic effects, as several wild animals, including a dragon, are to appear moving on the stage.

Mme. Lucca has engaged with the Impressario Marelli to give a series of operatic performances in various towns of Germany next Winter, after which, it is said, she intends to retire entirely into private life. She is to receive 3,000 marks ($750) for each appearance.

Tom Taylor is writing a play for Adelaide Neilson.

A new comedy, by H. J. Byron, called "Married in Haste," has been successfully produced at the Haymarket Theatre, London.

Mrs. Rousby made her first appearance in England since her return from America at the Queen's Theatre, London, on October 1st.

Carlotta LeClercq was on the 28th to appear at the Crystal Palace. She has postponed her American engagements until May, 1876.

Mme. Louise Farrence, widow of M. Aristide Farrence, best known in this country from his publication "Le Tresor des Pianistes," died at Paris on the 15th instant. Mm. Farrence was for more than thirty years one of the Professors of the Piano at the Conservatoire. She retired from her post in 1873, and was succeeded by M. Delaborde. In a somewhat lengthy biographical sketch in the current number of the Revue et Gazette Musicale, she is spoken of as "assuredly the most remarkable of all women who have devoted themselves to musical composition." Mme. Farrence was in the 72d year of her age.

A cable tegram says that Miss Annie Louise Cary made her debut, September 30th, at the Imperial Opera House, in Moscow, as Azucena, in "Il Trovatore," and met with the most unqualified success. The enthusiasm was very great. She received many floral gifts, and was called nine times before the curtain during the evening. Hosts of American admirers of Miss Cary's voice will be gratified at her Russian reception.

The belief that there is a large amount of talent for dramatic writing which only fails to make itself known to the world from the obstinacy or dullness of managers seems to be as vigorous in France as in other countries; but, fortunately for the unacted authors, an experiment is shortly to be made in Paris with a view to bringing to the test this popular notion. During the approaching Winter it is intended to give at the Vaudeville Theatre weekly representations of plays by unknown writers which have hitherto been in manuscript.

Samuel Phelps, who is now in his 70th year, will give a series of Saturday matinee performances at the London Gaiety, beginning November 13th.

At one of the small capitals of Germany the prima donna of the Hoftheatre and the critic of the local paper were on very friendly terms. The critic, who was also a composer, one day paid the lady a visit, and smilingly said to her: "I am writing something for you, my dear Madame." "Not music, I hope," exclaimed the lady, taken off her guard.

WANTED.

Information of the present Residence of FRANK KING also known as FRANK LANE at the office of this paper. J. P BOGARDUS

DR. SPINNEY & Co's

DISPENSARY,

No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

Opera House.

There is at present not the suspicion of an abatement in the popularity of the Minstrels, who nightly lay to houses crowded to the box-office. The first and second part both contain some excellent things.

California Theatre.

"Extremes," went much more smoothly last night and was, consequently, better enjoyed by the audience present. The piece abounds in broadly drawn characters which are well carried out by the members of the company, to whom they are assigned Miss Alice Harrison, as the almshouse girl, gives us a first-rate bit of amusing gacherie.

Maguire's New Theatre.

The new addition to the company now playing here,—we refer of course to Miss Emmie Wilmot—promises to be a valuable one. She plays with ease, has a fair stage presence and a sweet voice. We must not omit to particularly mention Miss Katy Mayhew's role of Violet, in "The American's Gold," as it brightens the play from her first appearance to her last exit.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

"Martha" was repeated last night with the same ast as that of its first production this season. The appearance of the two fresh young girls, Miss Wandesforde and Mlle. Elzer as Lady Harriet and Nancy, was in itself a treat æsthetic, whilst their singing and that of Baccei, as Lionel, and Carl Formes as Plunkett, was a treat musical. On Friday evening, "Le Postillion de Lonjumeau."

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

The first concert of the third season will be given this (Wednesday) afternoon, when the programme will include selections from Gade's Symphonie in C, Reinecke's Peace Jubilee Overture, and the Overture to "Zampa."

John Wilson's Benefit.

Do not forget John Wilson's benefit to-morrow at the California Theatre, putting up "Under the Gaslight" for his bill. But no matter what the bill might be, there would sure to be a good house present to show its appreciation of this favorite actor's most successful and long efforts to entertain.

Carnival Ball.

The box sheet for the Grand Carnival Ball, to be given at the Mechanics' Pavilion, November 19th, will be opened at Sherman & Hyde's, to-morrow morning.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Swain and West in song and dance, Senate in his banjo solo, Ned Bar y in songs, Kimic in Dutch specialties, Geo. C. Thompson in his negro sketches and "Another Trip to Paris" to-night.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Hughey Robinson in his local hits, Charley King and his banjo, the Harrises in their specialties, and "Paris by Gaslight" to-night.

Harp and Star Variety Theatre.

John Finnerty in his champion jig, Geo. Neilsen on the swinging bar, and Borthwick Reid in his sword exercises to-night. On Friday evening complimentary benefit to Henri Stuart.

Woodward's Gardens.

Last week of the big grape vine. Next Saturday and Sunday, second time of the grand sports of the Trampoline, Sig. Gonzales the champion in his great double somersault leap and the bridge of bayonets, the fascinating Miss Mathews, George Shields, Jos. Williams and gymnastic troupe, the pantomime "Dombo the Duner," and Orchestral Concert.

Notes.

Among the losses by the late disastrous fire in Virginia City, was that of Piper's Opera House, situated on Taylor street. It has had two or three lucky escapes from a similar fate, but this time the conflagration was too sweeping. Mr. Dominick Murray began an engagement there with "Willy Reilly," on Monday night, the engagement being brought thus suddenly to an end after one night's performance. The company is, of course, thrown out of employment, and very possibly for some length of time. Amongst its members are George D. Chaplin, John Jack, Charles Mestayer, Willie Simms, Miss Augusta Chambers, Miss Annie Firmin, Miss Katie Firmin, and Jean Clara Walters.

We are sorry to hear that The Footlights of Virginia City has been extinguished in the general ruin.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

The Fall and Winter Styles

Of hats are now being introduced at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny, their assortment is large and well-selected, all the styles being of a tasty and pleasing shape and of the best material, while the prices are the lowest possible. Don't forget to call and examine their stock at 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

The Green Room.

[illegible] popular resort of the profession and [illegible] epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

The original "Swain's Bakery" is now established in their magnificent new place at 213 Sutter street near Centre Market, and has added a lunch room and ice cream saloon. This is their only place of business.

New and beautiful designs of Carpets at 116 Sutter street, Hall & Lachman's.

NIGHT THOUGHTS.

[The following verses—which are certainly not without considerable poetic expression—have rightfully enjoyed the favor of exchange editors throughout the country;]

TO A MOSQUITO.

Sad minstrel of the drowsy summer night,
Tune up for songs of more ecstatic tone;
For I will tell thee how thou mayest light
Upon such joy as man hath never known;
Go where my love in white robed beauty sleeps—
Yon open casement to her chamber wins—
There lies she dreaming, while the wan night weeps
In murmurous sorrow o'er its ancient sins.
Go hover o'er her; come and tell me then
How sweet she is, my dainty, snow-white dove—
Fair innocent, remote from wicked men,
Warm, tender, soft and flushed with dreams of love,
I would I had thy wings to traverse air,
I love her so I would not harm her there.

As an antidote to the foregoing Erotic effusion we append the following base and Borean imitation:

TO A CIMEX LECTULARIUS.

Thirsty bloodsucker of this Autumn night,
Crawl thee away—I've nothing left but bone—
To yonder casement, through which peeps the light
That shines within on mysteries unknown;
Go where my love in yellow flannel sleeps—
Since rheumatism hath attacked her shins—
There lies she sighing, or perchance she weeps
In murmurous sorrow for her toilette sins.
Go, creep around her; come and tell me, then,
How much of falsehood is there in her form—
How much of cotton to the eyes of men
Is made to pass for tender flesh and warm.
I would I had thy feet to travel there
And nestle—should she wear it—in her hair.

JOHN T. RAYMOND.

"If John T. Raymond," says the Philadelphia All Day City Item, "was fortunate in striking 'Colonel Sellers,' and undoubtedly he was, the author of the personage is equally lucky in being able to present this typical and effective American character before the people of the country in such able hands. In physiqui, make up, manner, and even voice, Raymond succeeds in creating a beau ideal of the enterprising Sellers, and this is not the less so from the fact that in literal truth there is a great deal of Col. Mulberry Sellers in Raymond in propria personæ. He defines Sellers in bold outlines, and all recognize the character at once. Ever radiant with hope, inexhaustible in resource, illimitable in imagination. But while the sketch is sufficiently highly colored to engage the eye and rivet the attention, the laughter it excites is provoked by genuine humor and satire, and not the merriment that hails the caricature. Broad as is the generous humor of the figure, it never becomes ridiculous in its excess, and is never permitted to become downright burlesque. Even the "funny business" of the part has a point to it and very keenly satirical one. As, for instance, when Laura informs him that the claim has been allowed by Congress and that a fortune of three millions is likely to fall in as a consequence, the insatiate ambition for vast wealth, prevalent among the very wealthy men of to-day, is neatly rebuked in the remark, 'Three millions, my dear, three millions; well, it's a nice bit o' money; I congratulate you, Miss Laura; it's a fine sum to make a fortune with. But I have in my hand what will make the other fourth miilion, my dear; a tremendous success already; Mulberry Sellers' infallible, oriental, optical liniment—going enormously at sellers' option.'

And again he gives expression to a very general sentiment when he remarks, 'Oh, I love the newspaper boys! They are always so chuck full of talent, that is, when they're not chuck full of poison.' His scene after a convivial party at Washington is a superb bit of character-acting. He is mellow, but not drunk, and the way in which he explains and illustrates to old Daniel how a friend of his showed him how he was cured of stammering by breaking out into a whistle whenever he felt an irresistable impulse to stammer, was a rare bit of fun, and brought down the house. The crowning scene, both for shrewd character and witty humor, was that of the trial, in which as a witness called to testify to the killing of Selby by Laura he impresses upon the jury, in spite of the reiterated warnings of the court, the assumption of her raving insanity at the time of the act. After shaking hands with several of the jurors, and acquitting himself with skill of some fine fencing with the prosecuting attorney, he proceeds to give such an odd account of the hallucinations of the accused, in which humor and pathos are equally mingled, that he sustains the interest of the house to the last, and constant laughter and applause reward his successful efforts as a witness.

The manner in which Sellers retains his sang froid under the most unfortunate circumstances is exceedingly amusing. When Mrs. Sellers announces that there is nothing in the house but raw turnips and water, the gracious ingenuity of Sellers at this discovery is inimitable.

'Oh, never mind,' he exclaims, 'raw turnips and water will do, if it is a good article. But provide the best. Provide the best the market affords, Polly. It's a close place, but cheer up, girl; cheer up. Providence will tide us over the scrape somehow. Don't let us weaken on Providence, sweetheart.'

'We always dine simply on Thursday,' he says to Clay, as they sit down. 'But it's a healthy diet. Let me tell you, Clay, things are working pretty bright, now. The air is full of money. I wouldn't take three fortunes for one little operation I've got on hand now.'

'Anything from the castors? No? You're right, perfectly right. Some people prefer mustard with turnips, but I like them plain. None of your embellishments for Mulberry Sellers. High living kills our best men. Take some more water. There's plenty of it; help yourself. How does the fruit strike you?' The completely naive manner in which Sellers makes these statements and puts these questions is convulsively droll, and more thoroughly American than anything ever seen on the stage in this country. In conclusion Mr. Raymond's portraiture is one, faithful in its presentation of all the minute phases of a complex character.

Tried by his Peers.

Mr. Parsons, a lawyer in Chicago, was trying a case before a jury, being counsel for the prisoner. The judge was very hard upon him, and the jury brought in a verdict of guilty. Mr. Parsons moved for a new trial. The judge denied the motion, and remarked: "The court and the jury think the prisoner a knave and a fool." The counsel promptly replied: "The prisoner wishes me to say he has been tried by a court and jury of his peers!"

The Young Man from the East.

" Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

CLIPS FROM "THE ARCADIAN."

TALMAGE AND BRAINS.

The Rev. Mr. Talmage need not be so ferocious in regard to what he says is called the "religion of brains." Nobody outside of his own congregation ever for a moment identified the religion of brains with him.

GOOD ADVICE.

Mr. Stuart Robson, writing to the Herald, says: "Mr. Bret Harte has just completed an orignal play, which his admirers claim will prove on its representation to be the long-looked for American comedy." We shall be glad if it does indeed prove to be so; but the only sensible thing Mr. Robson and other admirers of Mr. Harte can do, meanwhile, is to keep their mouths shut on the subject.

TEMPERED PLEASURE.

We hear with sincere pleasure that Miss Olive Logan's eyes are well again. Nor does it detract from our delight to know that the season of wateringplace correspondence has come to an end.

WAGNER'S EGOTISM.

When Richard Wagner visited the Prussian capital in 1871, he was asked his opinion of the three Royal Cappelmeisters resident there. He replied: "The first is naturally not unmusical, but he is too phlegmatic; the second is naturally not phlegmatic, but he is too unmusical; the third might have learned how to conduct—for he saw me conduct in Riga, thirty years ago—but he never has done so.

THE PRESS AND TIETJENS.

The morning press has treated Mlle. Tietjens with inexcusable unkindness. It has harped upon her age, her size, and her worn voice with an almost brutal persistence, and it has coupled with every recognition of her efforts in concert the absurd demand that she must sing in opera. Now the fact is, Mlle. Tietjens is just in the vigor of maturity, and is singing better than she has for a long time past. Her voice is by far the best that has been heard in this country for twenty years. It is a magnificent voice, backed by a talent and a method which it would be vain to look for in any one artist elsewhere, at the present time. As for opera Mr. Strakosch, as it must be well-known to all the writers on the morning press, deliberately chose to avoid the Italian stage this season, and engaged Mlle. Tietjens for concerts. Even if he desired to give representations of the lyric drama, it is out of his power to do so, for Mr. Neuendorff has possession of the Academy, is fully equipped with a prima donna and a star tenor, and does not intend to be displaced, to compromise, or to combine. The talk about Mlle. Tietjens's appearance and age seems to denote an utter inability to talk about her talents properly. The outcry for opera is the sheer ignorance of men who do not comprehend the situation.

SLEEVE BUTTON ACTORS.

They pride themselves upon their cuffs. Every gesture of the hands or arms is an advertisement of their laundresses. They are resplendent by virtue of starch, and if country washing were at all in vogue nowdays, they would probably confess to you, like Beau Brummel, that that was the secret of their success. Even the debonnaire and pensive Montague is not wholly devoid of this ostentatious fidelity to his blanchisseuse. It is for this reason that his arms are perpetually making right angles with his body. It is for this reason that he elevates, time after time, one arm above his head, or slightly touches the outer rim of his eyebrow, or the spiral end of hi moustache. A spotless cuff and an irresistible sleeve-buttom are at the bottom of it. This habit illustrates a fatal principle,—the principle of showing off one's toilet to the jeopardy of the role.

A Strong Reflection.

It is said of Norbury that he would at any time rather lose a friend than a joke. On one occasion he began the sentence of death in this wise: "Prisoner at the bar, you have been found guilty by a jury of your own countrymen of the crime laid to your charge, and I must say I entirely agree with the verdict, for I see 'Scoundrel' written in your face." Here the prisoner interrupted with "That's a strong reflection—from your Lordship!" whereupon the judge, keenly appreciating the joke, commuted the sentence into transportation for seven years.

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and al epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

New and beautiful designs of Carpets at 116 Sutter street, Hall & Lachman's.

Sheridan and the Westminster Elector.

As Sheridan was visiting London in one of the public coaches for the purpose of canvassing Westminster at the time when Paul was his opponent, he found himself in company with two Westminster electors. In the course of the conversation one of them asked the other to whom he should give his vote, when his friend replied, "To Paul, certainly; for though I think him but a shabby sort of fellow, I would vote for any one rather than that rascal, Sheridan." "Do you know Sheridan?" asked the stranger. "Not I, sir," answered the gentleman; "nor do I wish to know him." The conversation dropped here; but, when the party alighted to breakfast, Sheridan called aside the other gentleman and said, "Pray, who is that very agreeable friend of yours? He is one of the pleasantest fellows I ever met with, and I should be glad to know his name." "His name is Mr. T——; he is an eminent lawyer, and resides in Lincoln's-inn Fields." Breakfast over, the party resumed their seats in the coach, soon after which Sheridan turned the conversation to the law. "It is," said he, "a fine profession. Men may rise from it to the highest eminence in the state, and it gives vast scope to the display of talent. Many of the most virtuous and noble characters recorded in our history have been lawyers. I am sorry, however, to add that some of the greatest rascals have also been lawyers; but of all the rascals of lawyers I ever heard of, the greatest is one T——, who lives in Lincoln's-inn Fields." "I am Mr. T——," thundered the gentleman. "And I am Mr. Sheridan," was the laughing reply. The jest was instantly seen; they shook hands, and, instead of voting against the facetious orator, the lawyer exerted himself warmly in promoting his election.

DR. SPINNEY & Co's

DISPENSARY,

No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN,

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genitourinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"The American's Gold," with Miss Emmie Wilmot as Rosalie the flower girl, continues to draw well and will be kept on during the remaining portion of the week. The play is well mounted and well acted.

California Theatre.

"Extremes" was given last night probably for the last time. This evening is John Wilson's benefit when Augustin Daly's sensational play of "Under the Gaslight" will be produced for the first time at this theatre in something like five years. Mr. Wilson plays Snorkey, a character out of which be has at various times made a positive addition to his reputation as an actor of eccentric parts. Miss Kate Denin will appear as an additional attraction, in the character of Laura Oortland, this being her first appearance in three years. The bill concludes with "Nan the Good for Nothing." Miss Alice Harrison playing Nan.

Opera House.

The Minstrels still continue to attract crowded houses which one has now got to consider an essential part of the entertainment. Everybody should see "Laurinda; or, The Bruised Heart."

Grand German and Italian Opera.

To-morrow evening "Le Postillion de Lonjumeau' will be given by the Grand Opera Troupe, with Theo. Habelmann as the Postillion, Madame Fabbri as Madelaine, and Chas. Pflueger as the Marquis de Corcy.

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

The first concert of the third season was given yesterday afternoon. The programme was more than a trifle heavy, the only thing to relieve the weightiness of the first part, being the scherzo from Mendelsshon's music to "The Midsummer-Night's Dream." In the second part, too, Reinecke's "Peace Jubilee" overture, though remarkable for its arrangement of 'See the Conquering Hero Comes,' and a German Chorale played simultaneously was still anything but cheering. In fact so ready was the audience to welcome a change that Ghys' arrangement of Louis the Thirteenth's puerile Amaryllis received an encore. The overture to "Zampa" concluded the programme.

Carnival Ball.

The box sheet for the Grand Carnival Ball, to be given at the Mechanics' Pavilion, November 19th, is now open at Sherman & Hyde's.

Pacific Hall.

Miss Miles will give an Operatic and Ballad Concert at this hall Friday evening, assisted by her sister, Mrs Sampson Williams, Mr. Wm. H. Blake, and others. The programme embraces choice selections from the Operatic world.

Jesse Shepard.

Last evening this genius gave a musical soiree in the rooms of Mrs. Eggert Aitken, which we attended, and of which we shall have something more to say in our Saturday's Notes.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Swain and West in double song and dance, Ned Barry in his original song, Kimic in Dutch scenes, George C. Thomson in his specialties and "Another Trip to Paris," to-night.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

The Harrises in their specialties, "Paris by Gaslight" by the entire company, motto songs by Lowden and bone solo by Lon Dixon, are among the attractions this evening.

Harp and Star Variety Theatre.

The swinging bar by George Neilson, challenge dance by Devoy, Stuart and Randall, and sword exercise by Borthwick Reid, to-night.

Woodward's Gardens.

Last week of the big grape vine. Next Saturday and Sunday, second time of the grand sports of the Trampoline. Sig. Gonzales the champion in his great double somersault leap and the bridge of bayonets, the fascinating Miss Mathews, George Shields, Jos. Williams and gymnastic troupe, the pantomime "Dombo the Duner," and Orchestral Concert.

Notes.

Mr. Barton Hill has tendered the use of the California Theatre on Saturday evening for a benefit performance in aid of the sufferers in Virginia City, and with an equally laudable spirit of co-operative generosity, the entire company and attaches have donated one days services to the same good cause.

Our Australian Letter has come to hand and will be published in to morrow's FIGARO.

One of the critical Solons of the evening press, has made the statement that Mr. Barton Hill plays the character of Smiley in "Extremes" in a fashion modeled after that of Sothern's Lord Dundreary. It happens, however, that Mr. Hill played Smiley precisely as he plays it now (in the matter of conception), some years before Mr. Sothern's exquisite Dundreary was on the stage. But everything considered there is precious little difference between Tweedledum Smiley and Tweedledum Dreary.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street. over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, have the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

Palmer Bros.

Keep the "Crown" Perfumery, the best in use 726 to 734 Market street.

VERSICAL ODDS AND ENDS.

———There was once a time in the long ago
When 'twas modestly said "she's two strings to her bow,"
But the 'Frisco girl thinks 'tis hardly the thing,
Unless she can say "I've two beaux on the string."

She walked and talked on Market street,
Brilliant as the day,
With wiles and smiles scattered sweet
Both sides of the way,
And few who saw her knew she wore
Her mother's polonaise.

She tripped along with ribbons flying,
From a bran new hat she'd just been buying.
She held her head up very high,
And thought, "Well, ain't I just old pie?"
An orange peel lay in the track,
She tripped, and flat upon her back
Lay Miss Maria Simkins.

GOSSIPS.

These are the spiders of society;
They weave their pretty webs of lies and sneers,
And lie themselves in ambush for the spoil.
The web seems fair and glitters in the sun,
And the poor victim winds him in the toil
Before he dreams of danger or of death.
Alas, the misery that such inflict!
A word, a look, have power to wring the heart,
And leave it struggling in the net
Spread by the false and cruel, who delight
In the ingenious torment they contrive.

The negroes of Jackson county, Georgia, are revelling in the excitement of a revival season. Here is the favorite camp-meeting chorus:

Forty seben bullfrogs all in a row,
Down in de lagoon, laffin at de crow;
Bress de good Lord, how de cullud angels yell;
Hand out de dimes, or you're all gwine to hell,
Bress de good Lord.

OLD RHYMES.

Cut your nails on Monday, cut them for news,
Cut them on Tuesday, a new pair of shoes;
Cut them on Wednesday, cut them for health;
Cut them on Thursday, cut them for wealth;
Cut them on Friday, cut them for woe;
Cut them on Saturday, a journey you'll go;
Cut them on Sunday, you'll cut them for evil;
For all the next week you'll be ruled by the devil.

Sneeze on a Monday, you sneeze for danger;
Sneeze on a Tuesday, you kiss a stranger;
Sneeze on a Wednesday, you sneeze for a letter;
Sneeze on a Thursday, for something better;
Sneeze on a Friday, you sneeze for sorrow;
Sneeze on a Saturday, your sweetheart to morrow;
Sneeze on a Sunday, your safety seek,
The devil will have you the whole of the week."

BACKWARD, PIN BACKWARD.

Beckward, pin backward my skirts in their flight,
Make me so small again just for to-night.
I am so weary, and my skirts are so long,
Sweeping the pavements as I walk along,
Gathering dirt from out of the street,
Looked at by every one that I meet,
Mother, dear mother, I know I'm a fright,
Pin back my skirts, mother, pin 'em back tight.

Mother, dear mother, the days are so warm,
And I am so tired of this dress I have on,
It is so clumsy and don't fit me right,
Pin it back, mother, pin it back tight.
Now I am ready, don't I look sweet?
Smiling on all I happen to meet.
I'm in the fashion, so that is all right,
Pin back my skirts, mother, pin 'em back tight.

Mother, dear mother, I know it's a sin,
To wear such dresses as show off one's limbs,
But what is a poor girl going to do,
If all the world wears 'em too?
It is only these thin ones who are afraid
To show off a form that is not well made,
You may laugh, but you know that I'm right,
Pin back my skirts, mother, pin 'em back tight.

On the walk a hat did lie
And a gallus chap sailed by,
And he cut a lively swell—
He was a clerk to a hotel;
And he gave that hat a kick,
And he came across a brick—
Now upon a crutch he goes,
Minus half a pound of toes.

A tribute to the saw-dust arena.

Beats there a man with soul so dead
That circus posters, blue and red,
With elephants of airy tread,
And spangled clown upon his head,
Have not induced that man to say
I go to see the show this day?

In the Fall a livelier color comes the bonnet-top above;
In the Fall a young girl's fancy turns to strings that match her gloves.

Our Musical Critics.

Says the N. Y. Spirit of the Times:—"The gentlemen connected with the daily press as musical critics, have 'put their feet in it' as the old saying goes, apropos of the Titiens concerts. Last week they criticised Madame Arabella Goddard's performance of Mendelssohn's Capriccio Brilliante in a very sapient way. But unluckily for them Madame Goddard did not play the piece, but substituted the last two movements of Mendelssohn's Concerto in G minor, so the criticisms fell through. But this blunder is nothing to the ridiculous things they told us about Titiens' singing. One, for instance, informed us that she sang frequently the F in alt, whereas that note is not within her compass at all, and is only possessed by very few soprani fogati, as they are called. Mlle. Titiens' voice is a pure soprano, and nothing else, and she cannot reach the F in alt but with great difficulty. We know but few singers who can, and they are considered to possess phenomenal voices. Of this class are Carlotta Patti, Ilma di Murska, Leutner and Minnie Hauck.

There are only a few pieces written for the voice, in which this note is introduced. One of these is the Bravura, Gli a qui d'inferno, which the Queen of the Night sings in 'The Magic Flute.' Another critic said, 'Mlle. Titjens sang the aria, Qui la voce, with perfect cantabile.' 'Cantabile' is the technical word used to show that a piece of pianoforte music is rythmed like a song, and means literally 'singable.' Again, Qui la voce is not an aria, it is the adagio of the cavatina of 'I Puritani,' with a brilliant quick movement or cabaletta. A very severe critic said, 'Mlle. Titjens sang Handel's With Verdure Clad.' That song is by Haydn and from 'The Creation.'"

Smart Stock.

A member of the Saginaw county bar, was recently in one of our thriving interior towns on professional business. In the office of the hotel he was accosted by a very agreeable gentleman, evidently of the genus drummer, who wanted to know "where he was from."

The legal gentleman not exactly liking the stranger's familiarity, answered very shortly:

"From Detroit."

The next question was:

"For what house are you traveling?"

"For my own."

"You are! May I ask your name?"

"You may."

Pause—enjoyable to the lawyer, embarrassing to the other.

"Well (desperately), what is your name, sir?"

"Jones."

"What line are you in?"

"I don't understand you, sir."

"What are you selling?" impatiently.

"Brains," coolly.

The drummer saw his opportunity, and looking at the other from head to foot, he said slowly:

"Well, you appear to carry a deuced small line of samples."

Blackstone says he owes that drummer one.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

OUR AUSTRALIAN LETTER.

(FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE, Sept. 21, 1875.

DEAR FIGARO:—During the past month we have had a succession of dramatic and musical treats which rarely falls to a community so far away from the European continent.

MLLE. ILMA DI MURSKA

opened a series of concerts at the Melbourne Town Hall, and was assisted by Signor Susini, Signor Giammona, Herr Oside, Mr. Pratt, Signor Carmini Morley and Mr. Afred Anderson. The Manager, Mr. De Vivo, displayed great energy in carrying through the season which from beginning to end was an immense success. The company has gone to Adelaide where they are appearing at White's Rooms.

MADAME RISTORI

And a large troupe is now occupying the boards of the Opera House and though her scale of admission is very high, the cry is still they come. Such a legitimate dramatic treat as is thus afforded us has never been seen in this part of the world. To gratify the members of the dramatic profession engaged at other establishments during the evening the gifted lady generously gave a day performance of "Elizabeth," and invited every recognized member of the profession to the theatre last Thursday afternoon. It was an event never to be forgotten. The house was crowded and at the end of the third act it fairly rose to her and cheers reverberated again and again through the building. An address and testimonial were presented to this lady by Mr. George Coppin which was gracefully acknowledged by the recipient in French. The play of "Marie Antoinette" was played last night creating an immense furore.

THE THEATRE ROYAL,

Despite the great attractions elsewhere, has been doing excellent business. The excellent stock company at that house and the energy, at all times displayed by the managers, Messrs. Harwood, Stewart, Hennings and Coppin, being sufficient to attract large audiences nightly. "The Lancashire Lass" is running now, and will continue on the boards till the arrival of

MADAME JANAUSCHEK,

Who will open in the early part of October in "Medea." This lady has been performing in Sydney, but through some misunderstanding she has thrown up her engagement, and her husband has been arrested at the suit ofs Mr. Ellis, her advance agent, and Mr. Allison, Treasurer of the Queen's Theatre, for breach of contract. The facts of this imbroglio I do not know, as the bare mention of the matter has only just reached me by telegram.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL

After the Marionettes' season has been tenated by a very clever family of bell-ringers—the Lynch Troupe They intend shortly to visit the slope on a professional tour.

THE APOLLO HALL

Is now leased by Mr. F. Hescocks, who for attractions, has engaged Mr. and Mrs. Cotterell (Isabella Carandini), and Herr Tolmaque. A very good show indeed.

THE LATE JOHN DUNN.

Oh! how it pains me to have to write this, the late John Dunn! But, so it is. The genial actor, the upright man, the generous loving friend, has "gone to that bourne from which no traveler returns." "That Rascal Jack," as his intimate friends used to call him, died suddenly one evening lately, while on his way to the theatre to appear with the Williamsons in "The Fool of the Family." Many a thousand strong and hearty man have shed a tear to the memory of "dear old Jack." Peace to his manes!

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Williamsons are still at Adelaide, on the 9th of next month they leave for India. A rumor was abroad here that J. C. W. had lost the bulk of his savings by the failure of the Bank of California. Yesterday, in reply to my question, he telegraphed me that such, happily, was not the case.

The Lyster Opera Bouffe Troupe is at Sydney. Miss Emilie Melville, who recently arrived with Mr. Tracy Titus from San Francisco, has joined the company as the "star." Reports speak well of her.

"Baby Benson" met with a brilliant reception on Saturday night in Sydney.

McDonough Marionettes are doing well at Ballarat.

The Princess Theatre, Dunedin, was burnt to the ground on the 3d of last month—hardly anything saved. Mr. and Mrs. Darrell were heavy losers. The building is, however, going up again.

Rockafeller and U. S. Minstrels have closed at the School of Arts, Sydney, and have gone North to Brisbane. Dr. Sylvester, the Fakir of Oolu, has succeeded them, and has succeeded in drawing crowded houses under the experienced management of Mr. J. C. Rainer, the lessee of St. George's Hall, Melbourne.

Mrs. Fanny Stenhouse, has been a great attraction at the Masonic Hall, Sydney. Her lectures on Mormonism are very clever. She is shortly coming to Melbourne.

Matters in the amusement line in New Zealand are very lively. The profession considered it a better "show" colony than any of the Australian group.

Friend Lynch, agent for the Lingards, has arrived hale and hearty. He's a well deserved favorite wherever he goes, and is greatly liked and respected. CALL BOY.

WANTED.

Information of the present Residence of FRANK KING also known as FRANK LANE at the office of this paper. J. P BOGARDUS

DR. SPINNEY & Co's

DISPENSARY,

No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill—or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy resteration of the genito-urinary organs.

California Theatre.

John Wilson's benefit last evening was a rousing proof of the favor in which he is held by the public. Gallery and dress circle were alike crowded and packed last night. Wilson's reception, when he appeared on the stage as Snorkey ("Under the Gaslight" being the bill) was simply deafening. Miss Kate Denin's reappearance was also the subject of much hearty applause. Henry Edwards as Ray Trafford, W. A. Mestayer as Byke, Robert Pateman as Bermudas, Miss Ellie Wilton as Pearl Cortland and Miss Alice Harrison as Peachblossom, were all capitally played. The bill also contained "Nan the Good for Nothing" with Miss Harrison as Nan; but the performance was so late that we are not able to speak of it. "Under the Gaslight" again to-night.

Opera House.

The same thing has to be recorded morning after morning, a crowded house, all smiles and laughter. It would seem as if the Minstrels had just come in time to fill a gap in the lives of amusement seekers.

Maguire's New Theatre.

'The American's Gold' again to-night, with Miss Emmie Wilmot as Rosalie, Jas. O'Neill as Eugene Vermond, W. H. Crane as Placide Sandbier, Mrs. Edmonds as Mother Jacin.a, and Miss Katie Mayhew as Violet.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

This evening "Le Postillion de Lonjumeau" will be given by the Grand Opera Troupe, with Theo. Habelmann as the Postillion, Madame Fabbri as Madelaine, and Chas. Pfiueger as the Marquis de Corcy. For to-morrow's matinee "Martha."

Aid for the Sufferers.

Mr. Barton Hill has tendered the use of the California Theatre on Saturday evening for a benefit performance in aid of the sufferers in Virginia City, and with an equally laudable spirit of co-operative generosity, the entire company and attaches have donated one days services to the same good cause. Not to be surpassed in liberality, Mr. Thomas Maguire will as generously give the entire proceeds derived from the Monday evening performances at his two theatres to the Relief Fund.

Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

A CASTLE IN SPAIN.

Fair is the airy castle
My fancy builds to-night,
Each pinnacle is golden,
The windows flame with light;
Forth from the open casement
Floats music on the air;
Sure dreamer never builded
A castle half so fair.

On a sunlit height in the forest
This golden castle stands,
O'erlooking wood and hamlet brown
And broad and smiling lands.
Under the tall old oak trees
The elves and fairies sport,
While every night, in the clear moonlight
Gathers their mimic court.

In the great hall of the castle
The guests each hour prolong
With the joyous laugh, the merry dance,
The minstrel's harp, or song.
And ladies fair and rich are there
With jewels at neck and wrist,
The wine-cup gleams—its sparkling seems
Like liquid amethyst.

Ah well! My castle's in Elf-land,
'Tis built by hand of fay;
When morning comes back to the earth
Its towers will fade away.
Those pinnacles so golden,
That casement, whence light streams,
Can ne'er be seen in this world of ours—
They're in the land of dreams.

Yet sometimes, when our burden
Seems too wearisome to bear,
When the soul is bowed with sadness
And beat by weight of care;
The angel Fancy pities us
And kisses away our pain,
Giving relief to each sombre grief
By some castle, like mine, In Spain.

Chas. Mathews, the Irrepressible.

Referring to the appearance of Charles Mathews at the London Gaiety, Moy Thomas, in the Academy, says: It is within a few weeks only of forty years since Mr. Charles Mathews made his first appearance on the London stage. The theatre was the Olympic; at that time under the prosperous management of Madame Vestris; and so fresh then was the memory of the elder Mathew's entertainments in the public mind, that great curiosity and interest were felt concerning the debut of the young gentleman who thus aspired to sustain the histrionic credit of his family. He was at least enrolled in an excellent company, for among his fellow performers were Keeley, Liston, and Frank Matthews, (who, it will be observed, spelt his name differently, and was in no way connected with his namesake). Liston, who had been absent from the stage for some time through illness, made his re-appearance on the same occasion, and delivered a rhymed address in which pointed allusions were made to the debut of the new actor and the hopes which he inspired, the scene, as described by the contemporary chroniclers, being one of great enthusiasm. But the most interesting fact in the reports of this event in dramatic annals is the evidence they afford that young Mr. Charles Mathews, bating that experience of stage matters to which there is no royal road, stepped forth in his youth almost complete in that very shape and form in which he is now known to the public. . . . . The wonderful activity of Mr. Mathews is indeed becoming a commonplace among writers on the stage; and there seems reason to expect that this popular actor will in this respect eventually succeed to something like the position long occupied by the late Lord Palmerston, and furnish leading-article writers with a standing illustration of what is possible in the way of defying the action of time and the wear of hard work upon the human frame.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

A Painter's Ruse.

Gustave Wiertz, a painter of Brussels, was such an eccentric genius that he was often called the "insane artist." But there was always a method in his madness which showed plenty of sense. The following anecdote is told of him:

Having finished the portrait of the aristocratic countess de M——, who pretended to be only thirty when nearly sixty years of age, she refused to accept the painting, saying that it did not look anything like her; that her most intimate friends would not recognize a single feature of hers on that piece of canvas. Wiertz smiled kindly at the remark, and as a true knight of old, gallantly reconducted the lady to her carriage. The next morning there was a grand disturbance in the Rue de la Madeline. A crowd was gathered before a window, and the following words were whispered from ear to ear—

"Is the wealthy Countess de M—— really in jail for debt?"

Wiertz had exercised a little vengeance toward his noble but unfair customer. As soon as she had refused the portrait he had set to work and painted a few iron bars on the picture with these words: "In jail for debt." He exhibited the painting in a jeweler's shop window in the principal street of Brussels. The effect was instantaneous. A few hours later the Countess was back at Wiertz's studio, pouring invectives upon him.

"Most noble lady," was the artist's reply, "you said the painting did not look anything like yourself, and that your most intimate friends would not have recognized a single one of your features in the picture. I wanted simply to test the truth of your statement, that is all."

The portrait was taken away, the city laughed, the artist charged double price, and gave the amount to the poor of the city.

Anna Dickinson and Clara Morris.

One of the corps of female correspondents employed by the Graphic, has been paying a visit to the Dickinson family, where she says she has been invited. Of course there is a long description of Anna and Susan, and Mrs. Dickinson, though we regret to say "Brother Eddy," is left out. In the course of the conversation, the correspondent asked Miss Dickinson why it was that people living in the provinces never had the pleasure of seeing Miss Morris perform. The answer reported to have been given by Miss Dickinson is as follows: "Miss Morris is not calculated to play outside of large cities by reason of the revelations she essays in portraying passion." With all respect for the lady correspondent of the Graphic, we have too much esteem for the common sense which Miss Dickinson displays in her oratory to believe that she could give birth to so silly and meaningless a sentence as this, even in the freedom of ordinary conversation. To essay revelations" can only mean to attempt to make revelations and "to essay revelations in portraying passion," must therefore signify, if it signifies anything, the attempt to portray passion. Reduced to these terms then, Miss Dickinson is represented to have said that Miss Morris is not calculated to play outside of large cities because of the attempts she makes to portray passion. This, of course, means that the provincial towns are not capable of understanding portrayals of passion, for if they were, they would be quite as glad to see Miss Morris' performance as any citizen of the metropolis could be. This is a libel upon our country towns, which it would be a waste of time to endeavor to refute; but then, the question recurs, could Miss Dickinson ever have said anything so meaningless? Of course she couldn't.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

NEW YORK.

Dora Goldthwaite has withdrawn from her engagement at the Union Square Theatre, New York

The following is a clever squib on the dramas just now popular in New York. Our Boys got a Mighty Dollar, and determined upon a trip Around the World in Eighty Days via The Overland Route; but unfortunately were Led Astray, and after a long search were found at Gilmore's Garden waiting for Rose Michel.

Mr. Barney Williams denies the rumor that he intends to appear in New York this season.

The reading of "Rose Michel" at the Union Square Theatre, left the impression that the play cannot fail to be a gigantic success. The adaptor has done his work splendidly.

The Home Journal calls upon the New York managers to follow the example of Arthur Cheney of the Boston Theatre, and reduce their prices.

Besides sending off a traveling company, Jarrett & Palmer are busy with the production of the new pantomime, "Humpty Dumpty in Every Clime," the production of English opera, the introduction of Von Bulow in Boston, and are interested in the Shakspearean impersonations of Barry Sullivan, the great pageant of "Henry V.," and are already arranging next Summer's excursions to Rockaway by the Plymouth Rock

Gilmore's Gardens by good management and by keeping the temperature up to a pleasant degree, still continue to attract crowds nightly.

At Booth's, the Kellogg Opera Company opened on the 11th, and played a two weeks most successful engagement. On the 2.th, Sir Jules Benedict's "Lily of Killarney" was produced for the first time in America, with Miss Kellogg as Eily O'Connor, and Harry Allen as Myles na Coppaleen. Miss Annie Montague made her debut as Margharita de Valois, but suffered so from stage fright that the critics refrain from saying anything concerning her.

G. L. Fox followed the Kellogg company on the 25th with "Humpty Dumpty in Every Clime."

"Girofle-Girofla" has been succeeded by "Le Canard 'a Trois Bec," in which the Geoffroi troupe is making another success at the Lyceum. In consequence of Rossi's non-fulfilment of his engagement, it is possible that the season of French opera bouffe will be indefinitely continued.

Mlle. Tietjens has been so ill that two of her concerts were indefinitely postponed. At least such is the reason given to the public, although the public persists in whispering that want of appreciation has most to do with the retirement.

The San Francisco Minstrels continue to draw like a pitch plaster. "Our Bhoys" is the present staple attraction.

We have not as yet heard of any change in the bill at Wallack's. "The Overland Route" seems to continue a public relish.

So too at the Union Square, "Led Astray"—so far as we have heard—has not been withdrawn.

"The Mighty Dollar" has lost none of its power, and were it not for the San Francisco engagement, it would not be changed until after the holidays.

Mrs. G. W. Jones has produced "Gathering Hops" at the Bowery, and we hope the management will gather the dollars.

Frank Frayne with his dog and gun followed Miss Kate Fisher with her horse on Monday last at Wood's Museum.

At the Olympic, Tony Pastor's, the Third Avenue, the Tivoli, the Theatre Comique, and the Eagle Variety entertainments, are given to a very liberal share of public patronage.

The Globe Theatre was re-opened on Monday last by Messrs. Talmadge and Scofield, with a first-rate variety troupe.

Barry Sullivan will play a second engagement in New York, beginning December 6th.

ELSEWHERE.

Mr. Charles Fechter commenced a one-week's engagement in Rochester on the 18th.

J. T. Raymond opened in Cincinnati on the 18th in "The Gilded Age."

Joseph Wheelock opened in Toronto on the 18th for one week.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers commenced a short engagement in Rochester on the 25th.

F. S. Chanfrau opened at the Grand Opera House, Cincinnati, on the 18th.

"Around the World," with Kiralfys, opened at Brooklyn Academy, on the 13th, for two weeks.

Barry Sullivan sought the interposition of Providence on the 18th.

The Mexican Infantile Bouffers were last heard from at Pittsburg.

E. L. Davenport plays in New Haven, Conn., on November 11th.

Lotta and troupe appeared in Troy on the 18th; Utica, 19th; Syracuse, 20th; Hamilton, Canada, 21st; Detroit, 22d and 23d; thence to Chicago.

Maggie Mitchell and troupe played at Bangor on the 18th and 22d; St. John, N. B., 19th, 20th and 21st; Augusta, Me., 23d; will be at Lawrence, Mass., Nov. 3d.

Charlotte Thompson and troupe played in St. Paul, Minn., on the 20th, 22d and 23d.

Tennie C. Claflin is to play Pauline in "The Lady of Lyons," in Baltimore.

The Vokes are in Baltimore.

Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau played at Evansville, Ind., on the 18th and 19th; Hopkinsville, Ky., on the 20th; Nashville, Tenn., 21st, 22d and 23d; Jackson, 6th, 26th and 27th.

Daly's Fifth Avenue Company, with Sara Jewett, opened in Louisville on the 18th; will open at Cincinnati, on Nov. 1, for two weeks.

A son of the Hon. Daniel W. Voorhees, it is said, will soon make his appearance upon the stage in the character of Hamlet, which he is now studying.

"Henry V." is now being played at the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, with the same costumes and scenery as used at Booth's.

M[illegible] Oates played a most successful engagement at the Arch Street Theatre, Philadelphia, concluding on the 23d. The Vokes followed on the 25th.

Mrs. John Drew of the Arch, Phila., and a strong company, including E. L. Davenport and Mr. Barney Williams, propose giving a series of performances at the Academy of Music, Baltimore, the principal plays being old English comedies.

Frank Mayo is playing at the Academy of Music, Chicago.

Billy Manning and Billy Arlington are playing at Maguire & Haverley's Opera House, Chicago.

Miss Dargon's impersonation of Queen Mary in

"Our Boys" is called "Our Success" in Pittsburg, where they patronize it and pronounce it "a neat, quiet, attractive sketch, scarcely rising to the dignity of a play." Pittsburg has spoken!

"The Big Bonanza', is now being played at the Boston Museum with new and appropriate scenery and an excellent distribution of characters. It will be played at all of the evening performances except one, and Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. "Macbeth" will be the bill for Saturday night.

"The Gamester" has been produced at the Boston Theatre with Mr. Barry Sullivan in his celebrated character of Beverly. "Hamlet," "The Stranger" and "Macbeth," were also given

The feat of Mr. E. K Collier, in playing the arduous part of Henry V., at an hour's notice in Washington, lately, in consequence of the sudden illness of Mr. Rignold, has brought that young gentleman at once into creditable prominence. Mr. Gollier is gifted with a remarkable memory. Close study and application to his profession will soon make him a worthy member of a family that has already furnished one fine actor to the American stage.

Gilmore and his band go on a tour of New England, starting early in November.

Miss Minnie Palmer is in Wheeling, West Virginia.

Miss Rose Wood and Mr. Lewis Morrison played in their new drama, "The Lotus Flower," in Troy on the 25th.

During the Kellogg opera season at the Boston Theatre, Manager Shewell and the leading members of his excellent dramatic company visit adjoining cities. On the 25th they appeared in Brocton; 26th in Gloucester; 27th in Worcester; 28th in Woonsocket; 29th in New Bedford; Nov. 1st they will be in Chelsea; 2d in Salem; 3d in Lynn; 4th in Lowell; 5th in Lawrence. The entertainment will be the serio-comic drama of "A Husband to Order" and the farce "Aunt Charlotte's Maid."

The St. Louis critics speak highly of Ben de Bar's assumption of Micawber, which he has lately offered for the first time.

Fanny Davenport has lately been playing Lady Teazle, Nancy Sykes, Frou-Frou and Ruth Tredgett in St. Louis, and was interviewed by a reporter of that city, who, after likening her hair to "sun-gilt breathings upon a frosty dawn," says: "In discussing the appropriate sphere and proper limitations of her art she was earnest, concentrated and impressive, but in every case unusually clear, direct and natural." There was also something about a lovely face, the figure of a goddess, and a more versatile talent than any other American actress possesses.

DR. SPINNEY & Co's

DISPENSARY,

No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

OPERA HOUSE.—The Minstrels draw, and draw and draw. The same bill will be continued this and to-morrow evenings, but on Monday an entirely new programme will be given, in addition to which, Bob Hart, the famous orator, will put in an appearance.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE. — "The American's Gold" with Miss Wilmot as Rosalie, will be given for the last times this afternoon and evening. On Monday "The Overland Route" will be produced.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—This afternoon "Under the Gaslight," which will also be repeated this evening for the benefit of the Virginia City sufferers. Every member of the theatre has volunteered, company and attaches, so that the total exhibit will be something worth seeing.

GRAND GERMAN AND ITALIAN OPERA—"Le Postillion de Lonjumean" was given again last night and was again well received. As at its first production Herr Habelmann introduced the lovely air "Sleep Well, Sweet Angel," whilst Madame Fabbri interpolated the "Mulder Waltz." This afternoon "Martha," to-morrow evening Auber's "The Mason."

HEROLD'S ORCHESTRAL MATINEE.—The second concert of the third season will be given on Wednesday next, when the programme will include the overture to "Tannhauser," selections from Mendelssohn's Music to "The Midsummer-Night's Dream" and Lachner's Ball Suite.

CARNIVAL BALL.—The box sheet for the Grand Carnival Ball, to be given at the Mechanics' Pavilion, November 19th, is now open at Sherman & Hyde's. As will be seen by referring to our advertising columns, the list of prizes is something unusually fine. No less than $800 have been devoted to the part of the programme.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE. — The acts for to night are "Sublime and Ridiculous," "Hospital Nurse," "Happy Old Uncle John" and "Another Trip to Paris to see the Can-Can."

NEW OLYMPIC VARIETY THEATRE.— A capital bill for this and to-morrow evenings. Interesting acts, fun in the olio and "Paris by Gaslight" to conclude with.

HARP AND STAR VARIETY THEATRE.— Among the various attractions of this evening are acts, a splendid olio and the sensational piece of "Gay Life in Paris."

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—Attractions.— Last week of the big grape vine. Next Saturday and Sunday, second time of the grand sports of the Trampoline, Sig. Gonzales the champion in his great double somersault leap and the bridge of bayonets, the fascinating Miss Mathews, George Shields, Jos. Williams and gymnastic troupe, the pantomime "Dombo the Duner," and Orchestral Concert.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from any thing else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain railroad.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vandersiice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equal to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and all epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescoed and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

Clairvoyant.

Clara Antonia, M. D., de Paris, Business and Medical Clairvoyant and Independent Trance Medium. [illegible] Post street, near Dupont. Correct diagnosis and special attention to the treatment of diseases. Consultations in French, German and English. 6-o

The original "Swain's Bakery" is now established in their magnificent new place at 213 Sutter street near Centre Market, and has added a lunch room and ice cream saloon. This is their only place of business.

DRAMATIC NOTES.

Generally it is the Boston Courier man that has it so badly, but this time it is he of the New York Dispatch. So does he agonize over the presentation by the San Francisco Minstrels of what he calls "a furniture comedy," supposed to be a burlesque on Daly's way of doing things. The furniture comedy has hitherto held the boards of the Fifth Avenue, but Mr Byron Ryman, not considering it a fair deal he went so far as to table a motion compelling Augustin to shelf it, and feeling in no way chary of the result in his own indescribable way is determined to have it plate out. He connived with Birch and Backus, who won't readily forkget the results.

We are glad to hear that Miss Clara Morris, now residing at her residence on Fourteenth street, New York, is regaining strength rapidly, and is looking forward with pleasure to filling her Winter engagements. She plays in Baltimore for the first time this season.

When last heard of, the Alleghanians were at Omaha, Neb.

The Miss Annie Montague who made her debut with the Kellogg Troupe at Booth's, recently, is spoken of generally in the papers as a Baltimorean, but we learn that she is a native of the Sandwhich Islands.

The Shasta Dramatic, which is advertised as an "occasional" publication—"Now you see it and now you don't"—has come to hand, and contains the notice of the next performance of the Shasta Dramatic Club, to take place on the 5th prox., and to consist of "Enlisted for the War" and "Old Gooseberry." We wish both publication and club a successful existence.

After a very successful season at Victoria, B. C., and Portland, Or., Manager Wilson and circus troupe sailed from Portland aboard the John L. Stephens, on the 22d, arriving here on Wednesday morning last safely and soundly. The rainy season had set in when they left, and nothing more was to be done in the show business.

Nothing has been done at San Jose ever since Jos. Murphy was there to temporarily resuscitate it.

We hear that Manager Piper's company lost all their theatrical wardrobe during the late fire. We hear, too, that with a commendable determination to let no time be lost, Piper has engaged the theatre at Gold Hill, and will play there next week.

Charles Vivian gave his second entertainment at Provo on Monday last.

Last week Fred Walz received a telegram from Philadelphia saying that his wife was on the point of death, and as he is no longer in the Minstrel semi-circle, we fear that the news was but the precursor to a still sadder message.

We are informed that J. Allison, the partner of Lazar of the New Prince of Wales Theatre, Sydney left for San Francisco by the Mikado on the 23d last.

It is a well known fact that whenever any calamity occurs—be it national, to a family or to a community, the members of "the" profession are ever in the van of the army of helpers. Recent facts in connection with the distress in Virginia City, go most pleasantly to prove this assertion, for Mr. Barton Hill has tendered the use of the California Theatre this evening for a benefit performance in aid of the sufferers in Virginia City, and with an equally laudable spirit of cooperative generosity, the entire company and attaches have donated one days services to the same good cause. Not to be surpassed in liberality, Mr. Thomas Maguire will as generously give the entire proceeds derived from the Monday evening performances at his two theatres to the Relief Fund.

The Bohemian Club has come to the fore, too, and will on Wednesday evening next, give a concert at Platt's Hall, to swell the sum to be sent to the homeless of the City on the Hill.

San Francisco has recently received an arrival who should be noticed in these columns. We refer to Mme. Zeis Dennis, from the Italian opera (formerly the Imperial), Paris, and still more recently from the French opera, New Orleans. It is Madame Dennis' intention to settle here, and on Tuesday evening next, at the Concert given by Dr. Scott's choir, under the management of Professor Seward, the public will have an opportunity of judging whether her advent is to be a matter of congratulation or no.

Apropos of Sandwich Islanders, it seems that it is Miss Adelaide Miller, the Hawaiian, who is to attempt the difficult feat of swimming from the Cliff House to the Seal Rocks and back.

As we supposed would be the case, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence will only close their engagement at the Park Theatre, New York, to fill that at the California Theatre, commencing Monday, Nov. 22d

Mr. Boucicault will seemingly prolong his stay in the British Isles, as he states that he does not propose returning to the United States until September, 1876, when he will open in New York.

One by one the members of the Salt Lake Theatre company receive farewell complimentary benefits, and then go on their way rejoicing The last gentleman so favored was Mr. Mark Croxall, who received his benefit on the 23d. Altogether Mr. Croxall did well enough to be enabled to get away from the lovely show town.

There are many who will call it good news to hear that Harry Allen, late of the Oates troupe, has been engaged by the Kellogg English Opera Troupe to create the role of Myles na Coppaleen in Sir Jules Benedict's "Lily of Killarney." We look forward anxiously to the promised visit of this troupe, strengthened as it is by the addition of Miss Kellogg and Miss Van Zandt.

Will Mestayer, whilst at Virginia City, took a benefit on the Friday previous to his departure and put on the "The Hoodlum." Concerning the performance the (late) Footlight says "The beneficiary, as Bill Hardhead, kept the audience screaming with laughter Talk about your hoodlum, why Mr. Mestayer would make the king of the tribe ashamed of himself. The few juveniles that were present went home with their blood frozen."

Mr. John McCullough closed a most successful two weeks engagement at McVicker's, Chicago on Saturday last having played in "The Gladiator," "Jack Cade," "The Robbers" and "Virginius"

Whilst writing the above we were reminded of a harmless little squib concerning "Genial John." Here it is. The Louisville Riverside Weekly says: "Mr. John McCullough, the famous tragedian, is now holding the boards at Macauley's"—Upon which the Cincinnati Saturday Night remarks: "How are the mighty fallen! A short time ago McCullough was one of the most prominent actors in America; now he is holding the boards at Macauley's. Why a ten cent boy could hold the boards."

The West Chicago publishes an item to the effect that the Hooley Comedy Company will not appear in Chicago until after the holidays. We do not know whether Mr. Hooley refers to that now playing at Brooklyn or that now playing at Maguire's New Theatre. Possibly it is the latter.

On Monday evening, Mr. Joseph Murphy, commences his first engagement at the California Theatre, opening in "Maum Cre." The cast will include the principal members of the company, and Mr. J. A. S[illegible], who makes his first bow to a

As our Australian letter dates from Melbourne, it will not be a recapitulation of news to look at Sydney theatricals for a minute. First, Miss Emelie Melville attracts attention by reason of a success in the colonies, which it is no breach of confidence or ill compliment to say, has surprised agent, manager and friends. Miss Melville described by the Sydney News as "petite, vivacious and delightful," sang in "Girofle Girofla" and "The Grand Duchess" (at the Victoria Theatre), with such taste and expression that it was decided to make an essay in English opera. Accordingly "The Bohemian Girl" was put up, and the best proof of its success is to be gathered from the fact that a deputation of citizens waited upon Mr Lyster and persuaded him to delay Miss Melville's departure for another week during which she sang "Maritana." On the 6th of October she was to open at the Opera House, Melbourne, in "Girofle" and play there up to the 1st of the year, thence a short trip through New Zealand, a return to Melbourne for a short time and back to S. F. in March '76.

At the Queen's Theatre, Sydney, the Hollaways and Stones were playing "Kathleen Mavourneen" on the 24th September, followed by Baby Benson. E. D. Davies is in New Zealand.

SONG—DENNY O'BRINE'S.

AIR—"MULDOON."

I am a man that has seen great trouble,
But not disheartened boys, as you see;
On this world's ocean I've been tossed like a bubble,
But you'll always find that I'm gay and free.
I'm started now in the old business,
And you'll always find me both kind and true;
So call and see me, and I'm sure I'll plase ye,
In my cosy corner on the Avenue.

CHORUS.

So come and see me, and I'll treat ye dacent,
I'll give you the best of good beer and wine,
With Cigars and whisky, to make you frisky,
Come and spend the evening with Denny O'Brine.

To all the boys, and to all the public,
My kind regards to you all I send,
Come one, come all and we'll have bumper,
And you'll find that Denny is a true friend.
On the corner of Jackson street and Montgomery Avenue
You can get drinks both hot and cold;
As you pass that way, to your friend you'll say—
Let us take a drop out of the punch bowl.

CHORUS.

Grand opening night of the PUNCH BOWL SALOON, Saturday evening, October 30th, 1875, with the old favorite, Denny O'Brine, in command. Call and see him. *

TULE LANDS.

$50 Dividend Next August.

Levied Land District No. 205.

$300,000 Expended.

FINEST LEVEE IN THE STATE.

Shares, $10.

Grain Growers' ASSOCIATION.

Incorporated Under the Laws of the State of California.

The District adjoins Grand Island District, which produced this year 65 bushels of Wheat TO THE ACRE.

OFFICERS:

P. F. Beach, N. B. Eddy, Tyler, Jr., F. S. Carter, C. Dunlap.

THE OBJECT OF THE ASSOCIATION IS the raising of grain in Levied Land District No. 205, twenty miles from Sacramento, on the Sacramento river. This District is surrounded by the best Levee in the State, being from 15 to 20 feet high, 60 to 90 feet at the base and 20 feet on top with roadway. This Levee is twenty-one miles long and is now being sown with alfalfa.

This land differs from some of the reclaimed land, as the foundation of the levee is clay, and the levee itself is built of the same material, insuring absolute security against an overflow of water. Over $300,000 has already been expended in the construction of this immense levee, and this company has secured a lease of 5,000 acres of land, the finest in the State, at an annual rental of $6 33 per acre.

All the steamers to and from Sacramento stop at Courtland on this land and afford rapid and easy communication to parties desiring to see the work as it progresses. The promoters of this enterprise have leased this land in order to secure all the improvements now on the place for working it to the best advantage. The immense productiveness of these lands is too well known to require comment. One acre of this land when sown in wheat will produce a certain crop of 60 bushels, which at two cents per pound is worth $72, and which will leave a net profit of $52 per acre after deducting rent and expenses. The second year will be a volunteer crop, which, less expenses, is clear profit.

A dividend of all the profits accruing will be made on the 1st day of August next, as the crop will be gathered and marketed during June and July.

The company is incorporated into 5,000 shares, at a par value of $10 each, or one share to each acre of land cultivated. Plowing has been commenced and is now in progress, and will be pushed as rapidly as possible until completed. Subscriptions for a limited number of the shares will be received at the office of the company at the rate of $10 per share, and no further calls can be made, and each share subscribed will entitle the holder to the profits on one acre of wheat, which will give a return of at least $50 per share in August.

Parties living at a distance wishing to subscribe can send money by Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, or certificates of deposit.

Apply at the office of the company, 15 Stevenson Building, corner California and Montgomery streets. Accommodations, feed and transportation from San Francisco or Sacramento, will be furnished to parties having teams and waiting contracts to plow.

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

The horn of the hunter — Bourbon straight.

With a sore corn on each foot there's no use stalking.

A certain kind of religion in this country is not inaptly called Pewism.

An epitaph for good little boot-blacks; "Gone to shine among the angels."

A Detroit girl says she will never marry a man with long legs, as he could kick her under the table.

Mr. Bdjdkorstombzletdnofgymugryten, thinks of visiting this country. Is there room for them all?

Married men will conceive a great respect for the Fiji Islander when they are informed that he begins his housekeeping by eating up his mother-in-law.

A Tennessee girl, riding on the cars, crossed the aisle, kicked a young man up against the window and remarked: "I was brung up never to allow a yaller-eyed man to wink at me."

The human nature of hack drivers is pretty much the same everywhere. A Frenchman says he was run over by a London cab, and when he scrambled to the pavement, the driver angrily called out to him: "What are you doing under my cab?"

A little boy of four years, standing in the moonlight by his sister aged six, said to her, "Isn't God a good man, Nelly, to give us such a beautiful moon?" "Oh, Freddy," said the sister, in earnest remonstrance, "don't call God a man, for if ever there was a gentleman, I am sure God is one!" Fact.

It is stated, says the Indianapolis News, that a number of gentlemen of Fort Wayne offer to give their wives handsome presents if they will gather with their own hands a quart of hickory nuts from the trees. Such a novel proposition occasioned considerable wonder until an item was pointed out in a local stating that a lad in that vicinity had fallen from a tree while gathering nuts, and had been unable to utter a word since the accident.

In Springfield their is a store that makes a practice of having a sort of Bulletin hung out with a funny cartoon. On Monday there was a picture full length of Tilton, easily recognized, and over it, "This man had a suit that cost him $75,000, and lasted him only six months. We will sell one for $7 50 that will last twelve months." Mr. Tilton saw it, and had a healthy laugh as he stopped and read it.

It was a young and not at all good-looking lady who yesterday stepped out of a Third street car, and disappeared into a store on Market street, after apologizing to the conductor for asking him to wait while she purchased eight yards of muslin and material for a Winter dress. "I was back in less than ten minutes," she subsequently complained to an astonished policeman, "but the car was gone."

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
[illegible] drink their Rhenish hock."

The Milky Way.

"We know the public is down on us," remarked the old milkman, as he dipped out the desired quart from one of his big cans, "but the public is mistaken. In the first place we put in a leetle water—only a bit to make up for shrinkage. It goes to the big dealers and they ain't a bit keerful when they gits to pouring in water. They sells it to the grocers, and they put in chalk with one hand, and water with the other, and they are thinking of politics and get in too much. The servant gal goes after milk for the family, drinks a third of it, and she puts in water to make up the measure; and, you see, when the family gets it the taste ain't there, and they goes for us poor old men who hasn't a dishonest hair in our heads. That's the way, mister —gee up, there, Homer."

A Family Failing.

Just after the trial of a petty case in Colorado, recently, in which one Hank Fisher was a witness, three or four of the lawyers were discussing among themselves the variety of testimony deduced, when General B., with his usual vehemence, said: "There never was such a liar on the witness stand as that Hank Fisher; he is, undoubtedly, the biggest liar I ever knew," when the whole party were somewhat abashed at seeing Hank, who heard the general's remark, step up to him. "Did you say I was the biggest liar you ever saw?" "That is about what I said," stammeringly came from the general, who expected a fight. Hank eyed him for a moment, and then said: "I guess you didn't know my brother John."

DISPENSARY,

No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your ease.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Not only are the entire receipts of the Opera House to be given to the Virginia City sufferers, but the gross proceeds arising from the entertainment here flow in the same charitable channel. Mr. Maguire's generosity will not soon be forgotten. As an accompanying graceful action, Barton Hill, Harry Edwards and Miss Bella Pateman, have volunteered to assist in the presentation of to-night's bill, which will consist of "The Honeymoon" and "The Serious Family."

There is another volunteer for to-night who deserves and has a separate paragraph. We mean Mr. G. W. Chaplin. At the time of the disaster he was playing an engagement at Virginia City, and in the fire lost all his theatrical wardrobe, every stitch having been burnt up. Yet he plays here to-night for the benefit of the Virginia City sufferers. It will not look like the faintest approach to heroics or exaggeration to call this act a noble one.

California Theatre.

This evening, "Joe" Murphy makes his first appearance at this theatre in his specialty play of "Maum Cre, or a Handful of Earth." The play will be strongly cast, and will also introduce Mr. J. A. Sawtelle to a San Francisco audience, this gentleman having been engaged to support Mr. Murphy during the absence of Mr. T. W. Keene.

Opera House.

An almost entirely new programme will be given here this evening in which all the artists who have so well filled the bill last week will appear, in new acts. Charley Reed will deliver a stump oration on the times, Mackin and Wilson will give their new song and dance "The Briar" and "Laurinda" will be repeated. But after all, what is most noteworthy concerning this evening's performance is that the entire proceeds will be presented by Manager Maguire to the Virginia City Sufferers.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

Auber's comic opera of "The Mason and the Locksmith" was given at Platt's Hall to the usual Sunday evening full house, Theodore Habelmann playing the first and Franz Fischer playing the second artizan. In the third act Theo. Habelmann introduced Neuendorf's lovely air "O Stille Mein Verlangen," which was encored. "The Mason and Locksmith" was originally produced at the Opera Comique of Paris, May 3d, 1825, last night's being its first production in San Francisco. To-morrow evening "Stradella" will be given.

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

The second concert of this season will be given on Wednesday next, when the programme will include the overture to "Tannhauser," selections from Mendelssohn's Music to "The Midsummer-Night's Dream" and Lachner's Ball Suite.

St. John's Church Concert.

San Francisco has recently received an arrival who should be noticed in these columns. We refer to Mme. Zeis Dennis, from the Italian opera (formerly the Imperial), Paris, and still more recently from the French opera, New Orleans. It is Madame Dennis' intention to settle here, and on Thursday evening next, at the Concert given by Dr. Scott's choir, under the management of Professor Seward, the public will have an opportunity of judging whether her advent is to be a matter of congratulation or no. Messrs, Jos. Maguire and Sam Meyer will also assist.

Grand Carnival Ball.

The box sheet for the Grand Carnival Ball, to be given at the Mechanics' Pavilion, November 19th, is now open at Sherman & Hyde's. As will be seen by referring to our advertising columns, the list of prizes is something unusually fine. No less than $800 have been devoted to the part of the programme.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George C. Thompson, Ned Barry, Harry Senate, Swain and West are all on to-night's bill, which concludes with "Another Trip to Paris."

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Tommy Butler in song and dance, Hughey Robinson and George Lowden in songs, Lon Dixon, the Harrises and Charley King in specialties and "Paris by Gaslight."

Harp and Star Variety Theatre.

John Finnerty, George Neilson, Harry Devoy and Randall are the principal artists for this evening. "Gay Life in Paris" concludes the bill.

Woodward's Gardens.

A performance and concert is given every Saturday and Sunday, rain or shine. This week third time of the grand sports of the Trampoline, and Sig. Gonzales in his great double somersault leap and the bridge of bayonets. Miss Mathews, the fascinating danseuse in her Tarantula dance and pantomime "Love in a Tub;" Clif Johnson the champion jig dancer; Gus Mooney clog dancer and the gymnastic troupe.

Notes.

John Thompson, the Superintendent of the Philadelphia Zoological Garden, is in town, collecting animals for that institution.

Mr. T. A. Woods, of the Portland, Oregon Museum, is in town.

The Bohemian Club has come to the fore, and will on Wednesday evening next, give a concert at Platt's Hall, to swell the sum to be sent to the homeless of the City on the Hill.

Bob Hart's appearance in this city is delayed through the illness of his wife, now in New York. He waits only for her restoration to a state of health that will allow of traveling.

The receipts at the California Theatre, on Saturday evening, amounted to between fourteen and fifteen hundred dollars, the exact figure not yet being known in consequence of the non-return of some outside sales. The whole of these proceeds will be devoted to the Virginia City Sufferers. It is an interesting fact in connection with this act of generosity, that on Friday, Mr. Barton Hill, received a telegraphic despatch from Mr. McCullough authorizing him to send on to the relief fund a sum, which, whilst not equalling that now in hand, was a striking proof of individual (and characteristic) kind-heartedness. The news that nearly fifteen hundred dollars have been sent, will be received by Mr. McCullough to-day, and received too as good news.

The original "Swain's Bakery" is now established in their magnificent new place at 213 Sutter street near Centre Market, and has added a lunch room and ice cream saloon. This is their only place o business.

STILL WATER.

BY EDGAR FAWCETT.

He wrote and wrote, but could not make a name;
Then cursed his fate and called the world to blame—
The world that knew not genius when it came.

"The world," he cried, "that crowns us in a night
For nothing; but that damns us, wrong or right,
Rather for sheer indifference than for spite."

One of his friends would slyly smile to hear,
"And, second hand Byronics!" one would sneer.
One said, "Give over." "One said, "Persevere."

One said but little, though she thought and thought,
Through the long weeks and all the work they brought,
While the wife toiled and the mother taught.

There went a story that he might have wed
An heiress, this poor scribbler for his bread,
But a little meek-eyed girl instead—

A little meek-eyed girl without a cent,
Who scarcely knew what half his writings meant—
Loved him reveringly, and was content.

And now she mused and mused upon a way
To brighten his dull face again. One day
Her slender hand along his shoulder lay,

"Write this!" and then she told him what to write
In just a few fleet words, and stole from sight
With smiling lips, but with a look of fright.

He laughed at first; yet in a little space
The languid laughter died from out his face,
And left mute meditation in its place.

If I mistake not, it was this same year
That suddenly men knew him far and near,
As having won the world's capricious ear.

And she? Why, if she had not seen so plain
How soon the laure's cured his longing pain,
She might have held them even in mild disdain.

But now she blesses Fortune's kind decree—
Proud, glad through him, though still, for all we see,
The same small, meek-eyed wife she used to be.

Water Matter.

As our reporter was standing at the corner fornenst the new hotel, on the lookout for items, an ancient colored individual, glorying in the euphonious cognomen of "Uncle Jerry," came along, growling most furiously. "What's the matter, Uncle Jerry?" queried our reporter. "Matter!" said Uncle Jerry, stopping short, "why, I have been totin' water all mornin' for Dr. Y———'s wife, to have washin' done with, and what d'ye s'pose I got for it?" "About a dime," smiled the knight of the quill. "A dime, be durned! she told me Doctor would pull a tooth for me some time."

An Offended Genius.

Yesterday a Clay street negro, who some time since invented an animal trap, was exhibiting the model in a store on Washington street, when a gentleman remarked: "Well, you are an eccentric genius." "See heah, boss," slowly replied the negro, "dat ar' trap may be all right or all wrong; Ize gwine to run my chances on dat, an' durin' de meanwhile nobody hez any rights to call me names an' hurt my feelings," and he went away with grief in his eye.

How she Grieved.

"Bub, is your mother in?" asked a Vicksburg lady, the other evening, of a lad of ten who was lounging over his widowed mother's gate.

"No, she's out," he answered.

"Gone up to visit your dead father's grave?" she continued.

"Not exactly," he smiled, "she's gone after ice cream with a chap who has three inches of fat on his ribs, and I'll bet ten to one she'll halter him in less'n a month."

FOREIGN THEATRICAL NEWS.

On Monday Oct. 11th, Mr. Alfred Collier's new opera, the "Tower of London," was performed at Manchester. Among the cast were Mme. Pauline Rita, Mr. Charles Carew and Mr. George Fox.

Mr. Arthur Sullivan is writing another opera for Mme. Nilsson. It is said that the subject is Mary, Queen of Scots. There has been no really successful drama of this tragical story. Perhaps this is because the dramatist cannot make up his mind as to the witching Queen's guilt or not. The dramatist, too, if a Protestant, is sure to have a mental bias against her; if a Roman Catholic, he is prejudiced in her favor; hence the salient points in the story do not get graphic treatment—they are mystified.

For the first time in England the strains of Handel's "Esther" will be heard on November 6th at the Alexandra Palace. Mme. Nouber takes the soprano.

A new historical play, entitled "A Crown for Love," is to be produced in London, portraying the loves of Henry VIII. and Anne Boleyn.

The Christmas pantomime at Drury Lane Theatre, London, will be "Whittington and his Cat," in which the Vokes family are to appear.

Mr. and Mrs. Bandmann are on a provincial tour, which will last until September.

Adelaide Ristori will spend the Winter in Rome, and will appear again in London next May in conjunction with Rossi.

Mr. John Oxenford's "new drama" entitled "Self," has proved a dead failure in London, and turns out to be an adaptation of Sardou's "Diable Noir."

Mr. Buckstone is playing in Planche's "Spring Gardens," in which he originally played over thirty years since.

Mr. Henry Irving's Macbeth is declared on all sides to be an inferior performance.

Carlotta Leclercq has recently been playing at the London Crystal Palace in "The Wife's Secret."

Mr. Chas. Allerton, an actor who met with little success in New York, is playing in "Self," at the Mirror Theatre, London. The Figaro says he "is stagey and unintentionally entertaining."

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equal to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and all epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. X

TUESDAY............NOVEMBER 2

"MY AWFUL DAD."

Charles Mathews appeared on the 13th, at the Gaiety Theatre, London, in a new comedy in two acts, by himself, called "My Awful Dad," of which the ensuing is a synopsis: "My Awful Dad" is a certain Mr. Adonis Evergreen, and it is in his person that is emphasized the theory that the failings of some men are more agreeable than the virtues of others. Adonis, who has passed his fiftieth year, has by no means completed the sewing of his wild oats. He is a sad scapegrace, and freely indulges his tastes in wine, women, billiards, dice, Richmond dinners, and other supposed necessaries of the life of the fast man about town. His extravagances are indulged in at the expense of his son, Dick Evergreen, a sober, plodding and hard-working young barrister, and it is at the chambers of the latter that we first make the acquaintance of Adonis. The business of the day is about to commence, when he returns from a night's revelry to procure additional cash for the little dinner he has promised to a couple of fair but fast females, who have abandoned their plebeian names of Griskin and Tadpole for more aristocratic titles. His ready tongue appeases his son's wrath, and he attempts another onslaught upon his purse—this time, however, in vain. With the son's departure the old boy is again very soon up to mischief. He resolves to try on his costume, in which, in the character of Punch, he is to appear at a forthcoming masquerade, when a ringing at the bell announces the arrival of a client. Seizing his son's wig and gown, Adonis conceals the gayer attire, and with true professional compliments, listens to the lady's story. She, Matilda Weddagain, is a young and handsome widow. By the terms of her husband's will she may not marry again except some individual who has arrived at the mature age of fifty, and who is, consequently, less liable to squander her fortune. Adonis is so fired with sympathy that he makes a speech to an imaginary judge and jury, and, in the warmth of his enthusiasm, opens his gown and exposes his masquerading costume, much to the astonishment of the lady. Adonis is, however, fully equal to the occasion, and by postponing the truth for the convenience of the moment, sends his fair visitor away convinced that he is the most genial among the barristers in existence. Much pleasure is derived by following "My Awful Dad" through his many adventures, and by witnessing the ingenious devices by which he escapes from the many complications in which he becomes involved. More than half of his sins are laid to the account of his son. It is Dick Evergreen, the diffident and sober-minded young barrister, who is suspected of visiting Brompton-crescent to flirt with the gay young Charlotte Fitzplantagenet; it is he who is followed to Scarborough by that lady's furious lover, Prince Kotchikoff; it is he who is challenged to mortal combat; it is he who is suspected as a gambler; and, in a word, it is he who has to bear hard words, suspicions, accusations, calumny and reproach, while his unblushing, daring and fibing father, by coolness and effrontry, comes off with flying colors, and secures honor, love, obedience and troops of friends. "How could it happen that so estimable a father should have so graceless a son!" is the general cry, and the fun of the thing to the onlookers is enhanced by the fact that poor Dick, while putting up with all the kicks, has to furnish all the pence, or, in other words, has to pay. Vain are his devices to banish his father to regions more remote. The ladies have asked him to stay, and stay he must. However, he makes some amends in the end by giving his son credit for some of his own courage, and by bringing about the acceptance of his hand by the wealthy young damsel upon whom he had set his heart; he himself renewing the acquaintance with the pretty Matilda Weddagain, and inducing her by many ingenious speeches to overcome the obstacles of the will already alluded to by accepting him for better or worse. What plot there is may be gathered from the outlines here given. During its development the audience have literally a rare feast of fun. No more comical production has recently been seen on the stage. There is much in it that may be described as farcical, but it appeared to be the more welcome on that account. The situations are of the most mirth-provoking character, and the dialogue is absolutely over-flowing with good things—some not altogether new—but all calculated to excite hilarity.

Art in Conducting.

There are fine points in street-car conducting as well as in the other learned professions. "I don't deny," said a cross-town man on a Chicago line, speaking of a contemporary whose merit had been recognized by a promotion from Milwaukee avenue, "I don't deny that he's a good conductor. Once I see him bounce a snoozer three times bigger'n him! but Lor' bless you, give him a big fat women with a black velvet coat all over bugle beads to tackle when the car's behind time, and then you'll see that he hain't got the nerve for these aristocratic lines, like this and Injianny avenoo. Now when I put my knuckles into the small of a woman's back, no matter if she's as big as a church, she's got to come, you hear me?"

DR. SPINNEY & Co's
DISPENSARY,
No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

California Theatre.

Mr. Joseph Murphy, popularly known as "Joe," of that name, made his first appearance at this theatre last evening, to a house which notwithstanding the wretched weather, was crowded in the galleries and well filled in the dress circle and orchestra. "Maum Cre" formed the bill, and "Maum Cre" is too well known to need an extensive notice. Mr. Murphy's assumption of four different characters and a host of popular songs are the principal feature of the play. The cast includes Mr. J. A. Sawtelle who will do more when it is required of him, Miss Ellie Wilton, W. A. Mestayer, Robert Pateman, Miss Alice Harrison and Miss Belle Chapman who last night made quite a hit with her part of Nelly Kenzie. "Maum Cre" again to-night.

Opera House.

The house was crowded last night, which might possibly be on account of the great popularity of the Minstrels, or possibly because it was known that Manager Maguire intended devoting the entire receipts to the aid of the Virginia City Sufferers. We incline to the former possibility. The new programme contains two or three extremely pretty songs in the first part and in the second there are a stump oration on the times by Charley Reed, Billy Emerson in his specialties, Makin and Wilson in a new song and dance, the comic sketch of the "Boy of the Period" and the society drama of "Laurinda; or, The Bruised Heart."

Maguire's New Theatre.

Strange to say, the house here was not crowded, although the proceeds were by Manager Maguire devoted to the same purpose as those of the Opera House. The bill was a thoroughly excellent one, consisting of the comedy of "The Heneymoon," with the principal roles sustained by volunteers, as witness: Juliana, Miss Bella Pateman; Duke Aranza, George D. Chaplin (himself one of the sufferers); Rolando, Barton Hill; and Mock Duke, Harry Edwards. The comedy was, of course, delightfully given, and was followed by "The Serious Family" with the same cast as before.

This evening, Tom Taylor's comedy of "The Overland Route" will be produced with a strong cast. This comedy has just enjoyed a six weeks' run at Wallack's, New York.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

This evening Flotow's opera of "Stradella" will be repeated by general request, Herrs Theodore Habelmann and Carl Formes, having made such a sensation in their roles of the two banditti, that there is a universal desire to see them in the same character again. Hence the repetition.

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

The second concert of this season will be given to-morrow afternoon, when the programme will include the overture to "Tannhauser," selections from Mendelssohn's Music to "The Midsummer-Night's Dream" and Lachner's Ball Suite.

St. John's Church Concert.

San Francisco has recently received an arrival who should be noticed in these columns. We refer to Mme. Zeis Dennis, from the Italian opera (formerly the Imperial), Paris, and still more recently from the French opera, New Orleans. It is Madame Dennis' intention to settle here, and on [illegible] next, at the Concert given by Dr. Thursday evening Scott's choir, under the management of Professor Seward, the public will have an opportunity of judging whether her advent is to be a matter of congratulation or no. Messrs. Jos. Maguire, Harry Hunt and Sam Meyer, will also assist.

Grand Carnival Ball.

The box sheet for the Grand Carnival Ball, to be given at the Mechanics' Pavilion, November 19th, is now open at Sherman & Hyde's, and the seats are being sold at such a rapid rate that we seriously advise those intending to go, to procure their places at once, or their chances to get good ones will be nil. As will be seen by referring to our advertising columns, the list of prizes is something unusually fine. No less than $800 have been devoted to the part of the programme.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The management of this place of amusement has also determined not to be in the rear of the army of helpers, so on Friday next, a benefit will be given here to aid the Virginia City sufferers, when in addition to the gross receipts, every member of the company will present his or her night's salary to the fund.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Olio and acts are both entertaining and amusing, the sensation of "Paris by Gaslight" concludes the capital bill.

Harp and Star Variety Theatre.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverw[illegible] of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equal to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above named firm. *

PER CONTTRA.

My lady has a peerless air, a faultless form and golden hair;
But airs are taught,
And figures bought,
And dyeing stuffs by no means raae.

My lady's eyes are soft and blue, and chabging as the iris' hue;
Still, eyes deceive
Hearts "worn on sleeve,"
And make us oft their power rue.

Her little moth—a "sunny south"—wafts perfum'd kisses to the wind;
Yet winds blow cold,
And kiss, of old,
A trait'rous symbol was, I find.

Ay, pearly teeth and rosebud lips, whose honeyed wealth the zephyr sips,
But bait the lair,
When fickle fair,
Like Scylla, wreck men's stately ships.

And witching eyes and plaintive sighs, and looks of love and tender words—
Love's tricking arts—
Are poison'd darts,
More awesome far than pendant swords.

A Slight Mistake.

A stupid fellow has been putting his foot into it by trying to criticize actresses' dresses. In endeavoring to cite instances of overdress he was quite right in referring to the gorgeous array of Miss Davenport as the 'poor cousin' in "Our Boys," but he had no grounds for instancing either Miss Marie Gordon's attire in "Colonel Sellers" or Miss Blanche Grey's last dress in "The Flying Scud" to point the moral. Miss Gordon has written a letter for publication, in which she simply demolishes the correspondent's statements, the entire cost of one of the simple dresses worn by her being only four dollars or so. As for Miss Grey, she wore when seated in the carriage in the last act a simple dress in which she went home from the theatre, and imparted "an air" to it by throwing over her shoulders a lace shawl, wearing a showy hat, and carrying a brilliant parasol. It was altogether what theatrical people term "a fake." Now, if the correspondent really wanted facts he could have found them, but he evidently didn't look in the right place.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

The difference between perseverence and obstinacy is that one often comes from a strong will, and the other from a strong wont.

A young man employed on Commercial street is six feet eight inches high, and weighs a trifle over a hundred pounds. They judge by his appetite that he is hollow clear down, and think of amputating his feet and using him for stovepipes.

James Garland, of East Brunswick, N. If he had then swallowed half an ounce of strychnine and melted lead, and jumped out of a nine-story window, he would have come very near rousing a suspicion that he intended to injure himself seriously.

A convention of Waterville girls has "resolved, that it would be a good deal nicer to be squeezed by the boys, only they do not know how to do it so well as the married men."

The enterprize of true journalism is illustrated by the case of the editor of the Daily Index, published at Belvidere, Illinois, who, on being horse whipped, got out an extra containing a full account of the affair, and sold papers enough to pay for arnica and court-plaster.

An Eastern tramp, who had been over Wisconsin, says the names of the towns savor too much of pedestrianism to suit his notion of a "printer's state." There is Milwaukee, Waukesha, Oconowoc, Manitowoc, Waukegan, Pewaukee, and a dozen other "walks," but darned little work.

SULLIVAN, RIGNOLD AND BARRETT

"Now, that Barry Sullivan has gone to Boston," says Walsingham of the Baltimore Bulletin, "it is safe to relate a little anecdote which will show the estimation in which he holds his peerless self. Miss Ida Vernon consented to play the Widow Melnotte to his Claude, but when the afternoon came on which Barry was to offer his impassioned performance at Booth's he was ill, and the audience were afforded the good acting of Mr. F. B. Warde instead. That evening Miss Vernon playfully reproached Mr. Barry Sullivan for not having appeared, saying she was not given the opportunity of acting his mother that afternoon. 'Never mind, my deab, never mind,' he said consolingly, 'you shall have that honor some day; you shall, really!' The other bright British being, Mr. George Rignold, never had a temper, it appears, until he became successful. In his comparatively humble days he was a mild-mannered man, but now, having tasted success, he loses his head, and they charitably ascribe it to an ungovernable temper. He 'bully-ragged' almost everybody in Booth's Theatre, and he was guilty in at least two instances of wanton cruelty—in one case where he struck a supernumerary, and was nearly mobbed in consequence, and in an other where he, as was asserted at the time, did the same to a ballet-girl. The fact is that Mr. Rignold probably never learned in English theatres that supernumeraries were entitled to kindly treatment. I heard related the other day a story concerning Mr. Lawrence Barrett, who, at the close of an engagement in Manchester, was presented, much to his astonishment, with a stage sword, in a handsome gold-mounted scabbard, by the people of the company. Mr. Barrett asked on the occasion of the presentation, why—for what reason—he was afforded this tribute. 'Because,' spoke up one of the 'small people,' 'because you have treated us like men and women and not like brutes.'"

Charles Mathews' Work.

Charles Mathews is certainly a wonderful old man—if a man who, at the age of 72, plays the sprightliest roles in the whole range of light comedy better than any actor on the English-speaking stage can be called old. Not only is he perennial as an actor, but he is perennial as an author. He has written one drama in eight acts, called "The Chain of Events;" one in five acts, called "Savannah," six in three acts, called, "The Black Domino," "Dead for a Ducat," "Married for Money," "Milliner to the King," "A Match for a King," and "The Soft Sex;" twelve in two acts, called "Aggravating Sam," "The Bachelor of Arts," "Carlo," "The Court Jester," "The Impudent Puppy," "Kill Him Again," "My Wife's Mother," "Pong Wong," "Serve Him Right," "Striking Likenesses," "Take that Girl Away," and "Who Killed Cock Robin?" and twenty-one in one act, called "A Cousin German," "Cherry and Blue," "The Dowager," "He Would Be An Actor," "The Humpbacked Lover," "His Excellency." "Little Toodlekins," "My Mother's Maid," "Mathews & Co.," "Methinks I See My Father," "My Usual Luck," "Nothing to Wear," "Patter versus Clatter," "Paul Pry Married and Settled, "Pyramus and Thisbe," "Ring Doves," "Two in the Morning," "Too Kind by Half," "The Wolf and the Lamb," "Why Did You Die?" and "You're Another." This is a tolerably fair list to to begin with; but Mr. Mathews has recently added to it another piece which, though the idea of it appears to be very much the same as that of the younger Dumas' "Pere Prodigue," is yet, to all intents and purposes, his own. The writing is all his, and it is very highly spoken of.

DR. SPINNEY & Co's

DISPENSARY,

No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Tom Taylor's comedy of "The Overland Route," which as the bill states is now running for the seventh week at Wallack's, New York, was put on here last night in capital style. The actors were exceptionally up to their work and almost without exception perfect in their parts. James O'Neill as Tom Dexter the adventurer, W. H. Crane as Mr. Lovibond the Singapore merchant, A. D. Billings as Mr. Colepepper, the East India Commissioner, M. A. Kennedy as Sir Soloman Fraser, Miss Emmie Wilmot as Mrs. Sebright the widow, Mrs. Edmonds as Mrs. Lovibond the watchful and Miss Baker as Miss Colepepper the dutiful, were all played with spirit, and unction. The three sets of scenery were all new and effective, and altogether as pleasant an evening's amusement may be gathered from an attendance at this theatre as at any theatre in the town.

Opera House.

Every night brings a crowded house here, and the popularity of the Minstrels shows no sign of waning. Both first and second parts are excellent.

California Theatre.

"Maum Cre" with all its fun and interest, was given again last evening and will be repeated during the week until further notice.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

"Stradella" was repeated last night to a thoroughly appreciative house. All the points of the former presentation were as salient in this and the reproduction of Flotow's charming work, may be considered a success. Friday evening Verdi's "Rigoletto," with Signorina Ida Valerga's first appearance as Gilda.

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

The second concert of this season will be given this afternoon, when the programme will include the overture to "Tannhauser," selections from Mendelssohn's Music to 'The Midsummer-Night's Dream" and Lachner's Ball Suite.

St. John's Church Concert.

To-morrow evening the much-talked-of concert will be given at this church, when a most attractive programme will be presented. The choir, under Professor Seward's direction, will "chant" with characteristic fervor. Messrs. Harry Hunt and Sam Meyer will give as an organ duet, the overture to Reissiger's "Felsenmuhle," and Madame Zeis Dennis will make her first appearance in this city in an aria from "Le Prophete" and an "Ave Maria."

Platt's Music Hall.

A musical and literary entertainment will be given by the Bohemian Club at this hall to night for the benefit of the Virginia City sufferers. Such a programme has probably never been offered to a San Francisco public. The list of names is overwhelming, containing as it does, those of Mrs. Judah, Miss Susan Galton, Alfred Kelleher, Jos. Maguire, Richard Kohler, Harry Edwards, Geo. Evans, Hinrich's the violoncellist, Herr Schlott, Stephen Leach, Geo. T. Bromley, the Amphion Quartette, and the Bohemian Club chorus.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The acts for to-night are "Domestic Troubles," "Two Alike," "Banjo Act" and "Another Trip to Paris." Don't forget the benefit for the Virginia City Sufferers, on Friday evening.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Matt Carroll makes his reappearance here to-night. On Friday evening Charley Nickerson makes his 6 [illegible] appearance here. "Paris by Gas-light," to-night.

Harp and Star Variety Theatre.

Johnny Tuers' first appearance here last night was a great success. The house was crowded and his recept on lasted over five minutes. "Clamsel" again to-night.

Grand Carnival Ball.

The box sheet for the Grand Carnival Ball, to be given at the Mechanics' Pavilion, November 19th, is now open at Sherman & Hyde's, and the seats are being sold at such a rapid rate that we seriously advise those intending to go, to procure their places at once, or their chances to get good ones will be nil. As will be seen by referring to our advertising columns, the list of prizes is something unusually fine. No less than $300 have been devoted to the part of the programme.

Woodward's Gardens.

A performance and concert is given every Saturday and Sunday, rain or shine. This week third time of the grand sports of the Trampoline, and Sig. Gonzales in his great double somersault leap and the bridge of bayonets. Miss Mathews, the fascinating danseuse in her Tarantula dance and pantomime "Love in a Tub;" Elif Johnson the champion jig dancer; Gus Mooney clog dancer and the gymnastic troupe.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 18[illegible] and has been in successful operation ever since. S-cj

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vandershce & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to [illegible] that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and al epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

GRANDFATHER.

Grandfather sits by the open door,
And around his feet the sunbeams play,
While his scant gray locks are gently stirred
By the breath of the mild October day,
His gaze is turned toward the distant hills,
Where the trees are yellow and green and gold,
And they seem to say to the old man's heart,
"See! we grow lovely as we grow old?"

Over the landscape far and near
Grandfather looks with tear dimmed eyes,
For on the meadow, as on the hills,
The shadow of Summer's slow death lies.
But over it all, with restful calm,
There lingers a dreamful, tender haze,
And the breeze is fragrant with stolen sweets
In memoriam of the Summer days.

Grandfather thinks of the years gone by,
The springtime first of his merry youth,
And then the Summer of manhood's joys,
When his heart grew warm with love and truth,
"Alas!" he murmurs, "that time has passed,
And Winter comes for the year and me;
Who knows, as the chill of age creeps on,
How lovely I in my death shall be!"

Grandfather lies on the hill-side brown—
Lies at rest—and the setting sun
Kisses the spot where loving hands
Laid him down when his life was done.
And over the meadow, over the hills,
The breeze goes sobbing the livelong day
For the fair sweet summer whose life went out
With the shadow of winter chill and gray.

"All the Words a Stage."

It has been said, with considerable truth, that every man has within his life the elements of a good, readable novel. With still greater truth we may say that most men have within themselves the capabilities of an actor. Men and women, says Shakspeare, are only players. If men would not abandon nature when they essayed histrionics material could be found every day in our public streets for the equipment of any play that the best dramatist could write. How often, in domestic life, do we see a placid Iago worming his way into the confidence of a gullible Othello. There are scores of Colonel Sellerses, every whit as good as Raymond. One can find any day in the streets, or in Congress, a better Polonius than usually bewilders Hamlet on the stage; and many a damsel sits in an orchestra chair and knows full well whether Booth or Rignold plays Romeo as well as the young gentleman to whom she is a silly Juliet. Shylock is in Wall street; and Halmet walks Broadway, vacantly and with downcast eyes, puzzled whether to be mad or not. The dramatist who would succeed may always find his actor. The best characters have men and women ready to assume them, just as in fiction there are real men and women whom we know. It is as true that Falstaff has ogled the girls from the floor of the Senate as that Victor Hugo found his Jean Valjean a living man.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

The Brindled Dog.

A few days ago a soap-haired young man of eighteen was drawing a big brindled dog around the Detroit Market, anxious to find a purchaser. A corpulent old chap, smoking a long pipe, and dodging the rain, finally halted the young man and said:

"My frent, how little you vhants for dose dog?"

"Two dollars will take him," was the reply, "and a better dog never stood on four legs and howled."

"Vell, goom along mit me," continued the old chap, raising his umbrella.

He paddled a full mile through the pouring rain, the young man and the brindled dog at his heels, and reaching home at last, the dog was led in, the old man refilled his pipe, and sat down and said:

"Now, my frent, ish dose a goot dog?"

"He is the best kind of a dog," was the reply.

"Does he keep tieves away from my house?"

"You bet he will! Why, he'd chaw up a man quicker'n a flash!"

"Does he keep der bat poys out of my garten?"

"Well, you ought to see him go for a boy once! He's had his teeth into every boy in Macomb county!"

"Does he like my children?"

"Like 'em? Why, that's his great hold! Nothing so pleases him as a house full of children."

The old man hesitated for a minute, and asked:

"Can dose dog play on a fiddle?"

"Play on a fiddle? Why—why—yes, sir, he can! He san play seven different tunes on a fiddle!"

It was a big lie, but the soap-haired young man was bound to make a sale if he had to bury truth out of sight.

"Can dose dog play on a horn in der prass pand!" asked the old man, after a pause.

"On a horn? Why, he has led the Mount Clemens band for the last year! Yes, sir; he can play on a horn with anybody!"

The old man was a little staggered, and he waited quite a while before asking:

"Can does dog write ledders for me to my prudder in Shermany?"

"Write?" Write letters?"

"Yaw."

"I wish I had pen and paper here! He writes the most beautiful hand you ever saw, and he writes like lightning! I could hire him out for fifty dollars a month to keep books, but I don't want to work him too hard. Besides, there's a mortgage on my farm, and I must have money to raise it."

"Der brice is two dollars?"

"Only two dollars. He's worth a hundred if he's worth a cent, but I'm forced to sell. If you keep him till March I'll buy him back and give you two hundred dollars for him."

The old man smoked away for a while and then asked:

"Can doze dog baint a house?"

"Paint a house! I'd like you to see three big houses he painted last week. He's as good as three men, and he never wastes a drop of paint. I'm in a hurry to catch the train, and I'd like the money."

"Two dollars?"

"Yes, two dollars. You'll never have another such chance."

The old man made a motion toward his wallet, but let his hand drop, and inquired:

"Can doze dog shump over der City Hall?"

This was a crusher. The young man knew he couldn't beat it, and he replied:

"No, I don't think he can, but I'll warrant him to jump forty feet and catch a fly!"

"You gan dake doze dog away, my frent," said the old man.

"You won't take him?"

"No, zur; I vhant's no dog what can't shump over der City Hall!"

"But you made a fair bargain and said you'd take him."

"I can't help dot. Vhens I bay two dollars for a dog he shall be able to shump like a pird."

And the young man dragged his brindled dog out of the house and back to the market, where he offered him for fifty cents without getting a buyer.

The prooters of this enterprise have leased this land in der to secure all the improvements now on the emises for working it to the best advantage. he immense productiveness of these lands is too ell-known to require comment. One acre of this nd when sown in wheat will produce a certain rop of 60 bushels, which at two cents per und is worth $72, and which will leave a net rofit of $52 per acre after deducting rent d expenses. The second year will be a volunteer op, which, less expenses, is clear profit.

A dividend of all the profits accruing will be ade on the 1st day of August next, as the op will be gathered and marketed during June d July.

The company is incorporated into 5,000 shares, t a par value of $10 each, or one share to ach acre of land cultivated. Plowing as been commenced and is now in progress, and ill be pushed as rapidly as possible until completed.

Subscriptions for a limited number of the shares ill be received at the office of the company at the te of $10 per share, and no further calls can be ade, and each share subscribed will entitle e holder to the profits on one acre of wheat, hich will give a return of at least $50 per share August.

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

Nothing will so distress a religious editor as to ask him the circulation of his paper.

Old lady, (sharply, to stranger)—"Well, miss, what are you staring at? What do you see in my face?" Young lady—Nothing." [End of conversation.]

Boston women are too intellectual to look well in pull-backs. Their heads are well developed, at the expense of their traveling arrangements.

This is what a country editor perpetrates: "A flock of sheep composed of all 'wethers' may be said to resemble our climate."

The fact that an English pedestrian named Perkins has walked a mile in eight minutes, should demonstrate to people named Smith, that a name, however degrading, can never prevent a man from attaining distinction if he will work for it.

Mlle. Q., of the Palais Royal Theatre, said to Hyacinth: "Gracious! but I have a cold. What do you do when you have a cold?" "I?" said Hyacinth, "I cough."

"You don't buy bouquets of me as you used to," said a Madison street florist to a sad-eyed man, yesterday. "No," was the pathetic reply, "I'm married now." And while the florist turned into his shop, the young man stepped down the street toward a hardware store.

A married lady found her two sons quarreling, and, in hope of putting an end to their difference, uttered the following: "You young rascals, if you don't desist directly, I'll tell both your fathers."

"Where is the hoe, Sambo?" "Wid de rake, massa." "Well, where is the rake?" "Wid de hoe." But where are they both?" "Wy bof togeder. By golly, massa, you peers to be very 'ticular dis mornin'."

A philosopher describes a bald man as one who combs his head with a towel. Our special married man thoughtfully remarks that it is much better than having it combed with a chair.

"Narrow-gauge skirts" is what a Western paper calls them. Narrow gauge is good, but they draw long trains behind them, and when under motion the sparks fly terribly.

Dr. Whewell, walking in Hamilton's garden at Chobham, expressed his surprise at the prodigious growth of the trees. 'My dear sir,' returned Mr. Hamilton, "remember they have nothing else to do."

George W. Childs, of the Philadelphia Ledger, has given $10,000 to the Centennial, and the Pennsylvanians are ready to let him write as much obituary poetry now as he pleases.

The water is so low in some of the Western rivers that the catfish have to stand on their heads to breathe.

"Poor fellow—he had a good deal in him," was the sorrowing remark of a Mississippi editor over the body of a subscriber shot in a gin mill. The Coroner's inquest subsequently verified the assertion.

A lady, whose family was very much in the habit of proposing conundrums, was one evening asked by her husband, in an excited tone: "Why are all these doors left open?" "I give it up," instantly answered the lady.

A contemporary announces the fact that "a couple who have been lovers for twenty-five years are not married yet." But if they were married they would not be lovers.

Why Mr. Landis was not Removed.

President Grant has not only a nice appreciation of humor, but on occasions is apt at repartee. During his recent vacation at Long Branch he was called to Washington on public business, and while there was handed for signature several commissions of postmasters. There were also presented to him a number of petitions, among them one from citizens of Vineland, New Jersey, for the removal of Mr. Landis from the postmastership. Mr. L., it will be remembered, is the gentleman who in an informal and impromptu manner "promoted" a small globe of lead into the brain of Mr. Carruth, the editor of the Vineland Independent. The President asked:

"Is there any irregularity in Mr. Landis's accounts?" "Not any," replied the pleasant-voiced Postmaster-General.

"Is the office well conducted?"

"No complaint on that score."

"Intemperate habits?"

"Nothing of the kind charged."

"What is the objection?"

The petitioners say he is rather obnoxious, and that a change would be satisfactory."

"Well" replied the President, with the slightest possible twinkle at the P. M. G., "he doesn't appear to have done anything but shoot an editor, and I don't see how I can remove him on that."

For Ladies Only.

Things a married woman cannot help thinking.

That she was a very pretty girl at sixteen.

That she had, or would have had, a great many good offers.

That all her lady friends are five years older than they say they are.

That she has a very fine mind.

That if her husband had acted on her advice, he would be a richer man to-day.

That people think too much of the looks of that Miss Blank, who would not be called handsome if she didn't make herself up.

That her mother-in-law is a very trying woman.

That her girls are prettier than Mrs. Blank's girls.

That she would like to know where her husband spends his evenings when he stays out.

That her eldest son takes after him.

That he is going to throw himself away on Miss Scraggs.

That Miss Scraggs set her cap for him, and did all the courting.

That her servant girls are the worst ever known.

That she has taste in dress.

That she has a good temper.

That she pities old maids.

DR. SPINNEY & Co's

DISPENSARY,

No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your ease.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

Opera House.

The Minstrels never fail to secure a house in which there is not an empty bench to be seen. Instead of the "Boy of the Period," however, there is an improved addition of "Turn him Out" in which Fayette Welch does some most amusing acting.

California Theatre.

"Maum Cre" is a good specimen of the protean Irish drama, and Joe Murphy is one of the best in this particular line. Therefore is it that the California has good houses nightly, and that all who go are amused and entertained.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"The Overland Route" is now attracting the good audiences that its merits deserve. The comedy is capitally put on, excellently well played, and is altogether a treat. There are at least half a dozen good characters in it. It will be continued until further notice.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

To-morrow evening "Rigoletto," will be given with Madame Ida Valerga as Gilda. For the Saturday's matinee "Fra Diavolo" will be produced and on Sunday evening, "Der Freischutz."

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

These concerts are now both fashionable and popular, but yesterday afternoon's was a trifle below the high rank they have assumed. Wagner's overture to "Tannhauser," although well played, was a repetition, whilst the selections from Mendelssohn's music to the "Midsummer-Night's Dream," had also been heard before. The second part embraced the six movements of Lachner's Ball Suite, not one of which numbers was received with the applause usually accorded Mr. Herold's selections.

St. John's Church Concert.

This (Thursday) evening the much-talked-of concert will be given at this church, when a most attractive programme will be presensed. The choir, under Professor Seward's direction, will "chant" with characteristic fervor, Messrs. Harry Hunt and Sam Meyer will give as an organ duet, the overture to Reissiger's "Felsenmuhle," and Madame Zeis Dennis will make her first appearance in this city in an aria from "Le Prophete" and an "Ave Maria."

Grand Carnival Ball.

The box sheet for the Grand Carnival Ball, to be given at the Mechanics' Pavilion, November 19th, is now open at Sherman & Hyde's, and the seats are being sold at such a rapid rate that we seriously advise those intending to go, to procure their places at once, or their chances to get good ones will be nil. As will be seen by referring to our advertising columns, the list of prizes is something unusually fine. No less than $800 have been devoted to the part of the programme.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George C. Thompson in his specialties, Ned Barry in his Dutch songs, Swain and West in double song and dance and "Another Trip to Pris," with Frank Mortimer as Mr. Fitzwilliams.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Charley Nickerson makes his first appearanse here to-morrow evening in his Ethiopean specialties to "Bad Man from Texas," "Sonnambulist," "Arrival of Neilson" and "Paris by Gaslight."

Harp and Star Variety Theatre.

Johnny Tuers is an immense success and the whole programme seems to have gained in spirit by his presence. To-morrow evening, benefit Mlle. Blacnche.

Woodward's Gardens.

A performance and concert is given every Saturday and Sunday, rain or shine. This week third time of the grand sports of the Trampoline, and Sig. Gonzales in his great double somersault leap and the bridge of bayonets, Miss Mathews, the fascinating danseuse in her Tarantula dance and pantomime "Love in a Tub;" Elif Johnson the champion jig dancer; Gus Mooney clog dancer and the gymnastic troupe.

Notes.

The entertainment given by the Bohemian Club at Platt's Hall last night for the benefit of the Virginia sufferers was most successful. The house was filled to overflowing and the programme was carried out with immense spirit. The receipts must be something handsome.

We are at last to have a good variety theatre. At least, such is Manager John Wilson's intention. Our reader's may remember that nearly six months ago we mooted the adveisability of turning the Palace Amphitheatre into a variety place of amusement. This is being done and a large force of workmen has been engaged during the last two or three days transforming the interior of the building. There will be, when the changes are completed, an orchestra, dress circle, and second circle, with a stage thirty-three feet deep, with a width not yet decided upon. It is expected that the whole arrangements will be completed within the next forty days, when it will be offered at a monthly rent of $600; and if no sufficiently responsible takers are found, Manager Wilson will run it himself.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

THE BRIDE'S STORY.

When I was but a country lass, now fifteen years ago,
I lived where flows the Sacramento through meadows wide and low;
There first, when skies were bending blue and blossoms blowing free,
I saw the ragged, little boy that went to school with me.

His homespun coat was frayed and worn, with patches covered o'er,
His hat—ah, such a hat as that was never seen before.
The boys and girls, when first he came, they shouted in their glee,
And jeered the ragged little boy who went to school with me.

His father was a laboring man, and mine was highly born;
Our people held both him and his in great contempt and scorn;
They said I should not stoop to own a playmate such as he,
The bright-eyed, ragged little boy, who went to school with me.

Yet spite of all the jeers around from children better dressed,
My heart went out to meet the heart that beat within his breast;
His look was fond, his voice was low, and, strange as it may be,
I loved the ragged little boy who went to school with me.

For years they had forgotten him, but when again we met
His looks, his voice, his gentle ways, remained in memory yet;
They saw alone the man of mark, but I could only see
That bright-eyed, ragged little boy who went to school with me.

He had remembered me, it seemed, as I remembered him,
Nor time, nor honors, in his mind the cherished past could dim;
Young love had grown so older love, and so to-day you see
I wed the ragged, little boy that went to school with me.

A Martyr.

A literary gentleman, who has graduated in dyspepsia, writes the following treatise on the subject: "I hav laid down more than 2 thousand times, and I rolled over once a minute all nite long, and got up in the morning like a korpse, and thar didn't nothing seem to ail me enny where in particklar. I hav red whole librarys on the stumuck and liver, and when i got thru, i knew a great deal less what was the matter uv me than when I begun. I hav drank whiskee with roots in it enuff to carry off any bridge or saw mill in the country. I hav worked on a farm for my vittles and board, and dieted on fride pork and ri bred until I was as thin az the sermon of a 7 day paptist preacher. I hav done all theze things and 10 thousand other things just as ridiculus; and I hav got the old dispepshee yet, just az natral and az thik as the pimples on a 4-year-old goose. If you git a good hold ov the dispepshee once, you kant never looze it entirely, it will cum around once in a while like a ghost, and if it don't scare yu az it did once, and make yu think yu are going to die to-morrow, it will make yu feel just as sorry."

Father and Son.

"My son," said old Keizle, appearing at the head of the stairs with a suspicious looking strap in his hands, "it is now the rosy time of morn, and Aurora shines high in the heavens, warming the heart of the lark as he soars aloft filling the air with his melodies. Awake, my son, and breathe thou the freshness of a new-born day!" "Let the world have on its ocean noise, I ask but sleep," said Tom, as he pulled the blankets close about and rolled over. But old Keizle was not to be trifled with, and gathering the blankets in one hand, he roared, "But my son, the busy day, waked by the lark, hath roused the ribald crow, and them infernal hogs is in the cornfield raisin' blazes with the fodder! Git up, you lazy, snorin' hound, you, or I'll blister your hide wuss'n a yaller jacket!" "I come!" replied Tom, as he arose from his couch of rest and rye straw with the alacrity of a streak of spring lightning.

In The Detroit Police Court.

A YOUNG LAWYER.

"Your cognomen, my son?" asked the court of a boy of eleven, who came out wiping his nose with as much vigor and rapidity as if he were being paid ten cents a wipe.

"He's dead!" sobbed the boy.

"You don't understand me—I mean your name."

"Bill."

"Bill what?"

"Bill Davison."

"Well, bub, I have heard a very bad report concerning you. I am told that you broke a window and called a woman bad names. How is it?"

"I'll tell you, and I won't lie, nuther. I was goin' 'long Congress street, and a woman axed me: "Boy, will you bring in some coal?' And I said I would for twenty-five cents. And she said: 'You little lazy brat, you ought to be in the poorhouse!' And I said I was much obliged, and she set her dog on me. I never called her no names, and I broke the window throwin' at the dog."

"Is Mrs. Skidmore here?" asked the court.

"She wasn't, and after a look around the boy continued:

"Folks has no business to call boys names, nor set dogs on 'em."

"Have you been telling me the truth, boy?"

"Yes, I have. I'm willing to be struck dead as a herring if I've lied! Where is the woman? Why don't she come here and swear agin me? Here's where the dog bit me on the leg, and I'll face her any time!"

"William, you may go, but keep out of trouble hereafter. It's pretty hard for a free American citizen to run away from a skirmish, but you had better dodge around the corner than to get into a wrangle with a woman. Go in and find your hat, quit wiping your nose, go to bed early, and you will some day be able to deliver an agricultural address before a country fair."

TOO MUCH TALK.

"Your name is Dagger, is it?" asked his honor of a very robust woman with a very big mouth.

"Yes, sir, my name's Dagger, and it's as good a name as any one's, and I'd like to know why the police should arrest an innocent woman and bring her down here when she isn't guilty of anything?"

"Hold on, madam—wait for breath!"

"I won't hold on for any one, and I think it's a burning shame that I should be dragged down here for nothing at all, when I know of plenty who ought to be hung by the neck, and—"

"Madam, pause for one brief moment, I entreat you. I want to ask you some questions."

"I can't help your questions, nor I would not care to, for when I think of a great big policeman, with red whiskers, hauling me off down here to lock me up, it makes me so mad that—that—"

She gasped and choked, and he had a chance to say:

"Hush, now, or I will have to send you up."

"You won't have to send me up, either, and if you did I wouldn't care much, for I would sue the city and get damages, for I am a woman of good family, and I've got a brother who won't stand by and see any one abuse me, and all I want is to get out of here!"

His honor had picked up the daily paper and was reading the news, and when she found that her talk didn't interest him she quit talking.

"Are you through?" he asked, as she closed.

"No, I an't through, and I never will be through, and I want the newspapers to know just how a poor innocent woman, who never harmed a fly in her life, had been dragged down here and locked up, for I was never locked up before in my life, and I propose to——"

"Thirty days!" he said, at this point, and as Bijah led her away her tongue was going like a water-wheel.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

TOBACCO CULTURE.

A few years ago it was thought that tobacco, like many other plants, would not flourish in California. When the tobacco plantation at Gilroy was started: nearly all were doubtful of the undertaking being successful. But time demonstrated that a better grade of tobacco could be raised in this State than in any other part of the Union. When the first crop was ready to be gathered, the leaves were cured by the Culp process, and so sanguine of success were the directors of the Company that they threw their cigars on the market before they were properly seasoned. As usual there were many more ready to detract than to praise the new undertaking. A Gilroy cigar does not smoke even, they leave a bitter taste, they are this, that, and the other. Learning by experience, the Gilroy Tobacco Company, or as it is now known, the Consolidated Tobacco Company, went quietly to work making up their stock of tobacco into cigars, made some decided improvements in the curing process that enabled them to retain the volatile oil that gives the delicacy and flavor to a cigar of the first quality. Their plantation and factory at San Felipe, is very extensive. They have employed as many as seven hundred and fifty men, their productive power is about one and a half million of cigars a month, they have made up and in stock about four millions. Almost incredible as this amount may seem it is really less than three months work. The Gilroy cigars are now recognized as equal to the imported, and rank infinitely superior to any other domestic cigar made in any part of the United States. They not only find a ready market on this coast, but have been shipped within the last two years in immense numbers East. Besides the cigar making, the Consolidated Company are manufacturing and selling large quantities of smoking and chewing tobacco. In fact their business is so extensive that we may safely class it as one of the most important industries of the State. The first trade sale of their products will take place on the 9th instant, and is commented on by the Post as follows:

The Consolidated Tobacco Company have introduced a new feature in its business. On the 9th instant it will offer at auction 1,000,000 cigars and a quantity of fine cut chewing tobacco. Whether this is the initiation of a system of regular trade sales or merely a means of reducing the stock which has accumulated during the partial stagnation of the last eight or nine weeks we cannot say. It is certainly, however, an excellent means of bringing there local productions more generally before the trade and large consumers, and we trust the company will find it satisfactory. It is decidedly the interest of this State, which pays out so many millions a year for cigars and tobacco, that it should be a success. The town of Gilroy more than half depends on the business of this Tobacco Company and there is demand enough in California for the "weed," in one form or other, to suport half a dozen towns of its size. The Gilroy smoking tobacco ranks with the leading brands manufactured in the United States, if it does not excel them and the company's declaration that their cigars are the best manufactured in the country is gaining credence, especially during the past twelve months, among some smokers who sneered at the project when the company was established. The catalogue embraces some 150 lots, and we learn the instructions to sell these are peremptory. Whether the directors will offer any duplicate lots from their large stock at Gilroy, will depend on whether, taking into consideration the pressure of the times, the prices obtained are moderately reasonable.

A Feeble Fable.

One day Mrs. Lovejoy, of Detroit, sat down with her elbows on her knees, sighed drearily, and said unto her son:

"Montgomery, I am old and faded. A few more autumns and the sad Fall winds will sigh and moan over the dead sods which cover my breast."

"My mother," said the dutiful son, as he rose up and laid his youthful cheek against the face on which Time had beaten for seventy years, "my mother, are you not happy?"

"How can I be, my son, when my best raiment consists of this old and faded dress?"

The boy said no more, but sighed with her and left the humble cot. The mother was still gazing sadly at the old three-legged cook stove and wishing that some prince had been smitten with her in her young days, when the son returned. His face wore a beautiful smile of love, and as he handed her a bundle he tenderly said:

"Here, my good mother, thy son hath brought thee fourteen yards of delaine that thou mayest appear in raiment befitting one of thy years and many virtues."

And she fell on his neck and sobbingly inquired:

"My son, how came you by the goods?"

"I had money laid by in a secure place," he answered, "and it fills me with joy to use it for my mother."

She fell on his neck again, stuck her nose in his eye, and was sending a torrent of motherly tears down behind his paper collar when a policeman walked in and remarked:

"I want that young man for stealing that 'ere dress!"

And as the dutiful son was led away by the collar it didn't look much like a fable to him.

A Willing Man.

He said he used to be a reporter on a Cincinnati paper, but lost his situation for telling the truth. Was out of work hadn't a shave or a clean shirt for twenty-one days, and he wanted a free pass to New Orleans.

The Vicksburg Herald man replied that the boats didn't pass anybody this Fall, and the ex-reporter smiled blandly and said:

"All right—get me a pass to Jackson."

He was told that a railroad pass was an impossibility, but that there was a plain highway which he could take, and he promptly replied:

"I'll take a pass on a mule team!"

He was made to understand that no teamster would carry him on a free pass, and he pondered awhile and said:

"Then I'll go up the river."

It was just as impossible to pass him up the river as it was down, and when he came to realize this he said he would edit the Herald for $30 per week. Being told that there was no vacancy, he wanted to set type, do job work, run a press, or fire for the engineer. Debarred from a situation of any kind, he wanted a "pass" to a first-class hotel for a week's board while he was looking around. The idea was not acted on, and he offered to go to a boarding-house. Disappointed in this, he wanted to borrow $5, and when repulsed in this direction he fell into a fit of despondency, from which he soon rallied to exclaim:

"Hang me, if this isn't a tough town! I'm tight up, but I won't be hard on you. If you'll trade hats I'll call it square, and pass on to the next place."

Rebuffed again, he said he'd take it out in a letter to the Mayor of New Orleans recommending him as a Christian and a gentleman, but he finally compromised for a dozen exchanges and a chew of tobacco, and went down stairs singing:

"The world is tuff,
And so am I—
Cheer up, Jim Rogers,
I'll pass ——"

And his voice was lost.

It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

California Theatre.

"Maum Cre" seems nightly to increase in popular favor. Amusing scenes, pleasantly varied with exciting incidents, and songs are scattered plentifully throughout the piece.

Maguire's New Theatre.

The houses continue to grow and grow with each performance of "The Overland Route" which is now played to a full and thoroughly well entertained house.

Opera House.

No break in the houses here. Crowded seats and laughter are the characteristics of the evening's amusement. First and second part are both admirable

Grand German and Italian Opera.

This evening Verdi's opera of "Rigoletto" will be produced with Miss Ida Valerga as Gilda. The cast includes besides Pietro Baccei as the Duke of Mantua, Luigi Contini as Rigoletto, Mlle. Anna Elzer as Madeleine, and Frank Fischer as Sparafucile the assassin. To-morrow afternoon "Fra Diavolo."

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

It should be remembered that the proceeds of the performance here will be given to the Virginia City Sufferers, and not only the proceeds, but each member of the company will donate his or her night's salary in the same good cause.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Charley Nickerson the Ethiopean comedian, makes his first appearance, and Mat Carroll his reapearance. These two popular men will greatly strengthen the company.

Harp and Star Variety Theatre.

This evening, Mlle. Blanche, takes her benefit, when a specially attractive bill will be presented. "A Night in the Opium Den" is in active preparation.

Grand Carnival Ball.

The box sheet for the Grand Carnival Ball, to be given at the Mechanics' Pavilion, November 19th, is now open at Sherman & Hyde's, and the seats are being sold at such a rapid rate that we seriously advise those intending to go, to procure their places at once, or their chances to get good ones will be nil. As will be seen by referring to our advertising columns, the list of prizes is something unusually fine. No less than $800 have been devoted to the part of the programme.

Woodward's Gardens.

A performance and concert is given every Saturday and Sunday, rain or shine. This week third time of the grand sports of the Trampoline, and Sig. Gonzales in his great double somersault leap and the bridge of bayonets, Miss Mathews, the fascinating danseuse in her Tarantula dance and pantomime "Love in a Tub;" Elif Johnson the champion jig dancer; Gus Mooney clog dancer and the gymnastic troupe.

Notes.

The church concert at St. John's last evening was in every way gratifying to its projector, Prof. Lewis Seward, the organist of the church. Not only were all the choruses given with spirit and accuracy, but there were some solos which deserved and received particular attention. Chief among these should be mentioned those of Madame Zeis Dennis of whom we shall have more to say to-morrow, a sweet, simple song by Jos. Maguire and the organ voluntary—modestly styled a Reverie by De Pas—by Seward, which was played with such ease and delicacy as to call out a most enthusiastic encore.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equal to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

The Antelope Oyster House.

Sarah's Back Up:

Outside papers must quit publishing fictitious items about Detroit or some one will get hurt. The other afternoon a woman with a black belt and a pair of spectacles on entered the editorial rooms of the News holding a Chicago daily in her hand, and she walked up to a stoop-shouldered, consumptive toiler, who had dropped in to see a New York exchange, and grimly asked:

"Who's Sarah?"

He replied that he had never heard of her, when she unfolded the paper and pointed to the following:

"There is an old woman in Detroit named Sarah, who has worn one pair of stockings right along for sixteen weeks."

"It's a lie!" said the old lady, "and you've got to take it back or—or—I'll—!"

She finished by sliding her hand along his shoulder until her fingers got hold of his necktie.

"I haven't nothing to do with that," he gurgled, as he tried to pull away: "that's a Chicago paper."

"I know it, but it's a lie, and I can prove it."

"I know you can, madam, if it was meant for you! I don't believe you'd go eight weeks without changing stockings."

"No, nor even six," she exclaimed, pressing against his 'Adam's apple' with her thumb. "I can prove that I change as often as any one else."

"I don't think it means you," he said, getting his left eye on the item.

"Yes it does," she foamed. "Ain't my name Sarah, and ain't I oldish, and ain't I a woman? Oh! such lies make my blood bile!"

"Well, you want to go for some one in Chicago. It has nothing to do with this paper."

"Hain't, eh? I know better! You are all linked in together, and I presume you read that yesterday and lafed and lafed, and thought Sarah was an old fool!"

"I never saw it before."

"But Sarah is no fool!" she resumed, towering above him. "You just mark this, you long-geared grave-stone you: If thar's another item in the paper's about Sarah you'll never know what broke your neck!"

And she laid her fist on the table, flourished it under his nose and went out saying:

"Sixteen weeks! Think of the baseness of it!"

Hard Times Ahead.

Jake sauntered up to where Pete was sitting mending a whip-lash.

"Pete, please, sir, lend me a quarter?"

"Is you a fool?" said Pete.

"Pay yer back nex week, 'clar to grashus."

"Takin' up a kerlection to get into de circus, am ye?" again queried Pete.

"No I ain't—I swar I ain't—I'm got a pretickular use for dat quarter, to-day!" earnestly urged Jake.

"Well, I can't nergosherate de quarter fer ye to-day, Jake."

"Pay ye back, shore, Pete; ef I don't I hope I may die."

"Yer can't do it, chile, I tell ye! Dere's mighty hard times comin' nex' week—de cirkus be hyar an'll bankrup' de town. 'Spose ye don't recomember dat de cirkus wid one elemphant last year nigh busted Atlanta, and now dis on's got four—tink 'o dat?—four elemphants, an' I tell yer money's gwyne to be skeercer dan freedman banks round hyar nex' week! Go 'long chile!"

And the child went off minus the quarter.

What They are Coming to.

This is the way an Eastern paper looks at it: "They are getting tighter every day. Not that they are not pretty; not at all that, you know. But really, in about two weeks at this rate, they will have to get one skirt made for each—each—well, each limb, if they want to walk at all. And—ha! who knows but that is the way they propose to attain pantaloons? Is there strategy here?"

Haven't Got the Hops:

If you think we haven't, just try the Swan Ale, San Francisco brewed. It is equal to the best English ale. *

Infants'

Cloaks, Sacques, Lace Caps and Bonnets, etc., just received at Palmer's, 726 to 734 Market St.

We like to see a man enjoy himself. We saw one do it the other afternoon. He entered a Fourth street car. He took a standing seat and hung on by a leather strap. He looked around the car. His eye lit on a young lady. "I'll bet ten dollars," he said in a pretty loud voice, "that most of the hair that gal wears isn't her own. No taker, eh? Then I'm ten dollars winner." He cast his eye around the car again. This time he singled out a pompous-looking gentleman who carried a gold-headed cane. "That man dyes; I can see the white hairs close to the flesh. I'll bet ten dollars he's paralyzed inside of two years. No takers, eh? Then I win ten dollars more." He turned to a young man who had but shortly commenced the raising of a mustache. He gazed at him so earnestly that the youth blushed to the color of a peony. "That young man uses onguent and cream and cigar ashes to coax his mustache to grow. Bet ten dollars that he's thinking in his own mind that he'll have it dyed to-morrow. I'll bet ten dollars that he'll become as big a loafer and as demented a jackass as the old noodle who dyes. No takers, eh? Then I'm ten dollars more ahead." Then he settled his eyes on a stout woman who carried a market basket on her lap, and who had a pleasant, contented look on her face. "That woman has got her basket stuffed with sheeps' livers, and she's thinking what a fine dinner she'll have for her husband when he gets home from his work. I'll bet ten dollars that he'll come home drunk, and raise a row, and throw all the liver out of the window, and make the children go to bed supperless, and then give his wife a black eye. No takers, eh? Then I'm ten dollars more ahead—that makes forty in all." Just then he felt something fumbling at his shirt collar, and looking down he beheld the stout woman. "Yiz forty dollars ahead, ye dirty blackguard! I'll give ye forty dollars werth, ye mane, contimptible, miserable low-lived omadhaun!" At each adjective she gave him a thwack over the head with her basket, and as she shouted "omadhaun," she gave him a push with her whole strength which sent him sprawling on his back, with his head outside the rear door. The conductor yanked him on his feet, and the amused gentleman got off the car without ringing for it to stop. When he was gone the stout woman gazed contemptuously for an instant at the two men about whom a bet of ten dollars had been offered, and then she said: "Ye're a purty pair of things to call yerselves men! There isn't man enough in yez both to weigh down a feather. That for yiz," and snapping her fingers in their faces, she resumed her seat. The two men to whom she had alluded seemed uncomfortable, and the first time the car stopped both got off. Perhaps they went to sympathize with each other. There was a drinking saloon on the corner where they got off.

Wife and Tiger.

A friend of ours who is in the wild animal collecting business, recently secured a fine Bengal tiger. His wife wouldn't stay in the house so long as the animal remained, so our friend wired to an acquaintance as follows: "Have a tiger. Wife won't stay if the tiger does. Must keep tiger. Can't you give wife accommodation for a few weeks?" His acquaintance telegraphed: "Send her along." The wife went, and at the end of ten days the wild beast man received the following telegram: "Take your wife back. You can send the tiger in her stead. In fact, a whole menagerie would be preferable!" Those two men aren't on speaking terms now.

The Reason Why.

Fondling a husband with a stove lid wouldn't at first glimpse appear to be the proper thing. But it is excusable when we consider the attending circumstances. She had said to him: "Darling, I am growing old." And he added: "And blasted ugly, too." That's why the stove lid took a prominent part in the family discussion.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish bock."

FIRST LEVEE IN THE STATE.

Grain Growers' ASSOCIATION.

OFFICERS:

[illegible] F. Beach, N. R. Eddy,

[illegible] Tyler, Jr., F. S. Carter,

C. Dunlap.

THE OBJECT OF THE ASSOCIATION IS the raising of grain in Levied Land District No. 205, twenty miles from Sacramento, on the Sacramento river. This District is surrounded by the best Levee in the State, being from 15 to 20 feet high, 60 to 90 feet at the base and 20 feet on top with roadway. This Levee is twenty-one miles long and is now being sown with alfalfa. The land differs from some of the reclaimed lands, as the foundation of the levee is clay, and the levee itself is built of the same material, insuring absolute security against an overflow of water. Over $300,000 has already been expended in the construction of this immense levee, and this company has secured a lease of 5,000 acres of land, the finest in the State, at an annual rental of $6 31 per acre. All the steamers to and from Sacramento stop at Courtland on this land and afford rapid and easy communication to parties desiring to see the work as it progresses. The promoters of this enterprise have leased this land in order to secure all the improvements now on the premises for working it to the best advantage. The immense productiveness of these lands is too well known to require comment. One acre of this land when sown in wheat will produce a certain crop of 60 bushels, which at two cents per pound is worth $72, and which will leave a net profit of $52 per acre after deducting rent and expenses. The second year will be a volunteer crop, which, less expenses, is clear profit. A dividend of all the profits accruing will be paid on the 1st day of August next, as the crop will be gathered and marketed during June and July.

The company is incorporated into 5,000 shares, at a par value of $10 each, or one share to each acre of land cultivated. Plowing has been commenced and is now in progress, and will be pushed as rapidly as possible until completed. Subscriptions for a limited number of the shares will be received at the office of the company at the rate of $10 per share, and no further calls can be made, and each share subscribed will entitle the holder to the profits on one acre of wheat, which will give a return of at least $50 per share in August.

Parties living at a distance wishing to subscribe can send money by Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, or certificates of deposit.

Apply at the office of the company, 15 Stevenson Building, corner California and Montgomery streets. Accommodations, feed and transportation from San Francisco or Sacramento, will be furnished to parties having teams and wanting contracts to plow.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

NEW YORK.

In the forthcoming revival of "Caste," at Wallack's Theatre, Miss Ada Dyas will be the Esther Eccles, which she sustained several hundred nights with the late Fred Younge's company, throughout England. Miss Effie Germon will play Polly; Mr. George Honey his original character of Eccles, and Mr Montague, Captain D'Alroy.

Miss Helen Houghton appeared at the Bowery Theatre on Nov. 1st, in her new drama, "Justina; or, A Strange World."

It is stated that Miss Lydia Thompson will return to New York Nov. 22d.

"Led Astray' is enjoying a long and brilliant run at the Union Square Theatre, and as yet we hear nothing of its removal.

"The Overland Route" still keeps the boards at Wallack's, "Caste" being the next piece advertised.

"Our Boys" was withdrawn from Daly's on the 23d, only to make room for Edwin Booth, who appeared on the 25th in "Hamlet" His appearance was welcomed heartily by a crowded house, and at the conclusion of the play he came before the curtain and said: 'That when he built, at the corner of Twenty-third street, a theatre as a home for the drama, he had great hopes of its proving a success. It did not pay. He was now commencing life over again, and under difficulties. He was in debt and incumbered with a broken and useless arm. He craved the indulgence of his friends and of the public, and trusted they would overlook his many shortcomings.' The scenery is said to have been incongruous and the costume incorrect.

As we have frequently said, "The Mighty Dollar" will only be withdrawn from the boards of the Park Theatre to enable Mr. and Mrs. Florence to keep their engagement at the California Theatre.

Frank Frayne and family followed Kate Fisher and horse at Wood's Museum. "Si Slocum" was followed by "The Hidden Hand."

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" is being played at the Grand Opera House.

Variety bills of varied quality are being played at the Olympic, the Theatre Comique, Tony Pastor's, the Third Avenue, the Tivoli, the Globe, the Eagle Theatre and the Parisian Varieties, formerly Robinson Hall.

The Mexican Infantile Opera Bouffe Troupe made their first appearance at the Lyceum Theatre, on the 1st.

At the New York Conservatory of Music, a series of chamber concerts is being given.

The San Francisco Minstrels keep their high places in popular favor.

Gilmore's Concert Gardens are still nightly thronged.

"Le Canard a' Trois Becs" proved a success at the Lyceum Theatre as produced by the Geoffroi Troupe. A season of French comedy and drama was inaugurated on the 27th ult., the opening piece being Sandeau's comedy "Le Gendre de M. Poirier." "Frou-Frou" followed, and on the 30th, "Dalila" was produced for the first time in America.

Chickering Hall will be opened on the 11th inst., by Herr Hans Von Bulow, that being his first appearance in New York.

The Kellogg English Opera Company played a most successful season at Booth's, concluding with the first presentation in America of Sir Jules Benedict's "Lily of Killarney." On the 2·th ult., G. L. Fox and the Humpty Dumpty Troupe followed for a season.

"Les Huguenots" on Oct. 21st, 'Le Postillion" on the 23d, "La Juive" on the 25th and 29th, "Il Trovatore" on the 27th, and "William Tell" and "La Dame Blanche" during the past week, have been the bills at the Academy of Music during the portion of Wachtel's engagement included in these dates.

Mrs. E. L. Davenport acts the part of Chorus in "Henry V." at the Walnut-street Theatre, Phila.

Barry Sullivan's Beverly is severely criticised by the Boston Courier.

Two of the latest emanations from the fecund brain of W. S. Gilbert, "Sweethearts," and "Tom Cobb," were presented at Hooley's Brooklyn Opera-House on Oct. 18th, 19th and 22d, to medium patronage. On the 20th, "Bulls and Bears" was revived, and repeated 21st. "O'Reilly's Risk; or, Irish Hearts and Irish Homes," was produced 22d, and was to be continued until further notice.

John Dillon will succeed the Florences at the Park.

Geo. Belmore has been so indisposed that "The Flying Scud" has been withdrawn from the Brooklyn Theatre, and "Around the World in 80 Days" put on in its place.

Anna Dickenson will, they say, yet act the Maid of Orleans at Daly's.

Rossi has not given a cent compensation to the managers of the Lyceum Theatre.

Commercial travelers as a rule are rarely conspicuous on the lecture platform, but Manager Wm. H. Lilliendahl has discovered in Mr. Henry A. Horn a gentleman peculiarly gifted with the faculty of describing and illustrating the humorous features of "Drumming as a Fine Art." This is the title of a lecture given at Steinway Hall on the 27th ult.

ELSEWHERE.

DR. SPINNEY & Co's

DISPENSARY,

No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE. — There was another full house last night to see "The Overland Route," and so great has been the improvement in the attendance during the past week that it has been decided to continue it all during the next or at least until further notice.

OPERA HOUSE.—In the first part are some half dozen good songs and in the second a series of specialty pieces and acts of the superior quality that marks everything done by the Emerson's California Minstrels.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—"Maum Cre" grows in popular favor and it seems a pity to remove it, but "Help" is underlined for Monday next, and will doubtless bo given, as Mr. Murphy is equally as good in the one as the other. "Maum Cre" this afternoon and evening for the last times.

GRAND GERMAN AND ITALIAN OPERA—"Rigoletto" was given last night and was on the whole a most commendable success. The two duos, the quartette and "La Donna e Mobile" were encored. This afternoon "Fra Diavolo," to-morrow evening, "Der Freichutz" for the production of which extraordinary preparations are being made.

HEROLD'S ORCHESTRAL MATINEE.—The programme of the next concert, to be given on Wednesday afternoon next, will include Beethoven's Symphonie in C minor, the Prelude from Wagner's "Lohengrin" and the overture to Auber's "Crown Diamonds."

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE. — Ned Barry, Charley Kimic, George C. Thompson, Swain and West in their specialties and "Another Trip to Paris" to-night.

NEW OLYMPIC VARIETY THEATRE.—Charley Nickerson was loudly applauded on his first appearance here last night, Matt Carroll, the Harrises and Charley King are all on the bill to-night.

HARP AND STAR VARIETY THEATRE.—Johnny Tuers, John Finnerty, Mastersen, Harry Devoy and Billy Randall are among the artists for to-night.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—Attractions.—A performance and concert is given every Saturday and Sunday, rain or shine. This week third time of the grand sports of the Trampoline, and Sig. Gonzales in his great double somersault leap and the bridge of bayonets, Miss Mathews, the fascinating danseuse in her Tarantula dance and pantomime "Love in a Tub;" Elif Johnson the champion jig dancer; Gus Mooney clog dancer and the gymnastic troupe.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from any thing else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain railroad.

Dr. D. Percy,

The eminent Astrologer and Healer, has arrived in this city and taken rooms at No. 206 Kearny Street, rooms 11 and 12.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equal to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

The Antelope Oyster House.

Our specialty, always the best oysters in market served up in the best style of cooking. Our Eastern transplanted oysters excel any other in market. Established in 1864. No. 612 Market near Montgomery. N. B.—Ice Cream, Strawberries and Cream, and all Fruits in season. B

The Fall and Winter Styles

Of hats are now being introduced at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny their assortment is large and well selected, all the styles being of a tasty and pleasing shape and of the best material, while the prices are the lowest possible. Don't forget to call and examine their stock at 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. R. H. Cowan's Institute, removed to 207 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, from 1 to 6 P. M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. Reference given if required. H

The Acme of Art

DRAMATIC NOTES.

"God helps those who help themselves," is the motto on John Piper's bill for the Miners' Union Hall, Gold Hill, where on Sunday evening last, the remnant of his company gave "one grand performance, to supply healthy amusement in this moment of great distress." "The Hidden Hand," was the sweet bill. Annie and Kate Firmin, Miss Belle Douglas, John Jack, and C. Mestayer are still with the company. On Wednesday last "The Hidden Hand" cheered the Silver Citizens in their distress.

On Monday evening next, Marie Antoinette Nathalie Riendeplus Pollard gives an entertainment at Platt's Hall, for the Virginia City Sufferers.

When John McCullough received the good news from Barton Hill that over fourteen hundred dollars had been sent to the relief of the Virginia City Sufferers, he telegraphed back to the company the curt, though pregnant message "God bless you all."

Mr. John McCullough opened at Cincinnati on the 1st. Will open at Baltimore on the 23d.

Mr. Cunningham's attention is called to the announcement that Mr. Lawrence Barrett is at the Opera House, Albany.

The scenery in "The Overland Route," now successfully running at Maguire's New Theatre, is the work of Mr. Dayton, formerly of the Grand Opera House, New York.

We should not be surprised if the engagement of the Florences were postponed for a week or two in consequence of the immense success with which "The Mighty Dollar" is meeting at the Park Theatre, New York. This deferring of a good thing will only serve to whet the public appetite and the interim will doubtless be most agreeably filled.

It was the intention of Maguire's Comedy Company to produce "Everybody's Friend" next week, but owing to the increasing success of "The Overland Route," Tom Taylor's comedy will be continued. On Monday week, the grand spectacular burlesque of "The Fair One in the Blonde Wig," will be produced. It will include all the members of the company (with the exception of Miss Hawthorne, Miss Wilmot and James O'Neill), and much auxiliary aid from the outside. One of the principal characters will be sustained by Miss Marian Singer. New music has been arranged by Mr. Harry Widmer, new scenery is being painted by Mr. Dayton, who is an adept in spectacular arrangements, opera bouffe music will be introduced by a picked chorus and altogether a big thing is to be anticipated.

Last week we published the item that Harry Allen had been engaged by C. D. Hess to create the part of Myles na Coppaleen in "The Lily of Killarney," at Booth's, New York. We are glad to be able to announce that his performance was a thorough success.

The N. Y. Sunday Dispatch says:—"The American's Gold," a new drama by Augustus Piton, at one time of Booth's Theatre, is shortly to be produced at Maguire's New Theatre, San Francisco. We're afraid it went up with Duncan & Sherman.

At the Church Concert at St. John's Church on Thursday evening last, a Madame Zeis Dennis, made her first appearance in San Francisco. The lady comes originally from the Italian Opera, Paris, but more directly from the French Opera of New Orleans. She opened with Nicolao's "Ave Maria," and it was seen when she had concluded the first two bars of recitative that she had a clear, highly trained voice. When, as the evening wore through, she sang an aria from Meyerbeer's "Le Prophete" and as encore, the Page's song from "Les Huguenots," it was the opinion that San Francisco had cause to congratulate herself on an acquisition. The voice of Madame Zeis Dennis is one of exceptional range, her chest notes being phenomenally deep, her method is almost faultless, and her expression the result of long and high training. Of her success there can be no doubt, for Church Concert as this was, the applause that broke out on the conclusion of her "Ave Maria" was both loud and prolonged. Professor Lewis Seward deserves, and has our thanks for introducing Madame Dennis to the public.

Joaquin Miller has followed his wife's example and taken to lecturing. With the honors of his new poem "The Ship of the Desert" thick upon him, he will do well. He was at Washington on the 30th of last month.

"Our Boys" will be the next attraction at the California Theatre. This lively farce-comedy of H. J. Byron is now in its seventh week at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, is also approaching its 300 h night in London, and is being acted in Liverpool, Boston and Philadelphia.

Miss Fanny Davenport is a "star." She played at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, October 20 and 21. Her repertoire consisted of "Divorce" and "Madelein Morel," and her attendance was barely sufficient to meet the expenses. She had better have been contented with her Daly bread.

Prentice Mulford has also gone on the rostrum, and on the 24th of last month gave a lecture in New York on "The Lesson of California." The only lesson it strikes us to be learnt here, is "each for himself, and the devil take the hindmost."

It is said that the reason why Boucicault was not permitted to accompany the Prince of Wales to India was through fear he would lay his hand upon his heart and thank Heaven he was born a Hindoo. Curtain.

Clara Morris promises to attain as great celebrity as a writer as she has secured as an actress. There was a little story of hers in Saturday week's Graphic entitled "The Little Ballet Girl," which was admirably told. It is decidedly the best literary specimen she has yet favored the world with, and is a vast improvement on her letters.

Herr Jacob Muller, baritone of the late Mulder-Fabbri troupe, has returned from Vienna and is in New York. He is shortly expected in San Francisco.

The New York Spirit of the Times says that Dominick Murray is going to write a Centennial play on "The Spy," Cooper's novel. It will be played at the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, April 3, 1876. Is it possible that Dom has shaken Bill, or is there a mistake and is Bill's work, which is bound to make Dom's fortune, here confounded with what might be taken to Dom's work, having found Bill's to be Dom'd bad—Steady! Mixed ourselves by jingo! Let it slide, there's the item at all events.

C. B Plummer is in Colorado.

Miss Jean Clara Walters has gone back to Salt Lake.

Eastern exchange: Miss Cora Adriana, who danced in the last revival of "The Black Crook" at Niblo's, is now in San Francisco. Is she? Where?

On Tuesday evening next, Mlle. Anna Elzer takes a benefit when Auber's opera "The Mason and Locksmith" will be produced. We confess to a feeling of astonishment on learning that the beneficiare is only seventeen years old.

The Phelps dramatic troupe are doing fairly at the New Market Theatre, Portland. Miss Zoe Gayton and Jas. Herne are amongst its memers.

There will be yet another variety place of amusement opened in San Francisco on or about next Saturday. The name fixed upon is the New Lyceum, and the location is to be at the South East corner of Kearny and Sacramento streets.

San Jose has had nothing to amuse herself with during the past week except a reading by Hood Alston on Monday last. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next Hermann will attempt to distract the attention of the San Joseites away from their climate.

We are sorry and there are many with us who will be sorry to hear that kind-hearted "Dick" Hooley has become bankrupt. It is everybody's wish that he may soon get out of his present shallows and float again upon the flood of that tide which shall lead him on to fortune.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

This land differs from some of the reclaimed [la]nds, as the foundation of the levee is clay, and [th]e levee itself is built of the same material, in[s]uring absolute security against an [o]verflow of water. Over $300,000 has [a]lready been expended in the construction of this [i]mmense levee, and this company has secured a [l]ease of 5,000 acres of land, the finest in the [S]tate, at an annual rental of $6 31 per acre

All the steamers to and from Sacramento stop at Courtland on this land and [o]ffer rapid and easy communication to parties de[s]iring to see the work as it progresses. The pro[m]oters of this enterprise have leased this land in [or]der to secure all the improvements now on the [p]remises—for working it to the best advantage. [T]he immense productiveness of these lands is too [w]ell known to require comment. One acre of this [l]and when sown in wheat will produce a certain [c]rop of 60 bushels, which at two cents per [p]ound is worth $72, and which will leave a net [p]rofit of $32 per acre after deducting rent [a]nd expenses. The second year will be a volunteer [c]rop, which, less expenses, is clear profit.

A dividend of all the profits accruing will be [m]ade on the 1st day of August next, as the [c]rop will be gathered and marketed during June [a]nd July.

The company is incorporated into 5,000 shares, [a]t a par value of $10 each, or one share to [e]ach acre of land cultivated. Plowing [h]as been commenced and is now in progress, and [w]ill be pushed as rapidly as possible until completed.

Subscriptions for a limited number of the shares [w]ill be received at the office of the company at the [r]ate of $10 per share, and no further calls can be [m]ade, and each share subscribed will entitle [t]he holder to the profits on one acre of wheat, [w]hich will give a return of at least $50 per share [i]n August.

Parties living at a distance wishing to subscribe [w]ill send money by Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, [f]or certificates of deposit.

Apply at the office of the company, 15 Stevenson Building, corner California and Montgomery streets.

Accommodations, feed and transportation from San Francisco or Sacramento, will be furnished to parties having teams and waiting contracts to plow.

F. S. CARTER, Secretary.

"Our Boys" was withdrawn from Daly's on the 23d only to make room for Edwin Booth, who appeared on the 25th in "Hamlet." His appearance was welcomed heartily by a crowded house, and at the conclusion of the play he came before the curtain and said: "That when he built, at the corner of Twenty-third street, a theatre as a home for the drama, he had great hopes of its proving a success. It did not pay. He was now commencing life over encumbered with a broken and useless arm. He craved the indulgence of his friends and of the public, and trusted they would overlook his many shortcomings.' The scenery is said to have been incongruous and the costumes incorrect.

DR. SPINNEY & Co's

DISPENSARY,

No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that: for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN,

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE. — There was another full house last night to see "The Overland Route," and so great has been the improvement in the attendance during the past week that it has been decided to continue it all during the next or at least until further notice.

OPERA HOUSE.—In the first part are some half dozen good songs and in the second a series of specialty pieces and acts of the superior quality that marks everything done by the Emerson's California Minstrels.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—"Maum Cre" grows in popular favor and it seems a pity to remove it, but "Help" is underlined for Monday next, and will doubtless be given, as Mr. Murphy is equally as good in the one as the other. "Maum Cre" this afternoon and evening for the last times.

GRAND GERMAN AND ITALIAN OPERA— "Rigoletto" was given last night and was on the whole a most commendable success. The two duos, the quartette and "La Donna e Mobile" were encored. This afternoon "Fra Diavolo," to-morrow evening, "Der Freichutz" for the production of which extraordinary preparations are being made.

HEROLD'S ORCHESTRAL MATINEE.—The programme of the next concert, to be given on Wednesday afternoon next, will include Beethoven's Symphonie in C minor, the Prelude from Wagner's "Lohengrin" and the overture to Auber's "Crown Diamonds."

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE. — Ned Barry, Charley Kimic, George C. Thompson, Swain and West in their specialties and "Another Trip to Paris" to-night.

NEW OLYMPIC VARIETY THEATRE.— Charley Nickerson was loudly applauded on his first appearance here last night, Matt Carroll, the Harrises and Charley King are all on the bill to-night.

HARP AND STAR VARIETY THEATRE.— Johnny Tuers, John Finnerty, Masterson, Harry Devoy and Billy Randall are among the artists for to-night.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—Attractions.— A performance and concert is given every Saturday and Sunday, rain or shine. This week third time of the grand sports of the Trampoline, and Sig. Gonzales in his great double somersault leap and the bridge of bayonets, Miss Mathews, the fascinating danseuse in her Tarantula dance and pantomime "Love in a Tub;" Elif Johnson the champion jig dancer; Gus Mooney clog dancer and the gymnastic troupe.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from any thing else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain railroad.

Dr. D. Percy,

The eminent Astrologer and Healer, has arrived in this city and taken rooms at No. 206 Kearny Street, rooms 11 and 12.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equal to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

The Antelope Oyster House.

Our specialty, always the best oysters in market served up in the best style of cooking. Our Eastern transplanted oysters excel any other in market. Established in 1864. No. 612 Market near Montgomery. N. B.—Ice Cream, Strawberries and Cream, and all Fruits in season. B

The Fall and Winter Styles

Of hats are now being introduced at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny their assortment is large and well selected, all the styles being of a tasty and pleasing shape and of the best material, while the prices are the lowest possible. Don't forget to call and examine their stock at 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. R. H. Cowan's Institute, removed to 207 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, from 1 to 6 P. M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. Reference given if required. H

The Acme of Art

In the photographic line is attained at Brodeck & Co's. Art Gallery, 640 Market street, opposite the Palace Hotel. This establishment is no less celebrated for the artistic skill and finish of its pictures than for its moderate charges for all work done. Call and see specimens of work. J

ven't Got the Hops:

If you think we haven't, just try the Swan Ale, San Francisco brewed. It is equal to the best English ale.

DRAMATIC NOTES.

"God helps those who help themselves," is the motto on John Piper's bill for the Miners' Union Hall, Gold Hill, where on Sunday evening last, the remnant of his company gave "one grand performance, to supply healthy amusement in this moment of great distress." "The Hidden Hand," was the sweet bill. Annie and Kate Firmin, Miss Belle Douglas, John Jack, and C. Mestayer are still with the company. On Wednesday last "The Hidden Hand" cheered the Silver Citizens in their distress.

On Monday evening next, Marie Antoinette Nathalie Riendeplus Pollard gives an entertainment at Platt's Hall, for the Virginia City Sufferers.

When John McCullough received the good news from Barton Hill that over fourteen hundred dollars had been sent to the relief of the Virginia City Sufferers, he telegraphed back to the company the curt, though pregnant message "God bless you all."

Mr. John McCullough opened at Cincinnati on the 1st. Will open at Baltimore on the 23d.

Mr. Cunningham's attention is called to the announcement that Mr. Lawrence Barrett is at the era House, Albany.

The scenery in "The Overland Route," now successfully running at Maguire's New Theatre, is the work of Mr. Dayton, formerly of the Grand Opera House, New York.

We should not be surprised if the engagement of the Florences were postponed for a week or two in consequence of the immense success with which "The Mighty Dollar" is meeting at the Park Theatre, New York. This deferring of a good thing will only serve to whet the public appetite and the interim will doubtless be most agreeably filled.

It was the intention of Maguire's Comedy Company to produce "Everybody's Friend" next week, but owing to the increasing success of "The Overland Route," Tom Taylor's comedy will be continued. On Monday week, the grand spectacular burlesque of "The Fair One in the Blonde Wig," will be produced. It will include all the members of the company (with the exception of Miss Hawthorne, Miss Wilmot and James O'Neill), and much auxiliary aid from the outside. One of the principal characters will be sustained by Miss Marian Singer. New music has been arranged by Mr. Harry Widmer, new scenery is being painted by Mr. Dayton, who is an adept in spectacular arrangements, opera bouffe music will be introduced by a picked chorus and altogether a big thing is to be anticipated.

Clara Morris promises to attain as great celebrity as a writer as she has secured as an actress. There was a little story of hers in Saturday week's Graphic entitled "The Little Ballet Girl," which was admirably told. It is decidedly the best literary specimen she has yet favored the world with, and is a vast improvement on her letters.

Last week we published the item that Harry Allen had been engaged by C. D. Hess to create the part of Myles na Coppaleen in "The Lily of Killarney," at Booth's, New York. We are glad to be able to announce that his performance was a thorough success.

The N. Y. Sunday Dispatch says:—"The American's Gold," a new drama by Augustus Pitou, at one time of Booth's Theatre, is shortly to be produced at Maguire's New Theatre, San Francisco. We're afraid it went up with Duncan & Sherman.

At the Church Concert at St. John's Church on Thursday evening last, a Madame Zeis Dennis, made her first appearance in San Francisco. The lady comes originally from the Italian Opera, Paris, but more directly from the French Opera of New Orleans. She opened with Nicolao's "Ave Maria," and it was seen when she had concluded the first two bars of recitative that she had a clear, highly trained voice. When, as the evening wore through, she sang an aria from Meyerbeer's "Le Prophete" and as encore, the Page's song from "Les Huguenots," it was the opinion that San Francisco had cause to congratulate herself on an acquisition. The voice of Madame Zeis Dennis is one of exceptional range, her chest notes being phenomenally deep, her method is almost faultless, and her expression the result of long and high training. Of her success there can be no doubt, for Church Concert as this was, the applause that broke out on the conclusion of her "Ave Maria" was both loud and prolonged. Professor Lewis Seward deserves, and has our thanks for introducing Madame Dennis to the public.

The Phelps dramatic troupe are doing fairly at the New Market Theatre, Portland. Miss Zoe Gayton and Jas. Herne are amongst its memers.

There will be yet another variety place of amusement opened in San Francisco on or about next Saturday. The name fixed upon is the New Lyceum, and the location is to be at the South East corner of Kearny and Sacramento streets.

Joaquin Miller has followed his wife's example and taken to lecturing. With the honors of his new poem "The Ship of the Desert" thick upon him, he will do well. He was at Washington on the 30th of last month.

"Our Boys" will be the next attraction at the California Theatre. This lively farce-comedy of H. J. Byron is now in its seventh week at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, is also approaching its 300th night in London, and is being acted in Liverpool, Boston and Philadelphia.

Miss Fanny Davenport is a "star." She played at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, October 20 and 21. Her repertoire consisted of "Divorce" and "Madelein Morel," and her attendance was barely sufficient to meet the expenses. She had better have been contented with her Daly bread.

Prentice Mulford has also gone on the rostrum, and on the 24th of last month gave a lecture in New York on "The Lesson of California." The only lesson it strikes us to be learnt here, is "each for himself, and the devil take the hindmost."

It is said that the reason why Boucicault was not permitted to accompany the Prince of Wales to India was through fear he would lay his hand upon his heart and thank Heaven he was born a Hindoo. Curtain.

The New York Spirit of the Times says that Dominick Murray is going to write a Centennial play on "The Spy," Cooper's novel. It will be played at the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, April 3, 1876. Is it possible that Dom has skaken Bill, or is there a mistake and is Bill's work, which is bound to make Dom's fortune, here confounded with what might be taken to Dom's work, having found Bill's to be Dom'd bad—Steady! Mixed ourselves by jingo! Let it slide, there's the item at all events.

C. B Plummer is in Colorado.

Miss Jean Clara Walters has gone back to Salt Lake.

Eastern exchange: Miss Cora Adriana, who danced in the last revival of "The Black Crook" at Niblo's, is now in San Francisco. Is she? Where?

On Tuesday evening next, Mlle. Anna Elzer takes a benefit when Auber's opera "The Mason and Locksmith" will be produced. We confess to a feeling of astonishment on learning that the beneficiare is only seventeen years old.

Herr Jacob Muller, baritone of the late Mulder-Fabbri troupe, has returned from Vienna and is in New York. He is shortly expected in San Francisco

San Jose has had nothing to amuse herself with during the past week except a reading by Hood Alston on Monday last. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next Hermann will attempt to distract the attention of the San Joseites away from their climate.

We are sorry and there are many with us who will be sorry to hear that kind-hearted "Dick" Hooley has become bankrupt. It is everybody's wish that he may soon get out of his present shallows and float again upon the flood of that tide which shall lead him on to fortune.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

TUESDAY..............NOVEMBER 9

MISS X. AND THE CASTOR OIL.

An incident occurred last Wednesday afternoon in the store of a fashionable dispenser of drugs, not five thousand miles from Montgomery street, which though comical in its general features bore for one of the dramatis personæ an almost tragical aspect. It happened in this wise: Miss X, who is too well known to be mentioned here save under the disguise of the unknown quantity, called upon a fashionable chemist who had a knack of "putting up" castor oil in such an exceedingly delicate and professionally artful way, that the Palma Christi secretion was effectually and pleasantly hidden in the palatable vehicle.

So it was that Miss X (heaven forgive us for tampering with the secrets of one so fashionable), put a query to the sweetly curled young man behind the counter as to whether it was not in his power to prepare castor oil in such a manner that it might be administered to the patient's internal good without affecting the palate's nice descrimination.

"Certainly," replied the youthful Æsculapius, smiling in such a manner as to advertise the virtues of Sozodont, "Certainly, Miss. Will you take a seat?"

The seat was taken and the order given to prepare such a mixture, and whilst the curly head of the clerk was bent in the laboratory over the mysteries of his concoction, the fashionable head of Miss X, played an incessant game of right bower to all the fashionable young ladies and gentlemen who wended their fashionable way to the matinee, there to sit for two hours in the highly creditable enjoyment of their own society and—Beethoven.

The afternoon was warm, and the curly-headed vendor of Lubin's Extracts, in a moment of gallantry, bethought himself that Miss X, fashionable though she was, might still be guilty of so plebeian a sensation as thirst. Therefore, it was that a brimming cup of pretty pink-frothed soda was offered, accepted, and drunk.

The curly-headed dispenser of anything, from a comb to ipecachuana (warranted to smile at each sale), went back to his laboratory, and Miss X returned to her ducks of inclinations. The minutes passed and so did the fashionable lovers of music. Miss X began to grow impatient.

"Have you the preparation ready?" she inquired, daintily buttoning the third button of her left hand glove.

"You have already taken it," said he of the Sozodonted teeth. "Taken it?" gasped Miss X, "How? When?"

"In the soda water!" replied the clerk.

"Gracious Hevings!" shrieked Miss X, already feeling the premonitory warnings of an internecine disagreement, "It was for my mother! I am going to the matinee!"

Breaking it to Him.

One of the most methodical and unimpassioned men, says the Boston Commercial Bulletin, was Buckram, the former dry goods potentate of Boston. His manner of discharging one of the 'young men' who, after trial, was found not up to the requirements of the business," is reported as follows: The youth would be summoned to Buckram's desk and be thus addressed:

"James, how long have you been with us?"

"Two years and a half, sir."

"Two years and a half! Ah. Have you had any vacation at all, James?"

"No, sir," would be the response, as James began to entertain a more kindly feeling toward the old man, who would terminate the interview by saying:

"Well, James, you had better go up home for awhile. Mr. Balance, give James twenty dollars, and James, we will send for you when we want you again."

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and al epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

Billia Parlor, northeast corner of Bush and Kearny streets, entrance on Bush street. The best lighted and most comfortable Billiard Hall in the city—has 17 front windows. Rooms for private parties. Six new tables. Pocket tables for Pool parties. Best of cigars and liquors. m

The original "Swain's Bakery" is now established in their magnificent new place at 213 Sutter street near Centre Market, and has added a lunch room and ice cream saloon. This is their only place o business.

Try the Swan Ale and be convinced of its superior merits. *

DR. SPINNEY & Co's

DISPENSARY,

No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN,

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

California Theatre.

"Help" promises to prove even a greater success than "Maum Cre." People are awaking to the conviction that Mr. Joseph Murphy has a fund of humor and pathetic power which they were at first disinclined to believe in. Whether as Ned J. Daily the young Comedian, Pat O'Shaunessy the wo'ild Oirishman, Mickie McGaff the Fiddler, or Christopher Von Leibenstein the young Deutchlander, he is strongly individualized, the characters being carried through without a break or lapse. The 'Musical Sketches' are well worth hearing.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"The Overland Route" begins its second week auspiciously. The attendance last night was good and the performance passed off with a vim and smoothness with which scarcely any fault could be found. It will be continued during the week during which time too, we shall take the opportunity of noticing a few of the characters.

Opera House.

It is scarcely necessary to say that the fourth week of the Minstrels began last night with a crowded house and a capital programme. The first part in which there are some most amusing and pleasing songs concludes with Emerson's original finale of "The Old Cabin Home." In the second part are "A Trip to Paris," Fayette Welch in his "Album of Fun," Mackin and Wilson in their song and dance of "The Briar," the farce of "Weston the Walker" and Billy Emerson as "Muldoon." By the way, we question if the solid man was not nearly eclipsed last night by the inimitable manner in which "When Terry First Joined the Gang" was given, this following as encore to "Muldoon."

Grand German and Italian Opera.

This evening Mlle. Anna Elzer the prima donna contralto of this troupe will take her benefit when Auber's opera of "The Mason and The Locksmith" will be given for the secod time. Miss Elzer is well entitled, it seems, to all the titles that the bill claims for her, "charming, favorite and young," and especially to the last as she as yet wants three years of being twenty.

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

The programme of the instrumental concert, for to-morrow afternoon, will include Beethoven's Symphonie in C minor, the Prelude from Wagner's "Lohengrin" and the overture to Auber's "Crown Diamonds."

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The specialties of George C. Thompson, the Ethiopean comedian, the original songs of Ned Barry, the Dutch eccentricities of Charles Kimic, and the sensational piece of "Another Trip to Paris," make up a first-class programme.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

"The Modern Mazeppa" is in preparation and will soon be produced, "Japanese Tommy" never fails to elicit roars of laughter, whilst the acts and olio are all good.

New Palace Varieties.

Johnny Tuers has made an immense hit, and Harry Howard's success is well assured. The bill for to-night is one well worth considering. The joint benefit last night jointly pleased both audience and beneficiares.

Woodward's Gardens.

An excellent variety entertainment Saturday and Sunday, rain or shine. This week Jas. Lee, the American tumbler and acrobat; Sen. Gonzales, the Champion, in his illustrations of Chinese, Arabian and English tumbling and double somersault leap; the fascinating Miss Mathews; the pantomimime of Love in a tub; the two Dromios, Elif Johnson, Gus Mooney, the gymnastic troupe and Orchestral Concert.

Notes.

On Wednesday week, November 17th, the Hon. Sam Wetherill, takes a farewell complimentary benefit, when an enormous bill will be presented. The burlesque will then be in full swing, a hundred volunteers will appear, including Hermann who will on that evening make his only reappearance in this city.

On Friday evening, Nov. 12th, Billy Emerson will receive a grand complimentary benefit, when an extraordinary bill will be presented.

We are glad to see that on Monday next, Fred Walz makes his reappearance with the Minstrels.

"His Last Legs," "Handy Andy," "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and Byron's new comedy of "Our Boys," are underlined for production at the California Theatre, so that its patrons will have no dearth of amusement to complain of.

The rehearsals for the burlesque are going on famously, and everything seems to promise that "The Fair One with the Blonde Wig" will be presented in a style well becoming so distinguished a young woman.

Amongst the passengers lost on the ill-fated Pacific, were Messrs. Hulburt and Rockwell. Professor Rockwell will be remembered as the famous horse trainer whose clever performances with his educated stock, attracted so much attention at the Palace Amphitheatre about a year ago

Dr. D. Percy,

The eminent Astrologer and Healer, has arrived in this city and taken rooms at No. 208 Kearny Street, rooms 11 and 12.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

SHAKSPEARE ON MAN.

"THE TWO GENTLEMEN OF VERONA."

O Heaven! were man
But constant, he were perfect; that one error
Fills him with faults; makes him run thro' all th' sins.

"THE COMEDY OF ERRORS."

A man is master of his liberty:

There's nothing situate under heaven's eye
But hath his bound, in earth, in sea, in sky:
The beasts, the fishes, and the winged fowls,
Are their males' subjects, and at their controls;
Men, more divine, the masters of all these,
Lords of the wide world and wild wat'ry seas,
Indued with intellectual sense and souls,
Of more pre-eminence than fish and fowls,
Are masters to their females, and their lords.

"THE MERCHANT OF VENICE."

There are a sort of men whose visages
Do cream and mantle, like a standing pond,
And do a wilful stilness entertain,
With purpose to be dressed in an opinion
Of wisdom, gravity, profound conceit,
As who should say, "I am Sir Oracle,
And when I ope my lips let no dog bark."

"KING HENRY THE EIGHTH."

This is the state of man: to-day he puts forth
The tender leaves of hope; to-morrow blossoms,
And bears his blushing honors thick upon him;
The third day comes a frost, a killing frost,
And, when he thinks, good easy man, full surely
His greatness is a-ripening, nips his root,
And then he falls.

"TIMON OF ATHENS."

O see the monstrousness of man,
When he looks out in an ungrateful shape!

"JULIUS CÆSAR."

Let me have men about me that are fat.
Sleek-headed men and such as sleep o'nights:
Yon Cassius has a lean and hungry look;
He thinks too much: such men are dangerous.

"MACBETH."

I dare do all that may become a man:
Who dares do more is none.

"HAMLET."

What a piece of work is a man! how noble in reason! how infinite in faculty! in form and moving how express and admirable! in action how like an angel! in apprehension how like a god! the beauty of the world! the paragon of animals!

"CYMBELINE."

Men's vows are women's traitors.

"PERICLES."

Third Fish. Master, I marvel how the fishes live in the sea.

First Fish. Why, as men do a-land; the great ones eat up the little ones.

Hubbites on Bulow.

They say Boston went wild over Von Bulow. Miss Hub, meeting her friend Miss Athens on Beacon street, "isn't he splendid? I declare I'm wild about him: Such expression, grace, brilliancy and ——." "And doesn't he get over the keys like a thoroughbred," put in Miss Hubb's big brother joining the ladies at this juncture.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

FOREIGN THEATRICAL NEWS.

Mrs. Eva Ross Church, a daughter of Capt. Marryatt, has been playing Mrs. Smyllie, in "Nine Points of the Law," at the Operetta House, Edinburgh, Scotland.

M. Dumas has concluded his new drama, "L'Estrange," for the Francaise, Paris. When it has received a few finishing touches it will be read to the Committee of the Rue Richelieu house.

The London Era says: "Mrs. Vandenhoff has only recently returned from France, where she has been residing some months for the benefit of her husband's health." Slightly vague, isn't it?

A gentleman calling himself Mr. Matt Hughson is being extensively advertised in the English theatrical papers as "America's own Dutch, Irish and Ethiopian comedian," and with all his versatility we have heard nothing of these unappreciative Englishmen honoring him with a public reception, torchlight procession, or military parade.

Henry Neville, after playing Bob Brierly for a thousand times at the Olympic, London, became ill, and went traveling for his health.

Rose Massey opened on the 4th of Oct. in the burlesque, "The Idle 'Prentice," at the Theatre Royal, Nottingham, her first appearance after returning from America.

Gounod, the composer, has fallen down stairs at the house of Oscar Commettant, in Paris, and dislocated his shoulder.

Mrs. John Wood is lying dangerously ill in Birmingham, Eng.

Lord Granville says that Mr. Gladstone, the English prime minister, not only has one of the finest voices ever heard, but continues singing to the present day.

Rossi, the Italian tragedian, had appeared at the Salle Ventadour, Paris, in "Othello," with great success. It was thought very difficult to decide as to the comparative merits and genius of himself and Salvini. A critic says: "Their rendering is cast in the same mould, they possess almost identical physical advantages, and, except in a few details, the Othello of Rossi and the Othello of Salvini are so strikingly alike that the two Dromios could not be more twin-like. All that had had been heard and read of Signor Salvini's magnificent presence, gloriously musical voice, intense power, and infinite delicacy of expression and action, came flashing back to the mind during the progress of the play."

At the Court Theatre, Berlin, Oct. 3d, during an operatic performance, Herr Besser, the first bassoon player in the orchestra, was observed to perspire in an extraordinary manner, and when his attention was invited to the circumstance, he replied, "I should not be surprised if I were the victim of an apoplectic fit." Shortly after he left the orchestra, and was followed by the second bassoon player, who found him dead outside the orchestra door. The second player fainted on seeing his dead confrere, and the representation was delayed for some time.

Mr. E. A. Sothern will be playing at Manchester until the 20th.

Offenbach's new operetta "Le Creole" is to be brought out at the Bouffes, Paris.

Mr. Calvert, to whose taste the production of "Henry V." was so much indebted, has produced, with equal magnificence and accuracy, Byron's fine tragedy of Sardanapalus, in Manchester, England. The last scene is described by the Guardian as unusually beautiful and effective. It represents the burning of the King's palace: "A more terrific looking conflagration could hardly be attempted. The throne of the doomed king is built up with burning material, as directed by him, the pile occupying the whole available portion of the stage, and when the curling white smoke began to rise, and the red and white flames to hiss and leap in devouring volumes, shedding showers of sparks, until the structure began to crash and tumble in ruins, those who could assure themselves that what they beheld was a harmless mimic fire merely, and not a destructive reality, must have been the few, and not the majority. We can fully imagine that Mr. Calvert's gentle words at the close, when he assured the audience that the spectacle, however horrible it might seem, was, on his word of honor, perfectly and completely harmless, were a most welcome consolation to no small number of the visitors, who, springing to their feet during the ghastly tumult of the conflagration, had been ready to fly, believing the illusion had been carried a step too far, and that the whole theatre was in flames. The scene will remain a perplexity and a sensation as long as it is repeated."

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

Cat shows are the latest fashionable amewsment at Montreal.

A Nevada paper speaks of an urchin that had been playing with a mule's tail as "a spoiled child."

"Mother," said a little English girl, just arrived in the country, "is that an 'en?" "No, my dear," said the mother, "it is not an 'en, it is a howl." "My wife, and my daughter," said the father, "it is not an 'en nor a howl, but it is a heagle, the hemblem of this hawful country."

"You haven't opened your mouth during the whole session," said an M. C. to a fellow-member. "Oh, yes, I have," was the reply; "I yawned through your whole speech."

Now that foreigners are at last allowed to travel in the interior of China, what a splendid new field is thus unexpectedly opened for the life-insurance, lightning-rod, and sewing-machine men of America.

In what metre should "Up in a balloon" be sung? Gas meter.

If captains were less reckless, there would be less wrecks.

Whiskey is alike an internal furnace and an infernal turn-us.

Take care of the poor Indian and he'll take hair of the white man.

The gambler's I-deal—Four aces.

Man wants but little, Herr Bulow.

Snifkins staked his all on the result of a game of euchre the other night, and lost. Throwing down the cards peevishly, he broke forth in the following pathetic strain: "'Twas ever thus in childhood's hour, I've seen my fondest hopes take flight, and and every time I played left bower, some one took it with the right.

When a citizen of Rochester is blown into the dreamy hereafter by a kerosene lamp explosion the gas company officials grimly remark: "Comes o' fighting agin honest monopoly."

Since there is less skirt deceit there is a better chance for a horse-car seat.

A close observer is responsible for the statement that, when a mouse makes its appearance in a Ladies' Sewing Circle, the women with striped stockings on always jump the highest.

Stanley says that African mosquitoes are as big as a Kentucky chew of tobacco.

Star spangled stockings are the latest fashionable caprice, but the probabilities are that we shall not see—

What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleaming.

A correspondent writes to know why we do not publish more original poems. The trouble is generally that they are not long enough. Most young writers confine themselves to twenty or twenty-five verses, and the sentiment has no opportunity for expansion.

A Duluth assessor says it is positively amazing how cheap property becomes as he passes up or down a street. It falls seven per cent. whenever he enters a house.

"What does 'Good Friday' mean?" asked one schoolboy of another. "You had better go home and read your "Robinson Crusoe,'" was the withering reply.

A Pennsylvania printer who is the father of twenty-six children is puzzling himself to account for the hard times.

Some young men in Louisville have formed an "anti-lift-your-hat-to-a-woman society." Now let the Louisville young ladies form an "anti-bow-to-a-puppy society."

Shakspeare said, "There is a tide in the affairs of men," but it appears to be pretty much all tied-back in the affairs of women.

An Indiana gentleman buried one wife on Tuesday, married another on Thursday, and was divorced on Saturday, and he wants to know if a bigger week's work was ever performed by any one man before the panic.

It takes 'em half an hour to get the big English cannon ready to fire, and by that time a fellow could dodge, heel it around the corner, and tuck himself away in a dry goods box.

Bismarck's daughter is thirty-eight, and he has succeeded in getting her married. Bismarck is a great—a very great man.

A Western editor apologizes to his readers somewhat after this fashion: "We expected to have a death and a marriage to publish this week, but a violent storm prevented the wedding, and the doctor being sick himself, the patient, recovered, and we are accordingly cheated out of both."

DR. SPINNEY & Co's

DISPENSARY,

No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well-known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your ease.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

From all appearances "The Overland Route" will be played to as good a second week's business as it enjoyed in the first. In reviewing the six or seven good characters found in the play, we question if in its present presentation the right of priority does not belong to Mr. M. A. Kennedy. In the first two acts his make-up is not only excellent and most characteristic, but the individuality of Sir Solomon Fraser, K. C. B. is most enjoyably sustained. There is no lapse, no break in the impersonation. Coming in then as he does in the third act, the change is something marvellous. Nothing, save the walk, remains to show that this gray, toothless, bald querulous, old, very old man, and the gay, debonair, glossy-haired, black-whiskered, middle-aged beau, are one and the same people. Mr. Kennedy has now the companion picture to his De Haas in his collection of stage fops.

Opera House.

Where it not so pleasant, it would become rather monotonous to write nothing every morning but "another good house last night; everybody pleased, and every seat filled." So it is, however, and we dare say, the management won't complain so long as this state of affairs goes on.

California Theatre.

"Help" continues to draw well. Besides the characters assumed by Mr. Joseph Murphy, and which of course are the principal in the play, there are two or three others which materially help out the interest of the piece, the Tracy Randall of J. A. Sawtelle, the Amos Wireback of Robert Pateman, the Nubbles of John Wilson and the Mother Kit of Mrs. C. R. Saunders for instance.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

Miss Elzer's benefit was marked by a capital production of Auber's opera of "The Mason and the Locksmith," by a full house, by much appreciative applause and by the presentation of bouquets and other floral offerings innumerable. On Friday evening the success of the season, "Der Freischutz" will be repeated.

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

The programme of the instrumental concert, for this (Wednesday) afternoon, will include Beethoven's Symphonie in C minor, the Prelude from Wagner's "Lohengrin" and the overture to Auber's "Crown Diamonds."

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The first part consists of wit, song and fun, and in the second, all the artists appear in their favorite specialties and capital acts. The bill as usual is excellent.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Miss Belle Parker, vocalist, late of Tony Pastor's, makes her first appearance here to-night. All the acts for to-night are new with the exception of "Paris by Gaslight" which continues an attraction.

New Palace Varieties.

The Arabian Child Wonder makes his first appearance to night in his great contortion act, H. Howard has made a hit, and the whole bill is good.

Woodward's Gardens.

An excellent variety entertainment Saturday and Sunday, rain or shine. This week Jas. Lee, the American tumbler and acrobat; Sen. Gonzales, the Champion, in his illustrations of Chinese, Arabian and English tumbling and double somersault leap; the fascinating Miss Mathews; the pantomimime of Love in a tub; the two Dromios, Elif Johnson, Gus Mooney, the gymnastic troupe and Orchestral Concert.

Notes.

On Wednesday next, November 17th, the Hon. Sam Wetherill, takes a farewell complimentary benefit, when an enormous bill will be presented. The burlesque will then be in full swing, a hundred volunteers will appear, including Hermann who will on that evening make his only reappearance in this city.

Piper's company has been playing in Gold Hill, Silver City, Dayton and Carson, with very fair success.

We received, yesterday, a communication from John Jack, dated at the Carson Theatre, in which he states that contrary to general report, he lost everything in the late fire at Virginia City, "save a few wigs, a coat, vest, smoking jacket and one stage blouse." "My effects," he goes on to say, "that were lost in the fire, comprised the accumulation of twenty-three years' labor in my profession, my costumes, Dramatic and Musical Library of MSS. and printed plays. Miss Firmin saved much valuable stage wardrobe, but her loss will reach two thousand dollars." It is Mr. Jack's intention, as may be seen from an advertisement in another column, to organise a company to travel through Nevada for the Winter season.

Dr. D. Percy,

The eminent Astrologer and Healer, has arrived in this city and taken rooms at No. 206 Kearny Street, rooms 11 and 12.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F, Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and al [illegible]ures who can appreciate good liquors and a g[illegible] lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

"MEASURE FOR MEASURE."

The hand that hath made you fair hath made you good; the goodness that is cheap in beauty makes beauty brief in goodness; but grace being the soul of your complexion, shall keep the body of it ever fair.

"LOVE'S LABOR'S LOST."

Beauty is bought by judgment of the eye,
Not utter'd by base sale of chapmen's tongues.

"TROILUS AND CRESSIDA."

The beauty that is borne here in the face
The bearer knows not, but commends itself
To others' eyes; nor doth the eye itself,
That most pure spirit of sense, behold itself,
Not going from itself; but eye to eye oppos'd
Salutes each other with each others form;
For speculation turns not to itself,
Till it hath travell'd and is mirror'd there
Where it may see itself.

O, she doth teach the torches to burn bright!
Her beauty hangs upon the cheek of night,

Beauty is but a vain and doubtful good;
A shining gloss that fadeth suddenly:
A flower that dies when first it 'gins to bud;
A brittle glass that's broken presently;
A doubtful good, a gloss, a glass, a flower,
Lost, faded, broken dead within an hour.

And as goods lost are seldom never found,
As faded gloss no rubbing will refresh.
As flowers dead lie wither'd on the ground,
As broken glass no cement can redress,
So beauty blemish'd once's for ever lost,
In spite of physic, painting, pain and cost.

Wachtel.

"Wachtel is about the same as ever," says Walsingham of the Baltimore Bulletin, "His voice is as clear, as resonant and as capable of producing phenomenal effects as when he did the great duo with Mme. Parepa Rosa on the same stage, on that memorable night when these great artistes, combined with Santley, made a 'last appearance,' which in the case of one of them, proved but too true a farewell. Wachtel is a man of fifty-five, but no one would have imagined it, to look the other night at his fine erect figure and coal-black hair, set off by the royal purple garb of Raoul. He married in his green and coachman days, by-the-way, a very excellent person who happened to be a washerwoman. When he arose to eminence—when, in short, he cut the horses—he perceived at once that this alliance would not—in fact—'wash.' A divorce was obtained, and now Wachtel is the happy possessor of a cultivated wife who curls his hair for him (I mean literally,) and who watches with vigilant eye from the wings for any evidence of too great tendresse on the part of her primo tenore towards the lady whom he may be obliged to make love to. Wachtel has long been what is vulgarly called a 'masher.' I number on my book of acquaintances a lady who told me once that when she was in the chorus at a German theatre—before she advanced through her talent—that she was wildly in love with this great but high C personage, and knew of no way to make the bright being notice her small self. So what should she do one day at rehearsal but step on his toes! This delicate advance had not, however, the right effect, and I believe that the expression extorted from him by the injury to his corns effectually cured her."

A Word to the Wise, etc.

The Fall and Winter Styles

Them Actors!

Two little stories illustrating the ludicrous horror in which the rustic mind holds "the profession" have been exciting so much mirth of late in the coulisses that I take the liberty of putting them before you. Last Summer a Boston swell sought in vain for sometime at Cohasset, Mass., for the residence of Charles R. Thorne, Jr., and Stuart Robson whom he had been been invited to vist. None of the old inhabitants knew about them. At last he lounged into a grocery of a primitive pattern perched on the rocks. "Can you tell me where Mr. Charles Thorne lives?" he enquired. "Dunno," said the Cohasset man. "Or Mr. Robson?" "Robson? is he a theatre actor?" "He is." "Oh, yes, Robson—Thorne—them actors (pointing with his thumb over his shoulders), there's a whole raft of them actors living together down there!"

This is matched by a story told by Clara Morris. Once when she was traveling in a company through Ohio they were obliged to leave for the next town on their route at an early hour. Tired and sleepy they bundled into the stage which was to convey them to the station. Just before they started, in jumped a highly respectable old party and proceeded to make him and his carpet-bag comfortable. The driver stuck his head through the window and said, "Say, mister, do you belong to this troupe?" "My Lord, no!" ejaculated he, and there was room for one more immediately after.

How Jones Saw the Eclipse.

Mrs. Jones got up at five o'clock, the other morning, and went upon the roof to see the eclipse, and when she crawled back, all cold and shivering to bed, she woke up peevish old Jones out of a refreshing slumber.

"You old fool," said he, "where've you been?"

"Looking at the 'clipse."

"Yes, stayin' up all mornin' an' crowdin' into bed to get me all cold."

"Well, I guess I've a right to get up and stay up, if I want to."

"You have, hey?"

"Yes, I have."

"Well, then, get up and—stay up."

Mrs. Jones picked herself up off the floor, and calmly felt under the bed for the boot-jack.

We met Jones on the street, this morning. He limped, and when we mentioned the eclipse, he made an unorthodox remark, shook his cane at us, and limped by.

Pertinacity.

A newspaper publisher being about to engage an advertisement canvasser, thus interrogated the applicant, who stated that he had never been in that line before. "Now," said the publisher, "it is most likely that you will meet with many rebuffs and short answers. What will you do in that case?" "Why, call again till they become civil to me." "Perhaps you will be denied admittance or access to the principals. What then?" "Why, I should sit down on the doorstep till they came out." "Perhaps you would be put out at the front door." "Then I should try to get in by a side one." "Most likely, in such a case, they would threaten to call the police." "Then I should make myself scarce and try to meet my gentleman on Sunday when he came out of church."

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

There are eleven different patent garters, but it is hard to distinguish one kind from the other across the street.

The New York papers tell about a drawback on sugar. That's nothing. There's been a fearful pull back on 'lasses all Summer.

A Chinese mandarin showed his wife how to light a fire with American kerosene, and her experience will be of considerable aid to her second husband,

Mr. Schroeder, of flying ship notoriety, proposes to move through the air at the rate of seventy miles an hour, but he neglects to state whether the time will be made in going up or coming down. Mr. Schroeder should file a bill of particulars.

A circus proprietor in the South offered a Mississippi lynching party the use of his centre pole for the occasion, and considers it the largest night's business he has done during the campaign.

"Madam," exclaimed a cross-grained physician to a patient, "if women were admitted to Paradise, their tongues would make it purgatory." "And some physicians, if allowed to practice there," replied the lady, "would soon make it a desert."

A drunken Savannah negro named Sam Johnson stood two feet behind a mule to see how hard the animal could kick, and the coroner's jury is still waiting for Mr. Johnson to report.

Joaquin Miller is to lecture in Washington shortly. He gives what may be called a Sierras-comic effort.

"Six feet in his boots!" exclaimed Mrs. Partington, "what will the impudence of this world come to, I wonder. Why, they might as well tell me the man had six heads in his hat."

What numberless sources of unhappiness bestrew the female pathway! When a young lady goes to an entertainment and sees a lady friend accompanied by a gentleman she does not know, she does not enjoy the performance a bit, as the whole evening is occupied in wondering who the stranger is.

An English writer says, in his advice to young married women, that their mother Eve married a gardener. It might be added that the gardener, in consequence of his match, lost his situation.

Striped stockings are now tatted. Those that Captain Cook saw in the Sandwich Islands were tattooed.

A melancholy friend in Des Moines despondently writes: "Weather is very wet in Iowa. Weeds are ahead of the corn, grasshoppers ahead of the weeds, grangers ahead of the grasshoppers, and the dreadful 'middle-men' ahead of them all, as usual."

The ruins of a city, said to be 180,000 years old, have been discovered in California, and an effort is being made to get Governor Allen, of Ohio, to tell what he knows about the place from personal experience.

A young woman in Illinois, without money, obtained two dollars, wherewith to proceed to Chicago, by pawning her glass eye.

An Illinois girl refused to be engaged until her lover first insured his life in her favor, and then traveled two years abroad to improve his manners. "If he survives," she sighed, "I shall keep my engagement."

The cry "Go West" has been changed. An editorial article in a Nevada paper is headed "Hop, Yeast."

Cheerful—They are betting in London that the Prince of Wales will be assassinated before his return from India.

St. Louis ladies are said to be celebrated for the grace and rapidity with which they eat peaches.

"I should like to know you well," as the dog said to the bone.

"Shingle weddings," are now coming into fashion. This novel wedding takes place when the first-born is old enough to be spanked.

The woman who shuffles around in cloth slippers, broken down at the heel, and wipes her nose on a flat-iron holder, is the one who leaves gristle in her mince pies and runs a hair-pin in her bread to see if it's done.

The original "Swain's Bakery" is now established in their magnificent new place at 213 Sutter street near Centre Market, and has added a lunch room and ice cream saloon. This is their only place o business.

Infants'

Cloaks, Sacques, Lace Caps and Bonnets, etc., just received at Palmer's, 7_6 to 7_4 Market St.

Altering His Tune.

A youth was rushing around the corner, saying, "All I want in this world is to lay my hands on him!" He presently came upon a boy weighing about ten pounds more than himself, and rushing at him, he exclaimed, "Did you lick my brother Ben!" "Yes, I did," said the boy, dropping his bundle and spitting on his hands. "Well," continued the other lad, backing slowly away, "he needs a lickin' once a week to teach him to be civil."

Palmer's have received a new supply of ladies and children's underwear—very cheap—726 to 734 Market street.

DR. SPINNEY & Co's

DISPENSARY,

No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

Opera House.

Tyrrell has repeated his song of Sadie Ray, and Mackin and Wilson have repeated their song and dance of "The Briar," but save and except these two repetitions (both most desirable), the programme this week is entirely different from that of last week and we think also an improvement. The houses could not improve.

California Theatre.

"Help" is helping to fill out the week and the treasurer's safe in a thoroughly pleasant manner, and there is no talk of any change for the week. Two weeks and two plays is something for Mr. Murphy to be proud of, and proves that the management knew which way the wind lay when the engagement was made. On Monday next "The Colleen Bawn" will be produced.

Maguire's New Theatre.

The house last night was an improvement on that of Tuesday, being larger and warmer. We question if, after Mr. Kennedy as Sir Solomon Fraser, W. H. Crane as Mr. Lovibond should not be mentioned as the second best character in "The Overland Route." From the time he first pops his night-capped head into the saloon to where he last throws his arms around his recovered Laurinda (or whatever Mrs. Lovibond's christian name may be) his every appearance on the stage is the cause of hearty laughter and often applause. Indeed, it has now become the fashion to laugh at each entrance or exit of Crane's, and generally the laugh is deserved. One of the funniest scenes in the play is that at the conclusion of the first act where, when the ship is sinking, Mr. Lovibond rushes in with manacled hands and falls into an attitude of despair the most grotesque and ludicrous conceivable. Without the same original cleverness as his Professor, Crane's Mr. Lovibond is still a remarkably good piece of low comedy.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

The success of the season, Weber's opera of "Der Freischutz," will be repeated to-morrow evening, with the same cast as at its presentation on Sunday night last and with the same extensive mechanical effects.

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

The programme for yesterday afternoon was decidedly superior to that of yesterday week. Hermann's March "Turnergruss," ringing and rhythmical, and Beethoven's Symphonie in C minor, completed the first part. The symphonie which consists of two allegri and an andante, was given with feeling and correctness, the allegro e finale being especially remarkable for its spirit and time. In the second part the Prelude from Wagner's "Lohengrin," was so wierd and novel that it is not yet certain whether the audience was terrified, awed or pleased. The Gavotte which followed is called a companion piece to Amaryllis. Both should be burned. Weber's Quartette for French horns was rather a weak echo from the hunting chorus of "Der Freischutz" and the Overture to Auber's "Crown Diamonds" is too well-known and liked to need further remark.

Miss Ella F. Badger

Will commence an engagement under the management of G. Brohaski at his Opera House, San Jose, on Monday next for a short season. Miss Badger will be supported by G. D. Chaplin, J. C. Burrows, Sam Dennis, L. S. Edmunds, Mr. and Mrs [illegible]k Rea, and a strong company from this city. We hope [illegible] the company will receive from San Jose Theatre goers t[illegible] liberal support deserves.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George O. Thompson in h[illegible] specialties, Swain and West in comic song and dance, Ned Barry in original songs and Kimic in Dutch eccentricities, will all appear to-night.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Miss Belle Parker, vocalist, late of Tony Pastor's, New York, made a most favorable impression last night. All the acts and the entire olio are interesting.

New Palace Varieties.

The bill for to night includes the appearance of such artists as Harry Howard, John Finnerty, the Arabian Child Wonder, Harry Devoy and Billy [illegible]

Woodward's Gardens.

An excellent variety entertainment Saturday and Sunday, rain or shine. This week Jas. Lee, the American tumbler and acrobat; Sen. Gonzales, the Champion, in his illustrations of Chinese, Arabian and English tumbling and double somersault leap; the fascinating Miss Mathews; the pantomimime of Love in a tub; the two Dromios, Elif Johnson, Gus Mooney, the gymnastic troupe and Orchestral Concert.

Notes.

On Wednesday next, November 17th, the Hon. Sam Wetherill, takes a farewell complimentary benefit, when an enormous bill will be presented. The burlesque will then be in full swing, a hundred volunteers will appear, including Hermann who will on that evening make his only reappearance in this city.

George D. Chaplain, the Misses McCabe and others give a dramatic and musical entertainment at Dietz's Hall, Oakland, this evening, under the management of Mr. Charles Schutz.

Dr. D. Percy,

The eminent Astrologer and Healer, has arrived in this city and taken rooms at No. 205 Kearny Street, rooms 11 and 12.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored paper of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

VERSICAL ODDS AND ENDS.

The Pictou (Canada) Times perpetrates the following on a late baby show:

Twenty-four babies all in a row,
Twenty four mammas also on show;
Twenty-four daddies happy as clams,
A show of live babies, none of your shams,
A vision of angels, dear little lambs.

DOUBLE AND QUITS.

All perfect things are double:
Two ears to hear with,
Two eyes to peer with,
Tws hands to steer with,
Save a world of trouble.

But since the mouth is one alone,
It's use we miss,
Save in a kiss—
That perfect bliss
When two single become one.

There was a young man in Chicago,
And he said: "O, may I to your pa go,
And ask for your hand
And your homes and land?"—
That timid young man of Chicago.

There was a young girl in Chicago,
And she said: "If you don't let my paw go,
Your eyes I will scratch,
And your hair I will snatch,
And swiftly I'll make every claw go."

The Washington Capital after informing its readers that Hwalkin Miller has left the Catskills, remarks:

For weeks in plaintive anguish, the Catskillers did languish,
With this long-haired, loudly-rigged rhymer disgusted,
Till he took the right idea, and he got up on his ear,
Paid his bills, and packed his carpet-bag and rose up quick and dusted!
Gone to get his hair cut!

Longfellow slightly paraphrased to suit the times:

"And the night shall be filled with burglars;
And the thieves that infest the day
Shall pick up their traps like peddlers
And carry the spoons away."

The Brooklynites are congratulating each other that they have succeeded in capturing Moody and Sankey before the Philadelphians:

Hankey, panky,
Moody and Sankey.
Philadelphia wanted them first.
"They're ours by right,"
Cried the Brooklynites.
"So let the Brotherlylovers burst."

The following is the latest version of the opening of a well-known song:

My mother bids me bind my hair
But does not tell me which,
Does she mean that piece on my bed-room chair;
Or my fifty-dollar switch?

My household gods are all abroad,
Their name I scarce remember,
And nought is on my hearthstone now
'Cept ember.

And even thus next month shall come,
With humor grim and sober,
And then what's standing now will be Knockt ober.

THE REASON WHY.

"'Tis strange that I remain a maid,
Though fifty swains have homage paid!"
"The reason you have told," says Fanny,
"You have just forty-nine too many."

Epitaph in the cemetery at Keysville, New York:

Sarah Thomas is dead,
And that's enough,
The candle is out,
Also the snuff.
Her soul's in Heaven,
You need not fear,
And all that's left
Is interred here.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equal to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

The Fall and Winter Styles

Of hats are now being introduced at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny their assortment is large and well selected, all the styles being of a tasty and pleasing shape and of the best material, while the prices are the lowest possible. OLD ENGLISH OPERAS.

The following sensible remarks appeared in the last number of the N. Y. Spirit of the Times:

We are of opinion that no department of English drama has so greatly degenerated as the opera. England has produced, within the past half century but two opera composers of any merit, to wit, Balfe and Wallace, and neither of these are exceedingly remarkable. It is true that "The Bohemian Girl" is worthy of praise as a remarkably charming work, quite the equal of any of Auber's operas. And "Lurline" is scarcely less delightful. But in the past there were other composers and other operas, which have never been equaled, and which, unfortunately, are never performed. These being expressly written for the English language and stage, are infinitely preferable to the translated operas that are too often given in their place. Besides, we think, their celebrity and novelty would prove eminently popular. If Miss Kellogg and her troupe will condescend to give our advice their consideration, we imagine they will have no occasion to repent following it. Arne, Shield, Clayton, Purcell, Haydn and Handel wrote English operas, which assuredly are of sufficient merit to be occasionally given. Handel's English operas are simply glorious. His "Agrippina," "Rhadamistus," "Rosamond," and "Regulus" are beyond praise. Each of his many operas contains some eminently popular and celebrated aria; thus, in "Rinaldo," occurs the famous Lascia ch'io Piang la Crude Sorte, and in "Agrippina," Oh, Happy Fate. Arne composed some very agreeable operas, amongst which are "Artaxerxes" and "Alfred the Great," in which latter is Rule Britannia. "Love in a Village" contains the ever favorite, Coming Through the Rye. The Kellogg Troupe ought also to include in its repertoire that very wonderful composition, Dr. Pepusch's "Beggar's Opera." What a Polly Peachum Miss Kellogg would make! The operas of "Lionel," "The Maid of the Mill," and "The Duenna," are also very worthy compositions. A writer in the Sun recently observed that there never would be English opera until the words were made worthy of the music, and the music of the words. But it is curious to observe that such a high kind of opera has been already composed. The words of the old English operas are very fine, and the music has never been surpassed. Purcell's "Tempest" is an immortal production, and none can hear Arne's operas without feeling that pleasure which is ever provoked by musical compositions of a high order.

A Cozy Home.

A Vicksburg wife informed her husband the other morning that she was working herself into the grave for the want of a hired girl, and as he went out, she leaned back and fell to weeping. The children were making a noise in the hall as he passed throughout, and he called out:

"You want to stop this racket! Your mother won't live a week, and when you get a step-mother here next spring, she won't put up with any such fooling!"

When he came home to dinner, his wife met him with a smile, and said:

"Isn't ours a cosy home, Richard, with only our own little family to look after!"

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He'sgot nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

NEW YORK.

A writer in a New York paper called The Touchstone says: As an instance of the manner in which Shakespeare has been victimized from time to time, we have but to refer to Barry Sullivan's new readings of "Hamlet," where in act second, scene second, he makes the brooding Dane exclaim to Rosencrantz and Guildenstern: "I am but mad north-north-west: when the wind is southerly I know a hawk from a heron. Pshaw!" In all the editions of Shakespeare that we remember having met, this "heron, Pshaw!" appears "handsaw." And although it is asserted that handsaw is a corruption of hernshaw,—the name of the common heron,—and notwithstanding that some persons might be inclined to justify the substitution of hernshaw for handsaw, because that the heron was, in former days, hunted by the hawk, there is nothing to warrant the Pshaw! of Mr. Sullivan; and the more so, as it has no relevancy whatever to the character of the interview, or the sense of the sentence into which it is thrust, and which it weakens essentially.

The dresses worn by Rose Eytinge in "Led Astray," at the Union Square Theatre, New York, are referred to by the New York correspondent of the Baltimore American as the "most beautiful and expensive seen upon the stage this season." They are described as respectively a robe of silver gray silk and royal purple velvet, with hat of the same colors, a trained dress of navy blue velvet, with petticoat of ecru silk, trimmed with duchesse lace; a ball dress of black tulle, trimmed with cardinal red and yellow ribbons, with garniture of roses of the same colors, and a "penitential costume of black velvet, trimmed with jet."

Mr. Edwin Shepherd, late of Booth's Theatre, New York, is now at the Royal Princess's Theatre, London.

Notwithstanding the storm an audience of 3,000, mainly composed of ladies and children, attended the first matinee of "Humpty Dumpty," at Booth's.

Miss Linda Dietz, formerly of the Fifth Avenue Theatre, is making a tour of the British provinces with Mr. Sothern.

Mr. George Fawcett Rowe has written a strong drama, based on life in New York at a stirring and especially interesting period during the war, and presenting some strong contrasts of English and American characters and ideas. The stage effects are of a popular kind. This comedian fills an engagement at the Park Theatre, in the course of the present season, and acts an eccentric part in a comedy of his own composition,

Miss Clara Morris will succeed Mr. Booth at the Fifth-Avenue Theatre, and be followed by Miss Anna Dickinson, who will make her stage debut as the Maid of Orleans. The horse of Miss Morris became frightened at a train on the Elevated Railway, on the 29th ult., and ran away. Miss Morris alighted unharmed from her coupe during his progress, and was led to the office of her husband, Mr. Frederick G. Harriott, in the neighborhood, where she fainted. The carriage was badly damaged.

Howard W. Glover, the prominent musician and composer, died on the 29th ult., at his residence on Third avenue, after a protracted illness of three months' duration. He had reached the age of 56, and leaves a wife and eleven children in extreme poverty. Mr. Glover was a composer of more than ordinary ability, and, at one time, his works were exceedingly popular He wrote the recitative for the "Lily of Killarney," and had performed other important works as composer, musician, and conductor.

Gilmore's Concert Gardens are at length closed, after what really was "a long and prosperous season."

The San Francisco Minstrels are in the midst of one of the best seasons they have ever played to.

Chickering Hall will be opened by Herr Von Bulow on the 18th.

"The Overland Route" was withdrawn on the 6th and was followed on the 8th by "Caste" with the following assignment of characters: Eccles, Mr. George Honey (his original creation in London;) Capt. Hautree, Chas. Stevensen; Esther Eccles, Miss Ada Dyas; Polly Eccles, Effie Germon; Geo. D'Alroy, Mr. Montague; Sam Gerridge, Mr. Beckett; Marchioness, Mme. Ponisi.

"Led Astray" still continues to attract at the Union Square Theatre. "Rose Michel" will follow.

Mr. Edwin Booth's season at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, promises very much. His every performance has been enthusiastically supported. "Hamlet," "The Apostate," "Richelieu" and "Othello," occupied the time up to the 6th.

So great has been the success of the Florences and "The Mighty Dollar" at the Park, that it has been decided to continue it until at least its one hundredth presentation.

The Grand Opera House is now under the management of Mr. Robert Johnson, with a good general company. "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "The Iron Mask," "Poor Pillicoddy," and "The Old Guard," are a few of the bills.

G. L. Fox and "Humpty Dumpty" are doing immensely as Booth's. The fun will run over Christmas.

Mr. Meath is trying hard to bring back the reputation of the Bowery Theatre as the favorite home of the drama. Miss Helen Houghton made her New York debut at this theatre on the 1st, in "A Strange World," an adaptation from one of Miss Braddon's novels.

Variety performances are plentiful as blackberries in Summer and Chinese in San Francisco. The Brooklyn Park Theatre, Tony Pastor's, the Parisian Varieties the Globe, the Olympic, the Theatre Comique, the Eagle, the Third Avenue and the Tivoli are all devoted to this species of entertainment.

The Mexican Infantile Opera Bouffe Troupe, under the management of Fred Zimmerman, opened at the Lyceum Theatre on the 1st, playing alternate nights with the French Comedy Company.

Darling's Opera House is doing bravely.

Grand opera is obtaining a liberal patronage at the Academy of Music, with Wachtel as tenor, and Madame Wagner and Mlle. Pappenheim as soprani.

Walsingham of the Baltimore Bulletin is a little hard on Miss Jeffreys Lewis. Speaking of her supporting Booth at the Fifth Avenue Theatre he says: Miss Jeffreys Lewis wore a blonde wig and spoke in new and strange affectations. The result was called Ophelia. But Jeffreys-Lewis is nice, even when one feels instinctively that a course of shaved eyebrows and no inflections allowed would make a woman of her.

ELSEWHERE.

An actor in Clifford's troupe calling himself Will Barton, was recenty found to be James Caldwell, a young lawyer of Marshalltown, Ia., with a promising practice and well to do relatives. His father-in-law is a citizen of that place. Caldwell left home ostensibly for Texas, and after writing two letters ceased, and was supposed to have been drowned in the Galveston floods. He had in reality joined Clifford's Theatre to gratify a passion for the stage. His wife, after a long search, found him at Waupun, Wis., and took him home.

Miss Fanny Davenport contradicts the Cincinnati Times statement that she purposes appearing as Lady Macbeth.

DR. SPINNEY & Co's
DISPENSARY,
No. 11 Kearny St.

DR. SPINNEY is well-known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your ease.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—There was one of the best houses of the week at this theatre last evening to see "Help" and Jos. Murphy in the round of his protean impersonations. Only three more representations this week, and then on Monday "The Colleen Bawn" will be given.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE.—It is a matter of pleasant conjecture now, if "The Overland Route" would not run a third week. Miss Emmie Wilmot as Mrs. Sebright and Jas. O'Neill as Tom Dexter, should be grouped together. Both are light, graceful characters and both are played with tact. The lady has evidently a well conceived idea of how this piquante, harmless flirt should be played, while James O'Neill is just the cheery, handy, ready-witted fellow that one would imagine

OPERA HOUSE.—The Minstrels are drawing as usual, and will continue to as long as they continue to present bills so attractive and amusing as the present. Emerson's songs of 'Muldoon' and 'Since Terry first joined the gang' are the principal features of the evening, and it is Emerson's benefit this evening.

GRAND GERMAN AND ITALIAN OPERA—The success of the season, Weber's opera of "Der Freischutz," will be repeated this evening, with the same cast as at its presentation on Sunday night last and with the same extensive mechanical effects. For the Saturday matinee, "Le Postillion de Lonjumeau" will be given, and on Sunday evening "Der Freischutz" will be repeated. Tuesday evening next, "Norma" will be produced for the first time this season.

WILSON'S PALACE AMPHITHEATRE—Corner of New Montgomery and Mission streets, is to be converted into a variety theatre. The irrepressible John Wilson has actually commenced work and promises to have a theatre ready for dramatic performances by the first of December. The plans, which were drawn by one of our best architects, show a very commodious and beautiful establishment. The stage, which is situated on the West side of the building, will be 38 feet 6 inches in width at the proscenium, 34 feet deep, and 22 feet high, and will be completely fitted in every respect. This portion of the building is being constructed by that celebrated inventor and stage machinist, Mr. Froud. The auditorium will consist of a dress circle 100 feet by 33 feet, containing 200 chairs in the first three rows, and 500 comfortably cushioned seats in six rows. The parquette will contain 300 chairs. Above the dress circle and directly in front of the stage, will be a family circle, 66 feet by 24 feet, fitted with very comfortably cushioned seats to accommodate 400 persons, and fifteen private boxes, each containing five chairs. The aisles and passage-ways in the interior will be numerous, and four feet wide. The grand entrance will be on the corner of New Montgomery and Mission streets, and the entrances to the family circle on New Montgomery street; while several extra and commodious modes of egress will be constructed on both streets. Mr. Wilson has had a great deal of experience in building places of amusement, and has always given great attention to the comfort of his patrons, and in this new theatre he promises to excel all his former efforts. Special attention is being given to perfection in point of light and acoustics, while all the modern improvements in ventilation and lighting will be brought into requisition. It is said that a Manager from the East will become the lessee.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—All the acts for to-night are new except "Another Trip to Paris;" they are "The Haunted Tavern," "Quiet Lodgers" and "Handy Andy."

NEW OLYMPIC VARIETY THEATRE.—The great Charley King with his little banjo, the Harrises in their specialties, "Paris by Gaslight," "Fenian Soother" to-night. "Mazeppa" is in prepartion.

NEW PALACE VARIETIES.—Mons. Rollo, the champion iron-jaw performer of the world, made his first appearance last night. The first part concludes with "Railroad Smash-up," and the whole bill is good.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—Attractions.—An excellent variety entertainment Saturday and Sunday, rain or shine. This week Jas. Lee, the American tumbler and acrobat; Sen. Gonzales, the Champion, in his illustrations of Chinese, Arabian and English tumbling and double somersault leap; the fascinating Miss Mathews; the pantomimime of Love in a tub; the two Dromios, Elif Johnson, Gus Mooney, the gymnastic troupe and Orchestral Concert.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from any thing else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain railroad.

Dr. D. Percy,

The eminent Astrologer and Healer, has arrived in this city and taken rooms at No. 206 Kearny Street, rooms 11 and 12.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

DRAMATIC NOTES.

It being the benign wish of the chief of this establishment to allow every member of his immense staff to participate in the pleasures of the great race which takes place to-morrow, the weekly summary of theatrical news is published on this day in place of to-morrow.

There are yet, unfortunately, two or three losses to the profession which we have to record in connection with the wreck of the Pacific. Amongst those who went down with her were Mrs. Capt. Parsons, nee Jennie Mandeville, and sister to Mme. Agatha States, and Cal. Mandeville, for many years in the minstrel business, who perished with his wife and child. To the sad loss of Messrs. Hurlburt and Rockwell we have already referred.

Early in December, Professor Hermann, u[illegible]der engagement to Mr. Tom Maguire, will set o[illegible]t for a Winter tour through Oregon and British Columbia, under the management of Mr. Sherry C[illegible]rbyn. The Professor has been doing wonderfull[illegible] well at San Jose, and indeed in every town whi[illegible]h he has so far visited.

The rehearsals of "The F[illegible] One with the Blonde Wig" have been go[illegible]on with steadily all during the week, and on Monday it will be produced in, we believe, ex[illegible]ellent style. W. H. Crane has in it a good part, that of Huckaback, a usurping prince, M. A. [illegible]ennedy takes the character of a lone, lorn mai[illegible]en, Miss Mayhew is the Princess Graceful, and Miss Marian Singer essays the role of Leander, a [illegible]rince who seeks his hero and heroine, both at [illegible]he same time. New scenery is being painted, and the management has exerted itself to produce the burlesque in particularly good fashion.

Although Mr. G. L. Fox is playing at Booth's and drawing immensely, the New York Dispatch states that he has unmistakeably been suffering from severe illness.

Our old friend, Fred Zimmermann, is getting on in the world. In addition to the management of the Mexican Infantile Opera Bouffe Troupe, he has also become business manager for the Neundorff Grand German Opera.

Litolff, whose overture to "Robespierre," has made such an impression on those who attended the Orchestral Matinees, has written a new opera entitled "La Mandragere," which will be presented at the Alcazar, Brussels, during the Winter.

We would call the attention of certain interested parties in this city to the announcement made in Sunday Mercury that "Mein Leopold" a German play, recently given at the California Theatre, in this city, and claimed as an original play by Mr. L'Aerougl, proves to be a plagiarism of H. D. Byron's "Dearer Than Life."

T. G. Riggs is having the comedy of "Extremes" which was given at the California Theatre a week or two ago, rewritten for him, and will call it "Votes; or, In the Ring." It will not need much re-writing for the phases of character that were portrayed as marking the New York society of 1860, will be as readily found in that of 1875.

On Monday last, Miss Jenny Lee commenced a starring engagement at the Prince of Wales Theatre, Liverpool, appearing as Joe in "Bleak House."

If Dr. Von Bulow, the great pianist, has done nothing else, he has at all events stirred up such extraordinary criticisims as were never surpassed even in this land of free and tall writing. The Boston men discovered that he expressed the meaning of Chopin by his gestures quite as clearly as by his performances, and now he has wrecked the intellect of the critics of the Providence Press who thus describes the extraordinary behavior of the piano: "He touched the piano, and it began to sing; sang as if it saw new paths of melody and heights to be scaled; sang as if it would send out tendrils into all the realms of sound and seize on ravishing chords it had not known before. Wonderful it was to hear this familiar instrument thus taking on a new and lofty ambition."

San Jose is to have a season of legitimate theatricals the coming week, by a company which includes among its members Miss Ella F. Badger, who seems bent upon securing a name in the profession, and who has every chance of attaining it. Mr G. D. Chaplin is the leading man, and the other members are J. O. Barrow, Sam Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rea, L. S. Edmonds and Mrs. Mary Watson.

Charley Pell, the rotund business agent for Montgomery Queen's Circus, is in town, looking as hearty as ever. Montgomery Queen's stock and menagerie, including the giraffe, elephant, tigers, lions, etc., arrived overland on Wednesday, and are now domiciled in their Winter quarters at Tony Oakes', Hayward's. The old company was disbanded in the East, where Mr. Queen remains to select his new company for the Spring campaign, which will open in this city early in the season.

The New Lyceum Theatre, the new place of amusement to be opened at the southeast corner of Kearny and Sacramento street, will probably open on Wednesday evening next. A strong force of workmen are working night and day to get everything ready in time. Matt Kelly will be stage manager, and a good variety company has been engaged.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

The Fall and Winter Styles

Of hats are now being introduced at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny their assortment is large and well selected, all the styles being of a tasty and pleasing shape and of the best material, while the prices are the lowest possible. Don't forget to call and examine their stock at 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. R. H. Cowan's Institute, removed to 207 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, from 1 to 6 P. M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. Reference given if required. B

The Acme of Art

On the occasion of a recent breach of promise case, the following letter was read: "I have refrained from rhapsodising in this opening epistle, but I cannot and must not close without expressing the Deo profundis of my love and how my soul is always with you, and how delightfully I contemplate our meeting to-morrow night. I have read love letters in the press and elsewhere that terminated by saying a million kisses or ten thousand kisses, and such like, with a particular place on the paper marked for the purpose. This I think absurd, and shall not adopt it. How, my darling, can paper convey the rapture of a virgin violet kiss? Let us kiss when me meet and when we part, until we shall meet to part no more, and then kiss altogether, world without end, Amen. Your own affectionate Edwin." The damages awarded were ten thousand dollars.

WEDDING ANECDOTES.

When the collector of rare and curious specimens of insects, and flowers, and minerals, finds new objects of interest, he sticks a pin in them, or puts them in alcohol, or labels them, and then sits down to count his collections, and see what he has actually gathered. In the same way we may stick pins in the various experiences of life, and thus collect a museum of rare specimens. The present collection of wedding anecdotes are specimens of eccentricities at this trying hour that have come across the writer's path. We see plenty of curious epitaphs in cemeteries; let us look at some wedding-scenes as strange as any of these: A young clergyman, at the first wedding he ever had, thought it was a very good time to impress upon the couple before him the solemnity of the act.

"I hope, Dennis," he said to the coachman, with his license in his hand, "you have well considered this solemn step in life."

"I hope so, your reverence," answered Dennis.

"It's a very important step you're taking, Mary," said the minister."

"Yes, sir, I know it is," replied Mary, whimpering. "Perhaps we had better wait a a while."

"Perhaps we had, your reverence," chimed in Dennis.

The minister, hardly expecting such a personal application of his exhortation, and seeing the five-dollar note vanishing before his eyes, betook himself to a more cheeerful aspect of the situation, and said:

"Yes, of course, it's solemn and important, you know, but it's a very happy time, after all, when people love each other. Shall we go on with the service?"

"Yes, your reverence," they both replied, and they were soon made one in the bonds of matrimony, and that young minister is now very careful how he brings on the solemn view of marriage to timid couples.

A party came to a clergyman's house one evening to be married. Everything went on harmoniously until the woman came to the word Obey in the service. Here a balky scene ensued.

"Never—never!" she said. "I did not know that word was in the service, and I will never say it!"

"Oh, dear," remonstrated her partner, "do not make trouble now. Just say it—say it, even if you don't mean it. Say it for my sake—for your dear, dear John's sake!"

"Never—!" insisted the high-spirited dame. "I will not say what I do not mean, and I do not mean to obey. You must go on, sir," she added, to the clergyman, "without that word."

"That is impossible, madame," replied the minister. "I cannot marry you unless you promise to love, cherish and obey your husband."

"Won't you leave us for a little while together?" interceded the young man. "I think I can manage her after a while."

So the minister went back to his study, and wrote on his sermon for an hour and a half, and finally, at a quarter before ten o'clock, there

———Came a tapping—
As of some one gently rapping,

and the mild mannered Benedict informed the parson that at last, after a long wrestling of spirit, her dear Jane had consented to say obey. But how that compromise was brought about, no one ever knew. I have often heard this same clergyman relate how, after a wedding ceremony on one occasion, which occurred in his own parlor, the husband whispered to his brand-new bride, as they approached the door, "Mary, have you got any small change?"

Sublimity and Ridiculosity.

They were walking arm in arm. The moon was shining brightly on the water, and he said, "how beautifully the silver moonbeams touch the dancing wavelets, their motion throwing off the beams in a flood of tremulous light. How sublime the effect, Emily!" "Yes, Henry," she answered; "and only just see how ridiculous that slim woman looks in a pull back dress!" Henry groaned.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equal to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

Don't Help Pay Other People's Debts,

But go to the Furniture and Bedding Store of J. A. Shaber & Co., 707 Market street, near Third, and save fully 25 per cent. by buying of them. Their motto is: "Buy for cash, and sell for cash," therefore they have no bad debts to make up out of extra profits.

Grain Growers'

This District adjoins Grand Island District, which produced this year 65 Bushels of Wheat TO THE ACRE.

OFFICERS:

P. F. Beach, N. B. Eddy,
J. Tyler, Jr., F. S. Carter,
C. Dunlap.

THE OBJECT OF THE ASSOCIATION IS the raising of grain in Levied Land District, No. 205, twenty miles from Sacramento, on the Sacramento river. This District is surrounded by the finest Levee in the State, being from 15 to 20 feet high, 60 to 90 feet at the base and 20 feet on top with roadway. This Levee is twenty-one miles long and is now being sown with alfalfa.

This land differs from some of the reclaimed lands, as the foundation of the levee is clay, and the levee itself is built of the same material, insuring absolute security against an overflow of water. Over $300,000 has already been expended in the construction of this immense levee, and this company has secured a lease of 5,000 acres of land, the finest in the State, at an annual rental of $6 33 per acre.

All the steamers to and from Sacramento stop at Courtland on this land and offer rapid and easy communication to parties desiring to see the work as it progresses. The promoters of this enterprise have leased this land in order to secure all the improvements now on the premises—for working it to the best advantage. The immense productiveness of these lands is too well-known to require comment. One acre of this land when sown in wheat will produce a certain crop of 60 bushels, which at two cents per pound is worth $72, and which will leave a net profit of $52 per acre after deducting rent and expenses. The second year will be a volunteer crop, which, less expenses, is clear profit.

A dividend of all the profits accruing will be made on the 1st day of August next, as the crop will be gathered and marketed during June and July.

The company is incorporated into 5,000 shares, at a par value of $10 each, or one share to each acre of land cultivated. Plowing has been commenced and is now in progress, and will be pushed as rapidly as possible until completed.

Subscriptions for a limited number of the shares will be received at the office of the company at the rate of $10 per share, and no further calls can be made, and each share subscribed will entitle the holder to the profits on one acre of wheat, which will give a return of at least $50 per share in August.

Parties living at a distance wishing to subscribe will send money by Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, or certificates of deposit.

Apply at the office of the company, 15 Stevenson Building, corner California and Montgomery streets.

Accommodations, feed and transportation from San Francisco or Sacramento, will be furnished to parties having teams and waiting contracts to plow.

Amusements, Etc.

Opera House.

An entirely new bill will be presented this evening which will include a song and dance by Mackin and Wilson never before given here, a philosophical oration by Billy Emerson, the "Skidmore Guards," first rate songs in the first part and "The Fellow That Looks Like Me."

California Theatre.

This evening "The Colleen Bawn" will be produced with Joe Murphy as Myles Na Coppaleen, Miss Alice Harrison as the blonde colleen, and the rest of the company, cast as usual. This will give the public the opportunity of seeing Mr. Murphy in a part at once famous and legitimate.

Maguire's New Theatre.

After much preparation, the burlesque of "The Fair One with the Blonde Wig," will be produced this evening. From the way in which the rehearsals have run, we should judge that it will go easily to-night. Crane, Kennedy, and Miss Mayhew have good parts in it and in addition Miss Marian Singer makes her debut as a burlesque actress in the character of Prince Leander.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

"Der Freischutz" drew another full house last night and was received with no diminution of applause. Herr Formes once more appeared as Caspar and helped the presentation much by the spirit of his presence. "Der Freischutz" will be repeated by request to-morrow evening.

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

The programme of the next concert to be given on Wednesday next will include Gungl's "Freidrich" March, Gade's symphonie in B flat, the Prelude to Wagner's "Die Meistersinger von Nuremberg," Schubert's and the overture to Adam's "Le Roi D'Yvetot."

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Kimie in his Dutch specialties, Geo. C. Thompson in old negro ones, Ned Barry in his musical ones, Frank Mortimore in his character sketches, and Swain and West in their songs and dances to-night.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

There will be an entire change in the variety bill here to-night, except "Paris by Gaslight" which will conclude the performance. The new first part scene by James Rowe is a very clever piece of scenic work and sets off the stage handsomely.

New Palace Varieties.

The Palace has a novelty in Mons. Rollo Brock, who lifts anvils weighing 250 pounds with his teeth and does other surprising "iron-jaw" feats. Harry Howard in acts, Bob Masterson in Irish specialties, the Arabian Child Wonder in contortion feats and "Gay Life in Paris" to-night.

Buzz.

The box sheet for Sam Wetherill's benefit is rapidly filling, and those who wish to secure seats for that evening (Wednesday next), should at once pay a visit to the box office.

John McCullough concluded his engagement at Cincinnati on the 7th, with the "Gladiator." The Enquirer of that city calls Mr. McCullough "the successor of Forrest in the heroic School." He opens at Baltimore on the 22d.

Dr. D. Percy,

The eminent Astrologer and Healer, has arrived in this city and taken rooms at No. 206 Kearny Street, rooms 11 and 12.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

The Holidays.

Are fast approaching and everybody, of course, is considering what present would be most suitable, now, if these who so consider, call at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street below Kearny, they will no longer be in doubt, what to give, for nothing is more acceptable to gentleman, youth or child than a nice, stylish and dressy hat, of which there is a larger assortment to be found at "The" Hat Store at lower prices than anywhere in the city. Those who expect no present, should treat themselves to one. Remember the number, 647 Washington street below Kearny. M

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and al epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

THE CHILDREN'S BEDTIME.

Ah, tender hour that sends a drift
  Of children's kisses through the house,
And cuckoo-notes of sweet good-night,
  That thoughts of heaven and home arouse;
And a soft stir to sense and heart,
As when the bee and blossom part;
And little feet that patter slower,
Like the last droppings of the shower.

And in the children's room aloft,
  What blossom shapes do gaily slip
Their dainty sheaths, and rosy run
  From clasping hand and kissing lip,
A naked sweetness to the eye,—
Blossom and babe and butterfly
In witching one, so dear a sight!
An ecstacy of life and light.

Then lily-drest in angel-white
  To mother's knee they trooping come,
The soft palms fo'd like kissing shells,
  And they and we go kissing home,—
Their bright heads bowed and worshipping,
As though some glory of the Spring,—
Some daffodil that mocks the day,
Should fold its golden palms and pray.

Ah, deep pathetic mystery!
  The world's great woe unconscious hung,
A rain-drop on a blossom's lip!
  While innocence that woos our wrong,
And love divine that looks again,
Unconscious of the cross and pain,
From sweet child-eyes, and in that child,
Sad earth and heaven are reconciled.

Then kissed, on beds we lay them down,
  As fragrant-white as clovered sod,
And all the upper floors grow hushed
  With children's sleep and dews of God.
And as our stars their beams do hide,
The stars of twilight, opening wide,
Take up the heavenly tale at even,
And light us on to God and heaven.

Dream and Reality.

One morning, not long ago, a Vicksburg wife woke up and informed her husband that she dreamed she found a $5 greenback in the street. He didn't say anything until he looked into his wallet and found his funds $5 short, and then he remarked: "Mary, I dreamed that you handed me that bill as soon as you found it." "You did?" "Yes, Mary, and I thought I told you it would be dangerous to do any more such dreaming, and that I hid my wallet where you couldn't find it again." She passed it over.

Taking the Risk.

The other day a colored resident of Vicksburg found a bottle of whiskey in the suburbs of the city, and, hailing a pedestrian, he inquired:

"Dat's whiskey, ain't it?"

"Smells like it, and I guess it is," was the reply.

"And there ain't no pizen in it?"

"Well, there may be—I can't tell; shouldn't want to drink it."

"If there was pizen I'd be a dead nigger, eh?"

"You would."

"And if dere wasn't any pizen I'd be wastin' a pint of good whiskey?"

"Yes."

The finder turned the bottle over and over, smelled of the contents three or four times, and finally made ready to drink, saying:

"Dere's heaps of pizen lyin' around loose, but dere's also heaps of niggers in Vicksburg, an' I'ze gwine to tip up de bottle an' run de chances."

Women and Devils.

Old Winston was a negro preacher in Virginia, and his ideas of theology and human nature were often very original.

A gentleman thus accosted the old gentleman one Sunday:

"Winston, I understand you believe every woman has seven devils. How can you prove it?"

"Well, sah, did you ever read in de Bible how seven debbles were cast out'er Mary Magalin?"

"Oh, yes; I've read that."

"Did you ebber hear of 'em bein' cast out any odder woman, sah?"

"No, I never did."

"Well, den, all de odders got 'em yet."

Artistic Affection.

A young woung residing in Chester Park has an artistic eye for color. The other day she wrote half a quire of affection and scandal to a friend in Europe desiring to send it by the Atlas which sailed at three o'clock. She went down town, as her mother thought, to post the letter, but at dinner surprised her by bursting into tears and sobbing: "O, mother, I'm so sorry that Flo won't get that letter when I wanted her to." "Why Nellie," replied her fond mother, "you had it finished by twelve o'clock, and the mail didn't close until one. What was the matter?" "Yes, mother," answered Nellie, "but I hadn't any envelopes but blue ones, and they wouldn't match my avlander gloves; so I hurried down town to get some envelopes that would match them and came back; but before I could get down again to the postoffice the mail had closed." And the affectionate and artistic girl gave way to a paroxysm of grief.

A Bad "Ism."

"What keeps Mr. N—— from kirk, James?" said a worthy minister. "I hope it's not Methodism?" "No," responded the verger; "it's something worse than Methodism." "What then? Is it Calvinism?" "Worse, your reverence, worse?" "Surely, James, it is not Deism?" "Much worse an' it please your reverence, than even that." Good heavens!" said the astounded pastor, "can it be Atheism which deprives us of the best churchwarden that ever shook a box?" "Truly," responded pious James "'tis a much more serious matter; it is Rheumatism."

She Smiled.

Her "young man" went out some months ago, and is diligently growing up with the country. To exhibit his progress, in his last letter he sent on his picture. She supposed she was in duty bound to send him one of herself, so she persuaded her dad to bring her in yesterday and "have the likeness struck off." They went into Atlanta's best gallery, on Whitehall street, and the old man, who had taken several drinks of enthusiasm in the cause, remarked to the artist:

"Look 'ere, Mr. Picturesquer, I have brought out Julie up hyar to hav' her fack similar tuk for her bo' what's out in Texas. The ole 'ooman's crimped her fitten to give a young colt the blind staggers. She's my brag gal, you bet your 'scopes on it! and we want to hav' a big tin pictur' of her made that'll cost nine cents postege to kerry it, or we don't want none at all!"

"All right, my dear, sir. Have seats," replied the polite photographer.

While the artist prepared for work, Julie re-disposed her crimps, and worked her face up into a gorgeous smile.

"All ready! Let us seat you here, miss, said the artist.

"All aboard, Julie! Plump right down in that parlor cheer in front o' the little hat-rack, and mind you don't blink oncet!' ordered the old man.

"There! That's right! No! Face a little to the right! Look right here! Still now!"

The cloth was removed, and just then Julie thought "how all-fired sweet she'd look in a pictur'," and, despite herself, the corners of her mouth tried to climb up her cheek bones. The artist turned and closed the camera, entered the closet, but soon returned without any picture.

"What's the pictur'? Gimme a squint! Lor', Jule, I wish yer granny war alive ter see one of yer picturgrafs"

"The picture is spoiled, I regret to say. The young lady smiled just at the wrong moment," exclaimed the artist.

"Thar, now, Jule; d'ye hear that? Just flop yerse'f down thar ag'in, will ye? Try her ag'in, mister—take another view. I am bound ter hev thet pictur' or bust sumthin'!"

"I couldn't help it, pap; it felt so funny, it did," Julie simpered.

"Felt funny, eh? Well, yer won't feel so funny, I reckin, ef I take that spiled pictur' and post it to yer feller with yer mouth runnin' round yer face like a ripp'd seam in a sack o' corn—hey?"

Julie plumped down in the chair, at the artist's request, but looked mad.

"Brighten up, thar, gal, or I'll jerk yer down right hyar and untie thet tied back in less'n no time, an' then I'll send the pictur' to Rube; by gum, an' let 'im see how he likes yer looks, with yer hungry mouth reachin' round to chaw yer right ear off! Who! Steddy, now!"

At this shot the picture was struck, but it made Julie look as solemn as a girl trying to think up a composition "on death."

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

The Acme of Art

A Neat Reply.

Mrs. Eglantine is one of those few good aged ladies that we meet in America whose charms of manner and of conversation are ever sufficient to hold about her a circle of young admirers, even though the snow of sixty winters has silvered her hair.

Ralph E—, a perfect stranger, striving to pass between her chair and the outer edge of the waltzers, was thrown with some force into her lap.

"Sir," said she, interrupting his apology with a charming smile, "I am old enough for your mother, but I can not hold you."

"Ah, madam," with a grave earnestness that doubled the compliment—"I have never before found the lapse of years so charming.

Second Thought.

At the police station: Judge (to the prisoner)—"You were arrested at the very moment you were taking the portemonnaie from the gentleman's pocket." The prisoner—"Yes, sir; but I was going to put it back. My first thought is often bad. My second is always good. The policeman who arrested me should have waited for my second thought."

When He Comes Home.

When a boy comes home from school and wishes he was dead and swears he will run away from home and be a stage robber, it's a sure thing that the schoolmaster has been playing the Devil's tatoo on that portion his anatomy covered by the widest portion of his pantaloons.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

Palmer's have received a new supply of adies and children's underwear—very cheap—726 to 734 Market street.

Don't Help Pay Other People's Debts,

But go to the Furniture and Bedding Store of J. A. Shaber & Co., 707 Market street, near Third, and save fully 25 per cent. by buying of them. Their motto is: "Buy for cash, and sell for cash," therefore they have no bad debts to make up out of extra profits.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.
Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500
For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.
MIDDLE-AGED MEN!
There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation, and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

FINEST LEVEE IN THE STATE.

Grain Growers'
ASSOCIATION.

This District adjoins Grand Island District, which produced this year 65 Bushels of Wheat TO THE ACRE.
OFFICERS:
P. F. Beach, N. B. Eddy,
J. Tyler, Jr., F. S. Carter,
G. Dunlap.
THE OBJECT OF THE ASSOCIATION IS the raising of grain in Levied Land District, No. 205, twenty miles from Sacramento, on the Sacramento river. This District is surrounded by the finest Levee in the State, being from 15 to 20 feet high, 60 to 90 feet at the base and 20 feet on top with roadway. This Levee is twenty-one miles long and is now being sown with alfalfa.
This land differs from some of the reclaimed lands, as the foundation of the levee is clay, and the levee itself is built of the same material, insuring absolute security against an overflow of water. Over $300,000 has already been expended in the construction of this immense levee, and this company has secured a lease of, 5,000 acres of land, the finest in the State, at an annual rental of $6 33 per acre.
All the steamers to and from Sacramento stop at Courtland on this land and offer rapid and easy communication to parties desiring to see the work as it progresses. The promoters of this enterprise have leased this land in order to secure all the improvements now on the premises—for working it to the best advantage. The immense productiveness of these lands is too well-known to require comment. One acre of this land when sown in wheat will produce a certain crop of 60 bushels, which at two cents per pound is worth $72, and which will leave a net profit of $52 per acre after deducting rent and expenses. The second year will be a volunteer crop, which, less expenses, is clear profit.
A dividend of all the profits accruing will be made on the 1st day of August next. as the crop will be gathered and marketed during June and July.
The company is incorporated into 5,000 shares, at a par value of $10 each. or one share to each acre of land cultivated. Plowing has been commenced and is now in progress, and will be pushed as rapidly as possible until completed.
Subscriptions for a limited number of the shares will be received at the office of the company at the rate of $10 per share, and no further calls can be made, and each share subscribed will entitle the holder to the profits on one acre of wheat, which will give a return of at least $50 per share in August.
Parties living at a distance wishing to subscribe will send money by Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, or certificates of deposit.
Apply at the office of the company, 15 Stevenson Building, corner California and Montgomery streets.
Accommodations, feed and transportation from San Francisco or Sacramento, will be furnished to parties having teams and waiting contracts to plow.

California Theatre.

"The Colleen Bawn" with Joe Murphy as Myles Na Coppaleen drew a well filled house last night. This being the first time during his present engagement that the star has attempted the legitimate, considerable curiosity was felt as to how he would handle his new character. The handling on the whole was successful, the character showed a few rough touches of unaccustomed work, but there were several instances of finer moulding. A little more practice and Mr. Murphy will find the material of Myles Na Coppaleen as plastic as that of protean Ned Dayly. There were three other characters in the play that attracted an unusual amount of attention, first the Danny Mann of Robert Pateman, next the Eily O'Connor of Miss Alice Harrison and lastly the Sheelah of Miss Margaret Chambers. Such a trio will not often be found upon any one stage. So remarkable was the impersonation of Mr. Pateman that we shall to-morrow —according to custom—devote a little time and space distinctly to him.

Maguire's New Theatre.

For a first presentation, last night's performance of the burlesque "The Fair One with the Blonde Wig" was wonderfully successful. There were few or no hitches in the mechanical part, and few or no halts in the performers' parts. The house was good, kindly disposed and generally amused. Many were doubtless attracted by the news that there was to be a debutante, Miss Marian Singer. This young lady hitherto, but little known, save as an occasional concert singer, last night appeared as Prince Leander, a role, which costume and everything considered, was a very trying one. We are glad to say that the young lady's first appearance was something she may well be proud of. A little nervous, of course, but not sufficiently so to destroy the effects of a pleasing presence and an excellent voice. Of Crane as Prince Huck-a-back, in a wonderful make-up, of Kennedy as the Princess Pretti-pet, in a still more wonderful make-up, of Miss Mayhew as Graceful, of the new songs and choruses, of the handsome scenery, of the extremely pretty ballet by the four Allen children, of the wretched tumblers, of the unexpected appearance of the full Skidmore Guards, Captain and all, of the consequent excitement and of several other things in connection with this burlesque, will more be said before it is withdrawn.

Opera House.

A new bill and a full house. The principal event of the first act was the re-appearance and hearty reception of Fred Walz. In the second part Mackin and Wilson gave a new song and dance, and Ernest Linden sang a new operatic selection. The acts included "The Fellow That Looks Like Me," "The Four Prophets" by Emerson, Reed, Mackin and Wilson and the act of "The Skidmore Guards," which brought down the curtain and brought down the house. The evolutions of the company under the command of Captain Emerson were truly remarkable, and the whole effect reminded one of a field day review.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

In consequence of its immense success and present popularity "Der Freischutz" will be once more repeated, and, in consequence of Friday being the day on which the grand Carnival Ball is to be held, the opera night is changed this week to that of Thursday.

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

The programme of the next concert to be given to-morrow will include Gungl's "Freidrich" March, Gade's symphonie in B flat, the Prelude to Wagner's "Die Meistersinger von Nuremberg," Schubert's and the overture to Adam's "Le Roi D'Yvetot."

Brohaska's Opera House, San Jose.

We learn from our special correspondent that Miss Ella Badger opened at Brohaska's Opera House, San Jose, last evening to a splendid house, and the general impression created by her rendering of the beautiful character of Parthenia, was one of universal commendation. He predicts that Miss Badger's engagement in that place will be a successful one in every respect. The local papers of this morning speak in high terms of the general support, and Mr. Chaplin is especially complimented for his rendition of Ingomar. To-night "Lady of Lyons," concluding with the farce of "Conjugal Lessons," in which Mr. J. O. Burrows appears as Simon Lullaby. We hope to hear of another crowded house.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Kimic in Dutch songs, Swain and West in song and dance, Thompson in his negro specialties, and Mortimore in acts are all on the bill to-night.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

"Help" is a capital act, the Harrises in first-rate specialties, Charley Nickerson as Snoozer is most laughable and the whole bill abounds with good things.

New Palace Varieties.

The first part concludes with the grand finale of "The Railroad Smash-up." In the second part Mons. Rollo Brock gives his iron jaw performance and the great decapitation feat is introduced.

Woodward's Gardens.

Among the features in the excellent entertainment now given Saturday and Sunday are Hadj Hamo, the Arabian tumbler, and Sam Gonzales, the world's two greatest living tumblers. Also Miss Mathews, James Lee Gus Mooney, the screaming pantomime "The Cobbler's Frolic," the gymnastic troupe and concert.

Notes.

E. J. Buckley will probably accept the position of leading man at the Buffalo Theatre for next season.

Tony Pastor, New York. Your request shall be attended to. Send files by all means.

M. Strauss, late scenic artist of Maguire's Theatres, has painted new scenery and drop curtain for the Stockton Theatre.

By favor of Jones (everybody knows Jones), we learn that the Lingards (Alice and Dickie), opened [illegible] Sydney, Oct. 23d in "The Two Orphans" to an immense house. Unfortunately, the mail steamer left on the morning of the 22d, so that our next Australian letter can only speak of their arrival and nothing of their reception.

Wm. Horace Lingard will, most probably, leave New York for San Francisco on the 22d inst.

Dan G. Waldron, manager of the Alleghanians, is in town.

Miss Jean Clara Walters received a complimentary benefit at the Salt Lake Theatre on Wednesday last.

Chas. Vivian was at Bingham, Utah, on the 6th and at Camp Douglas on the 9th.

We beg Mr. Fox's pardon for the one or two hard things we have said about him and his broken engagement at the California Theatre. The telegraphic dispatches of this morning state that the great pantomimist is suffering from softening of the brain and partial paralysis, and that his career as a comedian is almost at an end.

One O. P. Mason Esq., has written a play entitled "A Night in Portland; or Rescued from the Fire of 1873." It was produced at the Market Street Theatre, Portland, on the evenings of the 1st and 2d, and although, pretty well received by reason of the localisms with which it abounded, is said by the press to be of no particular merit The stock company left on Wednesday the 3d, for Victoria, B. C.

Miss Imogene Holbrook gave an evening's reading at Portland on the 8th.

It is expected that the success of Chas. Mathews's new comedy of "My Awful Dad" will leave the production of "My Honored Mother-in-Law," "My Wretched Wife," "My Kind Uncle," and "My Prodigal Son."

We are sorry to hear that the joint endeavor of Messrs. Hooley and Bartley Campbell, to run the Brooklyn Theatre, has proved a total failure.

Last evening, a portion of Maguire's Star Comedy Company opened for a short season at the Metropolitan, Sacramento, with "Dora." The troupe consists of Miss Emmie Wilmot, Miss Hawthorne, Miss Baker, A. D. Billings, Jas. O'Neill and Willie Simms. A. D. Billings, stage manager.

The Footlights, Virginia City, is about to start as a subscription paper.

We heard yesterday that Alicia Mandeville was also on board the Pacific, and shall be only too glad to contradict the rumor if such were not the case.

[Since the above Note was in type, we learn by this morning's Alta that Alicia Mandeville was on board and lost with the others. It seems that the child of Mrs. Parsons (Jennie Mandeville), was crushed to death in its mother's arms while she was trying to get into one of the small boats. The steamer struck against the boat, crushing the child to death. Mrs. Parsons and Miss Alicia Mandeville were seen afterward weeping bitterly. And so the whole family has gone.]

Already the box sheet for Sam Wetherill's benefit to morrow evening, is so full that you can scarcely put your finger on it without touching a black spot. The programme, as may be seen by the bills is an immense one.

SHAKSPEARE ON EYES.

"THE TWO GENTLEMEN OF VERONA."

Why, lady, Love hath twenty pair of eyes,
They say that Love hath not an eye at all—

Black men are pearls in beauteous ladies' eyes.

"LOVE'S LABOUR'S LOST."

From women's eyes this doctrine I derive:
They are the ground, the books, the academies,
From whence doth spring the true Promethean fire.

A lover's eyes will gaze an eagle blind:
A lover's ear will hear the lowest sound.

"AS YOU LIKE IT."

Oh how bitter a thing it is to look into happiness through another man's eyes.

"KING RICHARD THE THIRD."

Anne. Thou dost affect mine eyes.
Glou. Thine eyes, sweet lady, have infected mine.
Anne. Would they were basiliks to strike thee dead!
Glou. I would they were, that I might die at once;
For now they kill me with a living death.

"ROMEO AND JULIET."

Jul. If they do see thee they will murder thee.
Rom. Alack! there lies more peril in thine eye
Than twenty of their swords: look thou but sweet,
And I am proof against their enmity.

Care keeps watch in every old man's eye,
And where care lodges sleep will never lie.

Teresa Titjens.

Teresa Titjens, the celebrated singer, was born in Hamburg. She is 41. Her first grand success was made as Donna Anna in "Don Giovanni." Both in Germany and England—in which latter country she has now lived for several years—she has been recognized as one of the ablest interpreters of oratorio and opera, and her style is unanimously pronounced to have a breadth, intelligence and expressiveness which demand the epithet "magnificent." Madame Titjen's voice has undoubtedly lost something of its original purity and sweetness during the past 6 years, but her singing will undoubtedly give very great pleasure to cultivated listeners. She made her first appearance in the United States, Oct. 4th.

The New Waltz.

The new Diagonal Waltz is said to possess remarkable mathematical beauties. The stage directions are: Begin at the top of the last line forming the letter W, and complete the letter without turning your partner; back and advance diagonally at an angle of about 45 degrees. Meanwhile hug your partner as closely as she will permit, and project your elbow at an acute angle into the stomach of any awkward fellow or anxious mama who asks to interfere. The diagonal waltz offers a rare opportunity for a short cut into the affection of any susceptible young woman.

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

Moody and Sankey are evidently accomplishing a good work in Brooklyn, as one of the best known publicans of Fulton street has announced his intention of selling whiskey hereafter at ten cents a drink. Two weeks ago that man was a hardened sinner.

An Eastern paper says that Edwin Booth broke his leg for an advertisement. Pity some folks wouldn't try it on their necks for a similar purpose!

Information is wanted concerning the whereabout of Pompey Jones, a Covington, Kentucky, negro, who was last seen tickling a mule's hoofs on the bank of Licking river.

A down-east farmer wished to know how the inside of an old hornet's nest looked. He knows, but he won't be able to see how the inside or outside of anything else looks for a long time.

The story that Governor William Allen superintended the carpenter's work on Noah's ark, is authoritatively denied.

Few men in this world can accomplish a descent on a banana peel without looking carefully behind them the next instant to see how the thing was done.

If it hadn't been for the pull-back style of dress, a man in Iowa would have married a woman with a wart on one of her knees. He saw it in time.

How much does a fool usually weigh? A simple-ton.

An old Scotchman, on marrying a very young lady, was chaffed by his friends on the inequality of their ages. "She will be near me," he replied, "to close my eyes." "Well," remarked one of the party, "I've had two wives, and they opened my eyes!"

Seventeen clergymen of Franklin county, (Mass.) have protested against Beecher's desecrating the Sabbath, by making a show of himself and benefiting railroad managers.

Boston babies are weaned early and fed on fish, says the Brooklyn Argus. They accumulate much phosphorus. A chronicler, mentioning the circumstance of a group of Boston children going upstairs to bed in the dark, says that their heads appeared to be surrounded by an atmosphere of luminous ether, and that they reminded him of a procession of straggling meteors!

Where ten men offer to lay down their lives for a woman, only one will carry in the clothes for her on washing day.

Two darkeys were talking politics the other day, when one of them was struck by lightning and instantly killed. The survivor gazed at the corpse compassionately for a few moments and then remarked, "Jes' what I always tole him; dat the Lawd done hab no more pashuns wid dem Rag Money niggahs."

A Boston woman wanted to elope, but when her husband gave her money to go, she changed her mind—it took all the romance away.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

The Acme of Art

An Awkward Avowal.

A writer in the Paris Charivari says: The hurry of a young man to say "I will marry" above all when he does not see what his interlocutor carries in his hand—is sometimes exceedingly inconvenient. The other day a worthy citizen encountered, as he came out of a fancy store, a young man whom he had met at a bathing place a month before.

"Hold," he said to himself, "that is the young fellow whom we used always to meet on the shore, when I took a walk with Victorine."

He ran toward the young man, and said:

"Don't you recollect me?"

"Heavens!" he exclaimed, turning deadly pale, and seizing the old man's hands so that he could inflict no injury, he added: "I am ready to marry her, sir."

"To marry her!" exclaimed the citizen in amazement.

"Yes, sir, I have done very wrong. I know it. But all can be repaired. What do you wish? I love her—love her like a fool."

"Love!—who?"

"Victorine."

"Victorine! Malheureux! Why that is my wife."

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equal to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

Palmer's have received a new supply of ladies and children's underwear—very cheap—726 to 734 Market street.

Don't Help Pay Other People's Debts,

But go to the Furniture and Bedding Store of J. A. Shaber & Co., 707 Market street, near Third, and save fully 25 per cent. by buying of them. Their motto is: "Buy for cash, and sell for cash," therefore they have no bad debts to make up out of extra profits. L

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

This District adjoins Grand Island District, which produced this year 65 Bushels of Wheat TO THE ACRE.

OFFICERS:

P. F. Beach, N. B. Eddy,
J. Tyler, Jr., F. S. Carter,
C. Dunlap.

THE OBJECT OF THE ASSOCIATION IS the raising of grain in Levied Land District, No. 205, twenty miles from Sacramento, on the Sacramento river. This District is surrounded by the finest Levee in the State, being from 15 to 20 feet high, 60 to 90 feet at the base and 20 feet on top with roadway. This Levee is twenty-one miles long and is now being sown with alfalfa.

This land differs from some of the reclaimed lands, as the foundation of the levee is clay, and the levee itself is built of the same material, insuring absolute security against an overflow of water. Over $300,000 has already been expended in the construction of this immense levee, and this company has secured a lease of 5,000 acres of land, the finest in the State, at an annual rental of $6 33 per acre.

All the steamers to and from Sacramento stop at Courtland on this land and offer rapid and easy communication to parties desiring to see the work as it progresses. The promoters of this enterprise have leased this land in order to secure all the improvements now on the premises—for working it to the best advantage. The immense productiveness of these lands is too well-known to require comment. One acre of this land when sown in wheat will produce a certain crop of 60 bushels, which at two cents per pound is worth $72, and which will leave a net profit of $52 per acre after deducting rent and expenses. The second year will be a volunteer crop, which, less expenses, is clear profit.

A dividend of all the profits accruing will be made on the 1st day of August next, as the crop will be gathered and marketed during June and July.

The company is incorporated into 5,000 shares, at a par value of $10 each, or one share to each acre of land cultivated. Plowing has been commenced and is now in progress, and will be pushed as rapidly as possible until completed.

Subscriptions for a limited number of the shares will be received at the office of the company at the rate of $10 per share, and no further calls can be made, and each share subscribed will entitle the holder to the profits on one acre of wheat, which will give a return of at least $50 per share in August.

Parties living at a distance wishing to subscribe will send money by Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, or certificates of deposit.

Apply at the office of the company, 15 Stevenson Building, corner California and Montgomery streets.

Accommodations, feed and transportation from San Francisco or Sacramento, will be furnished to parties having teams and waiting contracts to plow.

Maguire's New Theatre.

The burlesque of "The Fair One With The Blonde Wig" has evidently made a hit. There was a large attendance at this theatre last night, although the rain did come down some. The whole performance went, of course, with more spirit and snap than on Monday night. The arrangement of the music for the extravaganza, was the work of Mr. Harry Widmer, the leader of the orchestra and deserves, as it gets, especial notice. The piece is evidently up for a run.

Opera House.

The Minstrels had a fair house last night, and those who were present evidently enjoyed the programme of fun and amusement offered them. "The Skidmore Guards" continue to be the great attraction.

California Theatre.

Last night "The Colleen Bawn" was repeated, and Mr. Robert Pateman's Danny Mann again attracted much attention. From first to last the character is strongly played, the death scene being almost too powerfully realistic. This evening "Help" will be given for the benefit of the Germania Rifles, with Mr. Joseph Murphy in his great portean group of characters.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

In consequence of its immense success and present popularity "Der Freischutz" will be once more repeated, and, in consequence of Friday being the date on which the grand Carnival Ball is to be held, the opera night is changed this week to that of Thursday (to-morrow.)

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

The programme of the next concert to be given this (Wednesday) afternoon includes Gungl's "Freidrich" March, Gade's symphonie in B flat, the Prelude to Wagner's "Die Meistersinger von Nuremberg." Schubert's and the overture to Adam's "Le Roi D'Yvetot."

Sam Wetherill's Benefit.

This evening, the Hon. Samuel Wetherill, for a long time connected with the treasuryship of Maguire's Theatres, and now a member of the Assembly, will receive a complimentary and farewell benefit at Maguire's New Theatre. The box sheet promises an overflowing house, which we doubt not will be there, even though the street overflow too. Besides the burlesque, a whole army of volunteers will appear. The bill for the entertainment, which has attracted general attention, is from the printing office of Messrs. Francis & Valentine.

Brohaska's Opera House, San Jose.

Miss Badger's success at San Jose, must be extremely gratifying to her friends and admirers. Her career thus far in her profession has been a rather remarkable one, and shows what indomitable energy, talent and good management will do. She has evidently won the San Jose people as is proved by the fine and intelligent audiences she is drawing. Our correspondent says the public speak in high terms of her ability and are complimentary in regard to the support rendered by George D. Chaplin and the company generally. To-night is the last of the season in that place, but, owing to the success they have achieved, we understand, the company will, after playing two nights in Gilroy, return and play Saturday afternoon and evening at San Jose. To-night "The Hunchback" and "Kiss in the Dark,"

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The acts for to-night are "Caught in the Woods," "Hard Cheek," "Intelligence Office" and "Another Trip to Paris," the last being an unfailing attraction.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

"Help," "Snoozer," "Trial Dance," "Deaf in a Horn" and "Paris by Gaslight." Look out for "Mazeppa."

New Palace Varieties.

The great decapitation act is certainly wonderful. The head is severed from the body and then replaced in full view of the audience. "Gay Life in Paris" to end with.

Woodward's Gardens.

Among the features in the excellent entertainment now given Saturday and Sunday are Hadj Hamo, the Arabian tumbler, and Sam Gonzales, the world's two greatest living tumblers. Also Miss Mathews, James Lee, Gus Mooney, the screaming pantomime "The Cobbler's Frolic," the gymnastic troupe and concert.

Notes.

Professor Hermann gave an entertainment at Dietz Hall, Oakland, last evening, and attracted a large audience notwithstanding the wretched state of the weather.

To-morrow evening the usual weekly entertainment will be given at Dietz Hall, under the management of Mr. Chas. Schutz. The Industrial School Band and Miss Ivy Wandesforde will be two of the attractions.

Jesse Shepard, the "musical phenomenon," has made arrangements by which he will be enabled to hold musical soirees at 22 Geary street every Thursday and Sunday evenings.

On Saturday evening next, a benefit will be given at the California Theatre for the family of the late William B. Linehan. The deceased was a journalist and has left a host of friends, and a family unprovided for. It has now become the duty of the first to see what they can do for the second.

The underlines for the California Theatre are to-morrow and Friday, "Handy Andy" and "His Last Legs," Saturday matinee and evening "The Colleen Bawn."

On Sunday evening, Herr Carl Formes has his benefit when he will appear as Falstaff in the positively last production of "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

Dr. D. Percy,

The rooms of this eminent Astrologer and H[illegible]r, are crowded daily at No. 206 Kearny Street, rooms 11 and 12.

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and all epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

"MACBETH."

To-morrow, and to-morrow, and to-morrow,
Creeps in this pretty pace from day to day
To the last syllable of recorded time,
And all our yesterdays have lighted fools
The way to dusky death. Out, out, brief candle,
Life's but a walking shadow, a poor player
That struts and frets his hour upon the stage,
And then is heard no more: it is a tale
Told by an idiot, full of sound and fury,
Signifying nothing.

After life's fitful fever he sleeps well.

A Persecuted Clerk.

They have put a steam boiler under the Detroit post-office, and are going to heat the building by steam. Men are excavating under the walk to secure more room, and the work will explain itself to any person who will use his eyes for a second. Notwithstanding this fact every man who stops at the stamp window says:

"Give me a two-cent stamp. I see they are digging out here."

"Yes."

"Going to put in steam?"

"Yes."

"Make it warmer here, won't it."

"Yes."

"Government bears the expense, I suppose?"

"Yes."

"Have they got the boiler down stairs?"

"Yes."

"Considerable of a job, wasn't it?"

"Yes."

"Those boilers are heavy things ain't they?"

"Yes."

The man pauses here to lick on his stamp and then continues:

"That ground is pretty hard out around here?"

"Yes."

"And they had to lift up the pavement didn't they?"

"Yes."

"Suppose they'll be at work for a while yet?"

"Yes."

"There won't be so much draft through here when the pipes are in?"

"No."

"And you won't be so exposed at this window?"

"No."

About this time a new man comes up, crowds the old one away and starts off with:

"Say, clerk. I see they are digging out there?"

And the stamp clerk is going to pine and die if this thing is not stopped pretty soon.

Fair Play.

A Texas pastor recently rose in his pulpit and made the following pathetic address to his congregation: "Now, see yere. I jist want to have all of you folks know that it ain't more'n likely there'll be any more prayin' an' singin' in this yere church unless you leave you're shot-guns at home. If thur's any shootin' to be done, jist step outside an' I'll jine ye, but, cuss me, ef I'm going to do any prayin' with my eyes closed and twenty-five as big hoss thieves as ever struck a train within ten foot of me. Do ye hear me whisper?"

The Holidays.

Are fast approaching and everybody, of course, is considering what present would be most suitable, now, if these who so consider, call at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street below Kearny, they will no longer be in doubt, what to give, for nothing is more acceptable to gentleman, youth or child than a nice, stylish and dressy hat, of which there is a larger assortment to be found at "The" Hat Seore at lower prices than anywhere in the city. Those who expect no present, should treat themselves to one. Remember the number, 647 Washington street below Kearny. M

Von Bulow.

Von Bulow, the great pianist, is 45. He was born in Dresden. He is a disciple of Liszt, of whom he is a devoted friend and defender. He also takes sides with Wagner: believes in the "New School," and writes as well as he plays. As compared with Rubinstein, the best opinion of him seems to be that, while he has less of the extraordinary genius and the fascination which belong to the latter, he is also a much less wilful and capricious, and, consequently, a much more faithful and trustworthy interpreter of the works of the great composers than the wonderful Prussian. In intellectual force and insight, and in the power which springs from character, culture and earnestness, Von Bulow is proclaimed to be without a rival, and his technique is said never to have been surpassed, if ever equalled. Boston had the honor of hearing his first performance in America, October 18th.

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

They stopped at the restaurant for dinner. They were probably newly engaged, or he blew on the mustard to cool it for her!

An Irishman went to a theatre, in Dublin, for the first time. Just as the drop curtain descended on the first act, an engine in the basement exploded, and he was blown through the roof, coming down in the next street. After coming to his senses, he asked: "An' what piece do yez play nixt?"

And now Miss Julia Parker of Baltimore, who is singing in Italy, has gone and changed her name to "Signora Giuletta Tasca." Well, we should prefer the original name.

A Danbury mother has determined to frown down such excessive folly in fashion as striped stockings and the like. She says her son "shall not keep company with any girl who makes a circus of her legs."

A Leeds paper says that a young widow in that city, who writes well, is training herself for an editor. Who is the editor?

If the Ark had been manned by a Mississippi steamboat captain, he would have been unhappy during the entire voyage, because there was no opposition Ark on the river to race with.

"The prisoner at the bar seems to a very smooth face," said a spectator to the jailor. "Yes," replied the jailor; "he was ironed just before he was brought in."

Inappropriate Hymns.

Utter thoughtlessness is sometimes manifested in the announcement of unsuitable hymns. On a bright Sabbath morning a pastor gave out the expressive evening hymn commencing:

"Saviour breathe an evening blessing,
Ere repose our spirits seal."

During the preaching of a farewell sermon by a clergyman, the people were melted down with emotion, and the speaker was so much affected that he was scarcely able to proceed. Calling upon a ministerial brother to close the service, the latter announced the hymn:

"Jesus we lift our souls to Thee,
Thy holy spirit breathe,
And let this little infant be
Baptised into Thy death."

In some churches choirs are permitted to sing their own voluntaries with which to close the service. At the funeral of a distinguished gentleman of a Massachusetts, the singers sang of their own accord:

"Believing we rejoice
To see the curse removed."

No Chance.

An Atlanta youth, says the Constitution, gotten up in the latest style, left a West End car and tripped across to a house where a little boy was sitting on the front steps whittling with a new Barlow knife. The boy looked up and said:

"I say, young man, yer don't want ter be coming around here any more, yer don't!"

"Why Charlie, what's the matter?"

"'Cause there's a feller what wears a diamond breastpin and rides in his own horse and buggy, a comin' here to see Sis now, and a fellow like you what has got ter ride 'round in a bob-tail street-kyr, hain't got no show, 'cept to take a front seat on the back fence and watch 'em fixin' things fur the weddin'!"

The young man turned away looking like a sweet potatoe vine after a black frost.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

How to Play Draw Poker.

It was Mr. Simmons' deal. I was the oldest man, and the blind was three, calls seven. Ike Staggles saw it, then it was risen by Jones to fifteen for to play. Brown came in, and also the dealer stayed. Then it took me twelve to make it good, which I put up, and I remarked to the society that it would cost only twenty-five more to draw. Every last gentleman stayed, but it was not risen any higher.

Then the dealer says to me, "How many will you take?" Says I, "A card." I had aces and kings, and got an ace in the draw. Ike took three and Jones two but Brown had enough, and told the dealer to help himself, 'en he took only five. There were now about one hundred and ninety chips on the board. He bet one, Jones went ten better, and Brown raised it to twenty because he stood pat. The dealer said that his'n was valued at twenty-five more.

Then said I, "How many does it take me?" Some one said "forty chips," which I invested likewise, with sixty better. Then all passed up to Brown, and I wanted him bad to stay with his steal, but his sand gave out and he passed.

Says the dealer to me, "How many did you draw?"

Says I, "A card."

"Well, says he, "I don't want to lay down this hand; I will bet sixty more than you."

Now, the dealer was a stranger like to our port. He was from the country and didn't know much about d. p. So I thought it was my charitable duty to let him down easy, and I only called him.

"What have you got?" said I.

"Two pairs," said Mr. Simmons.

Then it was my time to be sorry that I had an ace full on kings.

"But," say the genial Mr. Simmons, "mine is two pairs of jacks."

Then I said, "Oh!" and put on my hat and went down in the street to look for Christmas. As I went out the door Brown asked me "how many it took?" But Brown always is a person which will kick a man when he is down.

California Wine.

At a Kentucky dinner, and between the sherry and champagne, to which period the enfant terrible of the family had been unfortunately permitted to linger, the host had gone to praising his own wine in a fashion which was certainly an evidence of its intoxicating qualities:

"That sherry, sir, cost me sixty dollars a dozen. I bought it at the auction of the Emperor Napoleon's wines, and imported it myself."

"Why, papa," interrupted the enfant, "that was all gone long ago, and mamma filled the bottles up from that California keg. She said you never had any friends who could tell the difference."

Champagne was immediately substituted for the sherry, and in a room above the obtrusive youngster contemplated the "painful end" to which his day's experience had come.

A Queer Postoffice.

Mr. X—— has often the toothache. Every day for the past month he has regularly gone to a young dentist, who has just as regularly refused to pull the tooth. To all his pleadings the dentist replied: "I will fill it? I will kill the nerve, and you will think of it no more." Every evening at dinner the filling would come out, and M. P., angry, would throw it aside, determined to have the tooth pulled in the morning. Oh, blindest of husbands! No sooner was he gone in pain to his room than Madame—very young—took up the filling, opened it, and found therein an appointment for tomorrow. The tooth of Mr. X—— had become a postoffice.

Dramatists and Digestion.

When Dumas, fils, gave his first play at the theatre, Scribe said to him: "Have you a good stomach?" "What do you mean by that?" "I mean is your digestion good?" "Perfect." "Well, profit by it, for in becoming a dramatic author, that which you lose first is the stomach. You breakfast in haste to get to the rehearsal, and dine without appetite before the performance. You cannot eat at all on the day of the first representation, and very little the next morning. The gastric juices only come with success. Happy is he who is successful, but far more happy is he whose stomach can stand anything."

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.
Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500
For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.
MIDDLE-AGED MEN!
There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Opera House.

All things considered, and especially "the wretched state of the weather," the attendance here last night was not to be grumbled at. The bill is an excellent one, being full of novelties and attractions, musical, comical and special.

California Theatre.

Notwithstanding "the wretched state of the weather," the Germania Rifles had an exceedingly good house at their benefit last night. "Help" was put on and played in splendid style. This evening the bill will consist of "His Last Legs" with Joe Murphy as Felix O'Callaghan and "Handy Andy," with Joe Murphy as the blundering servant.

Maguire's New Theatre.

The Hon. Sam Wetherill's farewell benefit was held here last night and considering "the wretched state of the weather," the house was a marvellous one. Standing room even was difficult to get. The bill consisted of the successful burlesque "The Fair One With the Blonde Wig," and the pick of the many volunteers in the divertisement. During the evening the beneficiary was presented with a handsome pair of monogram sleeve buttons the gift of the stage carpenters, machinists and assistant stage hands. The presentation speech was made by W. H. Crane and was replied to in a neat and apt manner by the Hon. Sam.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

In consequence of Friday (to-morrow) being the date on which the grand Carnival Ball is to be held, the opera night is changed this week to that of Thursday (this evening). The opera "Fra Diavolo" will be given. All tickets for Friday hold good for to-night.

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

Yesterday afternoon furnished us with a foul specimen of "the wretched state of the weather," and a most enjoyable specimen of what Herold's orchestra is able to do. The programme may, we think, be classed as one of the best, if not the best yet given. Opening with Gungl's "Freidrich" March, Gade's symphonie in B flat followed. The symphonie has four movements, an andantino e allegro, an allegro son moto, a scherzo, and allegro vivace. The whole was played with a precision and expression that showed how much this body of musicians has improved. In the second part, the wonderful Prelude (? overture) to "Die Meister-Singer von Nurnberg," left the audience agape and astonished, the mazurka, waltz and intermezzo from "Lachner's Ball Suite" improved on second hearing, and the overture to Adam's "Le Roi D'Yvetot," went with a first-rate swing. But the piece of the afternoon was Schubert's Serenade with oboe solo by Herr Stoehr. This was encored con amore, and was in every way a treat. Let it be encored again by all means.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Kimic's Dutch songs are immense, Swain and West's double song and dance is nightly encored George C. Thompson's specialties are great, and the whole bill is first-rate.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Johnny Cooke, the champion dancer, makes his first appearance here to-night, and Hughey Robinson and Budd appear in the song-act of "One Hundred Years Ago." The rest of the bill equally taking.

New Palace Varieties.

The decapitation feat continues to excite the wonder of all who see it. Harry Devoy, Billy Randall, Mons. Rollo Brock and Bob Masterson, all to-night

Woodward's Gardens.

Among the features in the excellent entertainment now given Saturday and Sunday are Hadj Hamo, the Arabian tumbler, and Sam Gonzales, the world's two greatest living tumblers. Also Miss Mathews, James Lee, Gus Mooney, the screaming pantomime "The Cobbler's Frolic," the gymnastic troupe and concert.

Notes.

In consequence of "the wretched state of the weather," the entertainment advertised to be given at Dietz Hall, this evening, has been indefinitely postponed.

Hermann opens at Los Angles Friday evening. We hope he wont experience such a "wretched state of the weather" as we do.

On Saturday evening next, a benefit will be given at the California Theatre for the family of the late William B. Linehan. The deceased was a journalist and has left a host of friends, and a family unprovided for. It has now become the duty of the first to see what they can do for the second.

On Sunday evening, Herr Carl Formes has his benefit when he will appear as Falstaff in the positively last production of "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

Dr. D. Percy,

The rooms of this eminent Astrologer and Healer, are crowded daily at No. 206 Kearny Street, rooms 11 and 12.

The Holidays.

Are fast approaching and everybody, of course, is considering what present would be most suitable, now, if these who so consider, call at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street below Kearny, they will no longer be in doubt, what to give, for nothing is more acceptable to gentleman, youth or child than a nice, stylish and dressy hat, of which there is a larger assortment to be found at "The" Hat Seore at lower prices than anywhere in the city. Those who expect no present, should treat themselves to one. Remember the number, 647 Washington street below Kearny. M

SHAKSPEARE ON TIME.

"THE TWO GENTLEMEN OF VERONA."

Time is the nurse and breeder of all good.

"THE COMEDY OF ERRORS.'

Time is a very bankrupt, and owes more than he's worth to season.
Nay he's a thief, too; have you not heard men say,
That Time comes stealing on by night and day?

"TROILUS AND CRESSIDA."

Time hath, my lord, a wallet at his back,
Wherein he puts alms for oblivion,
A great-siz'd monster of ingratitudes;
These scraps are good deeds past; which are devour'd
As fast as they are made, forgot as soon
As done.

For Time is like a fashionable host
That slightly shakes his parting guest by the hand,
And with his arms outstretch'd as he would fly,
Grasps in the comer; the welcome ever smiles,
And farewell goes out sighing.

LISZT'S PLAYING.

One lady of rank, at whose house he was spending the evening, committed the extreme indiscretion of asking him to play, a violation of all rules of etiquette among great musical artists. He had been enchanting her guests with his divine music in the earlier part of the evening, and had just come in from supper, when she preferred her request. "Madame, j'ai mange tres peu," was his answer ("Madame, I have eaten very little"), and, with this implication of having played out the worth of his supper he left the house.

His contradictory elements only prove him to be what he is at the piano—half demon, half angel. If his mood happens to be a gloomy one his fingers fly about as if he had a demoniac imp at the end of each one. His playing becomes most infernal in its wild passionate power, and he looks furtively at his audience with a malicious expression of delight and triumph, watching the effect he produces. This is his demon side. At other times he will play with the deepest pathos, touching the keys so caressingly, so tenderly, so weepingly, that I have seen men listen with the tears running down their cheeks. And yet when he rises from the piano not a sound is heard. He is to great to be applauded. He does not need it. He merely walks quietly away from the instrument, waiting until some one recovers breath or self possession enough to speak, and then perhaps the first break in the silence will be a long, deep drawn sigh, and "How grand!" spoken in an undertone of awe. He knows his own power well—none better—and makes no concealment of his opinion. I have heard that upon one occasion a lady asked him whom he thought the greatest living pianist—this was many years ago—and he answered promptly: "Thalberg." "But," she said astonished, "do you consider him superior to yourself?" And his answer was most commendable in its engaging frankness: "Madame, I had no idea you made any reference to me. I stand too high to be compared to ordinary pianists."

"Guessing."

All American English (says an English writer) is not mere slang, or an accumulation of newly-coined words. There are many words current in America which seem strange and uncouth to our ears, but still are real old English words, preserved in the United States, but obsolete in the old country, and found only in writers of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries or in our provincial dialects. "I guess" looks very like a genuine Americanism, yet Chaucer and Spenser use it with only a very slight difference of meaning:

> Her yellow hair was braided in a tress
> Behind her back a yard long, I guess,

says Chaucer; and

> Amylia will be loved as I mote ghesse, is a line from the "Faery Queen." "He whose design is to excel in poetry," says Locke, "would not, I guess, think that the way of it was to make his first essay in Latin verse." The word guess gives this sentence quite an American sound, yet it is from a standard English author.

No's Afraid of the Devil.

A colored man of Detroit, named Nelson, is owing a butcher on Beaubien street five or six dollars, and after trying in vain to collect the money, the butcher and a friend put their heads together the other night and laid a plan. About midnight they called at Nelson's house and he was awakened by a rap on the window.

"Who's dar?" he called out.

"The Devil!" solemnly replied the butcher.

"You is, hey?"

"Yes, I want you!"

"What fur?"

"You refuse to pay your butcher, and I am sent to take you to the bottomless pit!"

"You is!"

"I am! Come forth at once!".

"Ize comin'!" replied the negro as he jumped out of bed; "I can't pay dat six dollars half as easy in any odder way, an' de old woman is so mighty cross ize glad to get away from home.

The butcher and his friend didn't wait for Mr. Nelson to come out.

A Spinster's View of Husbands.

"Aunt Emily" Ward was on the stand in the famous will trial, at Detroit, recently, and she ventilated her views on the marriage relation to good puropose. The testimony is worth reproducing:

Mr. Romeyn—Did you say that Captain Ward was like dough in the hands of his wife?

Witness—I may have said that. I say that of every man who has a wife. [Laughter.]

Mr. Romeyn—Do you remember saying, in a conversation with young Mr. Ely and Mary, something like this: "If I should say, 'Eber, here is a red chair,' he would say, 'Certainly it is a red chair;' and, if Kate should come in the next minute and say, 'The chair is black,' he would say, 'Oh, yes, it is black?'"

Witness—Certainly, I think any married man would say that. [Laughter.]

Mr. Romeyn—I believe you were never married?

Witness [laughing]—No, sir.

A Chicago Man's Change.

When a Chicago man wishes to change his shirt, he goes off somewhere, finds a hoisting apparatus, and, after getting under it, says to the operator, "Now, go ahead; easy at first, for my skin is all raw where it was peeled off before. An ominous silence follows these remarks. Then the creaking of machinery breaks forth, sharp and clear, and a howl of agony mingles with it as the trembling victim parts with his shirt and several yards of skin. Liniment is then rubbed over the sore spots on the sufferer's back, and the clean shirt is tenderly adjusted about him, the job being carefully done so as not to shock his sensibilities, unused as he is to sudden changes of linen.

Madame Dorval's Memory.

The Paris Figaro recently added a capital story to the memoirs of Madame Dorval, the actress. One night, Madame Dorval essayed Mary Tudor for the first time. Next morning, Charles Maurice, the editor of a daily paper, wrote: "Madame Dorval was touching, eloquent, sublime. We greatly regret that she has such a bad memory." That afternoon, Dorval called upon Maurice. "Ah," she said, half playfully, half angrily, "you are not kind; you say that I have talent, but no memory. Is that because I owe you five subscriptions?" "Ten," returned Maurice, with a well-affected air of indifference. "Was I not correct in saying you had a bad memory?"

Short Work.

A Texas judge is credited with the following decision: "The fact is, Jones, the jail is a rickety affair, as cold as an iron wedge. You applied to this court for release on bail, giving it as your opinion that you would freeze to death there. The weather has not moderated, and to keep you from freezing I will direct the sheriff to hang you at four o'clock this afternoon."

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. * *

Grain Growers' ASSOCIATION.

OFFICERS:

[illegible] F. Beach, N. B. Eddy,
[illegible] Tyler, Jr., F. S. Carter,
C. Dunlap.

THE OBJECT OF THE ASSOCIATION IS the raising of grain in Levied Land District, No. 205, twenty miles from Sacramento, on the Sacramento river. This District is surrounded by the [illegible] Levee in the State, being from 15 to 20 feet [illegible], 60 to 90 feet at the base and 20 feet on top [illegible] roadway. This Levee is twenty-one miles long [illegible] now being sown with alfalfa.

[illegible] land differs from some of the reclaimed [illegible] as the foundation of the levee is clay, and [illegible] levee itself is built of the same material, insuring absolute security against an overflow of water. Over $300,000 has already been expended in the construction of this immense levee, and this company has secured a lease of 5,000 acres of land, the finest in the State, at an annual rental of $6 33 per acre.

[illegible] the steamers to and from Sacramento stop at Courtland on this land and afford rapid and easy communication to parties desiring to see the work as it progresses. The promoters of this enterprise have leased this land in order to secure all the improvements now on the premises—for working it to the best advantage. The immense productiveness of these lands is too well known to require comment. One acre of this land when sown in wheat will produce a certain crop of 60 bushels, which at two cents per pound is worth $72, and which will leave a net profit of $52 per acre after deducting rent [illegible] expenses. The second year will be a volunteer crop which, less expenses, is clear profit.

A dividend of all the profits accruing will be made on the 1st day of August next, as the crop will be gathered and marketed during June and July.

The company is incorporated into 5,000 shares, [illegible] par value of $10 each, or one share to [illegible] acre of land cultivated. Plowing has been commenced and is now in progress, and will be pushed as rapidly as possible until completed.

Subscriptions for a limited number of the shares will be received at the office of the company at the rate of $10 per share, and no further calls can be made, and each share subscribed will entitle the holder to the profits on one acre of wheat, which will give a return of at least $50 per share in August.

Parties living at a distance wishing to subscribe will send money by Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, or certificates of deposit.

Apply at the office of the company, 15 Stevenson [illegible]ng, corner California and Montgomery streets. Accommodations, feed and transportation from San Francisco or Sacramento, will be furnished to those having teams and waiting contracts to plow.

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

This is the roughest conjugal experience on record: In a Brooklyn divorce suit, the husband who was the conductor on a horse-car line, alleges that his wife is employed as a "spotter" and through her influence he was turned out of his berth.

"It's pretty hard times now," said a darkey, down South; "I work all day and steal all night, and den I hab a hard time gittin' a livin'."

You inquire, "How can I prevent my little boy from wearing out the knees of his pants?" That problem has been in the market ever since Eve asked Adam the same thing about young Cain. We only know three sure ways: you can kill the boy, or you can make him pants without any knees; but perhaps the best way would be to get some other little boy, about the same size, to wear the knees out, if you have such objections to your own boy's doing it.

Clara Morris is a great lover of butter. Her husband doesn't wish any but her. See?

A belle who was purchasing some gloves told the clerk she wanted them of a "subdued mouse-color." The clerk said they were all out of that shade, but suggested "infuriated rat" as a substitute. He was discharged.

The Cincinnati Enquirer thinks that Eve must have been a very unhappy woman. There was no other woman to pass her on the street, that she might look around and see how that dress fitted in the back.

An uncomfortable Drawing-room—The dentist's.

In a certain French comedy a young man about to be married is found under somewhat suspicious circumstances purchasing a piano. He assures his prospective father-in-law that he intends the instrument for his bride. "But you know very well," objects the father-in-law, "that she doesn't play." "Of course I do," responds the ready-witted bridegroom; otherwise I shouldn't be such a fool as to give her a piano."

"Sonny, do you know where little boys go who play ball on Sunday?" asked an old lady of a little boy. "Yes'm," was his reply, "down the road about half a mile, near the fair grounds, where nobody can't see 'em!"

It is given for solemn fact that a hired girl in Savannah fainted dead away because she broke a tea cup. It may be true. It may be that she hadn't a chance to hide the pieces.

A Dubuque milkman was recently drowned. He was milking a river and fell in.

Everybody thought it was a match, and so did he and so did she, but one evening at a croquet party she hit her pet corn a whack with a mallet that sounded like a torpedo, and he—he laughed. "We meet as strangers," she wrote on her cuff, and showed it to him. "Think of me as no more," he whispered, huskily.

A boarding house guest, having discovered in his pudding a lump of coal, whilst carefully removing it to a side dish, said, with a reproachful air, and pointing to the coal: "It is not the mixing of the pudding in the coal hod that I object to, but it seems sinful to waste coal in this way, when so many families are suffering for want of fire."

Biddeford, Me., laments the loss of a baby born without arms, and of the potential sum that Barnum might have been expected to bid for't.

If they want to pull 'em back all the men in the world can't stop 'em.

Gymnasts are continually committing revaulting acts.

The vital statistics of this country prove that a woman will spend more time to hide a pimple on her forehead than she will to take care of seven children.

Nothing new about these pull-back skirts after all. In the reign of Edward II., 1307-27, a monkish chronicler records that the ladies "wore such tight clothes that they were constrained to have long foxes' brushes sewed within to hold them forth."

A bald-headed friend, of a heavy, phlegmatic temperament, was accosted on the street by a waggish acquaintance with the inquiry, "Tom, why is your head like Alaska?" "Too much for me, Zach—I give it up." "Because it is a white bear place."

Some husbands though anything but sharp, are awfully shrewd.

Why is a kiss like a sewing machine? Becau it "seems" so good.

There is one thing that you may safely record in your dairy, and that is, that no woman is ever anxious to show three or four of her most intimate friends an article which she got at a dollar store.

As a schoolmaster was employed, lately, in Scotland in his delightful task of teaching a sharp urchin to cipher on the slate, the precocious pupil put the following question to his instructor: "Whaur diz a' the figures gang till when they're rubbit out?"

How many men there are who declare they detest all manner of pastry, and yet we find they have their fingers in every pie.

A man made his wife glad by telling her he had sold his dog (which was a nuisance to his wife) for fifty dollars. She straightway began to congratulate both him and herself on this welcome accession to their little stock of money, when he put a terribly wet blanket on her satisfaction by telling her it was not exactly a cash trade, but he got two pups at twenty-five dollars apiece.

Brought up to the bar—A gymnast.

We knew a dog that was a thorough artist: he could draw a badger.

A National Ode—The public debt.

Shades of Night—Window-curtains.

Never Lost but often Found—A verdict.

FOREIGN THEATRICAL NEWS.

Henry Irving's Macbeth is far from being a success. None of the London critics praise it, and some are very severe in their strictures upon it. One says "Mr. Irving's Macbeth lacks power, grace, dignity and eloquence throughout. He depicts him from the beginning as a mean, contemptible, grovelling wretch, a miserable dastard, utterly incapable of braving death in his combat with Macduff so boldly and so defiantly as Mr. Irving makes him. It is impossible to determine which is the more pitiable, the extravagance of the actor's gestures, or the sing-song, conventicle-like tone wherewith he frequently delivers some of the finest soliloquies in the tragedy."

A Berlin paper recently contained the following advertisement: "A ladies' orchestra, with or without costume, are open to an engagement. Apply, etc." Where are the police?

Jenny Lind has two daughters, one eighteen, and the other twenty years of age. The younger possesses an excellent soprano voice, and may adopt the stage as profession, although her parents are in good circumstances.

Sunday matinees are becoming popular at nearly at the Paris theatres.

A London manager lately brought a man before a magistrate, and charged him with creating disturbance by persisting in an attempt to obtain an encore. The magistrate, however, said that if the privilege of an auditor to express his opinion of a performance by applause or otherwise was restrained in its exercise, play-going would lose most of its zest. He thereupon dismissed the case.

Our London namesake says, "A son of Mr. Sims Reeves will shortly make his first appearance before a London audience as a tenor vocalist."

The Russian Government spends annually $15,000 for carriages to keep the singers at St. Petersburg opera out of the snow, and to provide them with warm feet and clear voices.

Willing to help the Show.

A weather-beaten trapper was recently seen sauntering along the main street of a Western village. Pausing in front of a little meeting-house, he went in and took his seat among the congregation. The preacher was discoursing on the text of "The Sheep and the Wolves," and had evidently been drawing a contrast between the two subjects. He said: "We who assemble here from week to week, and do our duty, and perform our part, are the sheep. Now who are the wolves?" After a pause the trapper rose to his feet and said: "Waal, stranger, rather than see the play stopped, I will be the wolves?" The preacher was vanquished.

Still Hankering After Them.

Let the female angel cease to be agitated. Men will rave at the pinned-back skirts, and so they will, and have at other fashions. There was the kangaroo droop, the Grecian bend, the Tilton skirts, the bell crinoline, the decollete bodice, the very long stomacher—everything, way back to the ruffs of Queen Bess or the barrel hoops of Queen Anne, has been sneered at in the same manner. And yet men have a sort of sneaking fancy for the dear little creatures after all.

YOUNG MEN.
Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.
Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500
For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.
MIDDLE-AGED MEN!
There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

California Theatre.

There was a dual bill given here last night embracing "His Last Legs" and "Handy Andy." Of the two performances that of Mr. Joseph Murphy as Andy, was decidedly superior to that of Mr. Joseph Murphy as Felix O'Callaghan. In consequence of the non-arrival of Mr. Murphy's new play "Karry Gow Dhuve," his engagement will abruptly terminate to-morrow evening. This night will be devoted to the star's benefit, and we trust that so short an announcement will in no way militate against the success of what ought to be a bumper.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"The Fair One with the Blonde Wig," has made its mark, and now draws houses which leave nothing to be desired, either in point of numbers or enthusiasm. The music is capitally sung, the scenery is new and attractive, and the acting for the most part meets all the requirements of burlesque.

Opera House.

Fred Walz, since his re-appearance has sung a simple ballad called "Robin tell Kitty," which, it would be no exaggeration to say, has created a sensation. It is encored every night and sometimes re-encored. "The Skidmore Guards," Emerson's oration, "The Four Prophets' and Mackin and Wilson's original song and dance of "I thought You Was," make up a splendid bill.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

Auber's favorite opera of "Fra Diavolo," was given last evening by reason of the Carnival Ball's being held to-night. The house was a very fair one, and the principal characters, (Fra Diavolo, Theo. Habelmann; Lorenzo, Chas. Pflueger; Zerlina, Miss Anna Elzer, and Giacomo, Carl Formes); were well sustained. On Sunday next, as see note, benefit of Herr Formes.

W. B. Linehan's Benefit.

To-morrow evening, a benefit will be given at the California Theatre for the family of the late William B. Linehan. The deceased was a journalist and has left a host of friends, and a family unprovided for. It has now become the duty of the first to see what they can' do for the second.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The list of artists here is an immense one including Charley Kimic, Ned Barry, George C. Thompson, Swain and West, St. Leon and Frank Mortimer all of whom appear to-night.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Johnny Cooke's first appearance here last night, was a sucess, his champion clog dance being well received. "The Trip to San Jose" by the company concludes the entertaining bill.

New Palace Varieties.

The decapitation feat, Mons. Rollo Brock in his feats of jaw strength, Harry Devoy in song and dance, and "Scenes on the U. P," by Billy Randall all to-night.

New Lyceum Theatre.

This new variety place of amusement, situated at the South-east corner of Sacramento and Kearny streets, will be opened to-morrow evening with an attractive bill introducing every member of the well selected company. Programme to-morrow.

Woodward's Gardens.

Among the features in the excellent entertainment now given Saturday and Sunday are Hadj Hamo, the Arabian tumbler, and Sam Gonzales, the world's two greatest living tumblers. Also Miss Mathews, James Lee, Gus Mooney, the screaming pantomime "The Cobbler's Frolic," the gymnastic troupe and concert.

Notes.

On Sunday evening, Herr Carl Formes has his benefit when he will appear as Falstaff in the positively last production of "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

Dr. D. Percy,

The rooms of this eminent Astrologer and Healer, are crowded daily at No. 206 Kearny Street, rooms 11 and 12.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F, Sterett, 532 Clay Street. over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

The Holidays.

Are fast approaching and everybody, of course, is considering what present would be most suitable, now, if these who so consider, call at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street below Kearny, they will no longer be in doubt, what to give, for nothing is more acceptable to gentleman, youth or child than a nice, stylish and dressy hat, of which there is a larger assortment to be found at "The" Hat Seore at lower prices than anywhere in the city. Those who expect no present, should treat themselves to one. Remember the number, 647 Washington street below Kearny. M

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and al epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. X

Terrill and Chapman s.

WHO KNOWS; OR, HOME QUESTIONS.

Who knows where pins and needles go,
Where all the buttons stray?
Who knows where all the pennies go
That somehow get away?
Who knows how all the china breaks
That wasn't touched at all?
How baby gets so black a bruise
Yet never gets a fall.?

Who knows whence all the fashions come,
And where they disappear?
Why one brief month should make a fright
Of what was "such a dear?"
Who knows how little bills can swell
To such prodigious size?
Who knows, indeed what's going on
Beneath his very eyes?

Who knows just where her husband goes
When "business" keeps him out?
Who knows when best to wear a smile
And when to wear a pout?
Who knows the time to face the fact
That she's no longer young?
Who knows how best to speak her mind
And when to hold her tongue?

Who knows the most convenient day
To bring a friend to dine?
Who knows the half of what he spends
On clubs, cigars and wine?
Who knows one bonnet cannot last
A woman half her life?
Who knows the woman is the same
When sweetheart turns to wife?

Who knows why all the pretty girls
Are often last to go?
How all the ugly women wed
Who never have a beau?
Why small men fancy wives so large
And large men fancy small?
Who knows, in fact, how half the world
Was ever matched at all?

Who knows how far to trust a friend
How far to hate a foe?
Just when to speak a kindly Yes,
And when a sturdy No?
Who knows? The grim old Grecian sage
Says gravely, from my shelf,
The wisest man in all the world
Is he who knows himself.

A Word to Musicians.

A curious theory has been started by a French physician, Dr. Burq, that the playing of wind instruments and other like pulmonary gymnastics, instead of being as generally supposed, injurious to persons with weak lungs, are, on the contrary, beneficial to them. In order to establish this fact, Dr. Burq has visited a variety of large workshops, and among others those of manufacturers of wind instruments. On one of these occasions he received the following information from M. Sax:—"Besides choleraic immunity, our workmen enjoy another—they are free form consumption. Many philanthropists, on seeing our young military musicians wield the enormous instruments we make, have sorrowed over the few years these poor fellows would have to live. Well, they are mistaken. All the men who make it their profession to try the wind instruments made at the various factories before sending them off for sale, all, without exception, to my knowledge, are free from pulmonary affection. I have known many such who on entering upon this profession were very delicate, and who, though their duty obliged them to blow for hours together, enjoyed perfect health after a certain time. I am myself an instance of this. My mother died of consumption; eight children of hers fell victims to the same disease, and only three of us survive, and we all three play wind instruments. The day is not far distant, perhaps, when physicians will have recourse to our dreaded art in order to conquer pulmonary diseases." At all events, the experiment* is worth a trial, and it is unlikely that playing on the cornopean will prove more fatal to consumptive person than the long journeys and discomforts to which they are often condemned by physicians.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Handkerchiefs vs. Napkins.

When Ben Jonson, carving at dinner, landed a gravy-covered goose in the lap of the lady sitting next to him, and forthwith remarked with unmovod countenance, "Madam, I'll trouble you for that goose," he got off something so good that it will last for centuries yet. Scarcely less excellent is the story that Greville tells of a courtier at dinner, who, tired of picking up articles that the lady next to him persistently dropped, audibly requested the servant to put his plate upon the floor, remarking, "I think I will dine there." Not so famous, but still worth telling, is the adventure of Dick Insouciance, at one of Mrs. Eglantine's charming dinners in Oakland. By a strange oversight of the servants, napkins had been omitted from the table furniture, and the attention of Mrs. E., occupied in serving out soup, had not yet been called to it. The guests sat silent, each waiting for the other to speak, when Dick, who held the place of honor at the hostess' right, swallowed a spoonful of soup, and turning to Mrs. Eglantine quietly remarked:

"May I trouble you for your handkerchief a moment?"

Wondering slightly, but making no answer, she handed him her dainty little mixture of cambric and lace. Dick took it without a change of feature, slowly and solemnly wiped off his dense mustache, and then handed it back, with a grave "Thank you!"

The roar of laughter which followed left the table in a state of extreme gayety which the speedy arrival of napkins did not serve to diminish.

Mrs. Joblink's Experience.

"When I first jined the church," said a Clay street matron yesterday, as she leaned out of the window, speaking to a younger and severer-looking female, "I had jest them kind of notions myself. But I got more light as I growed older." "But, Mrs. Joblink," said the other, "duty is duty, and each must act out his mission."

"Yes," rejoined Mrs. Joblink, patronizingly, "that's jest the way I used to feel till I got married. When you have a husbond coming home nights an' fallin' up stairs you won't think the Lord requires so much of you. I used to pray for Joblink till he started in to make a stump speech to the hat rack at 3 o'clock in the morning, an' then I got more light. The Lord helps them as helps theirselves, an' I find now that a metal blacked hair brush does better with Joblink than all the prayers you can shake a stick at. You'll see when you get married."

The younger lady sighed and inquired if there were any poor people in the neighborhood who would be benefitted by a tract on "The Sin of Dancing."

Ecstatic.

The tight-fitting ladies' costume is thus dealt with by an art poet: "O tight dress, thou simple dress in which Homer enfolded Helen—the same that Aspasia and Cleopatra wore—nothing in thee is wanted in magnificence by reason of being so fitted as to reveal the outlines of the limbs! Petrarch's Laura had only two dresses for state occasions, both cut to fit the figure almost like a glove; but the plainness did not prevent their being splendid with gay, profuse, and costly charms of hue and trimming. There is no limit, and there should be none, to the possibilities of brilliancy in woman's attire, and to the close fit. A she glove, No. 17—in a word, made of white leather, trimmed with blue ribbon and pear buttons. O divine Muse—" It seems that he broke off here, as his wife was looking over his shoulder.

"I'll bet a sheep," said old Meredith to his better half, "that our boy Otho is going crazy; fur he's grinnin' at the plow he's grinnin' at the barn, and he's grinnin at himself wherever he goes." "Sho! old man! You don't know nothin.' The critter's got a love-letter."

A Leeds paper says that a young widow in that city, who writes well, is training herself for an editor. Who is the editor?

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

NEW YORK.

Several New York actors have formed a society for the purpose of social enjoyment, with quarters at the Union Square Hotel. The first supper was held on the evening of the 3d, H. J. Montague presiding, and among those present who contributed to the general enjoyment by songs or speeches were Harry Becket of Wallack's; Charles Stevenson, of the same establishment, and Edward Arnott, of the Union Square Theatre.

Mr. James Lewis arrived in town on the 9th, having closed his traveling season.

Dr Hans Von Bulow began his pianoforte recitals in New Chickering Hall, on the 15th inst.

The Brahams opened at Tony Pastor's New York, 15th.

Mr. G. F. Rowe has been engaged on a dramatization of "Vanity Fair.

January 3d, 1876, is the date fixed upon for the forthcoming revival of "Julius Cæsar" at Booth's Theatre.

Clara Morris is much improved in health and is studying a new part,—what it is has not been divulged.

"Led Astray," at the Union Square Theatre, New York, reached its one hundredth performance during the week ending the 6th.

Mention is made of a new comedy, named "Our Circle, written by William Davidge, Sr., and said to have been accepted by Mr. Daly for the Fifth Avenue stage.

The season at Gilmore's Gardens is practically ended, but a series of Sunday concerts is now being carried out.

The San Francisco Minstrels keep their place as the furnishers of the best entertainment in New York.

Cotton and Reed at Darling's Opera House, run them closely, however, and in some things are said to be their equals.

There is no announcement of the intended withdrawal of "Led Astray" from the boards of the Union Square Theatre.

"Caste" has taken the place of "The Overland Route" at Wallack's, and promises to be nearly as great a success.

The French Comedy Company and the Mexican Infantile Opera Bouffe Company, were alternating evenings at the Lyceum Theatre, for the week ending the 13th.

"Richard II," one of Shakspeare's rarely produced pieces, was put on the Fifth Avenue stage on the 8th, with Edwin Booth in the chief role.

We do not find any notice in the New York papers of the proposed withdrawal of "The Mighty Dollar" from the Park Theatre.

T. W. Keene played two weeks successful engagement at Wood's Museum, beginning the 1st and ending the 13th, of which more will be found in the Notes.

Variety shows, prosperous or otherwise, are given at the Globe Theatre, the Third Avenue, the Olympic, Col. Sinn's Brooklyn Park Theatre, Tony Pastor's, the Eagle, the Theatre Comique, the Parisian Varieties and the Tivoli Theatre.

Geo and Sydney France are playing an engagement at the Bowery Theatre, and have produced "Marked for Life" and "Wide Awake.

Strange to say, Mr. Fox is reported as showing no signs of ill health in his performance, and "Humpty Dumpty" packs Booth's every night.

Edwin Booth will most probably succeed Fechter at the Walnut Theatre, Philadelphia, on Monday next.

How have the mighty fallen. Hooley's Theatre, Brooklyn, re-opened with a minstrel troupe on the 16th.

"Around the World in Eighty Days," ran until the 8th at Shook and Palmer's Brooklyn Theatre, when it was withdrawn in favor of Mr. John Gilbert and Mr. Harry Beckett in old English comedies.

German Opera has so far been a success. "The Huguenots" was given on the 8th, "Martha" on the 10th, "Fra Diavolo" on the 12th and "Der Freichutz" on the 13th.

A Philadelphia gusher says that George Rignold's eyes are of the lovliest possible hue, and that in order to heighten their beauty, much of the scenery of "Henry V." has been painted in colors that softly harmonize with them.

The new Academy of Music, Newark, N. J., was inaugurated by the Watchel Grand German Opera in the "Postillion du Lonjumeau," on the 18th.

One Edwin Byron, a so-called Boy Tragedian, appeared at the Boston Theatre on the 6th in the tragedy of "Richard III." and assumed the leading role in that play. It is said to have been a remarkably mature performance, if this young gentleman is only eighteen years of age, as was stated.

Mrs. Scott-Siddons, Haverhill, 12th. Her baggage and that of her husband was rifled recently at Danbur[illegible] and many valuables were stolen.

Char[illegible] Fechter appeared at the Walnut Street Theatre, in a "new and powerful" play called "Rouge et Noir."

Lotta, without troupe, is announced at St. Louis, 15th. She has been in attendance of late upon her sick mother.

Sara Jewett is responsible for a great deal of devastation through her appearance on the stage, but is doubtful if she has ever before drawn forth such a torrent of gush as bursts out in the following extract from the Louisville Courier Journal: "Miss Jewett achieved a heart-thrilling impression. The susceptible youth were captivated in shoals. She invested her personation with so many winsome graces, a manner so artless, a voice so mellifluous, that with the charms which nature, in a joyful mood, so lavished upon her dainty figure, it is no wonder she is, pan excellence, the stellar magnet of he dramatic constellation that pales its light before her radiance.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish bock."

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE.—The successful burlesque of "The Fair One With the Blonde Wig," this and to-morrow evenings. On Monday next its second week will be commenced when new songs and attractions will be added.

OPERA HOUSE. — The Minstrels draw good houses wet, or shine, as it is to be expected they should for the programme they offer is one that must suit everybody.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—This afternoon and evening will see the last appearance of Joseph Murphy. At both performances "The Colleen Bawn" will be given. Mr. Murphy has to congratulate himself on an engagement which commenced somewhat dubiously and ends most auspiciously. As it is, the engagement is only brought to a close in consequence of his new play "Kerry Gow Dhuve." not having arrived in time for rehearsal.

This evening the performance will be for the benefit of the family of the late William B. Linehan. The deceased was a journalist and has left a host of friends, and a family unprovided for. It has now become the duty of the first to see what they can do for the second.

GRAND GERMAN AND ITALIAN OPERA—To-morrow evening "The Merry Wives of Windsor," will be given for the last time—positively—and this time for the benefit of the popular basse, Herr Carl Formes. His Falstaff, in this opera, Giacomo, in "Fra Diavolo" and the assassin in "Stradella" have been too prominent features in the season now drawing to a close to need any commendatory reference to hear.

HEROLD'S ORCHESTRAL MATINEE.—The programme for the next concert contains Mozart's Symphonie in C. ("Jupiter") Mendelssohn's overture to "Midsummer-Night's Dream," selections from Gounod's "Faust," and the overture to "Maritana." Were it not that the programme contained such gems as the above, the fact that "Amaryllis" was down for repetition would be sufficient to keep us away. When his royal majesty Louis XIII, picked out the sweet melody with one finger on the spinnet—he little thought of the infliction he was perpetrating and perpetuating, or he would have stopped at the second bar of his rum, tum, ti.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE. — The acts for to-night are "The Two Pompeys," "He Would be an Actor," "Banjo Act" and "Another Trip to Paris" which seems to lose none of its attractiveness. Miss Kitty Devoy, the champion jig dancer makes her first appearance this evening.

THE NEW LYCEUM THEATRE. — This new variety theatre opens this evening with a full company of excellence. Among the attractions on the inaugural programme are a Highland Fling by Miss Georgie Brooks, a Banjo Solo by Miss Cherry Bell, Matt Kelly in "La Statue Blanche," Charley King with his banjo, the farce of "The Merry Cobbler," Miss Emma Cooper with violin solo and the sketch of "I Duo Prestidgitatori." Harry Thompson will deliver the opening address.

NEW OLYMPIC VARIETY THEATRE.—W. H. Glenn, the serio comic vocalist, made his first appeaaance last night and was received with favor, "Mazeppa" as a great attraction is in preparation.

NEW PALACE VARIETIES.—Miss Maggie St. Clair, Leon Samwells, I. Reilly, Nelson, Reid and Henri Stuart are amongst the new faces. The old ones are all old favorites.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from any thing else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain railroad.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—Attractions.—Among the features in the excellent entertainment now given Saturday and Sunday are Hadj Hamo, the Arabian tumbler, and Sam Gonzales, the world's two greatest living tumblers. Also Miss Mathews, James Lee, Gus Mooney, the screaming pantomime "The Cobbler's Frolic," the gymnastic troupe and concert.

Dr. D. Percy,

The rooms of this eminent Astrologer and Healer, are crowded daily at No. 206 Kearny Street, rooms 11 and 12.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F, Sterett, 532 Clay Street. over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

The Holidays.

Are fast approaching and everybody, of course, is considering what present would be most suitable, now, if these who so consider, call at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street below Kearny, they will no longer be in doubt, what to give, for nothing is more acceptable to gentleman, youth or child than a nice, stylish and dressy hat, of which there is a larger assortment to be found at "The" Hat Store at lower prices than anywhere in the city. Those who expect no present, should treat themselves to one. Remember the number, 647 Washington street below Kearny. M

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and all epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. X

DRAMATIC NOTES.

We understand that some day last week Mr. T. Maguire telegraphed to Mrs. Oates at Baltimore, for her book and music of the burlesque of "Fortunio" as arranged for her company. To this dispatch the lady replied that they had been destroyed. Fortunately, however, Mr. W. H. Crane, who was for four years stage-manager of the Oates Company, and consequently had the arranging and producing of the pieces during that time, so well remembers all the details that he is now at work arranging it for the stage for the company at Maguire's Theatre, where it will shortly be produced with the same music, business, introductions and so forth as used by the Oates Company, and in better style than even that of the present successful production of "The Fair One with the Blonde Wig."

The N. Y. Clipper gives a hint to minstrel managers, in alluding to Cotton & Reed's New York Minstrels, as follows: "It has been a long time since four new songs have been sung on the same evening in a minstrel entertainment in this city, and this evidence of energy and active management deserves notice."

The following is from an Eastern exchange: The musical critic of the New York Herald remarks: "There is no doubt but that Mr. Neuendorff has engaged a fine company. He has a great tenor, whose fault is one from which most tenors are exempt—viz., he has too much voice rather than too no doubt but that Mr. Neuendorff has engaged a good company. He has a very good tenor, whose fault is a peculiar one. He has too much voice rather than too little, and too little voice rather than too much." Certainly, certainly.

We have received further and sadder confirmatory news of G. L. Fox's distressing condition. M. H. B. writes as follows to the St Louis Republican. As she is (or was) his sister-in-law, she ought to know whereof she speaks: "Poor George Fox is playing an engagement which it is unlikely he will ever complete. Some weeks ago I wrote of his paralysis. That paragraph was widely denied and his health pronounced perfect. I happen to know of what I write and if you could see the famous clown to-night, you would not recognize him. Out of his make-up his condition is very evident. One side of his face is drawn and set, there is a weary empty look in his eyes, and a numb, helpless action of the jaws in speaking. Dressed for this part he has played one thousand times—he is led to the wings and actually prompted and pushed about, Mr. Fraser, the pantaleon, doing the fun making. Fox will stand apparently dazed for five minutes, till some one speaks and tells him what to do."

We are sorry to learn that Mr. Carleton of the Kellogg English Opera Company has been seriously ill and is still unable to appear. At Boston he only sang once during the engagement.

Signor Orlandini is now with the above company.

Georges Parkes, it seems, can't get over his taste for dresses extraordinary and remarkable. A New York costumer when asked the period of the wonderful costume worn by Mr. Parkes as the Sieur de Behringen in "Richelieu," during Mr. Booth's engagement at the Fifth Avenue Theatre replied: "The tunic is of the period of Francis 1.; the sleeves of Louis III.; the cloak, Charles II., and the tights are of any period from Julius Cæsar to Lydia Thompson."

As England, in the opinion of all outside her borders is a nation of shopkeepers, so is America considered by foreigners to be a nation of advertisers. A Presburg (Hungary) paper of October 14th says that after "Camille" was played at an American theatre, and while the audience was dissolved in tears at the fate of the unhappy young woman, an individual in black stepped before the curtain. "You have witnessed, ladies and gentlemen," said he, "the tragic death of the unfortunate Mlle. Gautier, the result of consumption. If, now, she had taken Johnson's celebrated cough lozenges, only twenty-five cents a box, the catastrophe would not have occurred. Her sad fate should be a warning to those similarly afflicted."

Mr. John McCullough has been playing to large houses through the West, and will open here at Ford's Grand Opera House on the 22d. Mr. Edward Spencer has completed a tragedy for him which is very highly spoken of by the best judges who have seen the manuscript.—Baltimore Bulletin.

A few days ago there appeared amongst the Eastern dispatches of the Chronicle one to the effect that a certain "George Dinsmore," an English actor, had died from pneumonia in New York. This was followed, either on Wednesday or Thursday last, by the announcement that the actor, "George Beavoir," had been buried from Dr. Houghton's "Little Church around the corner," and that the attendance showed how deeply his loss was regretted. We are very much afraid that the George Dinsmore or Beavoir is no other than George Belmore the celebrated English comedian, whose performance of Nat Gosling in "The Flying Scud," both in New York and Brooklyn, attracted so much complimentary attention. Ever since his arrival in this country he has suffered from some pulmonary complaint which has seemed to grow in intensity, so that whilst the news of his death is a matter of sincere sorrow, it is not a cause for surprise.

The readers of last Saturday's Notes may possiby remember that there was one amongst them (the Notes) referring to the announcement made by the Sunday Mercury that "Mein Leopold," claimed to be an original play by Mr. L'Arronge, had been proved to be a plagiarism of H. J. Byron's "Dearer Than Life." And now the Philadelphia City Item steps in and says that there is no use attempting to conceal the fact that Mr. Byron's "Our Boys" is a bare-faced appropriation of L'Arronge's "Mein Leopold," the only difference being that the German play (which was such a great success in Berlin, Vienna, etc.) has an old shoemaker for its hero, while Mr. Byron makes his hero an old butter man.

There need be no excuse for publishing an extract or two from the Eastern papers, concerning the N. Y. success of such a general favorite as T. W. Keene. It will be remembered that on the 1st of the present month he opened at Wood's Museum and played there a fortnight. Concerning his appearance the New York Dispatch says:

> Mr. T. W. Keene, a clever and popular actor, who was long the leading favorite at this theatre, but who, for the past two seasons has been gaining fresh laurels on the Pacific slope, reappeared on Monday evening and was welcomed with a reception of which he might very justly be proud. He played during the week to very large audiences, to whom his acting was evidently satisfactory in the extreme Mr. Keene, always a reliable and painstaking actor, has gained greatly during his absence, and we are not at all astonished that he should be an object of admiration on the part of the critical San Franciscans.

The Sunday Mercury says:

> There are none who will dispute that Wood's Museum is the leading sensation theatre of the city, and had there been any among the patrons of the past week, Mr. T. W. Keene's new drama of the "Four Knaves" would have dispelled all doubt upon the subject. It is of French extraction, in a prologue and three acts. It is oath bound, as far as the four leading desperadoes are concerned. The principal—Pierre Bisson, an escaped prisoner from a French fortress—was played in a very stirring manner by Mr. Keene; who derived much encouragement from a series of large attendances in front, and good support on the stage.

He is expected to arrive in town this evening.

Mrs. Nathalie Pollard has sent $60 50 to the Virginia City Relief Fund, that being the sum realized by the entertainment held at Platt's Hall, Nov. 8th.

We have received from Mr. Chas. Wyndham the circular of a second series of English plays to be given at the Crystal Palace. Lon., the season, lasting from Oct. 28th to Nov. 19th. The object of the enterprise is to introduce old plays and standard modern comedies to the public in a style that shall do much to place these plays in their proper high position. The plays chosen for representation are Sheridan Knowles's "The Wife," George Colman's (Jun.) "John Bull," George Colman's (Jun.) "Heir at Law," Lovell's "Wife's Secret," Tom Taylor's "Plot and Passion," Tom Taylor's "Still Waters Run Deep," and Charles Reade's "Masks and Faces." Amongst the artists engaged are Messrs. Benjamin Webster, W. Creswick, Herman Vezin, W. Rignold, Cathcart, W. H. Vernon, Lytton Sothern, and Mesdames Carlotta LeClercq, Minnie Walton, Rose Coghlan and Mrs. Sterling.

Chas Vivian and Madame Reiffarth are in Pioche.

Several Eastern papers announce the intention of the Florences to start on a provincial tour with "The Mighty Dollar" in December.

By the bye, speaking of the Florences, we understood that W. J. Florence claimed the sole right of 'Our Boys" in all American cities, outside New York, but the Boston Courier announces that John Owens has the sole right for several important towns.

Bret Harte has written that play, and Stuart Robson is said to be pleased with it, but as yet nothing is said of its production.

"Marita and Jeannette; or, the Idiot of the Mountains," an adaptation from the French by Mr. Barton Hill, is in preparation at the California Theatre, San Francisco, according to an Eastern exchange. When one wants news it seems one should go abroad t seek it.

By the China which came in port on Thursday there arrived Signor Palmieri, tenor; Signora Palmieri, soprano assoluta, and Signorina Persiani, mezzo soprano. These artists after a season of two years in Australia, under the management of Messrs. Lyster and Cagli started on a concertizing tour through Japan, Java and China. Thence to San Fancisco en route for New York and Europe. Signora Palmieri is a lady who has been most highly spoken and written of wherever she has been. Her appearances in opera at Milan, Naples and Venice were followed by notices unmistakable in their reference to the lady as a great artiste. Manager Maguire has been approached concerning a season of Italian opera and it is probable that we shall very shortly have the opportunity of listening to these new artists. We should not be surprised if the advertisement of a production of "Norma" was seen before the public. Signora Palmieri's repertoire consists of "Semeramide," "Faust," "Lucia" "La Juive," "I Vespri Siciliani" and all the great operas old and new. Signors Contini and Mancusi, will probably join the company.

NOTES FROM ABROAD.

The Paris papers state that Mlle. Tallandiera, of the Gymnase, will visit America this Winter and give a series of performances. She will create a role in one of the pieces written in honor of the Centennial.

Madame Van Zandt has a daughter now in England training for the lyric stage, whose vocal acquirements are already remarkable.

Joseph Jefferson's friends and admirers will regret to learn that the English Autumn weather has not been kind to him, and that his health has suffered somewhat since he left Paris. He was, however, announced to appear at the London Princess Theatre, Nov. 1.

Mr. George Clarke, who continues playing in London, has found himself sometimes confounded with Messrs. John Sleeper Clarke and John Clarke, who both figure on the metropolitan boards. He has therefore adopted his real name of O'Neil, and calls himself George Clarke O'Neil.

It is said that Adelaide Neilson-Lee will return to this country next May, and will make a tour of the principal theatres under the management of Mr. Schwab, now dramatic critic of the New York Times.

Carlotta LeClercq has postponed her return to this country until next May.

J. K. Emmet is now playing in Scotland, but will shortly leave for Australia.

"We give you our best," says the London correspondent of the Baltimore Bulletin, "you get our tip-top comedians, tragedians and singers; we deserve returns; we all hail George Clarke; may you, as you surely will, make our sides ache and the welkin ring again. We should like to see Miss Fanny Davenport, Mrs. Gilbert and Miss Clara Morris, too; they would do well here, for we sadly want something fresh; and that we always get from America."

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equal to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. R. H. TULE LANDS.

50 Dividend Next August.

Leveed Land District No. 205.

$300,000 Expended.

FIRST LEVEE IN THE STATE.

Shares, $10.

Grain Growers' Association.

Incorporated Under the Laws of the State of California.

This district adjoins Grand Island District which produced this year 65 bushels of Wheat TO THE ACRE.

OFFICERS:
[illegible] F. Beach, N. R. Eddy,
[illegible] Tyler, Jr., F. S. Carter,
C. Dunlap.

THE OBJECT OF THE ASSOCIATION is the raising of grain in Leveed Land District, No. [illegible]5, twenty miles from Sacramento, on the Sacramento river. This District is surrounded by the [illegible] Levee in the State, being from 15 to 20 feet high, [illegible]0 to 90 feet at the base and 20 feet on top [illegible] roadway. This Levee is twenty-one miles long, [illegible] now being sown with alfalfa. This land differs from some of the reclaimed lands, as the foundation of the levee is clay, and the levee itself is built of the same material, insuring absolute security against an overflow of water. Over $300,000 has already been expended in the construction of this immense levee, and this company has secured a lease of 5,000 acres of land, the finest in the State, at an annual rental of $6 33 per acre. All the steamers to and from Sacramento stop at Courtland on this land and afford rapid and easy communication to parties desiring to see the work as it progresses. The projectors of this enterprise have leased this land in order to secure all the improvements now on the premises for working it to the best advantage. The immense productiveness of these lands is too well known to require comment. One acre of this land when sown in wheat will produce a certain crop of 60 bushels, which at two cents per pound is worth $72, and which will leave a net profit of $52 per acre after deducting rent and expenses. The second year will be a volunteer crop, which, less expenses, is clear profit. A dividend of all the profits accruing will be made on the 1st day of August next, as the crop will be gathered and marketed during June and July.

The company is incorporated into 5,000 shares, at a par value of $10 each, or one share to each acre of land cultivated. Plowing has been commenced and is now in progress, and will be pushed as rapidly as possible until completed. Subscriptions for a limited number of the shares will be received at the office of the company at the rate of $10 per share, and no further calls can be made, and each share subscribed will entitle the holder to the profits on one acre of wheat, which will give a return of at least $50 per share in August.

Parties living at a distance wishing to subscribe can send money by Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, with certificates of deposit.

Apply at the office of the company, 15 Stevenson Building, corner California and Montgomery streets. Accommodations, feed and transportation from San Francisco or Sacramento, will be furnished to parties having teams and waiting contracts to plow.

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

Sam Music has been arrested for murder in Illinois. He can plead self defence; so many people have murdered psalm music. He is now taking a rest behind the bars.

Lady to waiter—Don't put that ice into the goblet with your fingers. Waiter—Lor, ma'am, I don't mind, my hands are very warm.

"Yes," he said, dreamily, "we are always striving for a subjective goal. Unconsciously, it may be, but still we strive. We lean over the verge of the infinite, longing to grasp its mysteries and lost in the profundities of its immensity." "Yes," she replied, thoughtfully, "but John, would you mind my putting a brown patch on the seat of these old black pants of yours?"

The advantage of having a dress reformer for a wife: Time, midnight; scene, a bed-chamber; two pairs of trowsers hanging over a chair; enter bloody-minded burglar; sees trowsers; "A ha; curses on 'em! One man I would carve, two I will not face!" Exit burglar in alarm. Burglar deceived, only one man in bed; other trowsers belong to wife.

"Never mind, sonny' the rain make boys grow," remarked a Massachusets tramp the other day, when he took a silk umbrella from a lad in the midst of a rain storm.

Difficult Question—Are the minutes relating to an affair of honor always drawn up by the seconds?

If a young man sits up too late with his sweetheart out at Haddonfield, the old folks come into the parlor, and with a refinement of sarcasm, invite him to wait a few minutes longer and breakfast will be ready!

When a man is choping kindling and a stick with a ragged edge takes him between the eyes, he hurls the hatchet far away, nurses his head with one hand, and hops around as if he had the spring halt in his right leg. All his physical ageny is nothing compared to his inexpressible feelings when his wife pokes her head into the wood-shed and mildly inquires, "Richard are you hurt?"

A Danbury couple have a nice little daughter of some five Summers. A lady visitor lately observed to the mother, "What a pretty child you have! She must be a great comfort to you." "She is indeed," said the fond mother. "When I'm mad at John, I don't have to speak to him. She calls him to his meals, and tells him to get up the coal, and other things that I want. She's real handy."

A pretty, but very bashful, Georgetown young lady, being asked what she was particularly partial to, exclaimed: "My love fluctuates between clam chowder and lemon drops!"

John King, in 1862, lived in Tennessee. Soldiers of both armies raided on his farm, so he removed all his produce to a cave in the Cumberland Mountains. A storm threw down a rock which closed the mouth of the cave. Therein he lived for thirteen years in the dark, eating his produce and drinking from a spring. The other day a railroad company, blasting for a tunnel, blasted him out. So says a paper.

"Pa," said little Jimmie, "I came very near getting to the head of my class to-day."

"How is that, my son?"

"Why, a big word came all the way down to me, and if I only could have spelled it, I would have gone clear up."

Rather near Sighted.

A lawyer once had an important case, and the decision depended on the way the jury would regard the testimony of one lady. He lost the case because the fair witness swore positively to an occurrence which she witnessed at the distance of a few rods, although there were several persons who stood much nearer than she that saw nothing whatever of it. The lawyer looked rather blue when the jury brought in their verdict but avenged himself by rising and telling the court a story of a lady he once knew who was very near-sighted but always declared her eyesight to be excellent. Accordingly, one day a neighbor stuck a darning needle in the side of the barn, and placing her on the opposite side of the road asked her if she could see it. "Oh, yes," replied the old lady, "I see the needle easy enough, but where's the barn?"

A Struggle for Supremacy.

SCENE—A French Shop at the Sea Side.

Young lady (wishing to improve her French)—"O—er—esker voos avvy—"

Tradesman (wishing to show off his English)—"Oh, yes, meess—sairtenly!"

"Dot Gotes."

She testified before the magistrate that "dot pilly gotes shoots vas a—a—vell, I vas vashing by some clodings of a pig tub, und them gotes coom up behind und—vell, shoge, I don't ken told you how dot vas. I feel me someding pehind my pack und shump over der tub und sthand me on my head up mit dot tub's pottom up, and der clodings sphilt shoost like me, und dem gotes vink at me mit von eyes, und vag his tails of mine face, und valks out by his behind legs like a man, und I can't sit me down cool any more already."

A belle who was purchasing some gloves told the clerk she wanted them of a "subdued mouse-color." The clerk said they were all out of that shade, but suggested "infuriated rat" as a substitute. He was discharged.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Opera House.

The programme for this week is the usual step up from that of the week preceding. Mackin and Wilson's original song and dance "I Thought You Was," and "The Skidmore Guards" have been retained, but with these exceptions the bill is a new one. In the first part are some exceedingly good songs and in the olio are the acts of "The Polly Glot Songsters," "The U. S. Mail," Ernest Lindin in operatic selections, and the act of "Moving In," in which as Ike Simpson, Charley Sutton will make his first appearance. See Note.

California Theatre.

This, and to-morrow evenings, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be played. On Wednesday and Thursday nights "Under the Gaslight" will be given and for Friday and Saturday the bill is "Flowers of the Forest." The cast for "Uncle Tom's Cabin" this evening includes Ned Thayer as Uncle Tom, W. Mestayer as Phineas Fletcher and Miss Alice Harrison as Topsy.

Maguire's New Theatre.

The burlesque of "The Fair One with the Blonde Wig" begins its second week this evening. The principal features of the first week's production will be retained, but there will be several novelties introduced, Nursery Rhymes, and a parody on "The Heart Bowed Down," sung by Kennedy as Princess Prettipet.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

The announcement of its being the benefit of Herr Carl Formes and the last presentation of Nicolai's "Merry Wives of Windsor" filled Platt's Hall last night. The beneficiary's appearance as Falstaff was the principal event of the evening, the rest of the characters being cast as at the previous presentation of this opera. To-morrow "Norma" will be given, and on Thursday afternoon, at an extra matinee, "Der Freischutz will be repeated for the last time.

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

On the programme for the next concert are Mozart's Symphonie in C. ("Jupiter") Mendelssohn's overture to "Midsummer-Night's Dream," selections from Gounod's "Faust," and the overture to "Maritana."

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Kittie Leroy, the champion jiggist, is the latest attraction at this house, and has danced in popular favor at once, the Boy Wonder, Kimic, Ned Barry, George C. Thompson, Frank Mortimer and the variety company every night.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

"Jeems the Poet," "Stumping the State," "The Scared Ghost," "Deaf in a Horn," "Siamese Twins" and "A Trip to San Jose," to-night. Friday night "Mazeppa."

New Lyceum Theatre.

There was a perfect jam at the opening of this new place of amusement on Saturday night. The house is a very comfortable and commodious one, its dimensions being 80 by 120 feet, with a good height of ceiling. This company is a good one, well selected for the business. Harry Thompson and Cherry Bell sustain the leading farce business, Matt Kelly does comic negro business, Georgie Brooks is the danseuse. The programme can be found on the first page.

Woodward's Gardens.

Performance on Thursday, Thanksgiving day, Saturday and Sunday. Among the features are Hadj Hamo, the Arabian tumbler, and Sen. Gonzales, the world's two greatest tumblers. Also Miss Mathews, Jas. Lee, Gus Mooney, the screaming pantomime, the "Cobler's Frolic," the gymnastic troupe and concert.

Notes.

Frank Wilton and troupe concluded a successful season of six nights on the 11th at Shasta.

Maguire's dramatic company opened at the Metropolitan, Sacramento, on Monday last, and concluded the season there on Saturday. "Dora," "Katherine and Petruchio" and "Money" were played with much success. Mr. Jas. O'Neill's impersonation of Farmer Allen is spoken of as "one of the finest performances ever witnessed at the Metropolitan."

Jesse Shepard, the musical phenomenon, is now holding his wonderful seances at his apartments, No. 22, Geary street. The evenings set apart for these performances are those of Thursday and Sunday.

A conjurer calling himself "Carabaraba, the adopted son of the celebrated demon of the Nile Abracadabra," has been exhibiting his ability as a conjurer at Salt Lake. Judging from his title he ought to be something great—either one way or the other.

On Friday, Dec. 3d, Madame Fabbri, the energetic manager and cultivated artiste, will take a benefit when "Fidelio" will be presented.

Charley Sutton, the famous Ethiopean comedian and end man, who has been doing well in Australia for the past two or three years, arrived in town Saturday evening, and will appear to-night as an addition to the Minstrel company at the Opera House.

Chas. R. Thorne has leased what was erstwhile the Palace Amphitheatre, but what is now a convenient and commodious dramatic theatre, and will open it on Monday, Dec. 6th, with a splendid company which has been telegraphed from the East.

Mr. James Allison, the agent of Mr. Lazar, the lessee of the new Royal Theatre, Sydney, arrived in San Francisco by the Mikado on Saturday evening. Mr. Allison stays here a few days and then proceeds East and to England to engage talent for Sydney's new theatre.

Our Australian Letter is to hand and will be published in to-morrow's FIGARO.

T. W. Keene's name is not on the list of Overland passengers to arrive this evening. If he does not look out he will arrive too late for the rehearsals of "Our Boys," which is to be presented on Monday next, and then gare au tapage! [News has just been brought us that he has come.]

The clever little Allen Sisters who have made such a hit at the New Theatre are rehearsing a new dance.

The bills of the Opera House are now capitally arranged, novelties being in order every week. So too, the stage affairs seem to be conducted with precision and dispatch. For reason see Stage Manager's name on bills.

Dr. D. Percy,

The rooms of this eminent Astrologer and Healer, are crowded daily at No. 206 Kearny Street, rooms 11 and 12.

LOVE SONG.

BY T. B. ALDRICH.

Good night. I have to say good night
To such a host of peerless things.
Good night unto that fragile hand,
All queenly with its weight of rings;
Good night to fond, uplifted eyes;
Good night unto that perfect mouth,
And all the sweetness nestled there,
That snowy hand detains me. Then
I'll have to say good night again.

But there will come a time, my love,
When, if I read our stars aright,
I shall not linger on this porch
With my adieus. Till then, good night,
You wish that time were now? And I.
You do not blush to wish it so?
You would have blushed yourself to death
To own as much a year ago.
What, both these snowy hands? Ah! then
I'll have to say good night again.

Bal Masque.

The Grand Prize Cosmopolitan Bal Masque will come off at Horticultural Hall, Stockton street between Post and Sutter, on Saturday evening, November 27th. Masks can be removed or retained after 1 o'clock, at option; many features of the European Ball Masques will be introduced. Two of the prizes to be awarded are 1st, a valuable set of amethyst jewelry, (brooch and ear rings), to be given to the most elegantly dressed lady, in costume. The 2d prize, a fac simile of the first, equal in value, will be awarded to the lady who presents the most original character in costume. Professor Libberth will lead the orchestra. *

The Holidays.

Are fast approaching and everybody, of course, is considering what present would be most suitable, now, if these who so consider, call at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street below Kearny, they will no longer be in doubt, what to give, for nothing is more acceptable to gentleman, youth or child than a nice, stylish and dressy hat, of which there is a larger assortment to be found at "The" Hat Seore at lower prices than anywhere in the city. Those who expect no present, should treat themselves to one. Remember the number, 647 Washington street below Kearny. M

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equal to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. R. H. Cowan's Institute, removed to 207 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, from 1 to 6 P. M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. Reference given if required. B

Handkerchiefs vs. Napkins.

When Ben Jonson, carving at dinner, landed a gravy-covered goose in the lap of the lady sitting next to him, and forthwith remarked with unmovod countenance, "Madam, I'll trouble you for that goose," he got off something so good that it will last for centuries yet. Scarcely less excellent is the story that Greville tells of a courtier at dinner, who, tired of picking up articles that the lady next to him persistently dropped, audibly requested the servant to put his plate upon the floor, remarking, "I think I will dine there." Not so famous, but still worth telling, is the adventure of Dick Insouciance, at one of Mrs. Eglantine's charming dinners in Oakland. By a strange oversight of the servants, napkins had been omitted from the table furniture, and the attention of Mrs. E., occupied in serving out soup, had not yet been called to it. The guests sat silent, each waiting for the other to speak, when Dick, who held the place of honor at the hostess' right, swallowed a spoonful of soup, and turning to Mrs. Eglantine quietly remarked:

"May I trouble you for your handkerchief a moment?"

Wondering slightly, but making no answer, she handed him her dainty little mixture of cambric and lace. Dick took it without a change of feature, slowly and solemnly wiped off his dense mustache, and then handed it back, with a grave "Thank you!"

The roar of laughter which followed left the table in a state of extreme gayety which the speedy arrival of napkins did not serve to diminish.

A Chicago Man's Change.

When a Chicago man wishes to change his shirt, he goes off somewhere, finds a hoisting apparatus, and, after getting under it, says to the operator, "Now, go ahead; easy at first, for my skin is all raw where it was peeled off before. An ominous silence follows these remarks. Then the creaking of machinery breaks forth, sharp and clear, and a howl of agony mingles with it as the trembling victim parts with his shirt and several yards of skin. Liniment is then rubbed over the sore spots on the sufferer's back, and the clean shirt is tenderly adjusted about him, the job being carefully done so as not to shock his sensibilities, unused as he is to sudden changes of linen.

Madame Dorval's Momory.

The Paris Figaro recently added a capital story to the memoirs of Madame Dorval, the actress. One night, Madame Dorval essayed Mary Tudor for the first time. Next morning, Charles Maurice, the editor of a daily paper, wrote: "Madame Dorval was touching, eloquent, sublime. We greatly regret that she has such a bad memory." That afternoon, Dorval called upon Maurice. "Ah," she said, half playfully, half angrily, "you are not kind; you say that I have talent, but no memory. Is that because I owe you five subscriptions?" "Ten," returned Maurice, with a well-affected air of indifference. "Was I not correct in saying you had a bad memory?"

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

[illegible]. Tyler, Jr., F. S. Carter,

C. Dunlap.

THE OBJECT OF THE ASSOCIATION IS the raising of grain in Levied Land District, [illegible]205, twenty miles from Sacramento, on the [illegible]mento river. This District is surrounded by [illegible] Levee in the State, being from 15 to 20 feet [illegible] 60 to 90 feet at the base and 20 feet on top [illegible] roadway. This Levee is twenty-one miles long [illegible] now being sown with alfalfa. [illegible] land differs from some of the reclaimed [illegible], as the foundation of the levee is clay, and [illegible] itself is built of the same material, in[illegible] absolute security against an [illegible]flow of water. Over $300,000 has [illegible] been expended in the construction of this [illegible] levee, and this company has secured a [illegible] of 5,000 acres of land, the finest in the [illegible], at an annual rental of $6 33 per acre. [illegible] the steamers to and from Sacramento stop at Courtland on this land and [illegible] rapid and easy communication to parties de[illegible] to see the work as it progresses. The pro[illegible]rs of this enterprise have leased this land in [illegible] to secure all the improvements now on the [illegible] for working it to the best advantage. [illegible] immense productiveness of these lands is too known to require comment. One acre of this when sown in wheat will produce a certain [illegible] of 60 bushels, which at two cents per [illegible] is worth $72, and which will leave a net [illegible]it of $52 per acre after deducting rent [illegible] expenses. The second year will be a volunteer which, less expenses, is clear profit. [illegible] dividend of all the profits accruing will be [illegible] on the 1st day of August next, as the [illegible] will be gathered and marketed during June [illegible]uly.

[illegible] company is incorporated into 5,000 shares, par value of $10 each, or one share to [illegible] acre of land cultivated. Plowing [illegible]een commenced and is now in progress, and [illegible] pushed as rapidly as possible until completed. [illegible]scriptions for a limited number of the shares [illegible] received at the office of the company at the [illegible] of $10 per share, and no further calls can be [illegible], and each share subscribed will entitle [illegible]older to the profits on one acre of wheat, [illegible] will give a return of at least $50 per share [illegible]ugust.

OUR AUSTRALIAN LETTER.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

MELBOURNE, Oct. 18th, 1875.

DEAR FIGARO:—Since my last communication, we have had a succession of musical and dramatic treats that rarely falls to the lot of countries so young as ours. Though trade has been dull and commerce crippled through the baneful curse of protection, the places of amusement have been well patronized by all classes. To that world-renowned tragedienne,

MADAME RISTORI,

The Australian colonies owe a deep debt of gratitude for the honor she has conferred by visiting this remote portion of the globe. We have indeed seen the dramatic art brought to its greatest perfection by this incomparable artist. I am glad to say that the support of the public was worthy of an elightened community and night after night the Opera House was crowded to witness Madame Ristori's great genius. A very great compliment and one worthy of commendation was paid to the members of the dramatic profession by Madame who gave

TWO MATINEES

For the express purpose of inviting her brethern and sisters in art, and who being nightly engaged in their places would not otherwise have had an opportunity of witnessing her performances. At the first matinee she played "Elizabeth" and at the second "Marie Antoinette." So spontaneous an offer was eagerly taken advantage of by the ladies and gentlemen connected with the theatres in Melbourne, who were most enthusiastic in their applause. Occasion was taken on the first performance to present the fair tragedienne with a very handsome Emu egg, elegantly set, as a token of appreciation of her ability and thoughtful kindness to the profession. Messrs. Coppin, Harwood and Dampier, took a prominent part in the proceedings which mark an era in our dramatic annals. Now, however, a change has come over the pleasant friendly feeling evinced by our managers and Madame Ristori. And it has come about in this wise: Our Town Hall which is generally admitted to be the fifth finest in the world, has been applied for to enable a series of Ristori impersonations to be presented there during the forthcoming racing carnival next month. I may state that the building is not licensed for use as a theatre, but pressure having been brought to bear, the Government issued a special licenso for the Italian performances. All as yet is not settled, as the corporation have not as yet given permission, and it is to be hoped they will not. I affirm that if their sanction is vouchsafed, it would be a deep injury to the lessees of our theatres, and a gross misuse of the powers invested in the body. The Managers of the play-houses, Messrs. Hardwood, Stewart, Hennings and Coppin of the Theatre Royal and Mr. Lyster of the Opera House have forwarded a formal request that the permission asked shall not be granted and they urge several salient grounds for their request. That there is plenty of theatre room in the town if applied for—that they are willing to let their establishments on amicable terms—that their buildings are specially erected under the control of the Board of Works—that large companies are employed by them at legitimate places and that they (the Managers) pay a large sum yearly in rates and taxes both for their private houses and the theatres. If Madame Ristori be allowed to erect a stage in the Town Hall for dramatic presentations the precedent once established, it will be applied for to give day performances and often nightly ones by the Managers of this city. Whichever way this unpleasant matter may be settled no one will regret to see the lady again in Melbourne. A committee of several of our most prominent citizens has been formed to raise subscriptions to present the lady with a farwell souvenier of her visit to the colony of Victoria. It has been determined that it shall take the form of a

WREA[illegible] OF PURE AUSTRALIAN VIRGIN GOLD,

And is to be presented to the recipient on a velvet cushion with a request that she alone should

CROWN HERSELF.

It is expected that the acting Governor, the Ministry, the Mayor and all our magnates will honor the occasion with their presence. At this present, the Ristori and her company are playing a second season in Sydney, N. S. W.

MADEMOISELLE ILMA DE MURSKA,

One of the most successful singers ever in Australia, next demands notice. Her vocalization is charming and finished, and her winning manners and graceful and willing concession to the requests of her always enthusiastic audiences, has made her universally popular with all sorts and conditions of people. On her departure from the Town Hall to her carriage, after the entertainments, she is received by crowds who enjoyed the splendid programme presented them. She is now crowding the immense building on every occasion. Her troupe consists of Signor Giammona, the flautist, Signor Carmini Morley (tenor), Signor Susini (bass), Mr. C. E. Pratt, pianist, and Mr. Alfred Anderson, a far superior pianist to Mr. Pratt. A word of thanks and praise is due to Signor de Vivo, the energetic director of the company. His affable manner in conducting the business in the city and in front of the house is in marked contrast with that of the person engaged by Ristori, and it is pleasing to observe that even with big speculations like that of Mlle. de Murska, a Manager can at all times be a gentleman if it so pleases him, Between their series the troupe went to Adelaide, opened at White's Rooms, but soon found them too small and had to take the Town Hall. Their business there was very good. Sydney will be their next place de reste.

THE THEATRE ROYAL,

Despite the great attractions at the Opera House and the Town Hall, has done really good business. The great event there since my last epistle has been the first appearance in Melbourne of

MADAME JANAUSCHEK.

Her initial performance on the 2d inst. in the character of Marie Stuart, was to my mind a very unwise selection, as the recollection of the incomparable rendition of the character by Ristori only a short time before, was still green in the recollection of playgoers. Though well supported by the excellent company and magnificent scenery by Mr. John Hennings, it failed to create any excitement. This performance was followed by that of "Medea," which had also been lately played by Ristori, and with still worse results to the treasury. However, last week, "Bleak House" was presented with the new star in the dual parts of Lady Dedlock and Hortense. This is the piece she ought to have opened with, as in it she has a "palpable hit." The company consisting of Messrs. Dampier, Stuart O'Brien, Appleton, Greville, Sefton, E. Gladstone and Taylor, and Mesdames Blanche Stammers, Jenny Bryce, Nelly Stewart (who is surely destined to fill a high position on the stage), and Mrs. Edouin Bryer, render excellent support, while the scenery and appointments are all that one could wish. As far as I can judge, I do not think Madame Janauschek comes at all up to the expectations raised prior to her appearance, and unless she has other plays equally as good as the one now running ("Bleak House"), I do not think her engagement will be renewed. If her stay here is not a great success, the fault does not lie with the management, who have done all that is possible to give "go" to the performances. Now to descant on the establishment opposite.

THE OPERA HOUSE

Is again occupied by Mr. W. S. Lyster's very popular opera bouffe company, among whom are Mesdames Clara Thompson, Jennie Winston, Mrs. J. H. Fox, Bessie Royal, Cassidy, Alice Wooldridge and Leopold. Messrs. Armes Beaumont, Henry Bracy, George Leopold, J. E. Kitts, E. Farley Johnson, and

MISS EMILIE MELVILLE,

(the bright syren of the Golden Gate), whose reception as the twin daughters Girofle-Girofla, was most enthusiastic. This charming little lady is indeed a success, and her sparkling vocalization in the distribution of her "liquid gems" at once installed her into good graces and made her really

THE PET OF THE PUBLIC.

This young cantatrice has created a decided sensation, and her splendid rendition of Sir Henry Bishop's difficult aria "Lo here the gentle lark," nightly evokes unbounded enthusiasm. The other evening at its conclusion,

MLLE DE MURSKA,

Who was in the Opera House, presented little Emilie with a very choice and expensive bouquet and holder, a very high compliment from such a great artiste. This week "La Perichole" is to be the piece de resistance. I think the public may fairly thank and congratulate the untiring impressario,

MR. WILLIAM SAURIN LYSTER,

On the engagement of such a brilliant and accomplished vocalist. A series of English operas is to be revived very shortly.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL.

Will reopen to-night with Mr. John E. McDonough's "Royal Marionettes." During the last few weeks this "show" has been doing good business at Geelong, Ballarat and Sandhurst. They will play a short season here prior to their departure for South Australia. This entertainment has become one of the most popular ever introduced to this colony.

ST. JAMES'S HALL

Has just been reopened with a very excellent Variety show, consisting of Professor LeClerc, Mrs. Harrison, Gertrude May, Alice LeClerc, Joe Raynor, Harry Powell, Robert Fortescue, and Monsieur Louis.

THE APOLLO HALL

Was run a short season with Mr. George Cotte.ill and his wife, Isabella Carandini, and Herr Tolmaque, the latter, however, "a very lively fraud," soon broke the show and it—collapsed.

THE POLYTECHNIC HALL.

Is tenanted by a few odds and ends of representatives of minstrel business. A very poor show.

THE GREAT EXHIBITION

In view, and in aid of the forthcoming Philadelphia Exhibition, is beginning to wane in popularity. A show like this—for it is a show—should not have the management of it left to amateur tinkers and broken down ex-members of parliament. The Japanese visitors have done a lively trade in the sale of their wares. In the country districts matters as to amusement have been very dull during the past Winter.

BALLARAT

Has the Theatre Royal Company open with a very scratch company, including Messrs. W. H. Metcalfe, John Howe (brother to the well-known novelist, Fargeon,) B. L. R. O'Mara (Peter Mansegh), H. Ward, Austin Power, Levy, Watson and Robins; Mesddmes Lillie Holmes, Cecilia Addison, Clara Middleton, Edith Middleton, Nelly Nelson, Henrietta Jones and Mrs. Crosby. The business tolerably good. At the Mechanics Institute the Australian Bellringers with Madame Steinbach and Mr. Tom Marghetts are drawing crowded houses.

SANDHURST

Has latterly given itself up to the mild excitement of spelling bees, but will be roused up next week by

MLLE. DE MURSKA,

Who will give one concert under engagement to Mr. Cardwell, of Ballarat, who has guaranteed an immense sum to Mr. De Vivo for the lady's services. The other colonies now demand a little attention. In Sydney, at the Victoria Theatre Madame Ristori opened on the 12th instant in "Judith" to a very small house. At the Queen's, Baby Benson has been a source of attraction, but the Stones, H. F. and Amy, are a sad dead weight on the management. In private life they are very nice people, but their fatality in being "frosts" and spoiling good business is now proverbial through Australia. It may perhaps be a lesson to them as to whom they give their agency for the future. Their up-country tour, though worked (?) by an agency firm in Melbourne, was worse and worse for their future prospects. The Wheeler & DeGlorion Combination has dissolved—the latter boys are at the Queen's with Lo-Lo. Dr. Sylvester, the Fakir of Oolu, traveling with and under engagement to Mr. John Rainer, the lessee of St. George's Hall, Melbourne, is running a splendid season at the School of Arts, Sydney. The troupe will shortly appear in Melbourne. The United States Minstrels, consisting of G. W. Rockafeller, Tommy Hudson, T. Campbell, Louis Braham, Holly, Buckley and Nick Fieullade, have been doing stunning "biz" at Brisbane, Queensland. Their next move is to New Zealand. In South Australia, the Theatre Royal, Adelaide, is occupied by Miss Adelaide Bowring and Mr. Fairclough for a season of legitimate drama. They have a very good company with them, including Mr. W. Andrews and Nelly Montague. Mr. Charles Wheatleigh has made arrangements for the production of "The Shaughraun" through New Zealand under the auspices of Mr. William Hoskins, with Mrs. Hoskins (Florence Colville) as his leading lady. It will be first performed at Wellington. At Dunedin, the Darrell's engagement finishes, and they were succeeded by Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Bates in a series of melodramatic plays. The Bates pair are doing excellent business at the Queen's Theatre, of which place Messrs. Stellar and Keogh are the lessesa. E. D. Davies, the ventriloquist, is doing the grand tour of the land of the "Maories" with a clever compact little company. At Auckland, Mr. Lawrence and Miss Carrie George are playing a good engagement, assisted by Miss Patty Holt, Miss Emma Rogers, Miss Stephenson and Miss Lizzie Morgan.

MISCELLANEOUS.

By the mail steamer, just arrived from India, I learn of the death of Mr. John Edouin (Tilly Earle's husband), of consumption, at Bombay on the 16th of last month. I regret to say a dear old friend of mine and a great favorite with the public, Mr. James Milne is seriously ill, and I am afraid, past all recovery,—his system seems broken up. Little Nell, the California diamond, is in Melbourne, and is to follow Madame Janauschek at the Theatre Royal. She intends to drop "Little" and come out as "Nell." Her photos are plenteously displayed in town. The Lingards and Frank Lawlor arrived in Sydney on Friday last by the Cyphrenes, from California. They have the right man for agent in the genial Lynch. Mr. James Allison goes to America and England shortly to engage talent for the new Sydney Theatre.

To-morrow and Thursday "Under the Gaslight" will be given, and on Friday for the benefit of the Theatre Boat Club, Buckstone's drama of "The Flowers of the Forest" and a new comedy entitled "Women of Intrigue."

Maguire's New Theatre.

"The Fair One with the Blonde Wig," freshened up by the addition of new songs, new jokes and new features in the divertissement, commences the second week most auspiciously. It will run through the week

Opera House.

Charley Sutton's re-appearance after an absence of between three and four years, was the event here last night; as end man with the song of Marching Through Georgia, as Ike Simpson in "Moving In" and as the First Polly Glot Songster, he took his place and filled the bill with spirit and ease. Emerson for a while will rest himself from he hard work of the past four weeks. "The Skidmore Guards" continues one of the principal attractions of an attractive bill.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

To-morrow "Norma" will be given, and on Thursday afternoon, at an extra matinee, "Der Freischutz will be repeated for the last time. On Friday evening, Bellini's lovely opera of "La Sonnambula' will be produced for the first time during the season.

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

On the programme for the next concert are Mozart's Symphonie in C. ("Jupiter") Mendelssohn's overture to "Midsummer-Night's Dream," selections from Gounod's "Faust," and the overture to "Maritana."

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Master Cassim, the Arabian wonder, in his contortion act, a song and dance by St, Leon, a capital duet by Ned Barry and Frank Mortimer, Kimic in Dutch songs, and Kittie Devoy in her champion jig, are all on the bill for to-night.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

The two blondes, Maggie St. Clair and Fannie Webster, made their re-appearance here last night and were warmly received. The acts for to-night are particularly good. On Friday evening the new sensation of "Mazeppa" will be produced, with new scenery and a strong cast.

New Lyceum Theatre.

This new variety place of amusement, situated at the southeast corner of Kearny and Sacramento streets, is attracting largely. The musical selections are a good feature here, farces are put on capitally and the olio is extensive and attractive.

Woodward's Gardens.

Performance on Thursday, Thanksgiving day, Saturday and Sunday. Among the features are Hadj Hamo, the Arabian tumbler, and Sen. Gonzales, the world's two greatest tumblers. Also Miss Mathews, Jas. Lee, Gus Mooney, the screaming pantomime, the "Cobler's Frolic," the gymnastic troupe and concert.

Notes.

It was the first intention of the transmogrifiers of the Palace Amphitheatre, to build a gallery that should embrace but about a third of the auditorium. The lessee, Mr. Thorne, has decided, however, to extend it around the entire auditorium circle, shutting off and shutting up the private boxes and capable of holding some eight hundred people.

Might we suggest to Mr. Thorne that a good name for his new place of amusement would be the Palace Theatre? It has heretofore been known as the Palace Amphitheatre, ampitate the old name.

The Baltimore Bulletin remarks: "We are glad to announce a shout season of opera, with Adelaide Phillips, etc." What kind of music is that? The Hullah system, doubtless.

Mr. Geo. Galloway, an old-time showman, is in town.

Mr. Allison, agent of Mr. Lazar, informs us that the new Theatre Royal, Sydney, (for which he is in America to secure talent), is built on the site of the Prince of Wales Opera House lately destroyed by fire, is one of the most elegantly furnished and decorated establishments in the Colonies, and will seat 2,400 persons. It is the only theatre (excepting the Theatre Royal, Melbourne), where a full first-class stock company is engaged all the year round. Who wants to go?

EUREKA, HUMBOLDT CO., Nov. 6, 1875.

EDITOR FIGARO—DEAR SIR:—The Fulford Dramatic Company are playing here to full houses. The Heath Sisters have made a decided hit, and Mr. Fred Gere in his specialties is good.

Yours, D. W. R.

GILROY, November 20, 1875.

EDITOR FIGARO—DEAR SIR.—Miss Ella F Badger, supported by G. D. Chaplin and a strong company, appeared here Thursday and Friday evenings under the management of G. Brohaska, of the San Jose Opera House. Although it rained incessantly the company did a very good business. The local papers all speak in the highest terms of Miss Badger's ability and predict for her a brilliant future. Z.

A letter from Jas. Fish, father of Baby Benson, to Mr. Warner, dated Sydney, Oct. 20th, states that they have done immense business at Queen's Theatre, Samuel Lazar, manager. They are under engagement to George Coppin to open at the Theatre Royal, Melbourne, November 22d, and are the first variety artists ever allowed to appear at said theatre.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F, Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

The Holidays.

Are fast approaching and everybody, of course, is considering what present would be most suitable, now, if these who so consider, call at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street below Kearny, they will no longer be in doubt, what to give, for nothing is more acceptable to gentleman, youth or child than a nice, stylish and dressy hat, of which there is a larger assortment to be found at "The" Hat Store at lower prices than anywhere in the city. Those who expect no present, should treat themselves to one. Remember the number, 647 Washington street below Kearny. M

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

[illegible] District adjoins Grand Island District, which produced this year 65 Bushels of Wheat TO THE ACRE.

OFFICERS:

[illegible]. F. Beach, N. B. Eddy,
[illegible]. Tyler, Jr., F. S. Carter,
C. Dunlap.

[illegible]E OBJECT OF THE ASSOCIATION IS [illegible] raising of grain in Levied Land District, [illegible]205, twenty miles from Sacramento, on the [illegible]mento river. This District is surrounded by [illegible]est Levee in the State, being from 15 to 20 feet [illegible] 60 to 90 feet at the base and 20 feet on top [illegible] roadway. This Levee is twenty-one miles long [illegible] now being sown with alfalfa. [illegible] land differs from some of the reclaimed [illegible], as the foundation of the levee is clay, and [illegible] itself is built of the same material, in[illegible] absolute security against an [illegible]flow of water. Over $300,000 has [illegible]ady been expended in the construction of this [illegible] levee, and this company has secured a [illegible] of 5,000 acres of land, the finest in the [illegible], at an annual rental of $6 33 per acre. [illegible] the steamers to and from Sacra[illegible]nto stop at Courtland on this land and [illegible] rapid and easy communication to parties de[illegible] to see the work as it progresses. The pro[illegible] of this enterprise have leased this land in [illegible] to secure all the improvements now on the [illegible] for working it to the best advantage. [illegible] immense productiveness of these lands is too [illegible] known to require comment. One acre of this when sown in wheat will produce a certain [illegible] of 60 bushels, which at two cents per [illegible] is worth $72, and which will leave a net [illegible] of $52 per acre after deducting rent [illegible] expenses. The second year will be a volunteer [illegible], which, less expenses, is clear profit. [illegible] dividend of all the profits accruing will be [illegible] on the 1st day of August next, as the [illegible] will be gathered and marketed during June [illegible] July. [illegible] company is incorporated into 5,000 shares, [illegible] par value of $10 each, or one share to [illegible] acre of land cultivated. Plowing [illegible] been commenced and is now in progress, and [illegible] be pushed as rapidly as possible until completed. [illegible]scriptions for a limited number of the shares [illegible] be received at the office of the company at the [illegible] of $10 per share, and no further calls can be [illegible], and each share subscribed will entitle [illegible] holder to the profits on one acre of wheat, [illegible] will give a return of at least $50 per share [illegible] August. [illegible]rties living at a distance wishing to subscribe [illegible] send money by Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, [illegible] certificates of deposit. [illegible]ply at the office of the company, 15 Stevenson [illegible]ding, corner California and Montgomery streets. [illegible]commodations, feed and transportation from [illegible] Francisco or Sacramento, will be furnished to [illegible] having teams and waiting contracts to plow.

Only a Small One.

Yesterday afternoon a middle-aged German lady appeared in the telegraph office and desired to send a dispatch to her sister in New York. It was about a trunk which had been sent from Norwhich but had miscarried. The lady was somewhat obscure in her English, but she dictated a dispatch, and Mr. X. the Manager wrote it out in the most beautiful manner with a flourish at the end of every word, and a large one at the end of every sentence, and every i dotted and every t crossed.

"Shtop a leedle," she said, "I hof der key of das troonk in mein bocket. I sends him mit der dellygraph."

"But," said Mr. X. "we do not send material objects by the telegraph. The telegraph is the great modern Briareus—a metallic nerve system, as it were, radiating from common centres and stretching over all parts of the known world except San Jose and some sections of New Jersey. But it is for the transmission of non-material matters--the intellectual essences, as it were.

"Yaw, das is so," said the woman; "Vell I sends him den."

"You misunderstand me," said Mr. X. "A key is material. Probably you have never been out late enough at night to fully realize how extensively material a key may become; but even you will not claim that a key is a spirit."

"I vas nor shpeak of somedings to trink," said the woman with some surprise, "I vas shpeak of dot leedle key."

"We cannot send the key," returned Mr. X. "you must have that done by express."

"Vell, I bays mine taxes here, und I have no troubles mit sombodys," began the woman doubtfully, as she moved away. In a moment she re-opened the door; "he vas a small leedle key," she said coaxingly.

Later in the day she was observed bargaining with a baggage expressman to have the key carried to New York.

Dakota lightning goes for live stock with great zeal. A recent bolt killed fourteen horses and five steers, when it might as well have struck a cheap hog.

DR. D. PERCY.

The number of people visiting Dr. Percy, the eminent London astrologer and healer, since his arrival in this city has been truly remarkable; indeed, from 9 o'clock in the morning until late in the evening his rooms are literally crowded, rain or shine. A reporter has called at his rooms a number of times and never yet has he found the Doctor's time unoccupied. It is noteworthy that his visitors are of the elite of the city, and, as a class, intelligent, yet all seem satisfied as to the Doctor's powers both of healing and looking into the future and past, for which last he charges nothing unless he shall read the past correctly. In the treatment of disease he uses no drugs of any kind, and tells every one to a nicety their disease without asking a question, which health examination is free to all. In appearance the Doctor inspires anything but distrust, for a more frank, open countenance we never saw. This is probably owing to the fact that he always pays the printer. The Doctor has fortunately secured the elegant apartments formerly occupied by Miss Clara Morris, at 206 Kearny street; entrance, room 11. Dr Percy is upon a tour of pleasure around the world, stepping only at the largest cities to engage in his business, but is glad to welcome all, whether upon business or not. Sunday Chronicle, Nov. 21st.

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

A white minister at a colored wedding said, "On such occasions as this it is customary to kiss the bride, but in this case we will omit it." To this unclerical remark the indignant bridegroom very pertinently replied: "On such occasions it is customory to give the minister ten dollars, but in this case we will omit it."

If you want to make a near sighted man miserable, ask him, as a handsome woman steps across the gutter at a street corner, if he thinks her striped stockings are becoming.

A Detroit woman who was turned out of house for non-payment of rent, went out in good style, putting on silks and jewelry, and having her hair frizzed in extra style for the occasion.

New Bedford is said to have but one whaler left—a schoolmaster.

It don't look well for a man who wears a straw hat to bring to a newspaper office at this season of the year a poem entitled "Beautiful Snow."

This is the way the newspapers talk in Louisiana: "If that convicted thief and robber, Jim Walker, wants any fuss with us he can have steel or buckshot in unlimited quantities by poking his nose around the corner.

"Is this the doctor's office?" inquired man who popped his head inside the sanctum door. "No, sir,—the next flight of stairs." "Well, I am too tired to go any further," said he sadly; "but if you see the doctor any time this morning, I wish you would tell him that my step-mother is dying and we would like to have him call in if he gets time."

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

California Theatre.

This evening "Under the Gaslight" will be revived with the same cast as at its last production. 'Uncle Tom's Cabin" was played for the last time last evening; "Under the Gaslight" will be given again to-morrow evening and for Friday and Saturday "Flowers of the Forest.

Maguire's New Theatre.

The burlesque (" Fair One With The Blonde Wig") is running through the second week famously. The Nursery Rhymes and new songs take capitally. The clever Allen children have a new dance and the performance is generally brightened up.

Opera House.

The Minstrels with Charley Sutton as end man, a first part full of good things and an olio including a song and dance by Mackin and Wilson, "The Pelly Glet Songsters" and "Moving In" with Sutton as Ike Simpson, continue to draw good houses despite the weather.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

"Norma" drew a very fair house last evening, the usual favorite numbers being encored and the performers meeting with much encouragement. To-morrow afternoon, for the extra Thanksgiving Day matinee, "Der Freischutz" will be repeated for the last time. On Friday evening, Bellini's "La Sonnambula."

Herold's Grand Orchestral Matinees.

On the programme for the concert are Mozart's Symphonie in C. ("Jupiter") Mendelssohn's overture to "Midsummer-Night's Dream," selections from Gounod's "Faust," and the overture to "Maritana."

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Song and dance by songsters and dancers, specialty business by specialists, picking on the banjo by banjo pickers and general fun by the whole company.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

In the first part of song, wit and fun, there are no less than twelve ladies, whilst in the second or olio part there is everything to amuse and entertain.

New Lyceum Theatre.

Miss Cooper's Yankee character song, Miss Georgie Brooks in her highland fling, and Miss Cherry Belle in her banjo solo are amongst the principal attractions of to-night's programme.

Woodward's Gardens.

Performance on Thursday, Thanksgiving day, Saturday and Sunday. Among the features are Hadj Hamo, the Arabian tumbler, and Sen. Gonzales, the world's two greatest tumblers. Also Miss Mathews, Jas. Lee, Gus Mooney, the screaming pantomime, the "Cobler's Frolic," the gymnastic troupe and concert.

Notes.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 13th, 1875.

EDITOR FIGARO—DEAR SIR:—O. B. Doud is in his second week, at the St. Charles; at the Academy of Music, Milton Nobles, supported by J. B. Rogers Dramatic Company, is the reigning attraction. Lillie Eldridge is underlined for the coming week. Chizzola's French Opera Bouffe opened at the Varieties, on Monday, Nov. 1st, and have been playing to an average good business ever since. "Girofle-Girofla" was the opening opera, and created quite a sensation. Yours,

JANITOR.

A number of the Illustrated Sydney News of date Oct. 16th has come to hand, containing a well-written article on "Trades Union" and a lengthy resume of Australian dramatic matters, both signed Edward Ellis. Speaking of a Dr. Sylvester's performance the late agent says:

The "Fakir" (the Dr's stage name), is no stranger to the amusement-seekers of any part of the world. He is the final patentee and improver of that once famous optical illusion known as "The Ghost," which, first conceived by Robinson, nearly thirty years ago, was brought into practical form by Henry Dircks and J. H. Pepper, at the Polytechnic, in 1862, adapted to the stage by the last-named gentleman at the Britannia Theatre, Hoxton, in a piece called "Faith, Hope, and Charity," produced in April, 1863, and, on the 20th of June, in the same year, transferred, in the highest form of perfection, to the Adelphi Theatre—where Toole, and Mrs. Mellon, R. Phillips, Billington, and Henrietta Sims, made an admirable cast for Dickens' Christmas story of the "Haunted Man."

Is not this thoroughly Ellisian?

Over two thousand portraits of the Lingards were sold in Sydney during the three weeks.

According to Ellis and the Illustrated Sydney News:

The English stage will be enriched with the addition of Majeroni and Alleotti, (two of Ristori's company), who are each hard at work on that most difficult of tasks to an Italian—the acquisition of our language, in which they have already made considerable progress. It is more than likely that Majeroni's debut will be made in Australia as Othello, while Aleotti will probably make his first essay before an American audience, in the character of Romeo. Their courage would of itself deserve credit, even if the state of the stage did not make their success very desirable. But, in truth, there is plenty of room for them and more of their kind. And the new amoroso will be an acquisition for there are not, at this present time, more than three good-looking young fellows, who know how to make theatrical love properly, upon the united stages of England, America, and Australia. The mother country boasts of one, in the person of Henry J. Montague, who, consequently, has the field to himself; America has two—James O'Neill and George Clarke. For the rest, the stage lover may be divided into two types; the bucolic, usually young, and rather shy—and the rheumatic, invariably elderly, and generally over-bold.

On Friday evening next, the California Theatre Boat Club take a benefit, when Buckstone's sensational drama of "Flowers of the Forest," and Mr. Calhoun's new comedy of "Women of Intrigue" will be produced.

For some week's past, the Chronicle has been extensively, most extensively advertising the intended publication of a translation of Octave Feuillet's latest sensational novel, "Un Marriage dans le Monde." The great novel was to be commenced in next Sunday's Chronicle, and everybody was to read it. This morning with nary a word, the Call publishes the opening chapters of the same novel! If this is stealing a rival's thunder with a-vengeance, beshrew us.

On Thursday afternoon next Mr. Geo. D. Chaplin, who lost everything when Piper's Opera House, Virginia City, went to ashes, and who has been doing all he can to help himself since then, will receive the help of a benefit at the California Theatre.

By the Ajax, which sailed for Portland, at ten o'clock this morning, Sherry Corbyn left as advance agent for Hermann who will follow by the next steamer, and who intends exhibiting through Oregon, Washington Territory and British Columbia for the next three months.

ZEKLE'S COURTIN'.

Zekle crep' up quite unbeknown,
An' peeked in thru the winder,
An' there sat Huldy all alone,
'Ith no one nigh to hender.

Agin' the chimbley crooknecks hung
An' in among them rusted,
The old queen's arm that gran'ther Young
Fetched back from Concord busted.

The wannot logs shot sparkles out
Toward the pootiest, bless her!
And leetle fires danced all about
The chiny on the dresser.

The very room, 'cos she was in,
Looked warm from floor to ceilin',
An' she looked full ez rosy ogin
Es th' apples she was peelin'.

She heerd a foot, an' knowed it, tu,
A-raspin' on the scraper—
All ways to once her feelings flew,
Like sparks in burnt-up paper.

He kin' o' l'itered on the mat,
Some doubtfle of the seekle;
His heart kep' goin' pity-pat,
But hera went pity Zekle.

An' yit she gin her cheek a jerk,
Ez though she wished him furder,
An' on her apples kep' to work
Parin' away like murder.

"You want to see my pa, I s'pose?"
"Wall—no—I came dasignin—"
"To see my ma? She's sprinklin' clo'es,
Agin to-morrer's i'nin'."

To say why gals act so or so,
Or don't, would be presumin';
Mebby to mean yes, and say no,
Comes nateral to women.

He stood a spell on one foot fust,
Then stood a spell on t'other,
An' on which one he felt the wust,
He couldn't ha' told you nuther.

Says he, "I'd better call agin:"
Says she "Think likely, mister?"
That last word pricked him like a pin,
An'—then he up and kist her.

When ma, timely upon 'em slips,
Huldy sot pale ez ashes,
All kind o' smily roun' the lips,
An' teary roun' the lashes.

For she was jes' the quiet kind,
Whose naters never vary;
Like streams that keep a summer mind,
Snow-hid in Janooary.

The blood clost round her heart felt glued,
Too tight for all expressin';
Till mother see how matters stood,
An' gin' 'em both her blessin'.

When her red came back like the tide
Down to the Bay of Fundy,
An' all I know is, they was cried
In meetin' come nex' Sunday.

The Holidays.

Are fast approaching and everybody, of course, is considering what present would be most suitable, now, if those who consider, call at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street below Kearny, they will no longer be in doubt, what to give, for nothing is more acceptable to gentleman, youth or child than a nice, stylish and dressy hat, of which there is a larger assortment to be found at "The" Hat Store at lower prices than anywhere in the city. Those who expect no present, should treat themselves to one. Remember the number, 647 Washington street below Kearny. M

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equal to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

HAMLET WITHOUT VELVET.

Edwin Booth proposes to make an important innovation in the costuming of Hamlet by the rejection of all velvet material. He says, in announcing the fact, "An effort will be made to have the costumes historically correct. At all events, velvet, which was not known in Hamlet's day and which has been persistently used in other productions of the play, will be discarded."

While historical accuracy of costume and stage appointments are in general very commendable in this instance, Mr. Booth's distinction is more nice than wise. He accepts the belief common among Shakspearean scholars that the date of the play should be fixed somewhere in the tenth century. This, however, is supported on very scanty evidence—the allusion to the ralations of Denmark with England and Norway. On the other hand Shakspeare's proverbial disregard of the unities are nowhere more conspicuous than in this play. Hamlet talks philosophy which was only known in the sixteenth century. He speaks of "draining his draughts of Rheinish down," when the vineyards of the Rhine were not thought of, and their location was occupied by boar-haunted forests.

The character of the exquisite Osric, the fencing with foils, and numberless other minor features belong to dates approximating Shakspeare's own time.

If Mr. Booth starts out upon such strict classicism, he will find himself charged with a momentous task before he has all the dress appointments made to conform to the same antique model. Gunpowder was invented about the same time velvet was, and Mr. Booth, with equal reason, must dispense with the firing of artillery in the first and fifth acts, as well as cut out the King's speech,

> And let the trumpet to the kettle speak,
> The trumpet to the cannoneer without,
> The cannons to the heavens, the heavens to the earth.

If Hamlet is to dress in woolen and linen, "the gentle Ophelia" should do likewise, and so also the King, Queen, etc., and the result will be a total upheaval of the stage traditions of costume—especially the grave-diggers, who will no longer be permitted to dress in the costume of English peasantry of the eighteenth century.

These attempts at producing realistic effects belonging to any age or country rest upon a false idea. Hamlet is not a historical poem; it is a play which deals with the minds and hearts and souls of men of all epochs and every land; it depicts emotions and influences which are common to man since man had a history. Stage tradition has given the play a certain conventional dress, and certain stage effects, which meet the acceptance and approbation of the students of this grandest effort of the human intellect, and he who rashly attempts innovations fails almost inevitably.

The Young Man from the East.

" Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

OFFICERS:

P. F. Beach, N. B. Eddy, J. Tyler, Jr., F. S. Carter, C. Dunlap.

[T]HE OBJECT OF THE ASSOCIATION IS the raising of grain in Levied Land District, [N]o. 205, twenty miles from Sacramento, on the [Sa]cramento river. This District is surrounded by [th]e finest Levee in the State, being from 15 to 20 feet [hi]gh, 60 to 90 feet at the base and 20 feet on top [wi]th roadway. This Levee is twenty-one miles long [an]d is now being sown with alfalfa.

This land differs from some of the reclaimed [la]nds, as the foundation of the levee is clay, and [th]e levee itself is built of the same material, in[su]ring absolute security against an [ov]erflow of water. Over $300,000 has [al]ready been expended in the construction of this [im]mense levee, and this company has secured a [le]ase of 5,000 acres of land, the finest in the [St]ate, at an annual rental of $6 33 per acre.

All the steamers to and from Sacra[me]nto stop at Courtland on this land and [of]fer rapid and easy communication to parties de[si]ring to see the work as it progresses. The pro[m]oters of this enterprise have leased this land in [or]der to secure all the improvements now on the [p]remises for working it to the best advantage. [T]he immense productiveness of these lands is too [w]ell-known to require comment. One acre of this [la]nd when sown in wheat will produce a certain [c]rop of 60 bushels, which at two cents per [po]und is worth $72, and which will leave a net [p]rofit of $52 per acre after deducting rent [an]d expenses. The second year will be a volunteer [cr]op, which, less expenses, is clear profit.

A dividend of all the profits accruing will be [m]ade on the 1st day of August next, as the [cr]op will be gathered and marketed during June [an]d July.

The company is incorporated into 5,000 shares, [at] a par value of $10 each, or one share to [e]ach acre of land cultivated. Plowing [ha]s been commenced and is now in progress, and [w]ill be pushed as rapidly as possible until completed. Subscriptions for a limited number of the shares [w]ill be received at the office of the company at the [ra]te of $10 per share, and no further calls can be [m]ade, and each share subscribed will entitle [th]e holder to the profits on one acre of wheat, [w]hich will give a return of at least $50 per share [in] August.

Parties living at a distance wishing to subscribe [w]ill send money by Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, [or] certificates of deposit.

Apply at the office of the company, 15 Stevenson [B]uilding, corner California and Montgomery streets.

Accommodations, feed and transportation from [S]an Francisco or Sacramento, will be furnished to [p]arties having teams and waiting contracts to plow.

Only a Small One.

Yesterday afternoon a middle-aged German lady appeared in the telegraph office and desired to send a dispatch to her sister in New York. It was about a trunk which had been sent from Norwhich but had miscarried. The lady was somewhat obscure in her English, but she dictated a dispatch, and Mr. X. the Manager wrote it out in the most beautiful manner with a flourish at the end of every word, and a large one at the end of every sentence, and every i dotted and every t crossed.

"Shtop a leedle," she said, "I hof der key of das troonk in mein bocket. I sends him mit der dellygraph."

"But," said Mr. X. "we do not send material objects by the telegraph. The telegraph is the great modern Briareus—a metallic nerve system, as it were, radiating from common centres and stretching over all parts of the known world except San Jose and some sections of New Jersey. But it is for the transmission of non-material matters--the intellectual essences, as it were.

"Yaw, das is so," said the woman; "Vell I sends him den."

"You misunderstand me," said Mr. X. "A key is material. Probably you have never been out late enough at night to fully realize how extensively material a key may become; but even you will not claim that a key is a spirit."

"I vas nor shpeak of somedings to trink," said the woman with some surprise, "I vas shpeak of dot leedle key."

"We cannot send the key," returned Mr. X. "you must have that done by express."

"Vell, I bays mine taxes here, und I have no troubles mit sombodys," began the woman doubtfully, as she moved away. In a moment she re-opened the door; "he vas a small leedle key," she said coaxingly.

Later in the day she was observed bargaining with a baggage expressman to have the key carried to New York.

Dakota lightning goes for live stock with great zeal. A recent bolt killed fourteen horses and five steers, when it might as well have struck a cheap hog.

The following sentences of only thirty-four letters contains all the letters in the alphabet: "John quickly extemporized five tow bags."

Are not curtain lectures a species of lay preaching?

Why is the job-stone like a greenhorn? Because it is often imposed upon.

DR. D. PERCY.

The number of people visiting Dr. Percy, the eminent London astrologer and healer, since his arrival in this city has been truly remarkable; indeed, from 9 o'clock in the morning until late in the evening his rooms are literally crowded, rain or shine. A reporter has called at his rooms a number of times and never yet has he found the Doctor's time unoccupied. It is noteworthy that his visitors are of the elite of the city, and, as a class, intelligent, yet all seem satisfied as to the Doctor's powers both of healing and looking into the future and past, for which last he charges nothing unless he shall read the past correctly. In the treatment of disease he uses no drugs of any kind, and tells every one to a nicety their disease without asking a question, which health examination is free to all. In appearance the Doctor inspires anything but distrust, for a more frank, open countenance we never saw. This is probably owing to the fact that he always pays the printer. The Doctor has fortunately secured the elegant apartments formerly occupied by Miss Clara Morris, at 206 Kearny street; entrance, room 11. Dr. Percy is upon a tour of pleasure around the world, stepping only at the largest cities to engage in his business, but is glad to welcome all, whether upon business or not. Sunday Chronicle, Nov. 21st.

The Grand Prize Cosmopolitan Bal Masque will come off at Horticultural Hall, Stockton street between Post and Sutter, on Saturday evening, November 27th. Two of the prizes to be awarded are 1st, a valuable set of amethyst jewelry, (brooch and earrings), to be given to the most elegantly dressed lady, in costume. The 2d prize, a fac simile of the first, equal in value, will be awarded to the lady who presents the most original character in costume. Professor Libberth will lead the orchestra.

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

A white minister at a colored wedding said, "On such occasions as this it is customary to kiss the bride, but in this case we will omit it." To this unclerical remark the indignant bridegroom very pertinently replied: "On such occasions it is customory to give the minister ten dollars, but in this case we will omit it."

If you want to make a near sighted man miserable, ask him, as a handsome woman steps across the gutter at a street corner, if he thinks her striped stockings are becoming.

A Detroit woman who was turned out of house for non-payment of rent, went out in good style, putting on silks and jewelry, and having her hair frizzed in extra style for the occasion.

New Bedford is said to have but one whaler left—a schoolmaster.

It don't look well for a man who wears a straw hat to bring to a newspaper office at this season of the year a poem entitled "Beautiful Snow."

This is the way the newspapers talk in Louisiana: "If that convicted thief and robber, Jim Walker, wants any fuss with us he can have steel or buckshot in unlimited quantities by poking his nose around the corner.

"Is this the doctor's office?" inquired man who popped his head inside the sanctum door. "No, sir,—the next flight of stairs." "Well, I am too tired to go any further," said he sadly; "but if you see the doctor any time this morning, I wish you would tell him that my step-mother is dying and we would like to have him call in if he gets time."

YOUNG MEN.
Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.
Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500
For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes, and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.
MIDDLE-AGED MEN!
There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

The fifth concert of the present series was held yesterday afternoon, Platt's Hall being well filled. The programme included Mozart's Symphony in C (Jupiter) Mendelssohn's overture to "A Midsummer Night's Dream," selected from Gounod's "Faust" and the overture to Wallace's "Maritana" That royal-born nuisance "Amaryllis" was also given and happily was not encored. The subscription list for the new series of six concerts, to commence December 8th, is now open at Gray's.

Notes.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 13th, 1875.

EDITOR FIGARO—DEAR SIR:—O. B. Doud is in his second week, at the St. Charles; at the Academy of Music, Milton Nobles, supported by J. B. Rogers Dramatic Company, is the reigning attraction. Lillie Eldridge is underlined for the coming week. Chizzola's French Opera Bouffe opened at the Varieties, on Monday, Nov. 1st, and have been playing to an average good business ever since. "Girofle-Girofla" was the opening opera, and created quite a sensation. Yours,

JANITOR.

A number of the Illustrated Sydney News of date Oct. 16th has come to hand, containing a well-written article on "Trades Union" and a lengthy resume of Australian dramatic matters, both signed Edward Ellis. Speaking of a Dr. Sylvester's performance the late agent says:

> The "Fakir" (the Dr's stage name), is no stranger to the amusement-seekers of any part of the world. He is the final patentee and improver of that once famous optical illusion known as "The Ghost," which, first conceived by Robinson, nearly thirty years ago, was brought into practical form by Henry Dircks and J. H. Pepper, at the Polytechnic, in 1862, adapted to the stage by the last-named gentleman at the Britannia Theatre, Hoxton, in a piece called "Faith, Hope, and Charity," produced in April, 1863, and, on the 20th of June, in the same year, transferred, in the highest form of perfection, to the Adelphi Theatre—where Toole, and Mrs. Mellon, R. Phillips, Billington, and Henrietta Sims, made an admirable cast for Dickens' Christmas story of the "Haunted Man."

Is not this thoroughly Ellisian?

Over two thousand portraits of the Lingards were sold in Sydney during the three weeks.

According to Ellis and the Illustrated Sydney News:

> The English stage will be enriched with the addition of Majeroni and Alleotti, (two of Ristori's company), who are each hard at work on that most difficult of tasks to an Italian—the acquisition of our language, in which they have already made considerable progress. It is more than likely that Majeroni's debut will be made in Australia as Othello, while Aleotti will probably make his first essay before an American audience, in the character of Romeo. Their courage would of itself deserve credit, even if the state of the stage did not make their success very desirable. But, in truth, there is plenty of room for them and more of their kind. And the new amoroso will be an acquisition for there are not, at this present time, more than three good-looking young fellows, who know how to make theatrical love properly, upon the united stages of England, America, and Australia. The mother country boasts of one, in the person of Henry J Montague, who, consequently, has the field to himself: America has two—James O'Neill and George Clarke. For the rest, the stage lover may be divided into two types: the bucolic, usually young, and rather shy—and the rheumatic, invariably elderly, and generally over-bold.

On Friday evening next, the California Theatre Boat Club take a benefit, when Buckstone's sensational drama of "Flowers of the Forest," and Mr. Calhoun's new comedy of "Women of Intrigue" will be produced.

For some week's past, the Chronicle has been extensively, most extensively advertising the intended publication of a translation of Octave Feuillet's latest sensational novel, "Un Marriage dans le Monde." The great novel was to be commenced in next Sunday's Chronicle, and everybody was to read it. This morning with nary a word, the Call publi[illegible] the opening chapters of the same novel! If this isn't stealing a rival's thunder with a-vengeance, beshrew us.

On Thursday afternoon next Mr. Geo. D. Chaplin, who lost everything when Piper's Opera House, Virginia City, went to ashes, and who has been doin[illegible] all he can to help himself since then, will receive the help of a benefit at the California Theatre.

By the Ajax, which sailed for Portland, at ten o'clock this morning, Sherry Corbyn left as advance agent for Hermann who will follow by the next steamer, and who intends exhibiting through Oregon Washington Territory and British Colum-

Zekle crep' up quite unbeknown,
  An' pecked in thru the winder,
An' there sat Huldy all alone,

Agin' the chimbley crooknecks hung
  An' in among them rusted,
The old queen's arm that gran'ther Young
  Fetched back from Concord busted.

The wannut logs shot sparkles out
  Toward the pootiest, bless her!
And leetle fires danced all about
  The chiny on the dresser.

The very room, 'cos she was in,
  Looked warm from floor to ceilin',
An' she looked full ez rosy agin
  Es th' apples she was peelin'.

She heerd a foot, an' knowed it, tu,
  A-raspin' on the scraper—
All ways to once her feelings flew,
  Like sparks in burnt-up paper.

He kin' o' l'itered on the mat,
  Some doubtfle of the seekle;
His heart kep' goin' pity-pat,
  But hern went pity Zekle.

An' yit she gin her cheek a jerk,
  Ez though she wished him furder,
An' on her apples kep' to work
  Parin' away like murder.

"You want to see my pa, I s'pose?"
  "Wall—no—I came dasignin—"
"To see my ma? She's sprinklin' clo'es,
  Agin to-morrer's i'nin'."

To say why gals act so or so,

Mebby to mean yes, and say no,

He stood a spell on one foot fust,
  Then stood a spell on t'other,
An' on which one he felt the wust,
  He couldn't ha' told you nuther.

Says he, "I'd better call agin:"
  Says she "Think likely, mister?"
That last word pricked him like a pin,
  An'—then he up and kist her.

When ma, timely upon 'em slips,
  Huldy sot pale ez ashes,
All kind o' smily roun' the lips,
  An' teary roun' the lashes.

For she was jes' the quiet kind,
  Whose naters never vary;
Like streams that keep a summer mind,
  Snow-hid in Janooary.

The blood clost round her heart felt glued,
  Too tight for all expressin';
Till mother see how matters stood,
  An' gin' 'em both her blessin',

Managers
Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F, Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

The Holidays.
Are fast approaching and everybody, of course, is considering what present would be most suitable, now, if these who so consider, call at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street below Kearny, they will no longer be in doubt, what to give, for nothing is more acceptable to gentleman, youth or child than a nice, stylish and dressy hat, of which there is a larger assortment to be found at "The" Hat Store at lower prices than anywhere in the city. Those who expect no present, should treat themselves to one. Remember the number, 647 Washington street below Kearny. M

A Word to the Wise, etc.
It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

Do Not Suffer from Corns.
The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant reliefby applying at Dr. R. H. Cowan's Institute, removed to 207 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, from 1 to 6 P. M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. Reference given if required. H

HAMLET WITHOUT VELVET.

Edwin Booth proposes to make an important innovation in the costuming of Hamlet by the rejection of all velvet material. He says, in announcing the fact, "An effort will be made to have the costumes historically correct. At all events, velvet, which was not known in Hamlet's day and which has been persistently used in other productions of the play, will be discarded."

While historical accuracy of costume and stage appointments are in general very commendable in this instance, Mr. Booth's distinction is more nice than wise. He accepts the belief common among Shakspearean scholars that the date of the play should be fixed somewhere in the tenth century. This, however, is supported on very scanty evidence—the allusion to the ralations of Denmark with England and Norway. On the other hand Shakspeare's proverbial disregard of the unities are nowhere more conspicuous than in this play. Hamlet talks philosophy which was only known in the sixteenth century. He speaks of "draining his draughts of Rheinish down," when the vineyards of the Rhine were not thought of, and their location was occupied by boar-haunted forests.

The character of the exquisite Osric, the fencing with foils, and numberless other minor features belong to dates approximating Shakspeare's own time.

If Mr. Booth starts out upon such strict classicism, he will find himself charged with a momentous task before he has all the dress appointments made to conform to the same antique model. Gunpowder was invented about the same time velvet was, and Mr. Booth, with equal reason, must dispense with the firing of artillery in the first and fifth acts, as well as cut out the King's speech,

> And let the trumpet to the kettle speak,
> The trumpet to the cannoneer without,
> The cannons to the heavens, the heavens to the earth.

If Hamlet is to dress in woolen and linen, "the gentle Ophelia" should do likewise, and so also the King, Queen, etc., and the result will be a total upheaval of the stage traditions of costume—especially the grave-diggers, who will no longer be permitted to dress in the costume of English peasantry of the eighteenth century.

These attempts at producing realistic effects belonging to any age or country rest upon a false idea. Hamlet is not a historical poem; it is a play which deals with the minds and hearts and souls of men of all epochs and every land; it depicts emotions and influences which are common to man since man had a history. Stage tradition has given the play a certain conventional dress, and certain stage effects, which meet the acceptance and approbation of the students of this grandest effort of the human intellect, and he who rashly attempts innovations fails almost inevitably.

The Young Man from the East.

" Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish bock."

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

A lady put her watch under her pillow the other night, but couldn't keep it there because it disturbed her sleep. And there, all the time, was her bed ticking right underneath her, and she never thought of that at all.

The only man not spoiled by being lionized was the Prophet Daniel.

Californians can tell an Eastern man as soon as he makes a purchase. If there's two cents change coming to him he wants it.

A lady asked a sailor why a ship was called "she". The son of Nep. replied that it was because the "rigging" cost more than the hull.

It is being demonstrated daily in Iowa that a horse thief can mix his neck up with the noosed end of a rope, and fall seventeen feet from a tree without injuring either the tree or the rope. The discovery is thought to be a very valuable one.

A round shouldered, inquisitive man kicked what he thought was an ornamental dog, but was there on business, and the policeman who came to his assistance says the "holler" was mostly of the inquisitive man's making.

Many a good-minded mother has innocently wraped her son's character Satanward by arguing that gray patches could be inserted in black pantloons without the other boys being able to detect the difference.

A Dutchman being advised to rub his limbs well with brandy for the rheumatism, said he had heard of the remedy; but he added, "I dosh petter ash dat—I dbrinks de prandys den I rubs mein legs mit der pottle."

Barnum never knew how hard it really was to manage a circus until he was elected Mayor of Bridgeport, and called upon to preside over the Town Council.

A young fellow once offered to kiss a Quakeress. "Friend," said she, "thee must not do it." "Oh, by Jove, but I must," said the youth. "Well, friend, as thee hast sworn, thee may do it; but thee must not make a practice of it."

It is demonstrated that the weight of the earth is 5,855,000,000,000,000 tons yet some people think they tilt it up whenever they walk abroad.

"Now," said a citizen of Rawlins, Wyoming Territory, at a recent dance, "you see that heifer in a red dress; that's my wife; an' ef yer dance with her more'n two times, pard, I'll shute the hull to puv yer head off. What'n yer drink?"

The difference between Theodore Tilton and Victoria Woodhull is this: Theodore Tilton receives a gross sum for a little lecture, and Victoria receives a little sum for a gross lecture.

A man who called in at a Newburg, (N. Y.) jeweler's the other day to consult the regulator, remarked, as he got out a paper and pencil, that, as he didn't happen to have his watch with him, he'd "just mark the correct time down, and set his watch when he got home."

"Comes where my nose lies bleeding," is the title of a new ditty. It is played on a catarrh.

When Bismarck's doctor calls, he naturally says, "How is Biz?"

What is the next thing to a hen stealing? Why, a cock robin, of course.

"Wa'at, yes," said the old man, as he painfully leaned on his cane. "I am kinder aging, and I feel it more and more every day. Only last year I used to be able to walk around Union Park every morning, and now my rhumatiz is so bad that when I've got half way round all I can do is to turn round and hobble back."

From the present attitude of "the powers" towards Turkey it seems as though she will eventually be "boned."

Mrs. Haddock has been admitted to the Iowa bar. If you've any legal fish to fry out there, just drop a line.

A Brooklyn man, who had the toes of one foot cut off by a horse car, sued the company for $5,000 damages—$1,000 per toe. The company denied responsibility in toto, but the jury awarded the plaintiff $5 [illegible] a memento of the affair.

Last but not leased, was what the landlord said of his unrented tenement.

The street cars in Detroit go so slowly that the people wildly cry for sleeping cars to be attached.

$50 Dividend Next August.
Levied Land District No. 205.
$300,000 Expended.
FINEST LEVEE IN THE STATE.
Shares, $10.
Grain Growers'
ASSOCIATION.
Incorporated Under the Laws of the State of California.
This District adjoins Grand Island District, which produced this year 65 Bushels of Wheat TO THE ACRE.
OFFICERS:
P. F. Beach, N. B. Eddy,
J. Tyler, Jr., F. S. Carter,
C. Dunlap.

THE OBJECT OF THE ASSOCIATION IS the raising of grain in Levied Land District, No. 205, twenty miles from Sacramento, on the Sacramento river. This District is surrounded by the finest Levee in the State, being from 15 to 20 feet high, 60 to 90 feet at the base and 20 feet on top with roadway. This Levee is twenty-one miles long and is now being sown with alfalfa.

This land differs from some of the reclaimed lands, as the foundation of the levee is clay, and the levee itself is built of the same material, insuring absolute security against an overflow of water. Over $300,000 has already been expended in the construction of this immense levee, and this company has secured a lease of 5,000 acres of land, the finest in the State, at an annual rental of $6 33 per acre.

All the steamers to and from Sacramento stop at Courtland on this land and offer rapid and easy communication to parties desiring to see the work as it progresses. The promoters of this enterprise have leased this land in order to secure all the improvements now on the premises—for working it to the best advantage. The immense productiveness of these lands is too well-known to require comment. One acre of this land when sown in wheat will produce a certain crop of 60 bushels, which at two cents per pound is worth $72, and which will leave a net profit of $52 per acre after deducting rent and expenses. The second year will be a volunteer crop, which, less expenses, is clear profit.

A dividend of all the profits accruing will be made on the 1st day of August next, as the crop will be gathered and marketed during June and July.

The company is incorporated into 5,000 shares, at a par value of $10 each, or one share to each acre of land cultivated. Plowing has been commenced and is now in progress, and will be pushed as rapidly as possible until completed.

Subscriptions for a limited number of the shares will be received at the office of the company at the rate of $10 per share, and no further calls can be made, and each share subscribed will entitle the holder to the profits on one acre of wheat, which will give a return of at least $50 per share in August.

Parties living at a distance wishing to subscribe will send money by Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, or certificates of deposit.

Apply at the office of the company, 15 Stevenson Building, corner California and Montgomery streets.

Accommodations, feed and transportation from San Francisco or Sacramento, will be furnished to parties having teams and waiting contracts to plow.
F. S. CARTER, Secretary.

YOUNG MEN,

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy resteration of the genito-urinary organs.

Amusements, Etc.

Opera House.

Thanksgiving Day and the splendid bill here presented drew crowded houses both at the extra matinee and at the regular evening performance. There will be the usual matinee to-morrow afternoon. Charley Sutton has renewed the pleasant impression made when here last with those who knew him then, and formed a good one amongst those to whom his name and face are new.

California Theatre.

The benefit of the California Theatre Boat Club will be held here this evening, on which occasion the bill will consist of the sensational drama of "The Flowers of the Forest," with W. H. Mestayer as Cheap John, J. A. Sawtelle, as Ishmael, Miss Belle Pateman as Cynthia, Miss Alice Harrison as Starlight Bess and Robert Pateman as the Kinchin; followed by Miss Alice Harrison in her celebrated Dutch specialties and concluding with the first production of a new comedy in two acts by Mr. D. T. Calhoun, entitled "Women of Intrigue." In the Fair scene will be introduced The Cleopatra Barge, with its living tableaux, which won the first club prize at the late Carnival.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"The Fair one With The Blonde Wig," has nearly concluded her second week; possibly she will run a third. The trio from "Attila," the Nursery Rhymes and Kennedy's new song Doo dah, etc, etc., have almost made a new piece of it.

Grand German and Italian Opera.

"Der Freischutz" was given to a first-rate house yesterday afternoon. In consequence, however, of the extra rehearsals for "Robert le Diable" which is to be produced on Sunday evening for the benefit of Mr. Hinrichs, there will be no matinee to-morrow. "La Sonnambula" this evening.

George P. Chaplin's Benefit.

On Tuesday afternoon next Mr. Geo. D. Chaplin, who lost everything when Piper's Opera House, Virginia City, went to ashes, and who has been doing all he can to help himself since then, will receive the help of a benefit at the California Theatre.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

On the bill for to-night are Kimic in Dutch songs Kittie Leroy in her champion jig, Swain and West in song and dance, Ned Barry the original songster and George C. Thompson in his specialties.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

This evening "Mazeppa" will be produced with live and scenic effects. "The New Recruit," "Chinese Servants," "Troubles in the Forest" and "Bothered," are the other acts for to-night

New Lyceum Theatre.

"The Merry Cobbler" with Miss Cherry Belle as Nancy Strap and Harry Thompson as Christopher with the duet of When a Little Farm we Keep, is most amusing. On Sunday evening, Johnnie Wietland the lightning jig dancer and Eddie Fontineau the West Coast Star make their appearance.

Woodward's Gardens.

Among the features for Saturday and Sunday are Hadj Hamo, the Arabian tumbler, and Sen. Gonzales, the world's two greatest tumblers. Also Miss Mathews, Jas. Lee, Gus Mooney, the screaming pantomime, the "Cobler's Frolic," the gymnastic troupe and concert.

Notes.

At the California Theatre matinee to-morrow afternoon "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be presented, and on Monday, Byron's new comedy "Our Boys."

It is to be hoped that the visit here of such talented artists as Signor Palmieri, wife and sister, will not be allowed to slip by without advantage being taken of it. Surely a short season of Italian Opera might be managed at some one of our theatres.

The Holidays.

Are fast approaching and everybody, of course, is considering what presents would be most suitable. Now, if those who so consider, call at "The" Hat Store 647 Washington street below Kearny, they will no longer be in doubt, what to give, for nothing is more acceptable to gentleman, youth or child than a nice, stylish and dressy hat, of which there is a large assortment to be found at "The" Hat Store at lower prices than anywhere in the city. Those who expect no presents, should treat themselves to one. Remember the number, 647 Washington street below Kearny. M

Preliminary Notice.

Peter Job our old Pioneer French cook, will open on the 4th of December, a commodious Family Restaurant and Fancy Bakery, at 867 Market street, opposite Baldwin's new hotel. Most all old Californians know that whatever Job undertakes, he does it well, and, therefore, it is hardly necessary to state, that with his usual energy, he is now engaged in superintending the fitting up of what will be one of the finest and most comfortable restaurant in the city. It is Peter Job's intention not only to establish a first-class restaurant, but to keep a constant supply of French and American confectionary, and also the best Ice Cream to be found in the State. His former friends and patrons will find when they call upon him, that Peter Job has lost none of his former superiority in the art of cooking, that they will be well waited upon by the most polite and attractive of waiters.

Bal Masque.

The Grand Prize Cosmopolitan Bal Masque will come off at Horticultural Hall, Stockton street between Post and Sutter, on Saturday evening, November 27th. Masks can be removed or retained after 1 o'clock, at option; many features of the European Ball Masques will be introduced. Two of the prizes to be awarded are 1st, a valuable set of amethyst jewelry, (brooch and earrings), to be given to the most elegantly dressed lady, in costume. The 2d prize, a fac simile of the first, equal in value, will be awarded to the lady who presents the most original character in costume. Professor Libberth will lead the orchestra.

PINING AND PINNING.

"You shall not pin them back," they said;
She only sighed and drooped her head.
She only looked with tearful eye
On pinned-back misses waddling by.

She only wept; "Oh, for the right
To live in bliss and draw them tight!"
Within her strong rebellion rose:
"I will, I will pin back my clothes."

But still she dared not for the fear
Of sternest parents ever near;
And while her spirit sadly pined,
Her loose clothes fluttered in the wind.

But still in secret, when she could,
Before her long pier glass she stood
And pinned them back; her eyes grew bright
With pleasure when she saw how tight.

But stolen joys like these must fail
To satisfy: her cheek grew pale,
And as the Autumn days sped by,
Sadly they told her she must die.

She made no moan, her eye grew wild;
But when they questioned her she smiled.
She loved to roam in quiet spots,
And gathered sweet forget-me-nots.

She twined a wreath for her own grave,
But still she did not weep or rave:
But whispered to herself: "Alack!
They would not let me pin them back."

So when the Autumn skies were sere,
And winds blew cold and skies were drear,
At twilight of one stormy day
Her gentle spirit passed away.

But ere she closed her meek blue eye,
Just as the clock struck seven,
She murmured with a happy sigh:
"They pin them back in heaven."

A rich and eccentric Belgian residing at Vermond (Aisne) recently wrote to his relatives to come and see a coat he had ordered. They found him trying on, one after another, a number of coffins, which he had had made by different joiners. At last he found one which suited him, laid down in it, took some poison, and expired suddenly.

Noses are fashionable and have always been followed.

The last acrobatic accident—The fall of the leaf.

Teaching One's Grandmother, etc.

"You see, grandmama, we perforate an aperture in the apex, and a corresponding aperture in the base, and by applying the egg to the lips and forcibly inhaling the breath, the egg is entirely discharged of its contents." "Bless my soul," cried the old lady, "what wonderful improvement they do make. Now, in my younger days we just made a hole in both ends and sucked."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F, Sterett, 532 Clay Street. over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equal to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. R. H. Cowan's Institute, removed to 207 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, from 1 to 6 P. M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. Reference given if required. H

A Freak of Stephen Girard's.

"Now, go learn a trade," said Stephen Girard to a clerk, who, having served him faithfully from boyhood, went to him on his twenty-first birth day expecting promotion.

"What trade, sir?"

"Good barrels and butts must be in demand while you live. Go and learn the cooper's trade, and when you make a perfect barrel bring it to me."

The young man went away and learned the trade, and in time brought to his old master a splendid barrel of his own make. Girard examined it, and gave the maker two thousand dollars for it, and then said to him:

"Now, sir, I want you in my counting-room; but henceforth you will not be dependent upon the whim of Stephen Girard. Let what will come, you have a good trade always in reserve."

Not in the Fashion.

"Mariar," remarked one of the horny-handed sons of toil to his wife, "pears to me it takes a sight o' calico ter make you a dress these hard times. Can't you economise with one of them ar pull-backs the city gals wear?" It was then that Mariar fired the great bread board at him, and remarked that she wasn't going to stop the circulation of blood in her legs for no bald headed old penny-pincher.

Dakota lightning goes for live stock with great zeal. A recent bolt killed fourteen horses and five steers, when it might as well have struck a cheap hog.

The following sentences of only thirty-four letters contains all the letters in the alphabet: "John quickly extemporized five tow bags."

Are not curtain lectures a species of lay preaching?

Why is the job-stone like a greenhorn? Because it is often imposed upon.

DR. D. PERCY.

The number of people visiting Dr. Percy, the eminent London astrologer and healer, since his arrival in this city has been truly remarkable; indeed, from 9 o'clock in the morning until late in the evening his rooms are literally crowded, rain or shine. A reporter has called at his rooms a number of times and never yet has he found the Doctor's time unoccupied. It is noteworthy that his visitors are of the elite of the city, and, as a class, intelligent, yet all seem satisfied as to the Doctor's powers both of healing and looking into the future and past, for which last he charges nothing unless he shall read the past correctly. In the treatment of disease he uses no drugs of any kind, and tells every one to a nicety their disease without asking a question, which health examination is free to all. In appearance the Doctor inspires anything but distrust, for a more frank, open countenance we never saw. This is probably owing to the fact that he always pays the printer. The Doctor has fortunately secured the elegant apartments formerly occupied by Miss Clara Morris, at 206 Kearny street; entrance, room 11. Dr. Percy is upon a tour of pleasure around the world, stopping only at the largest cities to engage in his business, but is glad to welcome all, whether upon business or not. Sunday Chronicle, Nov. 21st.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'TLE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

NEW YORK.

By actual count, there were but one hundred and seventy-three men among an audience of over three thousand in Booth's Theatre at a recent matinee. The remainder were ladies and children.

Mrs. G. L. Fox, professionally known as Miss Mattie Temple, has been superseded in the character of Brilliant, the Morning Star, in the pantomime at Booth's Theatre, by Mrs. George H. Tyler, a lady who has just claims to great beauty.

J. B. Howe, formerly of the New Bowery Theatre, of N. Y., goes to Melbourne, Australia, to manage the Theatre Royal.

Nearly 20,000 people visited the Colosseum during one week to witness the day and evening exhibitions of the military spectacle of the "Siege of Paris," now on exhibition there.

Chickering Hall, the new addition to the amusement resorts of New York, was opened on the 15th with a concert, of which Dr. Von Bulow's pianoforte playing was the main feature. The new hall is 102 feet in length, and seats 1,800 people comfortably.

Gilmore's Concert Gardens was closed on the 4th, to allow of its being floored and prepared for the Winter season.

"Led Astray" ended its second long run on the 20th, and on the 22nd, James Steele Mackay's translation of Ernest Blum's great drama "Rose Michel" was produced.

Frank Frayne wife, rifle, horse and dogs, commenced a season at the Bowery Theatre on the 15th.

"Caste" has well supplied the vacant place left by the withdrawal of "The Overland Route." The cast is said to be a splendid one, the George D'Alroy of H. J. Montague and the Eccles of George Honey receiving the greatest attention. Mr. Honey had, by reason of other engagements, to throw up his part on the 20th, Papa Eccles being now in the hands of Harry A. Beckett.

Mr. Joseph Proctor in "Ambition" and "Nick of the Woods," followed T. W. Keene at Wood's Museum and after Proctor, a Mr. Edward Walton came, and is now playing.

Mr. Josh Hart has resigned his management of the Theatre Comique, Mr. Matt Morgan being the A. No. 1 there now.

The Mexican Infantile Opera Bouffers played alternate evenings at the Lyceum for the week ending the 20th, starting for Boston on the 21st.

The hundredth performance of "The Mighty Dollar" is drawing near, and in all probability Mr. Florence will have his heart's darling wish gratified.
